Albert Is Against Viet Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert, saying President Nixon is trying to end the war "as quickly as he can, responsibly," today opposed a House attempt to demand U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam by Dec. 31.

Breaking with many other key Democrats supporting the non-binding end-the-war amendment, Albert told newsmen before debate started:

"I have consistently opposed and still oppose trying to intervene in the prerogatives of the President in trying to close down the war in Vietnam."

Albert's position came as no surprise. But it appeared to assure a resounding defeat for the amendment sponsored by Reps. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., and Charles W. Whalen, Jr., R-Ohio.

As the House moved toward late afternoon vote on the anti-war proposal, the Senate refused on a 48-35 vote to limit extension of the draft to 20 months, rather than two years as the administration proposes.

It was the fourth time anti-draft forces failed in attempts to either abolish or limit the draft. But Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, reiterated his intention to filibuster against the draft bill, and urged antiwar forces to join him.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., supported Gravel, saying that "ending the draft may be our last chance of speeding our exit

Senate war critics, led by Sens. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., lost 55 to 42 Wednesday on their amendment to cut off further appropriations for U.S. combat in or over Vietnam after Dec. 31.

A compromise proposal by freshman Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., to fix the deadline at June 1, 1972, also lost, 52 to 44.

The votes represented a thin foreign policy victory for President Nixon. But they also indicated the Senate, while not yet willing to take the unprecedented route of cutting off funds for an ongoing war, was losing patience with the administration's Vietnamization policy.

Longtime supporters of U.S. policy in Indochina, such as Sens. Milton Young, R-N.D., and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., parted company with President Nixon on both votes.

And moderate GOP senators such as Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Robert Packwood of Oregon and Ted Stevens of Alaska voted for the Chiles amendment that would have forced a total of U.S. pullout in the next 11 months unless the Communists refused to release U.S. prisoners of war.

It was a better showing than the doves expected and an improvement over September's initial attempt to cut off funds for the war. That proposal lost 55 to 39.

Judge May Order Report Returned

Government Says Secrets Stolen

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal court judge today reserved decision on whether to order The New York Times to turn over to the government its copy of a top secret Pentagon report on U.S. involvement in Vietnam. (See other stories Page 26.)

Michael Hess, chief of the U.S. Attorney's civil division, contended that the government was not on a fishing expedition but "simply demanding property stolen from the Pentagon."

"We have a right to identify what they took from us," Hess said. "They have admitted they have a number of papers in their possession. We merely ask for an inspection of the documents they hold."

Federal Judge Murray I. Gurfein, trying to expedite matters, asked Floyd Abrams, attorney for the Times, if his clients would submit a list of the documents they had with a short summary on each subject. Abrams hesitated and said he could produce such a list but would first have to discuss it with the Times management.

During a three-way discussion between the judge and the opposing lawyers, Hess insisted that the government was entitled to examine all documents in the Times possession which had been stolen or received without authorization rather than just a list.

Abrams introduced a certified letter from James L. Greenfield, foreign editor of the Times, which stated that he had examined the documents which were xeroxed copies and that many of them had written notations on the margins which would reveal the confidential source of the material to the Times.

Gurfein asked if they would submit the material excluding the marginal notes. Abrams made no reply. Hess said it would be agreeable to the government.

Meanwhile Gurfein reserved decision on the government's motion that all the material in the Times possession be turned over to the government for use in the preparation of its case for a permanent injunction against publication of the final two articles of the Times series on U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Gurfein granted a temporary injunction against the Times Tuesday to keep the newspaper from publishing the last two parts of its five-part series. A hearing on that injunction, which runs out at 1 p.m. Saturday, was scheduled for Friday morning.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of The Times, said the newspaper would turn over its material from the Pentagon report if ordered to do so by the court.

Sulzberger, who cut short a European trip to return for the court hearing, said he was surprised at the government's reaction to what he called "past history," but said he thought the Nixon administration might yet capitalize on the incident.

"Certainly these papers have shown that the previous Democratic administration were getting us deeper and deeper into the war" he said at an airport news conference. "The Nixon administration says it is getting us out of the war. So Mr. Nixon might try to use it to his advantage."

The government, which sought the end of the series' publication on the grounds it might damage national security, said it needed to see the Times' material for "proper presentation" of its case seeking a permanent injunction.

The government requested two specific reports: the 47-volume "History of U.S. Decision-making Process on Vietnam Policy" and another document, "The Command and Control Study of the Tonkin Gulf Incident," done by the Defense Department's Weapons System evaluation group in 1965.

Lawyers for the Times argued that the First Amendment protects newspapers from disclosing confidential sources and if the Times were to give up the documents, scientific tests might allow the government to trace the report back to its source.

They also said the government had its own copies of the 7,000-page Pentagon report and did not need the Times' copy.

In response, the government said it did not know exactly what documents the Times had. Hess said the government suspected the Times had secret papers in addition to the two specific works mentioned.

The Times published the first article on the Pentagon report, ordered by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967, in its Sunday edition and the second installment was printed Monday. The Times said it published the report because it would not damage national security and the public had a right to know about it.

The Justice Department asked The Times not to continue the series, but the newspaper refused to do so voluntarily and published the third part Tuesday. Gurfein's court order stopped publication of the last two parts.

The remaining two installments, it was learned Wednesday, contained previously undisclosed information about the Nov. 1, 1963, coup d'etat in which Vietnam President Ngo Dinh Diem was killed.

Grants For Sewers In Jeopardy

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Five Marin sewerage agencies under the gun to build $1.7 million in new facilities may have to do it without grants.

The staff of the State Water Resources Control Board today recommended that the five be removed from a list of projects eligible for state and federal grants in next fiscal year. The Regional Water Quality Control Board ordered the five projects to be built within the next year; so the recommendation may mean that the five agencies will have to finance the projects from local property taxes.

The five and the amounts of their projects are: The Ross Valley Sanitary District, $1 million; Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District $400,000; Tiburon Sanitary District, $250,000; San Rafael Sanitary District, $82,500 and North Marin County Water District, $40,000 for the Inverness area.

The state board's staff, however, recommended approval of five other projects in Marin and Southern Sonoma, totaling $5.1 million. These were: City of Petaluma, $3,690,000; San Rafael Sanitary District, $818,000; City of Mill Valley, $250,000; Richardson Bay Sanitary District, $250,000 and Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, $175,000.

Indians Are Ousted From Missile Base

Richmond (UPI) —Scores of police officers and sheriff's deputies, backed by 172 soldiers, struck at dawn today and ousted sleeping Indians from an abandoned missile base they occupied since Monday.

The force of 110 officers and deputies woke the 65 Indians as they slept in the Nike missile site's 25 buildings and sleeping bags nearby.

Indians leader John Trudell, rubbing sleep from his eyes, said he "had expected something like this" but felt "the law kind of overreacted.",

The force arrived in a convoy of approximately 35 vehicles that included heavy Army trucks and jeeps.

Police Lt. Fay Hawkins reported only one arrest for trespassing during the mainly peaceful seizure. He said about 12 other Indians were "held briefly and released."

The Army said it would keep military policemen at the base to insure there would be no more attempts to take over the site. The soldiers remained in their trucks until police cleared the area.

Several Indians urged their fellows to "keep it cool, cool it" when the officers moved in.

The Indians were given the choice to leave or be arrested.

Trudell, a leader in the Indian occupation of Alcatraz Island that ended last Friday, said, "If we are not here there

Judge Would Overturn Bennett Guilty Verdict

By C. P. McCARTHY

The judge in the William M. Bennett drunken driving trial said today he will overrule the jury if it returns a guilty verdict.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court made the statement out of the presence of the jury prior to final arguments in the case which was expected to go to the jury today.

Bennett, 52, a resident of Kentfield and a member of the state Board of Equalization, was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving in Sausalito April 25.

Smallman said he would overturn a guilty verdict as he denied motions by Bennett's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael, that Smallman direct the jury to return an acquittal or that Smallman dismiss the case.

Weissich told Smallman that it would be a "miscarriage of justice for you as a judge to permit a verdict of guilty."

The judge replied that he has always believed it is "cowardice" for a judge to overturn a jury's verdict when he has not directed it to return one verdict or another.

But, he said, he had faith in the jury system and did not want people to think an influential man could get a judge to throw out charges against him, and for that reason will let the case go to jury without direction.

However, he said, if the verdict is guilty he will overturn it.

Testimony in the case concluded this morning with a Marin General Hospital doctor stating that Bennett's personal physician was more drunk than Bennett when both were at the hospital after the arrest.

Dr. Harper J. Buck, who was in charge of the hospital emergency room that night, was called as a prosecution rebuttal witness today to answer testimony given yesterday by Dr. Seymour Farber, dean of continuing education at the Univer-

Nixon Asks Broad New Drug Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked Congress today to vote an additional $155 million to launch a broad new worldwide battle against illegal narcotics addiction which now "afflicts both the body and soul of America."

In a special message to the House and Senate, the President compared the dimensions of the addiction problem to "wars and depressions and divisions among our people."

"I am confident we will prevail in this struggle as we have in many others," he declared. "But time is critical. Every day we lose compounds the tragedy which drugs inflict on individual Americans. The final issue is not whether we will conquer drug abuse, but how soon."

Most of the emergency new funds—$105 million—would go to treating and rehabilitating drug addicts and creating a new special action office of Drug Abuse Prevention directly under the President.

Nixon asked for legislation establishing the office for a three-year period with the option for a two-year extension. Because of the emergency nature of the problem, he issued an executive order setting up an interim office pending congressional action.

The White House announced that Nixon has named as a special consultant on narcotics and dangerous drugs Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, head of the Illinois state drug abuse program. Jaffe, 37 and an advocate of the methadone method of treatment, is expected to serve as a consultant until the new agency is set up and he becomes its head.

Nixon also ordered immediate testing of U.S. servicemen in Vietnam for signs of heroin addiction and the establishment of rehabilitation programs for those who need help. He requested legislation to permit retaining narcotic addicts in service beyond their normal discharge date for treatment.

He also spelled out a determined U.S. effort to win cooperation from foreign governments

Several Vetoes To Budget Bids

By JEFF GREER

Marin County Supervisors voted yesterday to continue full-scale security precautions at the Civic Center, kept open the pre-placement center at the Juvenile Hall and granted the public defender's office another attorney — but no place to put him. (Another supervisors story, page 6.)

During their day-long budget session, the supervisors vetoed requests by police chiefs and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for a $105,000 county crime laboratory. County Administrator Alan Bruce argued that regional criminal justice planning funds would be denied for a lab to serve a single county.

After scolding the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau for failing to provide arrest statistics they had requested, the supervisors trimmed one inspector from the present staff and vetoed Mountanos's request for a fourth inspector in the bureau.

Supervisor John F. McInnis explained that the deleted inspector would not be fired, but reassigned on the sheriff's staff. The board also vetoed Mountanos's request for a new position of training sergeant.

Mountanos did, however, win out over Bruce's recommendation that four dispatchers in the Southern Marin substation in Marin City be reassigned to duty in the main office at the Civic Center. The substation should be kept open around the clock, the board decided. A proposal to share the dispatching between the substation and the county firehouse in Marin City was opposed by County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli, the sheriff reported.

The supervisors added $5,000 to the budget to house overflow inmates from Marin County in the Sonoma County Jail, until 18 bunks are added in the Marin County Jail by conversion of a dayroom.

The supervisors grudgingly approved a $381,606 budget for security at the Civic Center, after Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, warned that any cuts might make it impossible for the county to obtain any insurance for the county's more than $20 million worth of buildings.

"I feel very strongly the security is an affront to our way of life, but we need the insurance," Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed. He successfully moved to pass the budget as presented, but with the understanding that security would be trimmed as fast as conditions permitted.

Judge May Order Report Returned

Government Says Secrets Stolen

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal court judge today reserved decision on whether to order The New York Times to turn over to the government its copy of a top secret Pentagon report on U.S. involvement in Vietnam. (See other stories Page 26.)

Michael Hess, chief of the U.S. Attorney's civil division, contended that the government was not on a fishing expedition but "simply demanding property stolen from the Pentagon."

"We have a right to identify what they took from us," Hess said. "They have admitted they have a number of papers in their possession. We merely ask for an inspection of the documents they hold."

Federal Judge Murray I. Gurfein, trying to expedite matters, asked Floyd Abrams, attorney for the Times, if his clients would submit a list of the documents they had with a short summary on each subject. Abrams hesitated and said he could produce such a list but would first have to discuss it with the Times management.

During a three-way discussion between the judge and the opposing lawyers, Hess insisted that the government was entitled to examine all documents in the Times possession which had been stolen or received without authorization rather than just a list.

Abrams introduced a certified letter from James L. Greenfield, foreign editor of the Times, which stated that he had examined the documents which were xeroxed copies and that many of them had written notations on the margins which would reveal the confidential source of the material to the Times.

Gurfein asked if they would submit the material excluding the marginal notes. Abrams made no reply. Hess said it would be agreeable to the government.

Meanwhile Gurfein reserved decision on the government's motion that all the material in the Times possession be turned over to the government for use in the preparation of its case for a permanent injunction against publication of the final two articles of the Times series on U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Gurfein granted a temporary injunction against the Times Tuesday to keep the newspaper from publishing the last two parts of its five-part series. A hearing on that injunction, which runs out at 1 p.m. Saturday, was scheduled for Friday morning.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of The Times, said the newspaper would turn over its material from the Pentagon report if ordered to do so by the court.

Sulzberger, who cut short a European trip to return for the court hearing, said he was surprised at the government's reaction to what he called "past history," but said he thought the Nixon administration might yet capitalize on the incident.

"Certainly these papers have shown that the previous Democratic administration were getting us deeper and deeper into the war" he said at an airport news conference. "The Nixon administration says it is getting us out of the war. So Mr. Nixon might try to use it to his advantage."

The government, which sought the end of the series' publication on the grounds it might damage national security, said it needed to see the Times' material for "proper presentation" of its case seeking a permanent injunction.

The government requested two specific reports: the 47-volume "History of U.S. Decision-making Process on Vietnam Policy" and another document, "The Command and Control Study of the Tonkin Gulf Incident," done by the Defense Department's Weapons System evaluation group in 1965.

Lawyers for the Times argued that the First Amendment protects newspapers from disclosing confidential sources and if the Times were to give up the documents, scientific tests might allow the government to trace the report back to its source.

They also said the government had its own copies of the 7,000-page Pentagon report and did not need the Times' copy.

In response, the government said it did not know exactly what documents the Times had. Hess said the government suspected the Times had secret papers in addition to the two specific works mentioned.

The Times published the first article on the Pentagon report, ordered by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967, in its Sunday edition and the second installment was printed Monday. The Times said it published the report because it would not damage national security and the public had a right to know about it.

The Justice Department asked The Times not to continue the series, but the newspaper refused to do so voluntarily and published the third part Tuesday. Gurfein's court order stopped publication of the last two parts.

The remaining two installments, it was learned Wednesday, contained previously undisclosed information about the Nov. 1, 1963, coup d'etat in which Vietnam President Ngo Dinh Diem was killed.

Several Vetoes To Budget Bids

By JEFF GREER

Marin County Supervisors voted yesterday to continue full-scale security precautions at the Civic Center, kept open the pre-placement center at the Juvenile Hall and granted the public defender's office another attorney — but no place to put him. (Another supervisors story, page 6.)

During their day-long budget session, the supervisors vetoed requests by police chiefs and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for a $105,000 county crime laboratory. County Administrator Alan Bruce argued that regional criminal justice planning funds would be denied for a lab to serve a single county.

After scolding the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau for failing to provide arrest statistics they had requested, the supervisors trimmed one inspector from the present staff and vetoed Mountanos's request for a fourth inspector in the bureau.

Supervisor John F. McInnis explained that the deleted inspector would not be fired, but reassigned on the sheriff's staff. The board also vetoed Mountanos's request for a new position of training sergeant.

Mountanos did, however, win out over Bruce's recommendation that four dispatchers in the Southern Marin substation in Marin City be reassigned to duty in the main office at the Civic Center. The substation should be kept open around the clock, the board decided. A proposal to share the dispatching between the substation and the county firehouse in Marin City was opposed by County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli, the sheriff reported.

The supervisors added $5,000 to the budget to house overflow inmates from Marin County in the Sonoma County Jail, until 18 bunks are added in the Marin County Jail by conversion of a dayroom.

The supervisors grudgingly approved a $381,606 budget for security at the Civic Center, after Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows, warned that any cuts might make it impossible for the county to obtain any insurance for the county's more than $20 million worth of buildings.

"I feel very strongly the security is an affront to our way of life, but we need the insurance," Supervisor Michael Wornum agreed. He successfully moved to pass the budget as presented, but with the understanding that security would be trimmed as fast as conditions permitted.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bomb Witness Charges 'Fascism'

SEATTLE (UPI) — Antiwar activist Leslie Bacon, jubilant over her release from jail, says her treatment by the Justice Department was "selective fascism."

Clad in a lavender blouse and purple slacks as she left jail Wednesday, Miss Bacon said the FBI had no basis whatsoever for arresting her April 27 as a "material witness" in the March 1 bombing of the U.S. Capitol.

"I guess they picked me out of a hat," she said.

The Atherton, Calif., blonde said she spent her first night of freedom at a friend's house, "listening to some music" and trying to unravel her legally complicated life.

"I'm actually a human being again," she told newsmen amid cheers by a small group of supporters.

A 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision in San Francisco Tuesday and another legal action in Seattle Wednesday freed her on a $10,000 bond.

The bond was in connection with her indictment in New York City on a federal charge of conspiring in a plot to firebomb a Manhattan bank.

Probe Set On 'Command Influence'

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — A military judge Wednesday ordered a special hearing on charges that Capt. Ernest L. Medina, the commander of the U.S. Army company involved in the My Lai massacre, was brought to trial under improper command influence.

F. Lee Bailey, Medina's chief attorney, sought dismissal of the case on grounds of probable prejudgment by any jury because of the publicity surrounding the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., one of Medina's platoon leaders at My Lai.

"It may be beyond the capacity of the system to try this case," Bailey said.

Bailey said that in the trial of Cally, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians, Medina was "held up as the guilty person" since he was Calley's commander.

"Unless we go to trial with the most ignorant or uninformed jurors, these impressions can never be erased from their minds," he said.

Medina, 34, of Montrose, Colo., is charged with the murder of 102 civilians by his troops at My Lai in March of 1968.

Bailey made a series of 18 separate motions in Wednesday's pretrial session, but the first, seeking dismissal on the charge of command influence, brought an interruption in the hearing.

Search Continues

HONOLULU (UPI)—A reduced search force kept looking today for survivors of an Air Force C135 jet transport which crashed into the Pacific Ocean with 24 men aboard.

A Navy destroyer found more debris floating in the water near remote Palmyra Island 700 miles southwest of Hawaii, including ripped black suitcase fragments, lining insulation, foam rubber cushion, plastic bags and some orange material, with lining, believed to be part of a jacket. Metal fragments, all painted silver grey, were also found.

New Vatican Move

VAITCAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican released new instructions on the teaching of religion today, which American Cardinal John J. Wright said may "shape the religious formation of Catholics throughout the world for generations to come."

Wright, head of the Vatican clergy department and former bishop of Pittsburgh, Pa., told a news conference the "General Catechistical directory" — the first document of its kind to be issued by the Vatican—set down the guidelines for teaching the Roman Catholic faith to everyone, from infants to the aged.

It is aimed at religion teachers, or catechists as the church calls them, and was drawn up at the request of the Vatican ecumenical council by Wright's department, with the collaboration of the world's bishops and a committee of theologians.

Space Factories?

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet cosmonaut today predicted "space factories" of 50 to 100 workers will soon orbit the earth manufacturing technically perfect ball bearings and metal-plastic alloys.

Science writers, commenting on the fight of the three-man Salyut space station now in its 12th day, said the flight portends major new developments in the use of space for economic purposes.

Yevgeny V. Khrunov, a cosmonaut and research engineer who flew aboard Soyuz 5 in 1969, said there are some manufacturing processes which can be carried out only in the weightless vacuum of space.

"Factories in space is a dream that does not seem so unreal," he said.

Martha Speaks Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Martha Mitchell, the outspoken wife of Attorney General John N. Mitchell, spoke out Wednesday about three prominent Republicans.

President Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay all could use her advice, Mrs. Mitchell said in the current issue of Ladies Home Journal.

She would tell Nixon that specialization is responsible for unemployment.

Agnew uses too many long words and she would ask him to explain them.

She said Lindsay, who has been mentioned as a dark horse candidate for the presidency if he would switch to the Democratic party, should make up his mind what party he belongs to. "My advice to him would be for him to clean up New York's dirty streets..."

Tipplers' Tax Nod

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —If the State Assembly has its way, Californians may have to start paying an extra nickel or more for their drinks at the bar beginning next January.

A bill allowing local government to impose a five per cent "tippler's tax" on bar drinks was passed Wednesday night 42-22—one vote more than required—and sent to the Senate.

A strong backer of the measure was Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, whose city adopted such a levy in 1968, only to see it struck down in the courtroom on the grounds that the state had already preempted the taxation of liquor.

STANDING SIEGE — American GIs yesterday were pictured manning an artillery piece marked "Deadly Dealer" at Fire Base 5, an area in northern South Vietnam that has been under heavy Communist attack for days. Flapping over the GIs is a Confederate flag. U.S. casualties last week in the war were 25 dead and 199 wounded, bringing the total to 45,275 dead and 303,123 wounded.

DMZ BATTLE

Flame Thrower Attack Repelled

SAIGON (UPI)—A battalion of North Vietnamese troops using flame throwers, machine guns and rocket grenades attacked a company of South Vietnamese Marines just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today. The outnumbered Saigon government soldiers killed 63 of the attackers.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said North Vietnamese gunners kept up mortar and rocket barrages on the eastern edge of the capital. The firing could be heard in downtown Phnom Penh. Cambodian units fought back from river gunboats and from the air.

The South Vietnamese command said the North Vietnamese battalion of some 600 troops attacked the South Vietnamese company numbering 160 men in hilly jungles 12 miles northeast of the abandoned Khe Sanh base and six miles south of the DMZ.

The Saigon government unit called in artillery and air strikes in driving off the attack. The South Vietnamese casualties were described as light. Military sources said nine of the Marines were killed and seven wounded.

The Marines captured four machine guns, seven rocket launchers, a flame thrower and 18 rifles after the Communists were driven off.

The South Vietnamese command said Communist forces shelled three South vietnamese military positions and two district towns Wednesday night and early today in a string of attacks running from the coastal lowlands to just six miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. command report meanwhile that 25 Americans were killed in the Indochina war last week, up six from the previous week. American wounded were listed as 199, a drop from 261 the week before.

It brought to 45,275 the number of American servicemen killed in the war since Jan. 1, 1961. A total of 303,123 have been wounded.

The fighting in the area just east of Phnom Penh was the 17th day of the battle in marshlands leading to the capital's eastern outskirts.

A division of North Vietnamese troops has been trying since June 1 to push Cambodian forces from the area east of Phnom Penh in order to gain a strategic foothold within sight and rocket range of the capital. The Communists also have set up mortars to the north and northwest of the city.

The Cambodian command said the Communist mortar and rocket fire, which resounded in downtown Phnom Penh, caused neither casualties nor damage. Communist casualties were unknown.

Red Troops In Indochina Cited By U.S. On Withdrawal Demand

PARIS (UPI)—The United States told the Communists today it was ready to negotiate a date for withdrawal of all U.S. and allied forces from South Vietnam when Hanoi says what it will do about the "massive, illegal presence" of its troops in the other Indochinese states.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce told North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators at the Vietnam peace talks that their demands for unilateral U.S. troop withdrawal were not acceptable.

"We are ready to negotiate an agreed timetable for complete withdrawals, and are prepared to withdraw all our forces as part of an over-all settlement," Bruce said.

"The obstacle to progess on this issue is not the question of fixing a date for withdrawals, but rather your side's failure to indicate what you are prepared to do about the massive, illegal presence of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia..."

Bruce added:

"Apparently you prefer force and violence to serious negotiations here. You therefore bear a grave responsibility for the fact that soldiers of both sides are still dying in Indochina."

Before the 3-hour, 15-minute session began, the Communist negotiators said President Nixon's administration tried to "hide the facts" from the American public. They made no direct comment then on publication of the secret Pentagon documents by The New York Times.

After the meeting, the 117th Session, however, Viet Cong chief delegate Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh said Bruce "sought to justify American policy in Vietnam, contradicting what was contained in the McNamara report."

Hanoi's Xuan Thuy made no reference to the report but again denounced U.S. refusal either to set a timetable for troop withdrawal or to withdraw support from the current Saigon regime.

One-Week Delay In Rocket Test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A one-week delay has been called in important flight-readiness tests for the Apollo 15 mission after lightning struck the rocket umbilical tower twice this week.

But space agency officials who announced the test delay Wednesday said the completion of the readiness tests should not delay the scheduled moon launch date of July 26.

Wednesday, the final 17 hours of the readiness test were postponed until next Wednesday.

Says Middle Class Is Key To Pot Issue

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If smoking marijuana moves beyond a fad to a habit among the middle class, then the weed will likely be legalized, according to a UCLA psychologist.

William McGlothlin, professor of psychology at UCLA, told the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse Wednesday that it was too early to tell whether pot smoking is merely a fad among the establishment in this country.

"But if it turns out to be a permanent phenomenon," he said, "legalization is a logical outcome."

McGlothlin and three others of five witnesses before the commission Wednesday said they favored some form of legal use of the drug.

"I think legalization may be the best of the available alternatives," he said. "But full legalization probably is not feasible at the present time, because all places are not like San Francisco. The Midwest is very much against legalization."

McGlothlin, currently conducting a study on the prevalence, use patterns, distribution and control policies of marijuana, gave the commission some startling data about the future of the drug.

By 1976, he said, Americans who have tried pot at least once will have jumped from the present 15 million to 50 million.

The sale of marijuana could go from the present $70 million yearly to as high as $3.7 billion by the same year, he said.

"We estimate that there are now 170,000 persons involved in the retail sales of marijuana, most of them young people," McGlothlin said. "In 1976 the number may reach a half million. That's a very high level of criminalization."

If marijuana were legalized and sales regulated and taxed, McGlothlin said, revenues from current sales would run between $250 million to $500 million, "and they might be as high as $1 to $2 billion within five years."

McGlothlin testified in the third and final day of local hearings by the commission, which will report its findings to the President by March of next year.

UAL Employees Push Business

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—United Air Lines employes are working on their own time to promote business for the company which said it lost some $33 million during the first quarter of this year.

Not only are they out drumming up customers, but 2,800 employes have contributed $6,800 to buy newspaper ads telling people why they should fly on United Airlines.

One mechanic sold two round-trip tickets to Hawaii and, when babysitter problems threatened the vacation, he took care of the couple's three children.

There are 14,000 United employes in the San Francisco aree.

Concessions Boost Hopes On Canadian Constitution

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)— Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa made important concessions Wednesday that could lead to a constitution for Canada.

Bourassa, who had wanted the provinces to have paramount authority over all social welfare programs and the right to redirect federal funds for provincial social welfare programs, gave in. Under the agreement, the federal government will not have to give financial support for provincial programs it does not want.

Trudeau's concession involved language rights. He had wanted a requirement that provinces guarantee equal use of French and English in their jurisdictions. He agreed that the constitution would guarantee language equality only in federal institutions.

The government leaders withheld their full endorsement on a Canadian constitution to be called the "Charter of Canada" until they consult with their cabinets. Thus the conference here can not be considered final for about 10 days to two weeks. But the agreement could lead to giving Canada full control over its constitution.

Canada's constitution since 1867 has been the British North America Act which can be amended only by the British Parliament. The action being considered at the conference, if approved by both houses of the Canadian Parliament and the provincial assemblies, would give the Canadian people the power to amend the 1867 act.

FTC Settles False Ad Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A false advertising case against Swift's baby foods was settled today by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

The FTC said it was provisionally accepting a consent order under which Swift and Co. promised not to falsely advertise the nutritional and health benefits of its baby foods.

The complaint had charged Swift with falsely advertising that its baby foods were uniquely nutritious.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If smoking marijuana moves beyond a fad to a habit among the middle class, then the weed will likely be legalized, according to a UCLA psychologist.

William McGlothlin, professor of psychology at UCLA, told the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse Wednesday that it was too early to tell whether pot smoking is merely a fad among the establishment in this country.

"But if it turns out to be a permanent phenomenon," he said, "legalization is a logical outcome."

McGlothlin and three others of five witnesses before the commission Wednesday said they favored some form of legal use of the drug.

"I think legalization may be the best of the available alternatives," he said. "But full legalization probably is not feasible at the present time, because all places are not like San Francisco. The Midwest is very much against legalization."

McGlothlin, currently conducting a study on the prevalence, use patterns, distribution and control policies of marijuana, gave the commission some startling data about the future of the drug.

By 1976, he said, Americans who have tried pot at least once will have jumped from the present 15 million to 50 million.

The sale of marijuana could go from the present $70 million yearly to as high as $3.7 billion by the same year, he said.

"We estimate that there are now 170,000 persons involved in the retail sales of marijuana, most of them young people," McGlothlin said. "In 1976 the number may reach a half million. That's a very high level of criminalization."

If marijuana were legalized and sales regulated and taxed, McGlothlin said, revenues from current sales would run between $250 million to $500 million, "and they might be as high as $1 to $2 billion within five years."

McGlothlin testified in the third and final day of local hearings by the commission, which will report its findings to the President by March of next year.

UAL Employees Push Business

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—United Air Lines employes are working on their own time to promote business for the company which said it lost some $33 million during the first quarter of this year.

Not only are they out drumming up customers, but 2,800 employes have contributed $6,800 to buy newspaper ads telling people why they should fly on United Airlines.

One mechanic sold two round-trip tickets to Hawaii and, when babysitter problems threatened the vacation, he took care of the couple's three children.

There are 14,000 United employes in the San Francisco aree.

Concessions Boost Hopes On Canadian Constitution

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa made important concessions Wednesday that could lead to a constitution for Canada.

Bourassa, who had wanted the provinces to have paramount authority over all social welfare programs and the right to redirect federal funds for provincial social welfare programs, gave in. Under the agreement, the federal government will not have to give financial support for provincial programs it does not want.

Trudeau's concession involved language rights. He had wanted a requirement that provinces guarantee equal use of French and English in their jurisdictions. He agreed that the constitution would guarantee language equality only in federal institutions.

The government leaders withheld their full endorsement on a Canadian constitution to be called the "Charter of Canada" until they consult with their cabinets. Thus the conference here can not be considered final for about 10 days to two weeks. But the agreement could lead to giving Canada full control over its constitution.

Canada's constitution since 1867 has been the British North America Act which can be amended only by the British Parliament. The action being considered at the conference, if approved by both houses of the Canadian Parliament and the provincial assemblies, would give the Canadian people the power to amend the 1867 act.

FTC Settles False Ad Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A false advertising case against Swift's baby foods was settled today by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

The FTC said it was provisionally accepting a consent order under which Swift and Co. promised not to falsely advertise the nutritional and health benefits of its baby foods.

The complaint had charged Swift with falsely advertising that its baby foods were uniquely nutritious.

TIRED HORSE TAKES FIVE

It was warm in Portland, Ore., yesterday, and who can blame a weary horse, perhaps a little hot under the saddle, for wanting to take a break during the 51st annual U.S. Jaycees parade? To the surprise of onlookers and the dismay of his rider, the horse just decided he was tired of walking and settled down on the nearest sidewalk.

Friends Call Teacher's Boot A 'Breach Of Faith, Ethics'

The San Anselmo School District's firing of a middle-aged, circuit-riding music teacher is a "breach of faith, ethics and administrative judgment," his supporters have charged.

Addressing the district board Tuesday, about a dozen parents and teachers urged trustees to reconsider their dismissal action against Dale Parker, an 11-year employee.

Parker — described by his supporters as a warm and gentle man — was notified last month of his dismissal based on four charges.

Those charges, according to his attorney, A. Leonard Bjorklund, are Parker's alleged inability to organize his program, motivate his students and control his class and tardiness in arriving for work.

"The conditions he has been working under are absolutely appalling," the attorney said. The school district's music program, he continued, has been methodically cut back over the years to a point where Parker is now the only instructor teaching instrumental music at the six schools.

"Here is a man who is 52 and rides the circuit from school to school in his own car. When he gets to a school, it's him that has to set up the class — the chairs and music stands."

When one class is over, Bjorklund added, Parker puts away the seats and loads instruments into his car for the next school where the process is repeated.

One parent, Miriam Beall, told the board she was "shocked" that a man who has stayed on against incredible odds so that the program would not die of attrition — teaching every instrument at six schools, developing a band at each, using his own car and his own instruments — would be cast off well before retirement age and well after prime employment age. . ."

Former Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., according to Bjorklund, also protested the firing in a letter.

Goldstein wrote that he was surprised to learn of the action and wondered "what human values are considered in such a situation. . ."

Trustee Basil Hugh Scalabrini said yesterday that after the parents statements, the board entered closed session to discuss the matter.

No decision was reached, he said, adding that it will be discussed again within 30 days.

(If the district is to follow through with its dismissal, it must file the charges against Parker in Marin Superior Court within 30 days.)

Scott Newhall Announces He's A Candidate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Scott Newhall, 57, former editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, Wednesday announced he will run for mayor of San Francisco.

"I am trying to get organized right now," Newhall said in resigning from the monthly San Francisco magazine "and I will make a formal announcement as soon as possible."

Newhall, born in the city, retired last January as editor of the Chronicle to take over the editorship of the magazine. He is a registered Republican.

Newhall said he decided to run for the mayor's office because he felt the city "needs to be healed."

"I do not like divisiveness and the people of San Francisco don't like it," he said. "I hope to find the answers to help solve some of the problems."

Larkspur Board In Budget Talk

The Larkspur School District board will review the $1,884,439 budget for fiscal 1971-72 when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the administration office in Larkspur.

The board also will discuss teacher salaries before discussing the budget. Classified employees already have been granted an 8 per cent increase.

Other items to come before the board include the annual Louise Boyd Museum contract, administrative and custodial summer vacation schedules, a report from the goals committee and personnel action report.

Hub Youths Held In Narcotics Probe

Two 15-year-old San Anselmo boys were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession.

The youths were arrested at 2:20 p.m. in Robson-Harrington Park where they were seen with a bag of green vegetable matter, believed to be marijuana, San Anselmo police said.

AT POINT REYES

Livestock Show Saturday

The 22nd annual West Marin Junior Livestock Show at Point Reyes Station, the area's big annual celebration, Saturday and Sunday, will feature a music-filled parade.

The parade, starting at noon Sunday, will include 15 bands, floats, horse riders, antique cars, majorettes and drill teams and will run for an hour-and-a-half, according to William H. Thomson, parade chairman.

The show, sponsored by the West Marin Lions Club and centered around exhibits of livestock and 4-H Club projects, includes a coronation ball Saturday and a chicken barbecue Sunday.

The show opens at 7:30 a.m. Saturday at the fairgrounds at the West Marin Community Center with the judging of livestock and exhibits which will continue until 2 p.m.

Annette Bunce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bunce of Olema, will be crowned queen of the show at a coronation ball at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center.

Hugh Turner, general manager of radio station KTIM, will be master of ceremonies and Dude Martin's Sundowners will play for dancing.

The Lions Club barbecue will start at 11: 30 a.m. Sunday and continue all afternoon.

There are about 125 entries in the parade, representing up to 1,000 persons, Thomson reported.

Ernie Mangue of Half Moon Bay, who has led parades throughout California in authentic Mexican costume, will be the parade marshal, Thomson said.

There will be about 30 horses, "25 or more" antique cars, comic groups, 4-H floats, 145 majorettes and commercial floats in the parade, he said.

The bands scheduled to appear are St. Mary's Chinese Girls Drum Corps of San Francisco, Diablo Valley Boys Pipe Band, Stuart Highland Pipe Band, San Francisco Boy Scout Pipe Band, Canadian Legion Pipe Band of San Jose, Sonoma County Shrine Oriental Band from Santa Rosa, Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching Band, Starlettes Drum Corps of Santa Rosa, Tomales High School Comic Band, Concord Blue Devils Drum and Bugle Corps with two entries, Nave's "Patrolla Italian Army Band," and the Coast Guard band from Alameda.

There will be drill teams from the Naval Schools Command, Fire Control Class, Mare Island, the Petaluma Police Department junior girls, the Coast Guard, and the American Legion Auxiliary Junior Girls of San Francisco, Thomson said.

Judges will be James Elings, livestock specialist at the University of California at Davis, and Alfred Moore, farm advisor, Sacramento County, livestock; William McDonald, horses; Jerry Timmer, rabbits; Stan Coats, poultry; Gene Cuslidge, electricity and woodworking.

Joyce Leveroni, Kate Orsine, Jennie Leali, Barbara Rutner, Marion Livstick, Dorothy Everett, Faith Lepori and Rose Marie Barboni, home economics; Allan Ballard, Marin County agricultural commissioner, vegetables and flowers.

In the parade competition the horses will be judged by Rome Brusati, Mario Ghilotti and Sonny Zappetini, and other entries by Jerry Sarr and Bill Kimber.

Winners in the parade will receive their awards at the fairgrounds at about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

The two-day schedule:

SATURDAY

8 a.m. — Judging of vegetables and flowers.
9:30 a.m. — Judging by 4-H Club members.
10 a.m. — Judging of poultry and rabbits.
10 a.m. to noon — Livestock and dairy judging.
1 p.m. — Judging of livestock showmanship.
2 p.m. —finish of judging.
9 p.m. —Coronation Ball.

SUNDAY

9:30 a.m. —horse showmanship contest
11:30 a.m. — Lions Club barbecue
Noon — Parade
3:30 p.m. — Awarding of prizes.

Revamp Of Housing Authority Is Set

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Controversial reorganization of the Marin County Housing Authority — under study for weeks — was approved last night by the housing board.

The board action followed supporting arguments by Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd, arguments which brought opposition from some members of the audience and today were in conflict with statements from federal housing officials.

The meeting also heard strong objections by some board members over a proposal that Shepherd be authorized to "expedite" remodeling of the Marin City office through the hiring of a Vallejo architect who has done "free" work for the agency.

Expansion is feasible only at the authority's main office in Marin City, Shepherd told the board. With consolidated staff and authority there, he said, the authority will have a base from which to spread to other parts of the county.

Such centralization, he maintained, will free field workers from routine paperwork which can be consolidated and thus allow them to spend more time "in the field" solving problems and expanding the housing programs.

This will be vital in the future because, he said, he has applied for 500 additional housing units from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. "Based on that increase," he said, "centralization is not a curtailment of services but rather an expansion."

The Independent-Journal was told today that no such application is on file with the department. "It is not shown on our control chart," said Jane Hobert, HUD area representative in San Francisco. Mrs. Hobert's finding came on the heels of rumors circulating among the housing authority staff that the 500-unit application is a myth even though the board ordered its forwarding to HUD weeks ago.

Shepherd, in urging the board approve reorganization, said it was needed and could only be provided in Marin City where efficiency, accountability and internal control could be achieved.

Currently, the housing authority has offices in San Rafael for its leased housing program, tenant relations and central application, which receives and reviews all requests for low-cost, senior citizen and leased housing.

Members of the audience said to move the location of these services to Marin City would work a transportation hardship on those in need of housing assistance because of their already low or fixed income. Those offices should remain in Central Marin and close to public transportation, they argued.

The authority also has small offices at its four housing projects for senior citizens. They were used only when the manager of that program visits the projects to collect rents and handle tenants' problems.

As disclosed in the I-J yesterday, rent payments and other financial functions have been moved out of the various offices and into Marin City as part of reorganization.

Shepherd told the board last night he had taken the action prior to the board authorizing total reorganization because of a HUD auditor's audit finding.

The head of HUD's audit office in San Francisco today declined to discuss that audit. He did say, however, it was only a preliminary report. The final and official report has not been completed, he said.

A former HUD auditor and employee of Marin County Housing Authority today said that it was highly unlikely the federal agency would recommend any reorganization action.

Jack Drost, who now is the accounting supervisor for the San Jose Housing Authority, said such audits deal primarily with the local agency's fulfillment of its HUD contract. "They (HUD) don't care where the rent is paid, they're just interested in if it was paid," he said.

In support of his proposal to move functions out of San Rafael, Shepherd last night presented a "traffic survey" of business conducted in the San Rafael office. It included the number of phone calls and personal visits received by the office.

However, Ed Ryken of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council questioned the validity of the low number of calls and visits reported.

Noting that the survey was taken after May 1 when records were moved out of the office and recipients told to report to Marin City, Ryken said he had reports from senior citizens who had tried to call the office but received no answer.

"Were the unanswered calls considered in your report?" he asked Shepherd.

The board unanimously approved reorganization, but insisted the San Rafael office at 530 Third Street be staffed at least 20 hours per week.

Approval was promptly followed by a request from Shepherd for authorization to remodel facilities at Marin City, a $60,000 job for which he had already selected the architect, a Vallejo architectural firm.

The request brought objection from Ehrlich who said the board should review hiring of the architect and builder.

Board member James G. McDonald, a Marin County architect, then asked Shepherd if he got approval if he would hire the Vallejo architectural firm of Bond and Dougherty.

Shepherd, responding that the firm already had done preliminary drawings free, said he felt it was "only fair" to hire them.

"HUD doesn't like competition between professionals," he said referring to normal bidding processes.

"It (the firm) has done a service for the authority . . . it has committed itself to a dream" of greater public housing, he said.

Ehrlich responded that he couldn't agree with the hiring procedure proposed by Shepherd, adding that both the executive director and his assistant formerly worked in Vallejo.

On a unanimous vote of the board, Shepherd was directed to provide the board with names of three architectural firms for consideration at a later meeting.

Adoption Of Budget Set For Tonight

The Marin Community College District board will review and adopt the tentative budget for fiscal 1971-72 at 8 p.m. today in room 96 at Olney Hall on the Kentfield Campus.

The proposed budget is $6,496,536 compared to this year's $6,233,950 budget.

The board will go over the procedure for selection of deans and assistant deans.

It will select a name for the North College which will be a cluster-type campus on the Pacheco ranch in Novato.

Other items to come before the board include awarding of contracts for furnishing equipment for the science center, a teaching agreement with Sonoma State College, acceptance of the Harlan Science Center, and awarding a contract for demolition of Austin Science, Communications and Boiler buildings.

filed a suit in federal court for Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., and other readers on behalf of the Times. The suit contends there is a great constitutional significance in the case —the fight of the public to read the reports.

Gurfein ruled today that The Times was "perfectly capable of defending itself and freedom of the press" and turned down the ACLU's petition to submit oral arguments at Friday's hearing.

Gurfein said, however, that the ACLU could submit written briefs.

Melvin Wulf, an ACLU lawyer, said he would appeal Gurfein's ruling.

Minor Injuries From Accident

Three persons received minor injuries, but apparently were not hospitalized yesterday, following a two-car crash on frontage road, north of Ignacio Boulevard in Ignacio.

According to the California Highway Patrol, hurt were the driver of one car, Scott B. Hayes, 17, of 737 Going Lane, Novato, and two of his passengers, Debbie Sue Bartlett, 17, of 1070 Via Escondida and John M. Budde, 15, of 475 Via Del Plano, both of Novato.

Officers said the crash occurred about 10:15 p.m. when a car driven by Charles M. Hockaday Jr., 41, of Hamilton Air Force Base, pulled onto the road from a parking lot and began driving south on the wrong side of the street. Hockaday struck the northbound Hayes car, the highway patrol reported.

Okinawa Is Returned To Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—The United States and Japan signed a historic treaty via transpacific satellite television today to return the western Pacific fortress island of Okinawa to Japanese rule after a quarter centuy of American occupation since World War II.

Aichi signed with a Chinese brush pen while Rogers wrote with a fountain pen. The two officials faced each other on television screens in the first treaty signing by satellite transmission in history.

Rogers read a statement by President Nixon that the signing of the treaty enables the United States and Japan "to work together in peace for the continued progress of our own two countries and for that of the entire world."

Thousands of Japanese students, Communists and Socialists demonstrated throughout the nation against the treaty terms which will permit the United States to maintain military bases on Okinawa after the island returns to Japanese rule.

built regardless of whether federal and state grants are available. These grants can cover up to 80 per cent of a project's cost.

"I know this is going to upset and make a lot of people nervous," he said.

But Dierker added that the regional board "was not unmindful" of the financial problems of affected sewerage agencies.

The regional board, he said, "will try to be fair." Some of the projects disqualified for grants by the state board may be postponed by the regional board, he said.

Dierker stressed that any such postponement would be only for a short period, perhaps limited to projects that would not have been started anyway until the end of the next fiscal year.

Dierker also noted that it was possible to start such projects and get reimbursement later from grant funds.

The regional board had recommended 45 projects in the Bay Area with a total cost of almost $115 million.

The state board's staff, to match the projects list with federal and state funds expected to be available, cut the Bay Area list to 26 projects costing $91 million.

The list of recommended projects was set for adoption by the state board at its July 1 meeting. No project can get a grant unless it is on that list.

Statewide, 329 projects costing $410 million were recommended by the nine regional boards. The state board's staff cut this to 195 projects costing $261 million.

Projects yanked from the recommended list for the next fiscal year probably would be recommended in fiscal 1972-73 year, according to the staff of the state board.

are other Indians in other places who will take it up."

"It is important the public knows what is happening to the Indians," he said.

Meanwhile, a 100-yard "security zone" was in effect around Alcatraz to prevent another invasion of the island.

The Coast Guard imposed the "security zone" at noon Wednesday. It extends 100 yards in all directions from the island. Any vessel found in the zone without permission can be confiscated and forfeited by its owner and any person can be charged under laws carrying maximum penalties of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The zone is designed as "a buffer area for security forces already on the island and to provide strict control of vessels and persons trafficking San Francisco Bay in the general vicinity of Alcatraz," a spokesman said.

U.S. marshals took the last 15 Indian occupants off the island Friday, 19 months after they occupied it. About 50 Indians, including many of those removed from "the rock," seized the old Nike base 15 miles away three days later.

The federal government contended it didn't own the site outright and that criminal prosecution was up to local authorities. The Army asked Richmond police to remove the invaders. But District Attorney William O'Malley said it was the Army's duty to ask them to leave first. The 6th Army at the San Francisco Presidio indicated that wouldn't be done.

Mayor Nathaniel Blaes of Richmond told the Army Wednesday it should reimburse the city for "any unusual expenses" incurred in connection with the occupation of the abandoned site.

BUDGET

Brewer won permission to add 14 new positions to his staff, in place of the 21 he had requested and the 18 Bruce had recommended.

The trim from the request brought a warning from Ralph M. Merola, president of Social Workers Union Local 535, that the resulting extra case load per deputy probation officer would violate the union's contract. "Obviously we are not going to stand still for the cuts," he said.

Caseload figures were not divulged at the hearing, on grounds they were a key part of contract negotiations with the union.

The supervisors formally put an end to Bruce's attempts to phase out the Juvenile Hall preplacement center after letters and speeches from a dozen groups opposing the closing. Turning to the budget for juvenile wards of the courts, the board voted to put a maximum of $166,340 on institutional care for the wards, to encourage courts to seek other ways of caring for the youngsters.

Two other functions of the probation department — the Marin County Youth Commission and the juvenile delinquency prevention commission — were granted $2,500 of the $3,600 requested for extra-hire help. The board turned down separate full-time directors for the two commissions, continuing L. Charles Smith as director for both. A youth commission request for permission to rent space in the Marin Senior Citizens Center in San Rafael also was denied. "We want the youth commission to be part of things at the Civic Center," Wornum explained.

Public Defender Harold J. Truett was granted one more deputy attorney effective Jan. 1 when the fourth department of the Marin Municipal Court will be created. He was refused space additions for the new deputy's office, pending revised remodeling suggestions by Bruce's office.

The cuts and additions made during the board's hearings which ran past 7 p.m. put the tentative tax rate at about $3.146 per $100 assessed valuation.

BENNETT

sity of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Farber yesterday termed Buck's conduct at the hospital "unprofessional."

Two former Sausalito policemen and former Marin Municipal Court Judge Alvin G. Goldstein Jr. testified for the defense today.

Goldstein, now in private practice, is representing Bennett on a drunk in public charge stemming from a March 4 arrest, also in Sausalito. That case is scheduled for trial July 15.

Goldstein testified that he was at the hospital following the arrest and that Bennett was sober.

Bennett was taken to the hospital with cuts and scrapes on his forehead, nose and lips — injuries, he claims, which were inflicted by Blake Hoffman, the 22-year-old Sausalito policeman who arrested him.

The former Sausalito policemen, Dale L. Edwards of South San Francisco and Michael Smith of Daly City, both said the Sausalito police department requires its officers to meet arrest quotas.

Edwards has been on medical leave from the police department since August and said his status with the department is uncertain.

Smith said he was fired in January 1970 for "insubordination and inefficiency."

Yesterday, a fired Sausalito police sergeant, Thomas H. Zink, who is acting as an investigator for Bennett in connection with the case, testified there were direct orders from Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright setting arrest quotas for Sausalito policemen.

Both Wright and Hoffman have denied the existence of any arrest quota requirements.

Weissich has suggested that Bennett's arrest stemmed from Hoffman's need to meet a quota.

Bennett himself took the stand yesterday and said that he refused to take chemical tests to determine the amount of alcohol in his blood at Marin County Jail because he was bleeding and could have been dying of a fatal hemorrhage."

Deputy Dist. Atty. John R. Thomas Jr. pressed Bennett, asking why — if he was so concerned about his medical condition — he refused to have his injuries treated at the hospital until photographs of the injuries were taken.

Bennett said he wanted the photos for evidence in the case.

Thomas continued, saying the chemical tests could have proved Bennett's innocence, but Bennett said he was so concerned about his condition he wasn't thinking of the tests.

He faces an automatic suspension of his driver's license, whether he is found innocent or guilty, because of his refusal to take one of the chemical tests.

Hurricane Briget Clobbers Acapulco

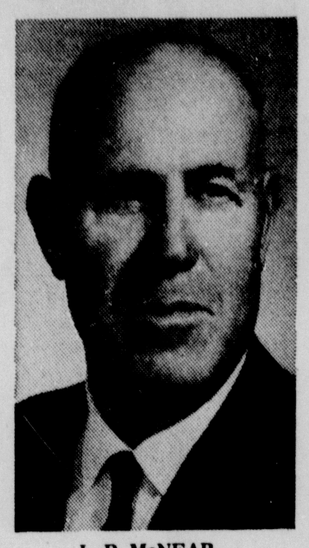
OBITUARIES

L. P. McNear Sr., 71, Dies At Home



L. P. McNEAR
Prominent Marinite

Lawrence P. McNear Sr., scion of a 19th Century Marinite who once dreamed of a large industrial city sprawled across his vast San Pedro Point holdings, died yesterday at his home after a long illness.

McNear, 71, had been confined to the family residence at McNear's Point since suffering a stroke in 1967.

The McNear name is a dominant one in Marin history, and Lawrence Sr. was the grandson of John A. McNear, a native New Englander who built a $3,000 savings into a multimillion dollar fortune and bought 2,500 acres of San Pedro Point property in 1868.

The grandfather, together with Lawrence Sr.'s father, Erskine B. McNear Sr., built on the property a brickyard that is still active today, and founded the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Railroad, hoping it would establish San Pedro Point as a major railhead.

But the 1906 earthquake destroyed his dream as financial backers withdrew to help rebuild San Francisco.

The McNear family, while retaining operation of the brickyard, sold most of its extensive holdings in 1955, and the area today is a mixture of bustling subdivisions and rural tranquility.

The brickyard — a Haydite plant capable of turning out 16,000 building blocks a day — is located on 285 acres of rock-rich land that was to have been the lifeblood of John A. McNear's industrial complex.

Lawrence McNear Sr., who devoted his life to management of the family business, was a native San Franciscan and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1924.

He was a former director of the Bank of Marin and a director of the Structural Clay Products Institute of Washington, D.C. McNear also was a member of Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons; Marin Chapter 102, Royal Arch Masons; Mount Olivet Commandery 20, Knights Templar of Petaluma; Islam Temple Shrine and the Marin County Shrine Club.

Survivors are a daughter, Jane Powers; two sons, Lawrence P. McNear Jr. and John McNear, all of San Rafael; a sister, Lucretia Thomas, and a brother, Miller M. McNear, both also of San Rafael, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, with inurnment private. Memorial contributions to the Masonic Home, American Cancer Society or the Prince Charles Pipe Band, San Francisco, are preferred by the family.

MARY PARKER

Funeral for Mary L. Parker, 61-year-old Novato resident, will beat 1 p.m. Saturday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Mrs. Parker died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was the wife of Hubert L. Parker of 175 Los Robles Road. He's a printing press operator at Hamilton Air Force Base.

She was a native of Lake Charles, La., and moved to the Bay Area in the early 1940s. She lived in San Francisco and then moved to Novato two years ago.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four sisters, Victoria Williams, Bessie Lewis and Ruth Kirkwood, all of Sulphur, La., and Lillie Thompson of Los Angeles, and two brothers, Jack Clifton of Sulphur and Willie Clifton of Vinton, La.

Burial will be at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato. The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

EARL WARNE

Private funeral for Earl H. Warne, longtime Mill Valley resident, was held yesterday in Mill Valley. Warne, 63, collapsed Monday at his home and died later at Marin General Hospital, apparently of natural causes, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

A native of San Francisco, he had lived in Marin County 40 years, residing at 10 Park Avenue. He was a self-employed plumbing contractor for 40 years and a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Warne is survived by his wife, Lucille; four sons, Robert E. Warne of Novato, Richard H. Warne of Mill Valley, Paul J. Warne of Petaluma and Grant Johnson of Millbrae; a daughter, Shirley Zuffinetti of Novato, a brother, Harvey Warne of Corte Madera and six grandchildren.

The family prefers contributions to the Marin County Heart Association or the Candlelighters Society of San Rafael.

JOHN MINDHAM

A native of San Francisco, he was educated there and worked as a carpenter. Mindham moved to Petaluma 10 years ago where he worked for the Marin Mill Cabinet Co. for six years. He retired four years ago due to ill health and moved to Santa Rosa.

Mindham was a member of the Carpenters Union, Petaluma Local 981.

He is survived by his wife, Alice C.; a son, Donald J. Mindham of Corte Madera; two sisters, Katherine Keyser of San Mateo and Josephine Paulsen of San Carlos; and three grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. James Catholic Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Mountain View Cemetery, Piedmont. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Revamp Of Housing Authority Is Set

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Controversial reorganization of the Marin County Housing Authority — under study for weeks — was approved last night by the housing board.

The board action followed supporting arguments by Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd, arguments which brought opposition from some members of the audience and today were in conflict with statements from federal housing officials.

The meeting also heard strong objections by some board members over a proposal that Shepherd be authorized to "expedite" remodeling of the Marin City office through the hiring of a Vallejo architect who has done "free" work for the agency.

Expansion is feasible only at the authority's main office in Marin City, Shepherd told the board. With consolidated staff and authority there, he said, the authority will have a base from which to spread to other parts of the county.

Such centralization, he maintained, will free field workers from routine paperwork which can be consolidated and thus allow them to spend more time "in the field" solving problems and expanding the housing programs.

This will be vital in the future because, he said, he has applied for 500 additional housing units from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. "Based on that increase," he said, "centralization is not a curtailment of services but rather an expansion."

The Independent-Journal was told today that no such application is on file with the department. "It is not shown on our control chart," said Jane Hobert, HUD area representative in San Francisco. Mrs. Hobert's finding came on the heels of rumors circulating among the housing authority staff that the 500-unit application is a myth even though the board ordered its forwarding to HUD weeks ago.

Shepherd, in urging the board approve reorganization, said it was needed and could only be provided in Marin City where efficiency, accountability and internal control could be achieved.

Currently, the housing authority has offices in San Rafael for its leased housing program, tenant relations and central application, which receives and reviews all requests for low-cost, senior citizen and leased housing.

Members of the audience said to move the location of these services to Marin City would work a transportation hardship on those in need of housing assistance because of their already low or fixed income. Those offices should remain in Central Marin and close to public transportation, they argued.

The authority also has small offices at its four housing projects for senior citizens. They were used only when the manager of that program visits the projects to collect rents and handle tenants' problems.

As disclosed in the I-J yesterday, rent payments and other financial functions have been moved out of the various offices and into Marin City as part of reorganization.

Shepherd told the board last night he had taken the action prior to the board authorizing total reorganization because of a HUD auditor's audit finding.

The head of HUD's audit office in San Francisco today declined to discuss that audit. He did say, however, it was only a preliminary report. The final and official report has not been completed, he said.

A former HUD auditor and employee of Marin County Housing Authority today said that it was highly unlikely the federal agency would recommend any reorganization action.

Jack Drost, who now is the accounting supervisor for the San Jose Housing Authority, said such audits deal primarily with the local agency's fulfillment of its HUD contract. "They (HUD) don't care where the rent is paid, they're just interested in if it was paid," he said.

In support of his proposal to move functions out of San Rafael, Shepherd last night presented a "traffic survey" of business conducted in the San Rafael office. It included the number of phone calls and personal visits received by the office.

However, Ed Ryken of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council questioned the validity of the low number of calls and visits reported.

Noting that the survey was taken after May 1 when records were moved out of the office and recipients told to report to Marin City, Ryken said he had reports from senior citizens who had tried to call the office but received no answer.

"Were the unanswered calls considered in your report?" he asked Shepherd.

The board unanimously approved reorganization, but insisted the San Rafael office at 530 Third Street be staffed at least 20 hours per week.

Approval was promptly followed by a request from Shepherd for authorization to remodel facilities at Marin City, a $60,000 job for which he had already selected the architect, a Vallejo architectural firm.

The request brought objection from Ehrlich who said the board should review hiring of the architect and builder.

Board member James G. McDonald, a Marin County architect, then asked Shepherd if he got approval if he would hire the Vallejo architectural firm of Bond and Dougherty.

Shepherd, responding that the firm already had done preliminary drawings free, said he felt it was "only fair" to hire them.

"HUD doesn't like competition between professionals," he said referring to normal bidding processes.

"It (the firm) has done a service for the authority . . . it has committed itself to a dream" of greater public housing, he said.

Ehrlich responded that he couldn't agree with the hiring procedure proposed by Shepherd, adding that both the executive director and his assistant formerly worked in Vallejo.

On a unanimous vote of the board, Shepherd was directed to provide the board with names of three architectural firms for consideration at a later meeting.

Adoption Of Budget Set For Tonight

The Marin Community College District board will review and adopt the tentative budget for fiscal 1971-72 at 8 p.m. today in room 96 at Olney Hall on the Kentfield Campus.

The proposed budget is $6,496,536 compared to this year's $6,233,950 budget.

The board will go over the procedure for selection of deans and assistant deans.

It will select a name for the North College which will be a cluster-type campus on the Pacheco ranch in Novato.

Other items to come before the board include awarding of contracts for furnishing equipment for the science center, a teaching agreement with Sonoma State College, acceptance of the Harlan Science Center, and awarding a contract for demolition of Austin Science, Communications and Boiler buildings.

Minor Injuries From Accident

Three persons received minor injuries, but apparently were not hospitalized yesterday, following a two-car crash on frontage road, north of Ignacio Boulevard in Ignacio.

According to the California Highway Patrol, hurt were the driver of one car, Scott B. Hayes, 17, of 737 Going Lane, Novato, and two of his passengers, Debbie Sue Bartlett, 17, of 1070 Via Escondida and John M. Budde, 15, of 475 Via Del Plano, both of Novato.

Officers said the crash occurred about 10:15 p.m. when a car driven by Charles M. Hockaday Jr., 41, of Hamilton Air Force Base, pulled onto the road from a parking lot and began driving south on the wrong side of the street. Hockaday struck the northbound Hayes car, the highway patrol reported.

Okinawa Is Returned To Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—The United States and Japan signed a historic treaty via transpacific satellite television today to return the western Pacific fortress island of Okinawa to Japanese rule after a quarter centuy of American occupation since World War II.

While leftist Jpanaese students fought sporadic battles with police in Tokyo streets, Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi in Tokyo and Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington signed identical documents to end U.S. rule of the island.

Aichi signed with a Chinese brush pen while Rogers wrote with a fountain pen. The two officials faced each other on television screens in the first treaty signing by satellite transmission in history.

Rogers read a statement by President Nixon that the signing of the treaty enables the United States and Japan "to work together in peace for the continued progress of our own two countries and for that of the entire world."

Thousands of Japanese students, Communists and Socialists demonstrated throughout the nation against the treaty terms which will permit the United States to maintain military bases on Okinawa after the island returns to Japanese rule.

built regardless of whether federal and state grants are available. These grants can cover up to 80 per cent of a project's cost.

"I know this is going to upset and make a lot of people nervous," he said.

But Dierker added that the regional board "was not unmindful" of the financial problems of affected sewerage agencies.

The regional board, he said, "will try to be fair." Some of the projects disqualified for grants by the state board may be postponed by the regional board, he said.

Dierker stressed that any such postponement would be only for a short period, perhaps limited to projects that would not have been started anyway until the end of the next fiscal year.

Dierker also noted that it was possible to start such projects and get reimbursement later from grant funds.

The regional board had recommended 45 projects in the Bay Area with a total cost of almost $115 million.

The state board's staff, to match the projects list with federal and state funds expected to be available, cut the Bay Area list to 26 projects costing $91 million.

The list of recommended projects was set for adoption by the state board at its July 1 meeting. No project can get a grant unless it is on that list.

Statewide, 329 projects costing $410 million were recommended by the nine regional boards. The state board's staff cut this to 195 projects costing $261 million.

Projects yanked from the recommended list for the next fiscal year probably would be recommended in fiscal 1972-73 year, according to the staff of the state board.

filed a suit in federal court for Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., and other readers on behalf of the Times. The suit contends there is a great constitutional significance in the case —the fight of the public to read the reports.

Gurfein ruled today that The Times was "perfectly capable of defending itself and freedom of the press" and turned down the ACLU's petition to submit oral arguments at Friday's hearing.

Gurfein said, however, that the ACLU could submit written briefs.

Melvin Wulf, an ACLU lawyer, said he would appeal Gurfein's ruling.

are other Indians in other places who will take it up."

"It is important the public knows what is happening to the Indians," he said.

Meanwhile, a 100-yard "security zone" was in effect around Alcatraz to prevent another invasion of the island.

The Coast Guard imposed the "security zone" at noon Wednesday. It extends 100 yards in all directions from the island. Any vessel found in the zone without permission can be confiscated and forfeited by its owner and any person can be charged under laws carrying maximum penalties of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The zone is designed as "a buffer area for security forces already on the island and to provide strict control of vessels and persons trafficking San Francisco Bay in the general vicinity of Alcatraz," a spokesman said.

U.S. marshals took the last 15 Indian occupants off the island Friday, 19 months after they occupied it. About 50 Indians, including many of those removed from "the rock," seized the old Nike base 15 miles away three days later.

The federal government contended it didn't own the site outright and that criminal prosecution was up to local authorities. The Army asked Richmond police to remove the invaders. But District Attorney William O'Malley said it was the Army's duty to ask them to leave first. The 6th Army at the San Francisco Presidio indicated that wouldn't be done.

Mayor Nathaniel Blaes of Richmond told the Army Wednesday it should reimburse the city for "any unusual expenses" incurred in connection with the occupation of the abandoned site.

BUDGET

Brewer won permission to add 14 new positions to his staff, in place of the 21 he had requested and the 18 Bruce had recommended.

The trim from the request brought a warning from Ralph M. Merola, president of Social Workers Union Local 535, that the resulting extra case load per deputy probation officer would violate the union's contract. "Obviously we are not going to stand still for the cuts," he said.

Caseload figures were not divulged at the hearing, on grounds they were a key part of contract negotiations with the union.

The supervisors formally put an end to Bruce's attempts to phase out the Juvenile Hall preplacement center after letters and speeches from a dozen groups opposing the closing. Turning to the budget for juvenile wards of the courts, the board voted to put a maximum of $166,340 on institutional care for the wards, to encourage courts to seek other ways of caring for the youngsters.

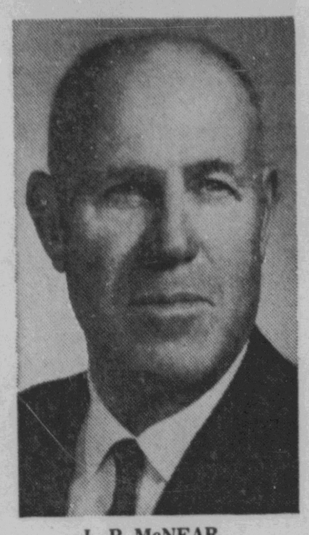
Two other functions of the probation department — the Marin County Youth Commission and the juvenile delinquency prevention commission — were granted $2,500 of the $3,600 requested for extra-hire help. The board turned down separate full-time directors for the two commissions, continuing L. Charles Smith as director for both. A youth commission request for permission to rent space in the Marin Senior Citizens Center in San Rafael also was denied. "We want the youth commission to be part of things at the Civic Center," Wornum explained.

Public Defender Harold J. Truett was granted one more deputy attorney effective Jan. 1 when the fourth department of the Marin Municipal Court will be created. He was refused space additions for the new deputy's office, pending revised remodeling suggestions by Bruce's office.

The cuts and additions made during the board's hearings which ran past 7 p.m. put the tentative tax rate at about $3.146 per $100 assessed valuation.

OBITUARIES

L. P. McNear Sr., 71, Dies At Home



L. P. McNEAR
Prominent Marinite

Lawrence P. McNear Sr., scion of a 19th Century Marinite who once dreamed of a large industrial city sprawled across his vast San Pedro Point holdings, died yesterday at his home after a long illness.

McNear, 71, had been confined to the family residence at McNear's Point since suffering a stroke in 1967.

The McNear name is a dominant one in Marin history, and Lawrence Sr. was the grandson of John A. McNear, a native New Englander who built a $3,000 savings into a multimillion dollar fortune and bought 2,500 acres of San Pedro Point property in 1868.

The grandfather, together with Lawrence Sr.'s father, Erskine B. McNear Sr., built on the property a brickyard that is still active today, and founded the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Railroad, hoping it would establish San Pedro Point as a major railhead.

But the 1906 earthquake destroyed his dream as financial backers withdrew to help rebuild San Francisco.

The McNear family, while retaining operation of the brickyard, sold most of its extensive holdings in 1955, and the area today is a mixture of bustling subdivisions and rural tranquility.

The brickyard — a Haydite plant capable of turning out 16,000 building blocks a day — is located on 285 acres of rock-rich land that was to have been the lifeblood of John A. McNear's industrial complex.

Lawrence McNear Sr., who devoted his life to management of the family business, was a native San Franciscan and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1924.

He was a former director of the Bank of Marin and a director of the Structural Clay Products Institute of Washington, D.C. McNear also was a member of Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons; Marin Chapter 102, Royal Arch Masons; Mount Olivet Commandery 20, Knights Templar of Petaluma; Islam Temple Shrine and the Marin County Shrine Club.

Survivors are a daughter, Jane Powers; two sons, Lawrence P. McNear Jr. and John McNear, all of San Rafael; a sister, Lucretia Thomas, and a brother, Miller M. McNear, both also of San Rafael, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael, with inurnment private. Memorial contributions to the Masonic Home, American Cancer Society or the Prince Charles Pipe Band, San Francisco, are preferred by the family.

sity of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Farber yesterday termed Buck's conduct at the hospital "unprofessional."

Two former Sausalito policemen and former Marin Municipal Court Judge Alvin G. Goldstein Jr. testified for the defense today.

Goldstein, now in private practice, is representing Bennett on a drunk in public charge stemming from a March 4 arrest, also in Sausalito. That case is scheduled for trial July 15.

Goldstein testified that he was at the hospital following the arrest and that Bennett was sober.

Bennett was taken to the hospital with cuts and scrapes on his forehead, nose and lips — injuries, he claims, which were inflicted by Blake Hoffman, the 22-year-old Sausalito policeman who arrested him.

The former Sausalito policemen, Dale L. Edwards of South San Francisco and Michael Smith of Daly City, both said the Sausalito police department requires its officers to meet arrest quotas.

Edwards has been on medical leave from the police department since August and said his status with the department is uncertain.

Smith said he was fired in January 1970 for "insubordination and inefficiency."

Yesterday, a fired Sausalito police sergeant, Thomas H. Zink, who is acting as an investigator for Bennett in connection with the case, testified there were direct orders from Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright setting arrest quotas for Sausalito policemen.

Both Wright and Hoffman have denied the existence of any arrest quota requirements.

Weissich has suggested that Bennett's arrest stemmed from Hoffman's need to meet a quota.

Bennett himself took the stand yesterday and said that he refused to take chemical tests to determine the amount of alcohol in his blood at Marin County Jail because he was bleeding and could have been dying of a fatal hemorrhage."

Deputy Dist. Atty. John R. Thomas Jr. pressed Bennett, asking why — if he was so concerned about his medical condition — he refused to have his injuries treated at the hospital until photographs of the injuries were taken.

Bennett said he wanted the photos for evidence in the case.

Thomas continued, saying the chemical tests could have proved Bennett's innocence, but Bennett said he was so concerned about his condition he wasn't thinking of the tests.

He faces an automatic suspension of his driver's license, whether he is found innocent or guilty, because of his refusal to take one of the chemical tests.

Hurricane Briget Clobbers Acapulco

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI)— A fringe of hurricane Briget emptied the beaches of this fashionable Pacific resort town Wednesday, blew away a score of homes and left at least five persons injured.

MARY PARKER

Funeral for Mary L. Parker, 61-year-old Novato resident, will beat 1 p.m. Saturday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Mrs. Parker died Tuesday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was the wife of Hubert L. Parker of 175 Los Robles Road. He's a printing press operator at Hamilton Air Force Base.

She was a native of Lake Charles, La., and moved to the Bay Area in the early 1940s. She lived in San Francisco and then moved to Novato two years ago.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four sisters, Victoria Williams, Bessie Lewis and Ruth Kirkwood, all of Sulphur, La., and Lillie Thompson of Los Angeles, and two brothers, Jack Clifton of Sulphur and Willie Clifton of Vinton, La.

Burial will be at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato. The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

EARL WARNE

Private funeral for Earl H. Warne, longtime Mill Valley resident, was held yesterday in Mill Valley. Warne, 63, collapsed Monday at his home and died later at Marin General Hospital, apparently of natural causes, according to the Marin County Coroner's office.

A native of San Francisco, he had lived in Marin County 40 years, residing at 10 Park Avenue. He was a self-employed plumbing contractor for 40 years and a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Warne is survived by his wife, Lucille; four sons, Robert E. Warne of Novato, Richard H. Warne of Mill Valley, Paul J. Warne of Petaluma and Grant Johnson of Millbrae; a daughter, Shirley Zuffinetti of Novato, a brother, Harvey Warne of Corte Madera and six grandchildren.

The family prefers contributions to the Marin County Heart Association or the Candlelighters Society of San Rafael.

JOHN MINDHAM

A native of San Francisco, he was educated there and worked as a carpenter. Mindham moved to Petaluma 10 years ago where he worked for the Marin Mill Cabinet Co. for six years. He retired four years ago due to ill health and moved to Santa Rosa.

Mindham was a member of the Carpenters Union, Petaluma Local 981.

He is survived by his wife, Alice C.; a son, Donald J. Mindham of Corte Madera; two sisters, Katherine Keyser of San Mateo and Josephine Paulsen of San Carlos; and three grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. James Catholic Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Mountain View Cemetery, Piedmont. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

County Employees Union Wins Support

The Marin County Employees Association, faced with a new union, yesterday announced it had captured a prize in the 175-member Marin Municipal Water District employees association.

The county employees association is faced with an election next Tuesday in which almost 700 members will go to the polls to pick either the association or the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) as their bargaining agent.

AFSCME is a new union which organized Mill Valley city employees last March and has been trying to woo away county employees from the county association.

Francis J. O'Connell, general manager of the county employees association, said yesterday that the members of the water district association had voted overwhelmingly in favor of affiliating with the county association.

Barbara Edwards, secretary for the water district association, said that the next step for her group will be to write a letter to the water district board and ask formal recognition of the new bargaining agent.

She said that the water district employees had also heard a pitch from AFSCME but had voted by a huge majority of those present at a June 1 meeting to go with the county association instead.

O'Connell added that the water district group will be a separate unit of the county employees association.

Policeman Hides The Bare Facts With Raincoat

NEW YORK (UPI) — A member of the cast of the Broadway hit "Oh, Calcutta," was arrested in front of City Hall Wednesday for practically nothing at all.

Unfortunately for Miss Raina Barrett, the nothing at all was what she was wearing underneath a flowing gown while she and nine other members of the cast were picketing in protest of a scheduled 3 per cent theater tax.

A New York policeman, showing great presence of mind, threw his raincoat over the 29-year-old woman. His chivalry ended there, however and he arrested her on charges of public lewdness.

2 Plead Guilty To Burglary

James William Ferguson, 26, of San Rafael and Dale Ed Panttaja, 18, of Mill Valley, have pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary.

Ferguson is to be sentenced July 6, and Panttaja July 26.

They were arrested April 7 coming out of the residence of Roy H. Wardin of 70 Forest Avenue.

Festival Drive Set At $12,000

Offering an expanded program of entertainment this season, the Marin Shakespeare Festival has started a campaign to raise $12,000 in its membership drive, according to Robert E. Knox, membership chairman.

The festival will present Shakespeare's comedies, "Much Ado About Nothing" and "As You Like It". It will also present "Once Upon a Mattress," a medieval musical and "Wind in the Willows," a play for children about Mr. Toad of Toad Hall.

James Mairs, a member of the festival cast and graduate student of the University of California at Los Angeles, has written music for "Wind in the Willows." He also plays the lead in "Once Upon A Mattress."

The San Francisco Lamplighters' production of "The Sorcerer" and a production by the ACT Conservatory Program, will be sponsored by the festival.

The general season membership includes six reserved seats to the performances on Wednesdays, Thursdays or Sundays in the Forest Meadows Theater. Special season membership gives six reserved seat tickets to all performances including Friday and Saturday night productions.

Those buying season tickets may attend special preview performances, rehearsal picnic for each show and the annual "Feast to Good Will" for July 17 opening night, according to Knox.

High School Pupils Held For Narcotics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Fifteen Lincoln High School students got unexpected surprises Wednesday as they were preparing to got to class.

Police arrested them at their homes for selling or furnishing narcotics to their fellow students. All were charged with felonies.

Novato Council In Debate On Incentive Pay For Policemen

The idea of granting Novato police officers extra pay if they live in the city cropped up last night at a budget session of the Novato City Council.

Police Chief Allen V. Klemme reported that "60 to 65 per cent" of the officers live outside the city, and "a lot live in Petaluma."

Councilman George C. Quesada said having the officers live in Novato would provide greater protection, and recalled stories in San Francisco newspapers about off-duty police officers capturing criminals.

He proposed the council study the possibility of incentive pay for those who live in the city, possibly a 5 to 10 per cent bonus.

Officers are living out of town because they can't afford to buy homes in Novato, said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown who doubted that a 5 per cent pay raise would prompt them to move into Novato.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said police officers are now paid salaries that qualify them for home purchases in Novato, homes in the $28,000 to $32,000 range.

The council tentatively approved the police department's $489,435 budget, with few changes.

They rejected Chief Klemme's bid for two new patrolman, but authorized boosting one sergeant post to that of lieutenant.

Brown said if funds had been available he would have recommended one additional patrolman, conceding the need for more officers.

Klemm reported he is considering reestablishing a police reserve force which could assist officers and said four residents have already expressed an interest in joining.

While the council reviewed the parks and recreation budgets, Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo suggested that the city give priority at Pioneer Memorial Park to improving the cemetery, which is frequently vandalized.

Quesada said there is public sentiment to have the cemetery improved and "it is a moral obligation to protect it and reduce vandalism. Either that or take the name memorial off it."

The capital improvements budget for the park calls for completion of electrical work, development of a tot play area and and apparatus area, at a cost of $40,000.

Councilmen deferred further discussion until a joint meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house with the parks and recreation commission on the budget.

Parks and recreation budgets tentatively approved were recreation, $134,280; swim pool, $13,180; and community house, $13,500.

The council also gave tentative approval to the $103,285 planning budget, with only brief discussion. As previously approved, the budget provides for an addition of a junior planner in the department.

Womack challenged the city manager's recommendation to increase the city attorney's retainer from $7,200 a year to $8,400, but action was deferred pending study of city attorney fees elsewhere in Marin.

The council adjourned until 8 a.m. Saturday at City Hall, with plans to attend the Western Weekend Buckaroo Breakfast and then tour the areas listed in the capital improvements budget.

Three-Woman Art Show Opening Set

A three-woman art show will open Sunday at the Sandcastle Gallery at Point Reyes Station and will continue through July 18. Artists whose paintings will be displayed are Jean Atwood of Vacaville, Grace Kurtz of Benicia and Lucille Schecter of Vallejo.

Broken Collarbone In Cycle Mishap

An 18-year-old San Diego youth was treated for a broken collarbone yesterday at Marin General Hospital after his southbound motorcycle ran off the road and overturned on Shoreline Highway, four miles north of Point Reyes station.

The California Highway Patrol said Timothy G. DeLapp was hurt about 9 a.m.

Appeal Lost On Draft; Prison Time

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 23-year-old Fairfax man has lost his final appeal and has been sent to federal prison for two years for draft evasion.

Robert E. Lopez, who refused induction in the Army last year claiming moral objections to the Vietnam War, Friday was denied a motion in U.S. District Court that the sentence be reduced.

Lopez, married and the fater of one child, had also unsuccessfully appealed his conviction and sentence by Judge Samuel Conti to a higher court.

Another Fairfax man, Richard Carl Smith, 24, sentenced at the same time by Judge Conti for the same offense, has also lost his appeal, according to the attorney general's office.

Smith's conviction was upheld June 7 by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and he is expected to be remanded into custody soon to start serving a two-year sentence, also, the attorney general's office said yesterday.

Judge Conti, who embarked on a new get-tough policy with such cases after taking the bench earlier this year, termed the cases "very serious crimes."

READY AND WAITING —

The operator of the carousel, his wooden steeds frozen in an attitude of expectation, awaits the arrival of youngsters whose magic presence is all that's needed to set everything in motion. The carousel and other midway attractions were all ready today for tonight's opening of Novato's Western Weekend Country Fair. (See story, page 1.)

County Employees Union Wins Support

The Marin County Employees Association, faced with a new union, yesterday announced it had captured a prize in the 175-member Marin Municipal Water District employees association.

The county employees association is faced with an election next Tuesday in which almost 700 members will go to the polls to pick either the association or the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) as their bargaining agent.

AFSCME is a new union which organized Mill Valley city employees last March and has been trying to woo away county employees from the county association.

Francis J. O'Connell, general manager of the county employees association, said yesterday that the members of the water district association had voted overwhelmingly in favor of affiliating with the county association.

Barbara Edwards, secretary for the water district association, said that the next step for her group will be to write a letter to the water district board and ask formal recognition of the new bargaining agent.

She said that the water district employees had also heard a pitch from AFSCME but had voted by a huge majority of those present at a June 1 meeting to go with the county association instead.

O'Connell added that the water district group will be a separate unit of the county employees association.

Policeman Hides The Bare Facts With Raincoat

NEW YORK (UPI) — A member of the cast of the Broadway hit "Oh, Calcutta," was arrested in front of City Hall Wednesday for practically nothing at all.

Unfortunately for Miss Raina Barrett, the nothing at all was what she was wearing underneath a flowing gown while she and nine other members of the cast were picketing in protest of a scheduled 3 per cent theater tax.

A New York policeman, showing great presence of mind, threw his raincoat over the 29-year-old woman. His chivalry ended there, however and he arrested her on charges of public lewdness.

2 Plead Guilty To Burglary

James William Ferguson, 26, of San Rafael and Dale Ed Panttaja, 18, of Mill Valley, have pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary.

Ferguson is to be sentenced July 6, and Panttaja July 26.

They were arrested April 7 coming out of the residence of Roy H. Wardin of 70 Forest Avenue.

Festival Drive Set At $12,000

Offering an expanded program of entertainment this season, the Marin Shakespeare Festival has started a campaign to raise $12,000 in its membership drive, according to Robert E. Knox, membership chairman.

The festival will present Shakespeare's comedies, "Much Ado About Nothing" and "As You Like It". It will also present "Once Upon a Mattress," a medieval musical and "Wind in the Willows," a play for children about Mr. Toad of Toad Hall.

James Mairs, a member of the festival cast and graduate student of the University of California at Los Angeles, has written music for "Wind in the Willows." He also plays the lead in "Once Upon A Mattress."

The San Francisco Lamplighters' production of "The Sorcerer" and a production by the ACT Conservatory Program, will be sponsored by the festival.

The general season membership includes six reserved seats to the performances on Wednesdays, Thursdays or Sundays in the Forest Meadows Theater. Special season membership gives six reserved seat tickets to all performances including Friday and Saturday night productions.

Those buying season tickets may attend special preview performances, rehearsal picnic for each show and the annual "Feast to Good Will" for July 17 opening night, according to Knox.

Police arrested them at their homes for selling or furnishing narcotics to their fellow students. All were charged with felonies.

Novato Council In Debate On Incentive Pay For Policemen

The idea of granting Novato police officers extra pay if they live in the city cropped up last night at a budget session of the Novato City Council.

Police Chief Allen V. Klemme reported that "60 to 65 per cent" of the officers live outside the city, and "a lot live in Petaluma."

Councilman George C. Quesada said having the officers live in Novato would provide greater protection, and recalled stories in San Francisco newspapers about off-duty police officers capturing criminals.

He proposed the council study the possibility of incentive pay for those who live in the city, possibly a 5 to 10 per cent bonus.

Officers are living out of town because they can't afford to buy homes in Novato, said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown who doubted that a 5 per cent pay raise would prompt them to move into Novato.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack said police officers are now paid salaries that qualify them for home purchases in Novato, homes in the $28,000 to $32,000 range.

The council tentatively approved the police department's $489,435 budget, with few changes.

They rejected Chief Klemme's bid for two new patrolman, but authorized boosting one sergeant post to that of lieutenant.

Brown said if funds had been available he would have recommended one additional patrolman, conceding the need for more officers.

Klemm reported he is considering reestablishing a police reserve force which could assist officers and said four residents have already expressed an interest in joining.

While the council reviewed the parks and recreation budgets, Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo suggested that the city give priority at Pioneer Memorial Park to improving the cemetery, which is frequently vandalized.

Quesada said there is public sentiment to have the cemetery improved and "it is a moral obligation to protect it and reduce vandalism. Either that or take the name memorial off it."

The capital improvements budget for the park calls for completion of electrical work, development of a tot play area and and apparatus area, at a cost of $40,000.

Councilmen deferred further discussion until a joint meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the community house with the parks and recreation commission on the budget.

Parks and recreation budgets tentatively approved were recreation, $134,280; swim pool, $13,180; and community house, $13,500.

The council also gave tentative approval to the $103,285 planning budget, with only brief discussion. As previously approved, the budget provides for an addition of a junior planner in the department.

Womack challenged the city manager's recommendation to increase the city attorney's retainer from $7,200 a year to $8,400, but action was deferred pending study of city attorney fees elsewhere in Marin.

The council adjourned until 8 a.m. Saturday at City Hall, with plans to attend the Western Weekend Buckaroo Breakfast and then tour the areas listed in the capital improvements budget.

Three-Woman Art Show Opening Set

Personal Appeal By Governor On Welfare

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan appealed to Californians today to intensify their demands for "meaningful" welfare reform and warned without it "the door to massive tax increases will be wide open."

The Republican governor, just back from a two-day political fundraising tour in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, issued a formal statement urging the public to keep the pressure on.

"You sent your legislators to Sacramento to enact your desires, not ignore them," Reagan said. "So if you want welfare reform you keep right on demanding it."

"If we get meaningful welfare reform the budget can be balanced and no tax increase will be necessary," Reagan promised.

"If the Democratic leadership of the legislature deprives the people of California of meaningful welfare reform, the door to massive tax increases will be wide open."

Some legislators of both parties have said that even if California's costly welfare system is "reformed," a tax increase still will be inevitable to support other functions of government, such as education.

Reagan, in the statement issued Wednesday by his press office, asserted that attempts by legislative budget-writers to "discredit or disprove" the administration's welfare cost and savings estimates "have failed utterly." He contended the administration's figures were "accurate."

Reagan's own welfare revision bills were killed by the Senate Health and Welfare Committee last week. The panel then endorsed a rival measure by Democratic chairman Anthony Beilenson which contained some elements of Reagen's package.

The governor spoke out shortly after Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson and Democratic chairman Willie Brown Jr. of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee verbally mixed it up over administration plans to win Nixon administration approval of a proposed experimental welfare "demonstration project" for California.

The exchange occurred during discussion of which provisions in the governor's program need federal waivers and which do not.

Carleson told Brown a proposed three-year "demonstration project" now is the subject of confidential "delicate" talks with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He said releasing details now would be "inappropriate and would work against the best interests of the people of California."

Brown retorted, "You assume I'm some kind of a security risk. That is offensive."

"You are the head of a department created by us that can be abolished by us," Brown said. "You are an employe of ours. We have an absolute right to know what the hell you are doing."

Carleson reversed himself later and said he would reluctantly discuss the project in public. But at the suggestion of Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, he agreed to unveil details in a letter to the committee later.

The governor's statement said "several legislators" had complained about citizen mail demanding welfare reform. His office refused to identify which lawmakers the governor had in mind.

Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael and Democratic Assemblyman Ken MacDonald of Ojai charged Tuesday that somebody in the administration had "stirred up" the public into believing welfare savings would be greater than they actually might be.

Robinson Heads California Bar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—David K. Robinson, a Pasadena lawyer, Wednesday was named president-elect of the State Bar of California for the 1971-72 term.

The announcement was made by President Forrest A. Plant who said Robinson was chosen by the bar's 15-member board of governors. ,

Robinson will assume office during the state bar's annual meeting in San Diego Sept. 13-17.

Probe Shifts Emphasis From Weatherman Links

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—After 15 months of closed hearings a federal grand jury here Wednesday opened the courtroom and revealed an emphasis shift has taken place from a probe into explosives buying by the radical Weatherman organization to an investigation of Tucson antiwar activities and militant protesters.

The shift was revealed after U.S. District Court Judge James A. Walsh granted Ernest Harvey Olsen Jr., 20, a former University of Arizona student, immunity from prosecution and ordered him to testify when the jury reconvenes July 6.

Olsen, who claimed constitutional privileges, refused to answer some 25 questions involving four "riots" on the UA campus during 1970-71 or any questions regarding 15 persons or incidents at federal buildings.

The current local stress is a change from the jury's probe of alleged explosives purchases by the Weatherman, a splinter of the Students for a Democratic Society, here for transport to California.

The prosecution, led by bjustice Department staff attorney Mrs. Susan Shea Lindley and Asst. U.S. Atty. for Arizona, Mrs. Ann Bowen, has dropped its interest, at least temporarily, in five witnesses from California. Those witnesses, among them former Novatan Karen Duncan, spent varying periods in jail here for refusing to testify.

There have been two indictments against four persons.

The prosecutors' questions before the jury touched on "all bombings in the U.S. in 1970-71" but centered on purchase or possession of various types of explosives and firearms, Tucson bombings and riots.

New Legal Bids In Angela Case

By MARY LEYDECKER

Attorneys in the Davis-Magee case have taken to their law books in an effort to get the case moving again or to free Angela Davis on bail, depending on their point of view.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr. said yesterday that he is still doing legal research in order to decide whether to go through federal or state courts to get the case back on calendar.

Harris was told by Judge Richard E. Arnason on Tuesday that he must either get a federal court order remanding the case back to Marin Superior Court or obtain a higher state court order that proceedings resume.

The stalemate has been caused by San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee's petitions to federal courts, asking that the case be transferred there.

The issue is further clouded by the refusal of the federal district court in San Francisco to acknowledge the petitions.

Judge Arnason, proceeding carefully, however, said "We must build a house on a firm foundation" in the case.

Yesterday, Howard Moore Jr., chief attorney for Miss Davis, said he would ask for a writ of mandamus forcing Arnason to grant bail for his client. (She has been held in Marin County jail since December.)

Moore said he would take his time preparing the writ because he wanted it to be a "profound and substantial document."

Judge Arnason refused to grant bail for Miss Davis on Tuesday, saying he thought she was not legally eligible.

She and Magee are charged with three capital offenses, murder, kidnapping and conspiracy, in connection with the August shoot-out at the Civic Center.

Miss Davis's supporters have reacted angrily to the judge's decision and said they plan a rally in Sacramento at a date not yet decided.

Meanwhile, the attorney representing Marin supervisors, who learned yesterday the state does not intend to pay for the costs of the Davis-Magee case, was in Sacramento trying to do something about it.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was meeting with Marin lawmakers today in an effort to work out legislation whereby the state would pick up the estimated $1.5 million cost of the case.

The attorney general's office ruled yesterday that the state was not liable for the costs.

Sonoma Budget Study Will Begin Tomorrow

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will begin study tomorrow on the proposed 1971-72 county budget of $61.7 million, an increase of $10.4 million or 20 per cent over this year's $51.2 million budget.

As County Administrator David L. Nichols predicted earlier, additional costs in administering welfare, medical and related programs accounted for 70 per cent or nearly $7 million of the increase.

Auditor William Fulwinder estimated that an additional $1.75 million will have to be collected in county taxes to make up for the deficiency in state funding for the mandated welfare programs. He said he could not estimate what the effect will be on the tax rate, but observers said it could be between 60 and 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In other sections of the proposed budget, general government and the capital improvement program showed a $2 million increase. Law enforcement was increased by $1 million.

Nichols said that in his preliminary budget cuts, requests by department heads for 160 new positions was slashed to 34. Last year's budget provided for 120 new employees.

The budget also provides for the 5 per cent cost-of-living increase previously granted to the 2,000 county employees and will add $1.2 million to the budget.

Nichols said welfare programs accounted for nearly one-third of the total budget and that public assistance programs as a whole constitute 50 per cent. He said the great increase, largely in the Medi-Cal program, was the result of the state shifting many of the costs back to the county. He said he hoped the Legislature would correct that situation this year.

Nichols said he and his staff had already trimmed $3.2 million from the proposed budget and expected the board of supervisors to make further reductions before final budget approval in August.

Death Leap Of San Franciscan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The body of David E. Brigham, 31, San Francisco, was found Wednesday at the bottom of the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Coroner's deputies said Brigham apparently leaped to his death the day before. His body was spotted about noon by a bridge pedestrian.

Deputies said no notes were found.

Sen. Kennedy Asks U.N. Seat For China

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has introduced a resolution which would recommend the seating of mainland China as the "sole and legitimate representative of China in the United Nations."

Kennedy said Wednesday a comtinued "two-China policy" by the United States "would be as futile as it would be illogical, since neither claimant to the seat of China would accept the solution."

Quake-Related Bill Passed On Road Contracts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing the state and construction firms to break contracts for work on highways and bridges damaged by the Feb. 9 Los Angeles earthquake has been passed by the Assembly.

The measure by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, was sent back to the Senate Wednesday on a 70-1 vote for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

It allows the contracts to be voided so the state can revise its designs and specifications and the companies will not be forced to complete projects unable to withstand earthquakes.

$25 Million In Smog Damage To State's Crops

SACRAMENTO b)UPI) — California farmers suffered $25.69 million in crop losses last year due to smog.

The state Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday the losses were confined to 15 of the state's 58 counties. Hardest hit county was Ventura with $10.7 million in damage.

Citrus losses in the Los Angeles Basin accounted for $19.5 million of the total.

The report did not tally losses of native vegetation, forests and landscape plantings because no adequate method of computing such losses has been found.

Youth Impales Self With Own Bayonet

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—A San Jose youth died Wednesday when he fell over a 20-foot cliff and impaled himself on a large bayonet he was carrying.

Kevin Wayne Bosworth, 15, was on a camping trip in Castle Rock campground when he was apparently startled by a rattlesnake and tripped over the cliff.

Planning Budget Receives Approval Of Supervisors

The Marin County Planning Department received slightly more than $510,000 for fiscal 1971-72 after budget review yesterday by the county board of supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

This year's budget, including the balanced transportation study and Marin City 701 study still in progress, was $473,000.

The bulk of the increase approved by the board was in $50,000 approved for work on the county's general plan, up from $21,500 this year.

The 1971-72 request by planning director Werner Von Gundell and the amount recommended by county administrator Alan Bruce were less than $4,000 apart, differing mainly in the number of staffing positions.

Most of the supervisors' two-hour session with Von Gundell and his aides was spent more on personnel discussion than on budgeting.

Von Gundell protested that Bruce's office had recommended a raise for Harvey Bragdon, chief of current planning, but not for Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning. The board withheld Bragdon's raise pending further study, after Von Gundell reminded it that "by previous agreement" the two section chiefs were to remain equal.

The board approved adding a new position of zoning assistant, deleted one planner position effective Jan. 1 and made a number of other personnel changes having almost no dollar effect.

The supervisors agreed to keeping work in-house for area plans such as Nicasio and Tomales Bay, as recommended by Von Gundell and audience spokesmen. Bruce had proposed earmarking the funds for having the plans prepared by outside contract consultants.

State Official In Drunk Probe

A 53-year-old California Public Utilities Commissioner was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of drunken driving after a California Highway patrolman decided he was driving erratically on Highway 101.

Thomas Patrick Moran, of 400 Canal Street, Apt. 219, San Rafael, was arrested about 1:30 a.m. on the Francisco Boulevard offramp near San Rafael. The officer said he saw the northbound Moran auto, a state car, weaving across the highway and made the stop.

Moran was released from jail on his promise to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court..

An attorney, Moran was appointed to the Public Utilities Commission in January of 1969.

San Anselmo Sets Hearings On Budget

The City of San Anselmo has announced its schedule of budget hearings. The police department and library budgets will be heard tonight at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

Other hearings include: public works on June 23, recreation on June 24, parks on June 28 and the final session on June 29.

FAMILY THRIVES

Growing Up With Father

By PAT BALMES

When Bill Schindler and his wife divorced seven years ago, they decided that their three sons and a daughter would benefit more by living with him. Now rearing his children alone, the scientific writer provides "parental continuity" by working at home in Tiburon.

There were other impler alternatives, but none with long-term rewards that come from being with his children fulltime. It would have been easier for him to place them in a boarding school and work in the city.

"Children constitute a responsibility you meet directly, whether you like it or not. You don't meet your responsibilities by turning your kids over to somebody in a school. That's a cop out.

"WE'VE BEEN through a lot together, in ways that are not obvious. They have seen the importance of a unified family, so they very much support each other emotionally, the most important support that one human being can give another. Their attitude is affectionate and independent. When you have a strong group you don't break it up," says their father.

Tom, 15, and Libby, 16 attend Redwood High School. Dave, 18, studies at College of Marin, and Bill Jr., 21, works for Telex Computer Products Corporation training employees. Bill Sr. doesn't worry about their getting into trouble; they are too busy with school, jobs and many sports.

His children were aware ealy that their family was going to be interdependent: a working team. It had to be, he says, and the result has been self-sufficient children.

"The ground rules are understood. I have to have time to work. I am no martyr and nobody's cleaning lady," says Bill Sr. adding with good humor, "Don't run me for mother of the year."

"If there is an advantage to being a father rearing children, it is that as a male my voice carries more authority. I say, 'Clean that bathroom!' and the tone may suggest my order will be backed by physical force if necessary. A woman may think this harsh, but it is very effective. If you start early enough, you never have to hit the child," says Bill Sr. He thinks, for this reason, it may be easier for a man than for a woman to rear boys alone.

Rearing a daughter alone is not a problem if those delicate areas that are critically important to a young girl are handled with honesty and sensitivity.

SEX IS discussed whenever his children want to discuss it. He tells them that, although sex is important for a male-female relationship, it should be considered as totally natural "but hardly the ultimate mystery of life."

A genuinely happy family is one in which the father is involved with his kids, not in a phony way like giving his boy $100 to have fun at the prom, says Bill; that weakens the boy.

A swimmer on his high school and college teams, Bill Sr. worked with his children until they could make the swim team at the Tiburon Peninsula Club and was team chairman until they were inspired to get to workouts on their own.

Bill thinks that women are better suited to rearing children. But a man who cares and is sensitive to problems might be able to do a better job by virtue of being male and making his authority "stick," not because of any mythical inherent superiority over the woman.

However many woman are stronger than men, he says, mentioning his mother who was "no pansy and could make it stick" rearing her two sons alone after his father died.

BILL ATTENDED Moore School of Electrical Engineering and Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at University of Pennsylvania and did marketing graduate work at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. During World War II he studied at the Navy's advanced electronics training center and taught at a Corpus Christi, Tex. radar school.

He retained an interest in science although he has been in advertising most of his working life because, "pure science does not provide many opportunities to pay household bills and sustain outside interests."

While Bill was creative director of an Eastern advertising agency in Cleveland, Ohio, billings increased seven times. He was vice president and assistant to the president, but decided to move to San Francisco with his children in 1967.

Here he worked briefly in the city "until I got fired for protesting an advertising campaign I thought unethical. I seek to maintain in the market place values I hold before my kids," he says.

Parents who lack integrity lose the respect of their children and should never be surprised if their children rebel. A younger generation is always idealistic. Our generation has compromised too much on meaningful ideas, he says.

BILL SR. does promotional writing and is completing a book on physics which he believes will be recognized as presenting a valid new theory.

Feeling privileged to have provided an environment where his children can develop their talents too, Bill says he has grown to know them "probably better than I know anybody else."

"I like them much more than I like many people. The boys are gentlemen, strong but not aggressive. And I like their friends. There never would be a generation gap if parents would realize the value of being friends with their children, while not seeking to be teenagers too, but still being the authority.

"After all, how many real friends does anyone have? Doesn't it make sense to start with those in one's own home? asks the father.

The Cookie-Cutter Fashion Era Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Follow-the-leader fashion days are over and hopefully forever, three fashion authorities proclaimed Monday in New York.

The cookie-cutter era died a natural death for a natural reason—the customer's refusal to accept fashion dictatorship, said Rudi Gernreich, Clodagh O'Kennedy and Rita Perna.

"The greatest influence is that there's no one influence," Gernreich said at the Designer Speak-In sponsored by Montgomery Ward for members of the fashion press.

THERE'S NO one leader anymore, said Miss O'Kennedy, from Dublin. And Miss Perna, fashion coordinator of Wards, said the customer who refused to be dictated to broke all the olf forms on the fashion front.

The speak-in was held in conjunction with the 57th National Press Week sponsored by the New York Couture Business Council.

In the fashion season coming up, for fall and winter you'll have three basic ways to put yourself together as you head for the smorgasbord designers intend to serve. The three: classical, contemporary or kicky.

As you put yourself together fashionwise you'll follow a lot of things and the major influence will be you. "Know yourself and be yourself" is the way it all works out.

Classic is purist, loyal to traditional good taste but seeking such fashion in an updated version.

"All the spoofing is over," said Gernreich, the West Coast designer. "It was a sign of insecurity."

HUBBARD, Tex. (UPI) — Woman mayors are not that common in small Texas farm communities, much less a mayor in hot pants who commutes to Europe and Mexico.

But Mrs. Berta Leon, 39, says she doesn't plan to give up her short skirts, hot pants or travel for the new position.

"I'm not known for standing back on anything," she said.

The folks in Hubbard believe her. Usually just 60 or so of the 1,800 residents turn out for city elections. But this spring, 289

Inexpensive Cleaners Can Be Made Easily

Expensive cleaning agents for use in the home are not necessary, says Jean Dickey, a San Rafael home economist.

Consumers are bombarded with all sorts of advertising for expensive cleaners, but if the consumer will take a little time, it will only cost a few cents to make excellent cleaners, she said.

She suggested using one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup ammonia and a gallon of warm water for washing windows. The cost—four cents. The commercial product costs 59 to 69 cents, she said.

To remove wax from the floor, one-half cup of all-purpose detergent, one cup ammonia and one gallon of hot water will do the job.

TO CLEAN walls, if hot soapy water doesn't accomplish the job, she suggested a weak solution of tri-sodium phosphate. It should be purchased in a grocery store, as it is more expensive in a paint store, she advised.

To freshen the garbage disposal, cut a lemon in half, add a little cold water or ice cubes and grind in the disposal, said the home economist.

Mrs. Dickey suggested using two tablespoons of baking soda in one quart of water to sweeten and deodorize the refrigerator. Soap or bleach cause odors, she said.

THE OVEN should be cleaned immediately after use. Otherwise a dish with one-half cup ammonia should be placed in the oven while it is still warm for a few hours or overnight. Then any stubborn stains may be removed with steel wool. If the stains in the oven are allowed to burn, a commercial oven cleaner then is a must, she said.

One cup of rubbing alcohol and one tablespoon of ammonia will remove almost any stain from natural fiber rugs, she said.

FOR CLEANING aluminum pans, she suggested boiling a solution of 2 teaspoons of cream of tartar and one quart of water in the pans to remove any stains. She also suggested cooking acid foods such as tomatoes, apples or rhubarb in them to remove interior stains.

As a final suggestion, Mrs. Dickey said any build-up of starch or other stains on an electric iron may be removed by rubbing the bottom of it over two tablespoons of salt on wax paper.

Sequoia Branch Selects Mrs. Sipes As President

Mrs. Sherrill F. Sipes of Mill Valley is the new president of the Sequoia Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers this year.

Installed this month, Judith Sipes says the branch will continue its work of fund-raising for the hospital and providing the coffee service cart for patients at the hospital through the next year. To raise funds, the branch plans a theater party at a Ross Valley Players production in the fall.

A one-year member of the branch, Mrs. Sipes is also active in the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin and the San Francisco Museum of Art. She also enjoys painting, yoga and reading to the children at the Alto School library.

Born in Detroit, she attended the University of Kentucky. She and her husband, vice president of the American Building Maintenance Company have been Marin residents for four years, with their children, Scot Paul, 6, and Stacy Anita, 5.

The other Squoia Branch officers are Mmes. Neil Munro, vice president; Michael Cousins, treasurer; Gordon Y. Kaneko, corresponding secretary, and Dave Francis, recording secretary.

Coty Award To Makers Of Levis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Levis, the one undisputed American contribution to the world of fashion, has been put on what amounts to a pedestal in American fashion.

Levi-Strauss of San Francisco, makers of Levis for men and women, was voted a special award by the Coty American Fashion Critics' jury.

The award to the blue jean king was for "fundamental American fashion that has endured for 120 years and now influences the world."

Other special awards announced by the jury that in fashion is something like the Hollywood Oscar were voted for John Kloss of Cira "for his outstanding and influential creativity in loungewear and sleepwear"; to Elsa Peretti, fashion model turned jewelry designer "for extending jewelry into the realm of fashion sculpture'" and to Nancy Knox, designer of men's shoes.

Grace Mirabella, editor of Vogue and chairman of the nomineting committee, also said a special citation for current excellent was voted to Bill Blass, already in the Coty Hall of Fame.

The Layered Look

Bonnie Cashin continues the layered look in her fall and winter collection. "You who have followed these ideas for a long time know the concept, borrowed from ancient China," she said. "The concept goes like this—'It's a two shirt day, or a seven shirt day and so on.' Layers give insulation. Modern pieces work well together and simplify trans-seasonal dression via addition or subtraction."

Printed Hose

Printed pantyhose in an array of plaids, herringbone chevrons, chains and Pucci-like patterns are the latest from a national hosiery manufacturer. First buyer reaction has been good, reports Women's Wear Daily.

William Danz And Barbara Terry Engaged

Barbara is the sister of Denise and Ronald Terry of Terra Linda, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Mae J. Tracey of San Rafael.

She was graduated from Redwood High School, attended College of Marin and is employed by N. Gray and Company Funeral Directors in San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G.T. Danz of Corte Madera and the brother of Theodore Danz, Philip Danz Mrs. Ronald Melnikoff and Walter Danz.

He is a graduate of Redwood High School, attended the College of Marin and is a student at San Francisco State College. He is employed with G. Danz and Sons in San Francisco.

China Trade Move May Help Silk Make Comeback

Silk fabrics may make a comeback now that President Nixon has greed the two-way trade in textiles with mainland China, American silk firms report in Women's Wear Daily.

Walter Strassburger, president of the International Silk Association, said that as availability of silk increases, so will consumer demand.

He said that Chinese silk is cheaper than Japanese and that China grows several varities of white cultivated silk and a wild variety called tussah. Tussah, according to association, has a brown color and comes from silk worms that eat oak leaves rather than mulberry.

Silk dealer Frank Kunze said that Chinese silk has actually been coming into the United States for several years from Europe, both in fiber and piece goods, and that most silk labeled Italian is actually Chinese.

In recent years, Women's Wear Daily reports, man-made fibers have replaced the former large reliance on silk for clothing and home furnishings.

The silk dealers added that dealing with China may be difficult and complicated, the apparel trade paper said.

Portable gas grills for use on patio, apartment terraces and picnic sites are becoming more popular.

Personal Appeal By Governor On Welfare

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan appealed to Californians today to intensify their demands for "meaningful" welfare reform and warned without it "the door to massive tax increases will be wide open."

The Republican governor, just back from a two-day political fundraising tour in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, issued a formal statement urging the public to keep the pressure on.

"You sent your legislators to Sacramento to enact your desires, not ignore them," Reagan said. "So if you want welfare reform you keep right on demanding it."

"If we get meaningful welfare reform the budget can be balanced and no tax increase will be necessary," Reagan promised.

"If the Democratic leadership of the legislature deprives the people of California of meaningful welfare reform, the door to massive tax increases will be wide open."

Some legislators of both parties have said that even if California's costly welfare system is "reformed," a tax increase still will be inevitable to support other functions of government, such as education.

Reagan, in the statement issued Wednesday by his press office, asserted that attempts by legislative budget-writers to "discredit or disprove" the administration's welfare cost and savings estimates "have failed utterly." He contended the administration's figures were "accurate."

Reagan's own welfare revision bills were killed by the Senate Health and Welfare Committee last week. The panel then endorsed a rival measure by Democratic chairman Anthony Beilenson which contained some elements of Reagen's package.

The governor spoke out shortly after Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson and Democratic chairman Willie Brown Jr. of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee verbally mixed it up over administration plans to win Nixon administration approval of a proposed experimental welfare "demonstration project" for California.

The exchange occurred during discussion of which provisions in the governor's program need federal waivers and which do not.

Carleson told Brown a proposed three-year "demonstration project" now is the subject of confidential "delicate" talks with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He said releasing details now would be "inappropriate and would work against the best interests of the people of California."

Brown retorted, "You assume I'm some kind of a security risk. That is offensive."

"You are the head of a department created by us that can be abolished by us," Brown said. "You are an employe of ours. We have an absolute right to know what the hell you are doing."

Carleson reversed himself later and said he would reluctantly discuss the project in public. But at the suggestion of Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, he agreed to unveil details in a letter to the committee later.

The governor's statement said "several legislators" had complained about citizen mail demanding welfare reform. His office refused to identify which lawmakers the governor had in mind.

Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael and Democratic Assemblyman Ken MacDonald of Ojai charged Tuesday that somebody in the administration had "stirred up" the public into believing welfare savings would be greater than they actually might be.

Robinson Heads California Bar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— David K. Robinson, a Pasadena lawyer, Wednesday was named president-elect of the State Bar of California for the 1971-72 term.

The announcement was made by President Forrest A. Plant who said Robinson was chosen by the bar's 15-member board of governors.,

Robinson will assume office during the state bar's annual meeting in San Diego Sept. 13-17.

Probe Shifts Emphasis From Weatherman Links

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—After 15 months of closed hearings a federal grand jury here Wednesday opened the courtroom and revealed an emphasis shift has taken place from a probe into explosives buying by the radical Weatherman organization to an investigation of Tucson antiwar activities and militant protesters.

The shift was revealed after U.S. District Court Judge James A. Walsh granted Ernest Harvey Olsen Jr., 20, a former University of Arizona student, immunity from prosecution and ordered him to testify when the jury reconvenes July 6.

Olsen, who claimed constitutional privileges, refused to answer some 25 questions involving four "riots" on the UA campus during 1970-71 or any questions regarding 15 persons or incidents at federal buildings.

The current local stress is a change from the jury's probe of alleged explosives purchases by the Weatherman, a splinter of the Students for a Democratic Society, here for transport to California.

The prosecution, led by bjustice Department staff attorney Mrs. Susan Shea Lindley and Asst. U.S. Atty. for Arizona, Mrs. Ann Bowen, has dropped its interest, at least temporarily, in five witnesses from California. Those witnesses, among them former Novatan Karen Duncan, spent varying periods in jail here for refusing to testify.

There have been two indictments against four persons.

The prosecutors' questions before the jury touched on "all bombings in the U.S. in 1970-71" but centered on purchase or possession of various types of explosives and firearms, Tucson bombings and riots.

Tailored Diets In Store For Many

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eat-and-run meal habits of Americans can create behavior problems as well as nutritional deficiencies, says Dr. Nathan J. Smith, a professor of pediatrics atthe University of Washington.

At a seminar here on baby foods, Dr. Smith said the decline of traditional family meals shared by parents and children may well be responsible for currently disturbing behavior patterns when it deprives family members of a platform for airing problems and talking about their day's activities.

Dietary and weight problems often begin in infancy, he said. Mothers trying to meet their babies' increasing nutritional needs introduce adult-type, high-calorie foods at too early an age. Ironically, the problem arises at a time when babies grow faster and are freer from disease then their counterparts were a generation or more ago.

DR. SMITH also said "automated automobilized living" has led to nutritional deficiencies of suburban housewives and to under-nutrition of lonely, isolated senior citizens.

He said devastating health problems associated with obesity have led many persons to adopt low-calorie diets. But in lowering their food and caloric intake, many persons substitute nutrition-free alcoholic beverages or soft drinks for the high-nutrition foods and beverages they need on a low-calorie diet.

A FORECAST made by another pediatrician at the seminar could help establish better eating habits. Dr. William D. Weil, Jr., predicted programmed feeding, or diets tailored to each individual' specific needs from infancy onward.

He said such diets would be based on a baby's needs at each stage of his development, and also on his genetic history and the geographic location of his home.

Weil, who is Chairman of the Department of Human Development, College of Human Medicine, Michigan State University, said this sort of meal planning could lead to control of salt intake for infants and children with a strong family history of high blood pressure or hypertension. It could lead to modified fat intake or other dietary changes for those with a strong family history of vascular diseases, including heart attacks and strokes.

He also said he expects greater future use of plant foods over animal foods, and the development of synthetic foods created almost from scratch and using fundamental items in our environment.

A THIRD pediatrician, Frederick J. Margolis, Kalamazoo, Mich., said maternal deprivation afflicts many children born in the U.S. He said half are unwanted or unexpected and that parental feelings about them often are expressed in emotional, physical and nutritional neglect.

Dr. Margolis, a consultant of the Gerber Products Co., which sponsored the seminar, said that lower middle class and Medicaid patients pay little attention to diet because they haven't enough money, understanding or education, and they frequently are unintelligent and have no real interest in nutrition.

"Feeding children is just one of too many daily crises that need to be dealt with by a tired, pressured mother, overwhelmed by a lack of any satisfaction in life and by a multiplicity of problems of which her child's diet is far down the list of priorities," he said.

Mrs. Hurt Elected Poplar Branch Head

A 17 year member, Mrs. Edwin Hurt of San Anselmo has been elected president of the Poplar Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

The branch is open to residents of Sleepy Hollow who are interested in raising funds for Marin General Hospital. Joyce Hurt says that the branch is planning a summer barbecue and monthly luncheons to raise funds for hospital equipment.

Mrs. Hurt is the wife of a retired sea captain, and they have lived in Marin for 26 years. They are parents of Gregory and Christopher Hurt.

She was born in Virginia and attended Fairmont State College in West Virginia. She lists her interests as gardening, decorating, golfing and reading.

The other branch officers for the year are Mmes. Max Eastman, vice president; Robert Ballachey, second vice president; Robert Bogenreif, treasurer; Jay Engels, corresponding secretary; Jack Everson, recording secretary; Hilton Swensen, publicity chairman; Vincen Van Riper, scholarship chairman; and William Long, Marin General Hospital Volunteers council member.

Try The Celery Boat For Next Special Party

Cut stalks of celery to form "prow" fronts. Fill with whipped cream cheese softened with a little sour cream or whipped cottage cheese. Fold in red caviar, and use either carrot or bread sticks for the mast. Celery leaves form the sails.

For a variation on an old theme, try a poor girl sandwich. Cut a loaf of French bread lengthwise and scoop out soft, inner bread. Fill with chili con carne, shredded lettuce, grated cheese, French fried onion rings, hot peppers, green pepper rings and chopped scallions.

Summer Tip On Safety For Young

Summer is play and fun time for children, and the Health Insurance Institute offers some safety rules for their parents.

When backing your car out of the driveway always check to make sure that no child is playing or hiding there. Also watch for any potentially dangerous conditions in the yard and play areas.

Always remember to take the doors off discarded refrigerators to prevent youngsters from locking themselves in — still an all-too-frequent tragedy.

Outside clothes lines should be strung high so that children cannot run into them.

Remove nails, splinters and rough edges from boxes or boards that children may play with indoors or out.

FOR '72 GOALS

Nixon Must Woo Fed On Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon is relying on a plentiful supply of money and credit to fuel the business expansion he needs to make good on his promise of a "very good year" for the economy in 1972.

But while Nixon probably is the single most powerful man in the world, he does not have the legal authority to achieve his goal by himself. He must look instead to the highly-independent Federal Reserve System.

There is growing evidence that the Fed —as it is often called —is about to tighten money policy to head off new inflation. The side effects could be higher interest rates and a slower rate of recovery from last year's recession.

For the first five months of this year, the Fed went along with Nixon's plea for more money and credit. The basic money supply, currency and checking accounts, increased at an annual rate of 10.6 per cent through May.

This rate of growth was in excess of both the 5.4 per cent recorded last year and the 5 to 6 per cent the Fed thinks is desirable as a long-term policy.

The Fed is as little known to the average citizen as the Geneva gold exchange, yet it plays a crucial role in the economy. A governmental agency with private stockholders, it is controlled by political appointees who, once in office, traditionally shun politics.

It is headed by a seven-member board of governors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for 14-year terms. Members cherish their independence, sometimes taking positions that surprise and even distress the president who appointed them.

Nixon's only appointment so far went to Chairman Arthur F. Burns, a counselor to the president at the time of his appointment. Although a longtime associate of Nixon, Burns has had frequent disagreements with the White House policy.

One governor is named to the Federal Reserve Board every two years. Nixon's next appointment comes up in 1972 when the term of Sherman J. Maisel expires.

Next in the Fed hierarchy come the 12 Federal Reserve Banks in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas and San Francisco.

The banks are privately owned by the more than 6,000 commercial banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System. But the rights of their stockholders are severely limited.

The Commercial banks pick six of the nine members of the board of trustees of each of the 12 regional banks. The Board of Governors in Washington picks the other three, including the chairman and vice chairman. Technically, the board of trustees of each regional bank picks its own president. But the choices again must be approved in Washington.

In theory, each board of trustees also sets the discount rate —the interest rate the bank charges for loans to member banks in each district. In practice the rate is set nationwide by the board of Governors and the regional banks merely carry out the policy.

In summary, the Federal Reserve — not the president — fixes the nation's basic money and credit policy.

The Fed has three main tools for controlling money supply: the rediscount rate, reserve requirements and open market operations.

In recent years, open market operations have been the most important. When the Federal Reserve sells government securities from its own portfolio, it drains money out of the economy. When it buys securities, it pumps money into circulation.

As the central bank, the Fed can issue checks without first making a deposit. It is up to the board of governors to decide if the Fed will "overdraw" its own account. There is no law or other rule to prevent it from doing so.

The rediscount rate is the interest which the Fed charges for loans to member banks. The rate stood at 6 per cent from April 1969 to Nov. 10, 1970. It has been cut to 4¾ per cent ir five steps.

The United States grows more wheat than any other country.

COOL IN THE POOL

Chicago baked in 88-degree temperatures yesterday, but only these Labrador retrievers seemed to have enough sense to cool off in a shallow pool. Everyone else in the city may have been inside air-conditioned buildings, however. Other high temperatures recorded across the nation, much of it gripped by a heat wave, were: Phoenix, 109; Las Vegas, 108; Dallas, 98, Charleston, S.C., 92 and Birmingham, Ala. 90.

Novato Cyclist Killed In Crash

A 22-year-old Novato man was killed instantly yesterday when his motorcycle struck a panel truck on Shoreline Highway, six miles north of Stinson Beach.

The California Highway Patrol said Carlos M. Nieves, of 8 Doris Avenue, was fatally injured when his northbound cycle rounded a curve on the wrong side of the highway and collided with the southbound truck, driven by Paul Shippee, 33, of San Francisco.

Shippee received minor injuries in the crash, which occurred at 5:30 p.m. and said he would seek private medical aid.

Nieves's death brought to 13 the number killed to date this year on Marin highways, as compared to 16 during the same period last year.

San Francisco Crime Level Checks Decline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The city's crime rate apparently has leveled off this year compared to the sharp decreases reported following the appointment of Police Chief Al Nelder last year.

The police department's monthly index showed crime about .4 per cent lower for the first five months of 1971 than it was during the same period last year, despite increases in some categories, particularly robbery.

After Nelder's appointment in February, 1970, decreases were reported in every major category for the rest of the year. Nelder reported last January that major crimes in 1970 were down about 8 per cent from 1969.

The report released Wednesday showed robberies up 31 per cent from 1970, though homicides were down 18 per cent and rapes down 13 per cent.

Less Immunization Against 3 Diseases

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Medical Association said today the rate of immunization against polio, measles and diphtheria is declining in the United States.

The diseases have been considered under control for years, but the AMA indicated that fewer immunizations might lead to a rash of breakouts in the future.

Water For Stinson To Cost More

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Stinson Beach Water Co. has won permission from the state Public Utilities Commission to impose a gross rate increase of 33 per cent on its 450 customers.

The company, owned by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach, said at a public hearing held in Stinson Beach in March before a PUC examiner that the company lost $2,015 in 1970.

With the new rates, authorized by the PUC Tuesday, the company said it would have made a net profit of $7,740.

The PUC allowed an increase in meter revenue rates of 30 per cent and of 42 per cent in unmetered rates. Under the new schedule, the present rate of $4.25 per month for 500 cubic feet of water to metered customers will rise to $6.

The new rates will be effective next month.

The company last won a rate hike in 1966, when the 500-cubic-foot-rate went to its present $4.25 from $2.75.

An Inside Job

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—Authorities of Genoa's Marassi jail have taken four convicts to court for embezzling 4 million lire ($6,400) from the prison's administrative offices.

Preliminary Budget To Sanitation Panel

A preliminary $981,356 budget was presented last night to the San Rafael Sanitation District by the district administrator, Norris M. Rawles.

Although the proposed budget is up from this year's $928,641 budget, Rawles said the current tax rate of 31 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be maintained.

The preliminary budget was taken under advisement by the board and will be discussed at its next regular meeting, July 7.

A $64,200 contract was awarded — subject to an Army Corps of Engineers permit — to Healy-Tibbits Construction Co. of San Francisco for the Marin Bay-Peacock Gap sewer line extension.

Rawles said the construction company's estimate was $8,000 below the board's estimate.

A private engineer, Roy Hoffman, presented a feasibility study on proposed sewers for the Bayside Acres Assessment District. The study was taken under advisement to be discussed at the next meeting.

Western Marin Plan Due Eye

The Shoreline Unified School District board will consider the impact of the district of planning for West Marin at 8 p.m. today at the district office, Tomales.

Herbert H. Angress of Marshall is scheduled to talk about planning for the area.

The district has suffered a loss of tax revenue because the Point Reyes National Seashore is off the tax rolls and agricultural preserves are taxed at a reduced rate, making planning for the remaining area an economic concern.

Growing Up With Father

By PAT BALMES

When Bill Schindler and his wife divorced seven years ago, they decided that their three sons and a daughter would benefit more by living with him. Now rearing his children alone, the scientific writer provides "parental continuity" by working at home in Tiburon.

There were other impler alternatives, but none with long-term rewards that come from being with his children fulltime. It would have been easier for him to place them in a boarding school and work in the city.

"Children constitute a responsibility you meet directly, whether you like it or not. You don't meet your responsibilities by turning your kids over to somebody in a school. That's a cop out.

"WE'VE BEEN through a lot together, in ways that are not obvious. They have seen the importance of a unified family, so they very much support each other emotionally, the most important support that one human being can give another. Their attitude is affectionate and independent. When you have a strong group you don't break it up," says their father.

Tom, 15, and Libby, 16 attend Redwood High School. Dave, 18, studies at College of Marin, and Bill Jr., 21, works for Telex Computer Products Corporation training employees. Bill Sr. doesn't worry about their getting into trouble; they are too busy with school, jobs and many sports.

His children were aware ealy that their family was going to be interdependent: a working team. It had to be, he says, and the result has been self-sufficient children.

"The ground rules are understood. I have to have time to work. I am no martyr and nobody's cleaning lady," says Bill Sr. adding with good humor, "Don't run me for mother of the year."

"If there is an advantage to being a father rearing children, it is that as a male my voice carries more authority. I say, 'Clean that bathroom!' and the tone may suggest my order will be backed by physical force if necessary. A woman may think this harsh, but it is very effective. If you start early enough, you never have to hit the child," says Bill Sr. He thinks, for this reason, it may be easier for a man than for a woman to rear boys alone.

Rearing a daughter alone is not a problem if those delicate areas that are critically important to a young girl are handled with honesty and sensitivity.

SEX IS discussed whenever his children want to discuss it. He tells them that, although sex is important for a male-female relationship, it should be considered as totally natural "but hardly the ultimate mystery of life."

A genuinely happy family is one in which the father is involved with his kids, not in a phony way like giving his boy $100 to have fun at the prom, says Bill; that weakens the boy.

A swimmer on his high school and college teams, Bill Sr. worked with his children until they could make the swim team at the Tiburon Peninsula Club and was team chairman until they were inspired to get to workouts on their own.

Bill thinks that women are better suited to rearing children. But a man who cares and is sensitive to problems might be able to do a better job by virtue of being male and making his authority "stick," not because of any mythical inherent superiority over the woman.

However many woman are stronger than men, he says, mentioning his mother who was "no pansy and could make it stick" rearing her two sons alone after his father died.

BILL ATTENDED Moore School of Electrical Engineering and Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at University of Pennsylvania and did marketing graduate work at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. During World War II he studied at the Navy's advanced electronics training center and taught at a Corpus Christi, Tex. radar school.

He retained an interest in science although he has been in advertising most of his working life because, "pure science does not provide many opportunities to pay household bills and sustain outside interests."

While Bill was creative director of an Eastern advertising agency in Cleveland, Ohio, billings increased seven times. He was vice president and assistant to the president, but decided to move to San Francisco with his children in 1967.

Here he worked briefly in the city "until I got fired for protesting an advertising campaign I thought unethical. I seek to maintain in the market place values I hold before my kids," he says.

Parents who lack integrity lose the respect of their children and should never be surprised if their children rebel. A younger generation is always idealistic. Our generation has compromised too much on meaningful ideas, he says.

BILL SR. does promotional writing and is completing a book on physics which he believes will be recognized as presenting a valid new theory.

Feeling privileged to have provided an environment where his children can develop their talents too, Bill says he has grown to know them "probably better than I know anybody else."

"I like them much more than I like many people. The boys are gentlemen, strong but not aggressive. And I like their friends. There never would be a generation gap if parents would realize the value of being friends with their children, while not seeking to be teenagers too, but still being the authority.

"After all, how many real friends does anyone have? Doesn't it make sense to start with those in one's own home? asks the father.

The Cookie-Cutter Fashion Era Out

The cookie-cutter era died a natural death for a natural reason—the customer's refusal to accept fashion dictatorship, said Rudi Gernreich, Clodagh O'Kennedy and Rita Perna.

"The greatest influence is that there's no one influence," Gernreich said at the Designer Speak-In sponsored by Montgomery Ward for members of the fashion press.

THERE'S NO one leader anymore, said Miss O'Kennedy, from Dublin. And Miss Perna, fashion coordinator of Wards, said the customer who refused to be dictated to broke all the olf forms on the fashion front.

The speak-in was held in conjunction with the 57th National Press Week sponsored by the New York Couture Business Council.

In the fashion season coming up for fall and winter you'll have three basic ways to put yourself together as you head for the smorgasbord designers intend to serve. The three: classical, contemporary or kicky.

As you put yourself together fashionwise you'll follow a lot of things and the major influence will be you. "Know yourself and be yourself" is the way it all works out.

Classic is purist, loyal to traditional good taste but seeking such fashion in an updated version.

"All the spoofing is over," said Gernreich, the West Coast designer. "It was a sign of insecurity."

HUBBARD, Tex. (UPI) — Woman mayors are not that common in small Texas farm communities, much less a mayor in hot pants who commutes to Europe and Mexico.

But Mrs. Berta Leon, 39, says she doesn't plan to give up her short skirts, hot pants or travel for the new position.

"I'm not known for standing back on anything," she said.

The folks in Hubbard believe her. Usually just 60 or so of the 1,800 residents turn out for city elections. But this spring, 289

Inexpensive Cleaners Can Be Made Easily

Expensive cleaning agents for use in the home are not necessary, says Jean Dickey, a San Rafael home economist.

Consumers are bombarded with all sorts of advertising for expensive cleaners, but if the consumer will take a little time, it will only cost a few cents to make excellent cleaners, she said.

She suggested using one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup ammonia and a gallon of warm water for washing windows. The cost—four cents. The commercial product costs 59 to 69 cents, she said.

To remove wax from the floor, one-half cup of all-purpose detergent, one cup ammonia and one gallon of hot water will do the job.

TO CLEAN walls, if hot soapy water doesn't accomplish the job, she suggested a weak solution of tri-sodium phosphate. It should be purchased in a grocery store, as it is more expensive in a paint store, she advised.

To freshen the garbage disposal, cut a lemon in half, add a little cold water or ice cubes and grind in the disposal, said the home economist.

Mrs. Dickey suggested using two tablespoons of baking soda in one quart of water to sweeten and deodorize the refrigerator. Soap or bleach cause odors, she said.

THE OVEN should be cleaned immediately after use. Otherwise a dish with one-half cup ammonia should be placed in the oven while it is still warm for a few hours or overnight. Then any stubborn stains may be removed with steel wool. If the stains in the oven are allowed to burn, a commercial oven cleaner then is a must, she said.

One cup of rubbing alcohol and one tablespoon of ammonia will remove almost any stain from natural fiber rugs, she said.

FOR CLEANING aluminum pans, she suggested boiling a solution of 2 teaspoons of cream of tartar and one quart of water in the pans to remove any stains. She also suggested cooking acid foods such as tomatoes, apples or rhubarb in them to remove interior stains.

As a final suggestion, Mrs. Dickey said any build-up of starch or other stains on an electric iron may be removed by rubbing the bottom of it over two tablespoons of salt on wax paper.

Sequoia Branch Selects Mrs. Sipes As President

Mrs. Sherrill F. Sipes of Mill Valley is the new president of the Sequoia Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers this year.

Installed this month, Judith Sipes says the branch will continue its work of fund-raising for the hospital and providing the coffee service cart for patients at the hospital through the next year. To raise funds, the branch plans a theater party at a Ross Valley Players production in the fall.

A one-year member of the branch, Mrs. Sipes is also active in the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin and the San Francisco Museum of Art. She also enjoys painting, yoga and reading to the children at the Alto School library.

Born in Detroit, she attended the University of Kentucky. She and her husband, vice president of the American Building Maintenance Company have been Marin residents for four years, with their children, Scot Paul, 6, and Stacy Anita, 5.

The other Squoia Branch officers are Mmes. Neil Munro, vice president; Michael Cousins, treasurer; Gordon Y. Kaneko, corresponding secretary, and Dave Francis, recording secretary.

Coty Award To Makers Of Levis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Levis, the one undisputed American contribution to the world of fashion, has been put on what amounts to a pedestal in American fashion.

Levi-Strauss of San Francisco, makers of Levis for men and women, was voted a special award by the Coty American Fashion Critics' jury.

The award to the blue jean king was for "fundamental American fashion that has endured for 120 years and now influences the world."

Other special awards announced by the jury that in fashion is something like the Hollywood Oscar were voted for John Kloss of Cira "for his outstanding and influential creativity in loungewear and sleepwear"; to Elsa Peretti, fashion model turned jewelry designer "for extending jewelry into the realm of fashion sculpture'" and to Nancy Knox, designer of men's shoes.

Grace Mirabella, editor of Vogue and chairman of the nomineting committee, also said a special citation for current excellent was voted to Bill Blass, already in the Coty Hall of Fame.

Printed Hose

Printed pantyhose in an array of plaids, herringbone chevrons, chains and Pucci-like patterns are the latest from a national hosiery manufacturer. First buyer reaction has been good, reports Women's Wear Daily.

The Layered Look

Bonnie Cashin continues the layered look in her fall and winter collection. "You who have followed these ideas for a long time know the concept, borrowed from ancient China," she said. "The concept goes like this—'It's a two shirt day, or a seven shirt day and so on.' Layers give insulation. Modern pieces work well together and simplify trans-seasonal dression via addition or subtraction."

William Danz And Barbara Terry Engaged

Barbara is the sister of Denise and Ronald Terry of Terra Linda, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Mae J. Tracey of San Rafael.

She was graduated from Redwood High School, attended College of Marin and is employed by N. Gray and Company Funeral Directors in San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G.T. Danz of Corte Madera and the brother of Theodore Danz, Philip Danz Mrs. Ronald Melnikoff and Walter Danz.

He is a graduate of Redwood High School, attended the College of Marin and is a student at San Francisco State College. He is employed with G. Danz and Sons in San Francisco.

China Trade Move May Help Silk Make Comeback

Silk fabrics may make a comeback now that President Nixon has greed the two-way trade in textiles with mainland China, American silk firms report in Women's Wear Daily.

Walter Strassburger, president of the International Silk Association, said that as availability of silk increases, so will consumer demand.

He said that Chinese silk is cheaper than Japanese and that China grows several varities of white cultivated silk and a wild variety called tussah. Tussah, according to association, has a brown color and comes from silk worms that eat oak leaves rather than mulberry.

Silk dealer Frank Kunze said that Chinese silk has actually been coming into the United States for several years from Europe, both in fiber and piece goods, and that most silk labeled Italian is actually Chinese.

In recent years, Women's Wear Daily reports, man-made fibers have replaced the former large reliance on silk for clothing and home furnishings.

The silk dealers added that dealing with China may be difficult and complicated, the apparel trade paper said.

Portable gas grills for use on patio, apartment terraces and picnic sites are becoming more popular.

Quesada Nearly Walks Out On Fellow Councilmen Over Land

Novato City Councilman George C. Quesada angry over refusal of two fellow council members to reconsider a vote, nearly walked out on them.

The flareup came after the council voted 2-0 Monday night to purchase seven small parcels of surplus state land along the planned highway 101 by-pass for $2,720.

David Price Jones, who said he was reluctant to buy the land, abstained and so did Quesada. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo was absent.

When it was explained that the two votes carried the matter, Jones, a new member of the council, asked that it be reconsidered so his vote could more accurately reflect his intention.

The motion to reconsider resulted in a 2-2 deadlock with Wayne Sartain and J. Wayne Womack voting against reconsideration.

"I don't think this is a fair action," said Quesada as he arose from his seat. He gathered up his papers and said he was leaving.

Quesada said Jones had a valid request and deserves reconsideration and "I think this body should give it. These guys (Womack and Sartain) want to bludgeon us."

He suggested that Jones leave with him to "effectively cut off any further action."

Womack said it was the responsibility of a councilman "to vote the way you feel the first time."

Jones said the council should go on with its agenda, but Quesada contended that if they left, the two remaining councilmen "would be forced to reconsider their action."

At that point, Womack called for a five-minute recess. After the recess, the meeting continued with Quesada in attendance.

Guilty Plea To Lewd Conduct

Alexander A. Ziburtovicz, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of indecent exposure and soliciting lewd conduct.

Ziburtovicz had earlier pleaded innocent to the charges. He is to be sentenced July 9.

Ziburtovicz was arrested May 4 after a 16-year-old girl reported to police the day before that a man wearing nothing but a T-shirt drove his auto along side her and exposed himself.

Pot Sale Case To Superior Court

Dennis Phillip Tsigelatos, 23, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on two counts of possessing marijuana for sale.

Tsigelatos is accused of selling $325 worth of the drug to the agent on March 29.

Plans For West Marin Roving Med Clinic Studied

Plans for a roving medical clinic to be operated as a pilot project in West Marin for two months this summer were heard yesterday by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin.

The council heard from Dr. Elizabeth Paeth of the U. S. Public Health Hospital in San Francisco that arrangements have been made for two resident doctors from the hospital to staff the clinic, according to Ray K. Bolinger, council president.

The pilot project has been set up for two reasons, Bolinger said. First, is to provide medical care for residents of West Marin during July and August and second, to make a survey of the medical needs of the residents of the area.

Bolinger said that the two doctors, William Fleeson and Thomas Conklin, will be assisted by a nurse-clerk who will compile statistics.

He said that the team will go into the matter of whether there are unfilled medical needs in the area, whether the clinics are used mainly by residents or summer visitors, whether emergencies can be adequately handled and the financial status of the clinic patients.

Bolinger explained that patients who can afford to pay for medical services will be charged and others will be treated free.

A tentative schedule has been set up, Bolinger said, but it will be changed if it is found that it does not work out.

The tentative schedule is for the doctors to be in the Dillon Beach area Monday; Tomales and Fallon, Tuesday morning; Nicasio, Tuesday afternoon; Forest Knolls-Lagunitas area, Wednesday; Bolinas, Thursday, and Stinson Beach, Friday.

Barbara Theiss of San Anselmo and Charles H.F. Peden of San Rafael have received scholarships at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, according to college officials.

Vivid Quake Film In Free Showing At Mill Valley

"The City That Waits to Die," a controversial and vivid film depicting the devastation which a major earthquake could cause in San Francisco and the Bay Area will have its first Marin County showing at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Community Church of Mill Valley, 8 Olive Street.

The 55-minute film, produced by the British Broadcasting Company, accuses both the public and elected officials of "political blindness, complacency and expediency" in the face of serious danger. It also shows what its producers believe must be done now to prevent widespread disaster if a quake should occur.

The film, which has not been shown on American television, is open to the public free of charge.

Puppet Show To Open Season

Folk and fairy tales will be enacted by Kathy Sternberg and her puppets at the opening session of the San Rafael Public Library's summer story time at 10:30 a.m. next Tuesday.

The storytelling program will continue each Tuesday from 10:30 to 11 a.m. through Aug. 17 for 4 to 7-year-olds, according to library officials.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Love Is Blind (Continued); Lead Your Friend Toward 'Real Men'

DEAR HELEN:

Here's another "blind love" letter. How can a smart girl be so dumb?

Our friend is beautiful, 20, and tied down to a real creep. He dresses like a bum, hardly ever wears shoes or combs his hair, and is terribly childish. His wealthy mother spoiled him so much that he won't look for work.

This girl has a job, an apartment and a car. She buys food for him, picks up the tab for movies, gives him beer money, the use of her car, and drops everything when he calls. She also does his laundry.

But he always has money for his own things, like trips to rock concerts, etc., while she is working. Now he's going to Europe for the summer, but he won't let her apply for an airline hostess job. He'd never let her go anywhere without him, even with her girl friends, and he expects her to sit home all summer and save her money so he can sponge off her all next winter.

The few times she has come to her senses, he cries, and pretends illness, until she feels sorry for him and takes him back.

DEAR FRIENDS:

Your girl friend may be an emotionally immature, part-time masochist, or a smart little operator who hopes to "marry money" never mind the creep that comes with the bundle.

DEAR HELEN:

In our town you are either a creepy dude or a popular chick or one other thing: a girl with a bad reputation.

My girl friend and I were a real freaky pair (unpopular) last year, but we changed, and are now in the fun crowd. That means booze and cars and hitchhiking on weekends and being kind of wild, but not "bad." (We're 15.)

But, Helen, we're worried because it could turn bad real fast if somebody tried more dope than usual, or a drunk driver went over a cliff.

We don't want to give up these new friends because we're having a blast but it seems like they try a little more each time, and where's it going to end? — DON'T WANT TO SIT HOME ON SATURDAY NIGHTS AGAIN

DEAR DWTSHOSNA:

Ask yourselves: "Do we really like the booze and drug kind of fun or are we in this crowd only to be 'popular'?" If you're the type who would do anything rather than stay home on Saturday nights, chances are you'll end up "doing anything." Which means you'll soon join the "bad reputation" bunch.

If there isn't a safe level between "creepy dude" and "popular chick," then it's about time you girls started building one in your town! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

At 18, I started on pot, then pills and eventually LSD and speed. My next few years were spent drifting from one town to the next, the usual scene for a junky.

At 20, I woke up and went on the drying out trip. A quotation from your column inspired me to write: "It's easy going down the road, but very hard coming back.'' Now I face another problem. Since being clean, I've met a wonderful guy who wants to marry me. He loves children, but I don't know what the drugs have done. I've asked doctors who can't assure me I won't have deformed babies — if I can have any at all. This is just another letter that tells 'em:

The trip isn't worth the price, girls! — SORRY

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Enable Child To Tell Name And Address

If your child is not old enough to spell his name or remember his address, place a slip of paper with his name, address and telephone number in a pocket, if at all possible, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

If the child is over three years old, teach him to enunciate his full name clearly in case he gets lost. Also, as soon as he is able, help him to memorize the address and telephone number.

'Protein Spices'

"Protein spices" are spices often used with protein foods such as meat, poultry, fish, eggs and beans. The term includes red pepper, celery seed, chili and curry powders, marjoram, sage, mustard, poultry seasoning, thyme and rosemary.

Stewart Chapel Is Wedding Setting

Jon Fraser Janovec wed Rev. Janet Jacobs Saturday in a ceremony at Stewart Memorial Chapel of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. A reception followed in Alexander Hall of the seminary.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis Jacobs of Mentor, Ohio. She is a graduate of Mentor High School and Lake Erie College for Women in Painesville, Ohio, and received the master of divinity degree from the San Francisco Theological Seminary. The bride is working on a doctorate degree at the seminary.

Jon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Janovec of Southgate, Mich. He was graduated from high school in Wyandotte, Mich., and the Detroit Institute of Technology and is also a doctoral student at the seminary.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will live in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Carl Baeck New Garden Club President

Marin Home and Garden Club's new president is Mrs. Karl H. Baeck of San Rafael, a three-year-member of the club.

A former vice president of the club, Kathryn Baeck describes its dual purpose, "We help support the Audubon Canyon Ranch and work to improve our homes and the surrounding neighborhoods."

Funds will be raised in the coming club year at a Christmas bazaar and a white elephant sale, and a variety of speakers is scheduled at meetings. Anyone living in Marin may join.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Baeck is a graduate of Presentation High School. She and her husband, a fireman in San Francisco, have lived in Marin for five years and are the parents of Karen Marie, 4, and Kristin Lynn, 15 months.

A Money Saver

A good way to save money: select quality according to the way you'll prepare and serve the food. For example, broken pieces of canned tomatoes can be used for casseroles instead of whole tomatoes.

voted for the tiny blonde with the big green eyes.

"Actually it was a quiet campaign," she said, "although there are always a few old gentlemen around who don't like women with power. I think most of the men were pleased, though."

Mrs. Leon said she finally decided to run on the last day for filing applications after two months of encouragement by townspeople.

"My husband and I have been very active in restoring old town buildings and promoting a new hospital and the people recognized our interest," she said.

Her husband, J. S. Leon, is a native of Spain, owns an engineering firm based in New York City and Mexico City. Mrs. Leon usually accompanies him on business trips.

"We love Hubbard and call it home because we could never leave our house—it's a twostory Victorian frame house that dates back to 1896 and has been designated an architectural landmark.

"We've put a lot of work and love into restoring it," she said.

The Leons also restored an old hardware building, making a western-style salon restaurant and modernized another building into a beauty shop and barber shop.

"Like many small towns, Hubbard has not been going forward or standing still; it's been going backwards," Mrs. Leon said. "We felt so many improvements were needed."

Thanks to the Leons and othe civic leaders Hubbard also now has a new hospital "that's small with 32 beds, but it's got the latest equipment."

Mrs. Leon, who has a business administration degree from the University of Houston, said she doesn't think her new position will interfere with her wifely duties.

"We've love Hubbard and call it home because we could never leave our house — it's a two-story Victorian frame house that dates back to 1896 and has been designated an architectural landmark.

Thanks to the Leons and other civic leaders Hubbard also now has a new hospital "that's small with 32 beds, but it's got the latest equipment."
civic affairs.

"I think more women should get interested in politics because they have more time than businessmen and they don't have to worry about hurting their business by bringing up new ideas," she said.

Late Father's Day

In Yugoslavia, Father's day, Dec. 3, is much harder on fathers than it is here. The children plot to catch dad unaware so they can bind him to the closest piece of furniture, according to research by a natioonal greeting card company. Then me must "buy" himself freedom by promising gifts to be delivered on Christmas day.

John Fay Claims Bride In Rite At Ross Church

St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross was the setting for the wedding Saturday of Robyn Lynn Relfe of Kentfield to John Philip Fay of San Francisco.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Relfe of Kentfield, Robyn chose her sister Mrs. William L. Hamilton of Orinda as matron of honor. Their sister Jennifer Relfe, Patricia Boyle of Stockton, Kathleen Lowe of Corona del Mar, and Marise Relfe of San Francisco, the bride's cousin, were the bridesmaids.

Thomas Fay of Stockton was his brother's best man. The ushers were Richard Bennett of San Francisco, Gerald Woods of Danville and Bruce Burrows of Piedmont.

The newlyweds will live in San Francisco when they return from a trip to Mexico.

Robyn, who bowed at the Marin Debutante Ball in 1965, is a graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls in Monterey, attended the University of Vienna and received a degree from the University of California. She is employed as a service representative for Safco Management Systems in Burlingame.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Fay Jr. of Stockton are parents of the bridegroom, who is the brother of Thomas and Robert Fay of Stockton.

John is a graduate of Amos Alonzo Stagg High School in Stockton and the University of California. He is employed by Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.

Parents Are Urged To Reassert Their Rights

NEW YORK (UPI)—The time has come for parents to reassert their rights in the home, says a psychologist who also is an educator and father of three. Dr. Fitzhugh Dodson does his saying in "How to Parent," a hard-cover book just out in soft-cover (New American Library).

The child-raising strategy endorsed by Dodson advocates common sense—"a powerful combination of love and discipline."

EXTRA FIRM

Specially made with added insulation for people who need or prefer an extra measure of Posturepedic's famous firmness. Designed in cooperation with leading orthopedic surgeons for firm support. "No morning backache from sleeping on a too-soft mattress". Coils are programmed to give extra firmness where body weight is concentrated. And the torsion bar foundation is the firmest base ever for a Posturepedic.

GENTLY FIRM

Beneath the deeply quilted satin and lace cover are extra layers of puffy Sealyfoam * cushioning. The result is a pampering surface comfort . . . but still the genuine firm support that you buy a Posturepedic for. Like all Posturepedics this one gives you the Unique Back Support System benefits of programmed coils and torsion bar foundation. Yes, the firmness is gentled - but the support is still pure Posturepedic. Try 'em both.

You can depend on Western for the best of Sealy's many wonderful sleep sets designed to make you sleep better. There is a style, a size and a price just for you. Construction Ban Hearing Set Tuesday

New construction in much of Southern Marin would be banned under proposals to be heard Tuesday by a Regional Water Quality Control Board panel.

The ban was propsoed by the board's staff for the area served by the City of Mill Valley and Richardson Bay Sanitary District treatment plants. This runs generally from Hawthorne Terrace in Tiburon westward around the bay to include Homestead Valley.

The hearing panel will report its recommendations to the full board for its action next Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the Assembly Room of the State Building, 1111 Jackson Street, Oakland.

Separate hearings will be held on the two dischargers in Mill Valley City Hall. The Richardson Bay Sanitary District hearing will be at 2:30 p.m., and the Mill Valley hearing at 7:30 p.m.

This new sequence of hearings by the special panel was the reverse of that in a notice in the Independent-Journal on June 4.

Firemen Barbecue Brings In $1,400

The Novato Volunteer Firemen had a turnout of more than 800 persons at their annual barbecue and netted about $1,400, according to Robert Robertson, barbecue chairman.

There were 638 adults and 203 children at the barbecue at Silveira Ranch, north of Novato, Sunday and 750 half-chicken pieces were eaten, he said. The proceeds go to the volunteer firemen's sick and benefit fund.

Tailored Diets In Store For Many

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eat-and-run meal habits of Americans can create behavior problems as well as nutritional deficiencies, says Dr. Nathan J. Smith, a professor of pediatrics atthe University of Washington.

At a seminar here on baby foods, Dr. Smith said the decline of traditional family meals shared by parents and children may well be responsible for currently disturbing behavior patterns when it deprives family members of a platform for airing problems and talking about their day's activities.

Dietary and weight problems often begin in infancy, he said. Mothers trying to meet their babies' increasing nutritional needs introduce adult-type, high-calorie foods at too early an age. Ironically, the problem arises at a time when babies grow faster and are freer from disease then their counterparts were a generation or more ago.

DR. SMITH also said "automated automobilized living" has led to nutritional deficiencies of suburban housewives and to under-nutrition of lonely, isolated senior citizens.

He said devastating health problems associated with obesity have led many persons to adopt low-calorie diets. But in lowering their food and caloric intake, many persons substitute nutrition-free alcoholic beverages or soft drinks for the high-nutrition foods and beverages they need on a low-calorie diet.

A FORECAST made by another pediatrician at the seminar could help establish better eating habits. Dr. William D. Weil, Jr., predicted programmed feeding, or diets tailored to each individual' specific needs from infancy onward.

He said such diets would be based on a baby's needs at each stage of his development, and also on his genetic history and the geographic location of his home.

Weil, who is Chairman of the Department of Human Development, College of Human Medicine, Michigan State University, said this sort of meal planning could lead to control of salt intake for infants and children with a strong family history of high blood pressure or hypertension. It could lead to modified fat intake or other dietary changes for those with a strong family history of vascular diseases, including heart attacks and strokes.

He also said he expects greater future use of plant foods over animal foods, and the development of synthetic foods created almost from scratch and using fundamental items in our environment.

A THIRD pediatrician, Frederick J. Margolis, Kalamazoo, Mich., said maternal deprivation afflicts many children born in the U.S. He said half are unwanted or unexpected and that parental feelings about them often are expressed in emotional, physical and nutritional neglect.

Dr. Margolis, a consultant of the Gerber Products Co., which sponsored the seminar, said that lower middle class and Medicaid patients pay little attention to diet because they haven't enough money, understanding or education, and they frequently are unintelligent and have no real interest in nutrition.

"Feeding children is just one of too many daily crises that need to be dealt with by a tired, pressured mother, overwhelmed by a lack of any satisfaction in life and by a multiplicity of problems of which her child's diet is far down the list of priorities," he said.

Mrs. Hurt Elected Poplar Branch Head

A 17 year member, Mrs. Edwin Hurt of San Anselmo has been elected president of the Poplar Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

The branch is open to residents of Sleepy Hollow who are interested in raising funds for Marin General Hospital. Joyce Hurt says that the branch is planning a summer barbecue and monthly luncheons to raise funds for hospital equipment.

Mrs. Hurt is the wife of a retired sea captain, and they have lived in Marin for 26 years. They are parents of Gregory and Christopher Hurt.

She was born in Virginia and attended Fairmont State College in West Virginia. She lists her interests as gardening, decorating, golfing and reading.

The other branch officers for the year are Mmes. Max Eastman, vice president; Robert Ballachey, second vice president; Robert Bogenreif, treasurer; Jay Engels, corresponding secretary; Jack Everson, recording secretary; Hilton Swensen, publicity chairman; Vincen Van Riper, scholarship chairman; and William Long, Marin General Hospital Volunteers council member.

Try The Celery Boat For Next Special Party

Cut stalks of celery to form "prow" fronts. Fill with whipped cream cheese softened with a little sour cream or whipped cottage cheese. Fold in red caviar, and use either carrot or bread sticks for the mast. Celery leaves form the sails.

For a variation on an old theme, try a poor girl sandwich. Cut a loaf of French bread lengthwise and scoop out soft, inner bread. Fill with chili con carne, shredded lettuce, grated cheese, French fried onion rings, hot peppers, green pepper rings and chopped scallions.

Summer Tip On Safety For Young

Summer is play and fun time for children, and the Health Insurance Institute offers some safety rules for their parents.

When backing your car out of the driveway always check to make sure that no child is playing or hiding there. Also watch for any potentially dangerous conditions in the yard and play areas.

Always remember to take the doors off discarded refrigerators to prevent youngsters from locking themselves in — still an all-too-frequent tragedy.

Outside clothes lines should be strung high so that children cannot run into them.

Remove nails, splinters and rough edges from boxes or boards that children may play with indoors or out.

WIN BALLET SCHOLARSHIPS

David White, 17, of Corte Madera (left) and Jan Thelen, 16, of San Rafael, display the form that has won them full tuition scholarships for a summer session with Vera Volkova of the Royal Danish Ballet School. Travel expenses to the Banff School of Fine Arts in Banff, Alberta, where the session will be held, will be partly defrayed by $100 scholarships which each dancer has received from the Marin Civic Ballet Association.

Schools Set Classes In Swimming

A water safety program at each of its three high schools has been announced by the Tamalpais High School District and American Red Cross.

Registration for the half hour classes will be taught at 8:30 and noon; housewives classes at noon in all sessions. Junior life saving will start July 12 and senior life saving, July 26.

At Redwood High School classes will begin in sessions on June 28, July 12 and July 26. Housewives swimming will start at noon in all sessions; junior life saving on July 12, and senior life saving at June 28 and July 26.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

'Mother Earth' To Bow Saturday Night

"Mother Earth," an ecological musical revue, will officially open Saturday night at the Marines' Memorial Theater in San Francisco.

Favorably compared by Southern California critics to such diverse works as the musical, "Hair," and the novel, "Brave New World," the musical is being presented by Michael J. Parsons and the American Conservaotry Theater. It marks the first time the musical has been performed outside its original home, the South Coast Repertory Theater in Costa Mesa.

ART

An exhibition of paintings by Mill Valley artist Roy Gover will open Tuesday at the San Francisco Museum of Art — part of a summer series. The show will be on review through July 18. He recently had a one-man show at the California Palace of Legion of Honor.

DANCE

The Stuttgart Ballet will arrive Tuesday at the San Francisco Opera House for a six-day, eight performance engagement.

DRAMA

Scheduled to close Sunday, "No Place to Be Somebody," has been extended at On Broadway Theater in San Francisco until July 18. The Pulitzer Prize-winning play is now in its eighth month in the Bay city.

Other events:

New Committee Theater — "The White House Murder Case," Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday, 8:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 8 and 10 p.m.

On Broadway Theater — "No Place To Be Somebody," Tuesday through Saturday, 8:30 p.m.; Sunday, 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Berkeley Repertory Theater — "The Devils," Tuesday through Friday, 8 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Curran Theater — "Knickerbocker Holiday," evenings except Sunday, 8:30 p.m.; matinees Wednesday and Saturday, 2:30 p.m.

M. H. de Young Museum — "American Graphics, Reliefs and Sculptures from the Gemini G.E.L.," through Sept. 6; "Wedgewood 1750-1920," through July 5.

University Art Museum (Berkeley) — "Six One-Man Shows" and "Contemporary Japanese Art," through June 27.

California Palace Legion of Honor — Paintings by Jean Weinbaum through July 11; "Edward Borein, Etcher of the Old West," through July 25; "Three Centuries of American Paintings," through July 25.

Lights Lifted

James Rogers of the Petaluma Estates Mobilehome Park under construction at 901 North McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, told police yesterday that two street lights valued at $80 were dug up and stolen.

Pair Sets Concert At St. Luke

Marian Marsh, soprano, and David Wade, baritone, will present a concert at 8 p.m., June 26 at St. Luke Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Miss Marsh of San Rafael is a graduate of San Francisco State College and serves on the faculty of both San Francisco Conservatory of Music and San Domenico School for Girls.

Wade, also of San Rafael, has been soloist with the San Francisco Bach Choir, Winifred Baker Corale, San Leandro Symphony. He has appeared in the College of Marin's production of Brahms' "Requiem".

They will be accompanied by James Groves, church organist, who is a graduate of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. He has served on the piano faculty of Mills College.

The United States bought Alaska from Russia on March 30, 1867, for $7.2 million.

Corn Blight Found In 124 Counties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government reports that corn blight has now been detected in 124 counties in 18 states, but the nation's corn crop is still "in generally good condition."

Most of the cases, it said, have resulted from volunteer seedlings which sprang up from blight infested seed dropped last year.

COOL IN THE POOL

Chicago baked in 88-degree temperatures yesterday, but only these Labrador retrievers seemed to have enough sense to cool off in a shallow pool. Everyone else in the city may have been inside air-conditioned buildings, however. Other high temperatures recorded across the nation, much of it gripped by a heat wave, were: Phoenix, 109; Las Vegas, 108; Dallas, 98, Charleston, S.C., 92 and Birmingham, Ala. 90.

Novato Cyclist Killed In Crash

A 22-year-old Novato man was killed instantly yesterday when his motorcycle struck a panel truck on Shoreline Highway, six miles north of Stinson Beach.

The California Highway Patrol said Carlos M. Nieves, of 8 Doris Avenue, was fatally injured when his northbound cycle rounded a curve on the wrong side of the highway and collided with the southbound truck, driven by Paul Shippee, 33, of San Francisco.

Shippee received minor injuries in the crash, which occurred at 5:30 p.m. and said he would seek private medical aid.

Nieves's death brought to 13 the number killed to date this year on Marin highways, as compared to 16 during the same period last year.

San Francisco Crime Level Checks Decline

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The city's crime rate apparently has leveled off this year compared to the sharp decreases reported following the appointment of Police Chief Al Nelder last year.

The police department's monthly index showed crime about .4 per cent lower for the first five months of 1971 than it was during the same period last year, despite increases in some categories, particularly robbery.

After Nelder's appointment in February, 1970, decreases were reported in every major category for the rest of the year. Nelder reported last January that major crimes in 1970 were down about 8 per cent from 1969.

The report released Wednesday showed robberies up 31 per cent from 1970, though homicides were down 18 per cent and rapes down 13 per cent.

Less Immunization Against 3 Diseases

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The American Medical Association said today the rate of immunization against polio, measles and diphtheria is declining in the United States.

The diseases have been considered under control for years, but the AMA indicated that fewer immunizations might lead to a rash of breakouts in the future.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

10:31 a.m., Novato — Kitchen fire at home of Florence Balaguy, 17 Santa Maria Drive, caused by toaster igniting curtains, damage estimated at $350.

2:08 p.m., Terra Linda — Children playing with matches started a small tanbark playbox fire at Bernard Hoffman School. The first was reported by passers-by.

3:43 p.m., Mill Valley — A small grass fire covered an area of 10 by 50 feet off Camino Alto.

6:59 p.m., San Rafael — A grass fire covered an acre between Windsor and Maywood streets.

TODAY:

12:48 a.m., San Rafael — An apartment fire started in the bedroom closet of Brenda Brooks, 41 Woodland Avenue, caused $350 damage to the closet and contents. The cause is under investigation.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

YESTERDAY:

6:36 p.m., Petaluma — Smoke investigation in 500 block of East Washington Street; no fire, but family barbeque.

Water For Stinson To Cost More

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Stinson Beach Water Co. has won permission from the state Public Utilities Commission to impose a gross rate increase of 33 per cent on its 450 customers.

The company, owned by George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach, said at a public hearing held in Stinson Beach in March before a PUC examiner that the company lost $2,015 in 1970.

With the new rates, authorized by the PUC Tuesday, the company said it would have made a net profit of $7,740.

The PUC allowed an increase in meter revenue rates of 30 per cent and of 42 per cent in unmetered rates. Under the new schedule, the present rate of $4.25 per month for 500 cubic feet of water to metered customers will rise to $6.

The new rates will be effective next month.

The company last won a rate hike in 1966, when the 500-cubic-foot-rate went to its present $4.25 from $2.75.

An Inside Job

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—Authorities of Genoa's Marassi jail have taken four convicts to court for embezzling 4 million lire ($6,400) from the prison's administrative offices.

Preliminary Budget To Sanitation Panel

A preliminary $981,356 budget was presented last night to the San Rafael Sanitation District by the district administrator, Norris M. Rawles.

Although the proposed budget is up from this year's $928,641 budget, Rawles said the current tax rate of 31 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be maintained.

The preliminary budget was taken under advisement by the board and will be discussed at its next regular meeting, July 7.

A $64,200 contract was awarded — subject to an Army Corps of Engineers permit — to Healy-Tibbits Construction Co. of San Francisco for the Marin Bay-Peacock Gap sewer line extension.

Rawles said the construction company's estimate was $8,000 below the board's estimate.

A private engineer, Roy Hoffman, presented a feasibility study on proposed sewers for the Bayside Acres Assessment District. The study was taken under advisement to be discussed at the next meeting.

Western Marin Plan Due Eye

The Shoreline Unified School District board will consider the impact of the district of planning for West Marin at 8 p.m. today at the district office, Tomales.

Herbert H. Angress of Marshall is scheduled to talk about planning for the area.

The district has suffered a loss of tax revenue because the Point Reyes National Seashore is off the tax rolls and agricultural preserves are taxed at a reduced rate, making planning for the remaining area an economic concern.

Quesada Nearly Walks Out On Fellow Councilmen Over Land

Novato City Councilman George C. Quesada angry over refusal of two fellow council members to reconsider a vote, nearly walked out on them.

The flareup came after the council voted 2-0 Monday night to purchase seven small parcels of surplus state land along the planned highway 101 by-pass for $2,720.

David Price Jones, who said he was reluctant to buy the land, abstained and so did Quesada. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo was absent.

When it was explained that the two votes carried the matter, Jones, a new member of the council, asked that it be reconsidered so his vote could more accurately reflect his intention.

The motion to reconsider resulted in a 2-2 deadlock with Wayne Sartain and J. Wayne Womack voting against reconsideration.

"I don't think this is a fair action," said Quesada as he arose from his seat. He gathered up his papers and said he was leaving.

Quesada said Jones had a valid request and deserves reconsideration and "I think this body should give it. These guys (Womack and Sartain) want to bludgeon us."

He suggested that Jones leave with him to "effectively cut off any further action."

Womack said it was the responsibility of a councilman "to vote the way you feel the first time."

Jones said the council should go on with its agenda, but Quesada contended that if they left, the two remaining councilmen "would be forced to reconsider their action."

At that point, Womack called for a five-minute recess. After the recess, the meeting continued with Quesada in attendance.

Guilty Plea To Lewd Conduct

Alexander A. Ziburtovicz, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of indecent exposure and soliciting lewd conduct.

Ziburtovicz had earlier pleaded innocent to the charges. He is to be sentenced July 9.

Ziburtovicz was arrested May 4 after a 16-year-old girl reported to police the day before that a man wearing nothing but a T-shirt drove his auto along side her and exposed himself.

Pot Sale Case To Superior Court

Dennis Phillip Tsigelatos, 23, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on two counts of possessing marijuana for sale.

Tsigelatos is accused of selling $325 worth of the drug to the agent on March 29.

Plans For West Marin Roving Med Clinic Studied

Plans for a roving medical clinic to be operated as a pilot project in West Marin for two months this summer were heard yesterday by the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin.

The council heard from Dr. Elizabeth Paeth of the U. S. Public Health Hospital in San Francisco that arrangements have been made for two resident doctors from the hospital to staff the clinic, according to Ray K. Bolinger, council president.

The pilot project has been set up for two reasons, Bolinger said. First, is to provide medical care for residents of West Marin during July and August and second, to make a survey of the medical needs of the residents of the area.

Bolinger said that the two doctors, William Fleeson and Thomas Conklin, will be assisted by a nurse-clerk who will compile statistics.

He said that the team will go into the matter of whether there are unfilled medical needs in the area, whether the clinics are used mainly by residents or summer visitors, whether emergencies can be adequately handled and the financial status of the clinic patients.

Bolinger explained that patients who can afford to pay for medical services will be charged and others will be treated free.

A tentative schedule has been set up, Bolinger said, but it will be changed if it is found that it does not work out.

The tentative schedule is for the doctors to be in the Dillon Beach area Monday; Tomales and Fallon, Tuesday morning; Nicasio, Tuesday afternoon; Forest Knolls-Lagunitas area, Wednesday; Bolinas, Thursday, and Stinson Beach, Friday.

Scholarships

Barbara Theiss of San Anselmo and Charles H.F. Peden of San Rafael have received scholarships at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, according to college officials.

Vivid Quake Film In Free Showing At Mill Valley

"The City That Waits to Die," a controversial and vivid film depicting the devastation which a major earthquake could cause in San Francisco and the Bay Area will have its first Marin County showing at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Community Church of Mill Valley, 8 Olive Street.

The 55-minute film, produced by the British Broadcasting Company, accuses both the public and elected officials of "political blindness, complacency and expediency" in the face of serious danger. It also shows what its producers believe must be done now to prevent widespread disaster if a quake should occur.

The film, which has not been shown on American television, is open to the public free of charge.

Puppet Show To Open Season

Folk and fairy tales will be enacted by Kathy Sternberg and her puppets at the opening session of the San Rafael Public Library's summer story time at 10:30 a.m. next Tuesday.

The storytelling program will continue each Tuesday from 10:30 to 11 a.m. through Aug. 17 for 4 to 7-year-olds, according to library officials.

Construction Ban Hearing Set Tuesday

New construction in much of Southern Marin would be banned under proposals to be heard Tuesday by a Regional Water Quality Control Board panel.

The ban was propsoed by the board's staff for the area served by the City of Mill Valley and Richardson Bay Sanitary District treatment plants. This runs generally from Hawthorne Terrace in Tiburon westward around the bay to include Homestead Valley.

The hearing panel will report its recommendations to the full board for its action next Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the Assembly Room of the State Building, 1111 Jackson Street, Oakland.

Separate hearings will be held on the two dischargers in Mill Valley City Hall. The Richardson Bay Sanitary District hearing will be at 2:30 p.m., and the Mill Valley hearing at 7:30 p.m.

This new sequence of hearings by the special panel was the reverse of that in a notice in the Independent-Journal on June 4.

Firemen Barbecue Brings In $1,400

The Novato Volunteer Firemen had a turnout of more than 800 persons at their annual barbecue and netted about $1,400, according to Robert Robertson, barbecue chairman.

There were 638 adults and 203 children at the barbecue at Silveira Ranch, north of Novato, Sunday and 750 half-chicken pieces were eaten, he said. The proceeds go to the volunteer firemen's sick and benefit fund.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, June 17, the 168th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, was born June 17, 1703.

On this day in history:

In 1928 Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. She was a passenger on a plane piloted by Wilmer Stultz from Newfoundland to Wales.

In 1954 the Senate subcommittee investigation of a clash between the U.S. Army and Sen. Joseph McCarthy ended after 36 days and two million words of testimony.

In 1968 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that an 1886 law bars the color line in housing sales and rentals.

A thought for today: Sir John Suckling said, "Women are the baggage of life; they are troublesome, and hinder us in the great march, yet we cannot do without them."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-Trump Double Demands The Right Lead, But A Goof Here

When the opening leader's partner doubles three no-trump, he says: "Partner, lead my suit if I have bid. Lead your own suit if only you have bid for our side. If neither of us has bid, lead the first suit bid by the dummy." The opening leader doesn't have to follow his partner's instructions, especially if he is bigger and stronger than his partner — or if he has a fully paid up medical insurance policy.

CALLS FOR LEAD

In today's hand, for example, neither defender had bid, so East's double of three no-trump called for a lead in the first suit bid by the dummy — hearts.

It's worth noting that any other lead would give declarer an easy time. He would develop the clubs, making four clubs, four diamonds and at least one spade.

When the hand was played, West was a small inoffensive man who had no wish to become a hero or a casualty. Since his partner had demanded a heart lead, West led his singleton jack of hearts. Having done so, West could retire from the defense. The rest was up to East.

MUST ACT

South played a low heart from dummy at the first trick, and it was up to East to act. If East passively played low, exulting in the favorable finessing opportunity, West would win the first trick but would be unable to lead another heart. South would get a good scare, but he would also get at least nine tricks.

EAST OVERTAKES

East actually overtook the first trick with the queen of hearts. Then he cashed the ace of hearts and led the six of hearts to force out dummy's king.

Declarer had to go after the clubs, and East got in with the ace of clubs in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ 5 3 2
♡ A Q 10 7 6
◇ 6 3
♣ A 9 8.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

If the queen of hearts were the king, the hand would be worth an opening bid of one heart. The actual hand is just barely too weak for a bid.

Special Lifesaving Course Scheduled

Special lifesaving classes designed for mothers will be held tomorrow and the following Thursday at the Larkspur fire station, Friends of the Larkspur Library has announced.

The classes, running from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., will deal primarily with treatment for injuries and accidents which require immediate treatment such as drownings and electrical shock.

The two classes will be cosponsored by the library friends, the American Red Cross and the Larkspur Fire Department.

Marinites Awarded Occidental Degrees

They are Charles Bart Engelberg, Novato, bachelor of science; Suzanne Elizabeth Olds and William Lee Salomon, Sausalito, bachelor of arts, and Robert Brooks Ryan, San Rafael, bachelor of science.

ESCROW NO. 207250 PW
NOTICE OF TRUSTEE SALE

On Friday, the 2nd day of July, 1971, at the hour of 10 o'clock A.M. of said day, at the office of the Western Title Guaranty Company, Marin County Division at 801 "A" Street, San Rafael, County of Marin, State of California, WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, without warranty, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, the following described real property situate in the City of Fairfax, County of Marin, State of California, viz:

BEGINNING at a point on the Westerly line of Hillside Drive, said point being the most Easterly corner of Lot 112, Map No. 1, Deer Park, filed January 7, 1908 in Book 2 of Maps, at page 105, Marin County Records; and running thence along the Westerly line of said Hillside Drive, North 02° 21' West 40 feet; thence along the Northerly line of said Lot 112, South 77° 54' West 93.75 feet; thence subdividing said Lot 112 South 18° 26' East 43.63 feet to the Southerly line of said lot; thence North 75° 08' East 82.60 feet to the point of beginning.
Excepting therefrom all that portion of the herein described property described as follows:
BEGINNING at a point on the Westerly line of Hillside Drive (now Meernaa Avenue) at the Northeast corner of Lot 111, as said Avenue and lot are shown on the Official Map of Deer Park #1, recorded January 7, 1908 in Book 2 of Maps, at page 105, Marin County Records; thence along said Avenue line South 2° 21' East 44.0 feet; thence leaving said Avenue line and running South 74° 18' 20" West 92.975 feet and North 18° 26' West 9.95 feet to a point on the Northerly line of Lot 112, of said map of Deer Park #1, thence North 17° 40' 50" West 43.532 feet to a point on the Northerly line of said Lot 111, thence along said lot line North 80°05' East 105.65 feet to the point of beginning.
TOGETHER WITH all and singular the tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues and profits thereof.

SAID Sale will be made to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in a certain Deed of Trust executed by ROBERT J. EWASKO and JO ANN EWASKO, his wife, as Trustor to WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation, as Trustee for the benefit and security of CASCADE ACCEPTANCE CORPORATION as Beneficiary, dated March 5, 1970 and recorded March 6, 1970 in Liber 2359 of Official Records, at page 465, Marin County Records.

NOTICE of Breach of said obligation and election to sell said real property was recorded March 5, 1971 in Liber 2441 of Official Records, at page 540, Marin County Records.

THIS NOTICE is given in compliance with the demand heretofore made by the present Beneficiary, Cascade Acceptance Corporation.
DATED this 7th day of June, 1971.

Taylor Charges 'Betrayal'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Retired Gen. Maxwell Taylor, formar ambassador to South Vietnam, said Wednesday he did not believe The New York Times should have published a Pentagon report on the war because it is not necessary for every citizen to know his country's secrets.

"What is a citizen going to do after reading those documents that he wouldn't have done otherwise?" Taylor asked. "A citizen should know those things he needs to know to be a good citizen and discharge his functions ... not to get in on secrets which simply damage his government and indirectly damage the citizen himself."

Taylor said he thought it was "regretable" The Times published part of the 47-volume secret Pentagon report outlining the history of U.S. involvement in Indochina through the Johnson administration. Taylor said he did not know what was in the report.

"It's the principle of the thing ...(we) have here a deliberate betrayal of government secrets. And I obviously have to be against that as a citizen," he said.

Taylor, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff and ambassador to Vietnam in 1964 and 1965, made his comments on an interview on CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite.

About the Vietnam War, Taylor said one of the worst mistakes the United States made was conniving to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem because it was followed by "absolutely nothing but chaos."

However, he said, the mistake was balanced by President Johnson's "two very tough, courageous decisions to go ahead at this point." He did not elaborate.

"So I would say there's one case I thought we were very badly wrong, and secondly, one place where I think we were right," he said.

No Cuban Parallel, Says Times

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of The New York Times, said Wednesday there was no parallel between the newspaper's publishing a secret Pentagon report on Vietnam and The Times' decision in 1961 not to print in advance the story of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

"In the one case (Bay of Pigs) there was an invasion which was just about to happen where people were about to get shot on the beaches," he said. "In the other case what we had here was past history."

The Times in 1961 reportedly got word of the Bay of Pigs on the night before the impending invasion and decided not to print a word about it because it might harm national security.

Sulzberger cut a European trip short Wednesday to return to New York for a federal court hearing on a government request that The Times relinquish the secret Pentagon report.

Sulzberger, at a airport news conference, said he had read all the textual material involved in the series before it was published. "I arrived along with other people at The Times at the conclusion that it did not jeopardize national security," he said. "These papers are part of national history that should have been made available long ago.

"Governments in general don't like things published. They tend to stamp secret on too many things. They don't want people to know things that are embarrassing to them. Many docjments of World War II are still classified as secret. I wish the government had used its head a little more."

Sulzberger said he was surprised at the government's reaction but thought the Nixon administration might try to capitalize on the reports.

"Certainly these papers have shown that the previous Democratic administrations were getting us deeper and deeper into the war," he said. "The Nixon administration says it is getting us out of the war. So Mr. Nixon might try to use it to his advantage."

Sulzberger was asked if the Times had done some "soul searching" before its decision to write the series.

"The decision was almost made for us when we came onto the material," he said. "The soul searching was what to do with it."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Planing Can Remove Those Brownish Spots From Sun

Mrs. H. P. writes: "I'm paying the penalty for being a sun lover. My forehead and hands are covered with flat, dry, scaly, brownish spots. I was told that they can be removed with a wire brush but this remedy sounds worse than the 'disease.' What is your opinion?"

Dermabrasion or skin planing is used to eradicate these lesions (senile keratoses or freckles) provided the skin is suitable. The procedure is best done by someone familiar with the technique. Spots of these types can also be removed via excision (or electrodesiccation) but is not practical when numerous lesions are involved. In planing, the upper epidermal layers are removed, but enough is preserved to permit regrowth of new scar-free skin. Keratoses may be precursors of skin cancer and it is difficult to say where the dividing line is between an innocent keratosis and a true skin caner. As a rule, planing is not done to remove a skin malignancy unless it is an early lesion confined to the surface.

ABRASION is used most frequently in the treatment of acne scars and pockmarks. The outcome depends upon the severity of the condition and the depth of the pitted scars. Dermabraders also are used to remove material imbedded in the skin as a result of an accident. The fine perpendicular wrinkles around the lips also respond to planing. On the other hand, the technique is not effective in crow's-feet on the temples, tattoos, and certain birthmarks.

DERMABRASION is never done on areas, such as the eyelids, lower neck, flexor aspect of the forearm, and inner upper arms, because the skin is too thin or limited.

THE SKIN is frozen or the individual is anesthetized and the planing is done with a motor-driven wire brush. Six to 12 months may elapse before the skin regenerates completely. Meanwhile, the integument is puffy and red. Whiteheads may also develop in the area. Pigmentary changes that may persist for three to eight months are the most common complication of dermabrasion. Sunlight should be avoided for several weeks to discourage darkening of the skin.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

BACK TO JUG

A. B. writes: I understand there is no second chance at AA (Alcoholics Anonymous). Seven years ago a friend was helped by them and he needs help again. Would they accept him now?

REPLY

Yes. There are no limitations to the number of times AA will come to the rescue of an alcoholic. They expect a certain percentage of failures and are willing to help the victim again and again.

TOO MUCH COPPER

C. H. writes: What would cause too much copper in the blood?

REPLY

A high absorption of copper by the intestinal tract. The body usually absorbs what it needs from the foods consumed. In Wilson's disease — which is rare — there is a greater absorption of copper. As a result, the concentration of this mineral is increased tenfold in the liver, brain, and other tissues.

SELF-LIMITING RASH

R. W. writes: Can a general practitioner handle pityriasis rosea?

REPLY

Why not? If he does nothing, the rash will disappear spontaneously in six weeks. Ultraviolet light or a sulfursalicylic acid ointment may shorten the period and soothing lotions will ease itching.

Pleas Heard In Houseboat Controversy

A pretrial conference was set for July 14 for Corben and George Alan Bonney, 24, of Mill Valley; Dean Puhcatski, 26, of San Rafael, and Joseph Edwin Nunn, 23, of no known address.

Corben, Puhcalski and Bonney were aboard Corben's boat which attempted to interfere with efforts of Marin County sheriff's deputies to remove five substandard houseboats from their Waldo Point berths, deputies said.

Nunn was arrested on shore. A deputy said he recognized Nunn as the person who had attempted to jam an engine on a tow boat by throwing a rope in front of the boat.

JAL Sets $322 Fare To London

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— Japan Air Lines announced Wednesday that it has set up a $332 roundtrip fare for students on flights between San Francisco and London.

JAL officials said the fare, effective Thursday, would allow students between 12 and 25 to fly during the basic season for $332 and during the peak season for $352.

European Editors Back Times Overwhelmingly

LONDON (UPI)—European newspaper editors praised the New York Times today for publishing a secret Pentagon report on U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Many said they would have done the same thing in similar circumstances.

"I am very proud of the New York Times," said Dr. Olof Lagercrantz, editor-in-chief of Stockholm's morning newspaper Dagens Nyheter. "I believe I am right when I say Dagens Nyheter would have done the same thing."

Some, such as Luc Vandeweghe of De Standaard in Brussels, said they might publish even if national security were at stake. But most agreed with Brian Roberts, 64-year-old editor of the London Sunday Telegraph, who said he felt it necessary to consider security implications.

Roberts and two other men were acquitted Feb. 2 of charges they violated Britain's 60-year-old Official Secrets Act by publishing a 1969 secret report about the Nigerian civil war.

"I had to ask myself a question," he said. "Did what we published actually compromise or endanger national security or did it merely inconvenience a government? If it is a matter merely of governmental convenience I would be inclined to say 'publish and be damned' and publish again what I did. I have never doubted the rightness of what I did."

Most foreign newspapers at once defended the Times's exposure of the papers as a right and a duty of the free press towards the people and criticized U.S. officials for duplicity and legal attempts to block further publication.

The Guardian of London said, in part: "The events described are history. What is not yet history is the new knowledge that the administration misled the sovereign people of America about what was being done in their names . . . If politicians and officials misled the public, they ought not to be able to hide behind a law, especially a law which was passed for another purpose — maintenance of military security."

Hanoi Radio said the publication "helps the Americans and the people of the world see more clearly the cruel policy of aggression and the deceitful tricks of the American imperialists."

Ex-Times Man Tells The Source

NEW YORK (UPI) —Sidney Zion, a former New York Times reporter, said Wednesday night the newspaper obtained its copy of the Pentagon Vietnam report from Daniel Ellsberg, a former employee of the Rand Corp.

Zion, a former assistant U.S. attorney in New Jersey, made the statement on a radio talk show (Barry Gray-WMCA). He said the copy was obtained by the Times in late March.

Zion said Ellsberg worked in the Defense Department's international security division until 1965 when he left the government to join Rand, a "think tank" in Santa Monica, Calif., which conducts sensitive defense research. Rand is known to have two of 15 final copies produced of the Vietnam report.

Efforts to contact Ellsberg at MIT were unsuccessful.

Prominent U.S. Editor Hits Government Bid To Stop Times

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, C.A. McKnight, has issued a personal statement deploring government attempts to suppress The New York Times series on the Pentagon's Vietnam study.

Emphasizing he did not speak for the society, McKnight, editor of the Charlotte Observer, said he did not presume to second-guess The Times editors on their decision to print the material, but condemned "prior restraint" censorship by the government.

Although there is no exact legal precedent for The New York Times current struggle for the right to print secret government documents, the Supreme Court has handed the nation's newspapers many important "free press" victories over the years.

Most of these have involved libel laws, but several have concerned the press and the government. A famous 1936 case, for example, declared unconstitutional a tax imposed in the state of Louisiana on large newspapers for the privilege of selling advertising. "Since informed public opinion is the most potent of all restraints upon this government," then Justice George Sutherland said, "the suppression or abridgement of the publicity afforded by a free press cannot be regarded otherwise than with grave concern. "A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people," he added. "To allow it to be fetered is to fetter ourselves."

In two other cases the high court reversed contempt citations lower courts had slapped on newspapers.

One was a 1941 case where the Los Angeles Times had printed three editorials denouncing certain convicted union leaders before they had been sentenced. Justice Hugo L. Black in finding on behalf of the Times said the Constitution gives "to liberty of the press, as to other liberties, the broadest scope that could be countenanced in an orderly society."

Five years later the court reversed a contempt conviction against the Miami Herald. The paper had published two editorials and a cartoon criticizing certain actions of a Florida trial court as being favorable to criminals and gamblers.

A sequel to these cases came in 1947 when contempt convictions of a Corpus Christi Tex., publisher, editorial writer and reporter were reversed. The paper involved had published articles which reported events in a pending case and an editorial attacking the trial judge.

All of these cases rested on what was known for years as the "clear and present danger" test, established by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes in 1919. The pertinent language in Holmes famous decision was "whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent."

This definition is now thought by some critics to have passed into oblivion.

The furor which raged during the 1960's over "free press-fair trial" — what newspapers can print about trials and criminal suspects — was touched off by the high court's 1966 decision reversing the murder conviction of the late Dr. Sam Sheppard, a Cleveland osteopath, because of undue publicity about his case. The bar and the press have since cooperated in many places in setting up guidelines for similar situations.

63 Members Ask Release Of Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sixty three members of Congress today asked the Nixon administration to make public the Pentagon study revealed in part by the New York Times.

"Certainly release of these documents, which are an essential part of the historical background of our current involvement in Indochina, cannot in any way prejudice our national defense," the congressmen said in hand-delivered letters to Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pledged a Senate investigation of the secret papers, and a House subcommittee set hearings on government information policies.

Mansfield told reporters it would not be a hunt for a scapegoat or an attempt to learn the Times' source of the documents.

It would attempt, Mansfield said, to put before Congress and the American people the details of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. He indicated Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., who was vice president during part of the period the report covered, might be invited to testify.

Humphrey said he was "shocked" by the study., "The great loss is the loss in confidence in the government. This just aids and abets the general confusion and suspicion of government," he said.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and George S. McGovern, DS.D., denounced as censorship the administration's court efforts to halt further publication of the Times series on the secret report.

Rep. Jonathan Bingham, DN.Y., said 11 members of the House Judiciary Committee and four members of the bhouse Armed Services Committee were among the 63 signators of the letters to Laird and Mitchell.

Republicans signing the letters were Reps. Paul McCloskey Jr., of California, Donald W. Riegle Jr. of Michigan, Philip Ruppe of Michigan and Seymour Halpern of New York. McCloskey and Riegle have been active in the "Dump Nixon" movement.

Terrorist Murders Policemen, Kills Self

SANTIAGO (UPI)—A terrorist wanted for the assassination of a former vice president walked into a police station with a submachinegun Wednesday, opened fire on police and then blew himself up with dynamite. He killed two policemen and critically injured another.

Police identified the man as Heriberto Salazar, 45, a member of the leftist terrorist group known as the Organized Vanguard of the People (VOP). He was wanted for the assassination June 8 of former Chilean vice president and interior minister Edmundo Perez Zujovic.

Two brothers also wanted for the killing—Ronald and Arturo Rivera Calderon—were killed Sunday in a gunbattle with police.

The white-haired Salazar, known within his organization as "The Old Man," walked into the police headquarters with a submachinegun that was found to have been taken from a policeman killed in a supermarket robbery Sunday.

Salazar opened fire, killing policeman Carlos Perez Bretti and critically wounding Gerardo Romero. He then began walking through the corridors of the building, tossing lighted dynamite charges right and left. There were no injuries caused by the dynamite explosions.

When police closed in and detective Mario Marin grappled with Salazar, the VOP terrorist shouted "Kill me now, you sons of bitches" and touched off a dynamite charge strapped to his body. Both Salazar and Marin were killed in the blast.

Override Tax Bill Wins Nod

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A Marin legislator's bill empowering five West Marin school district to levy special override taxes passed the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee yesterday and went to the upper house floor.

The bill, by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would enable the Shoreline Unified, Laguna, Lincoln, Nicasio and Union school districts to levy, without voter approval, a one-year tax to make up revenue lost from land designated as agricultural preserve.

The legislation, S.B. 1228, cleared the committee by a 5-3 vote. It originally would have allowed a continuous tax, but Behr wrote in the one-year limitation to meet objections.

Accident Suit Testimony To Begin Today

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Testimony in a $1.25 million negligence suit against millionairess Doris Duke in connection with a automobile accident five years ago begins today in Rhode Island Superior Court.

The suit was brought in behalf of the brothers and sisters of the late Eduardo Tirella, 42, of Dover, N.J., an interior decorator and known as Miss Duke's constant companion.

Tirella was struck while opening the large iron gates at "Rough Point," Miss Duke's Newport, R.I., estate, dragged across the street and pinned beneath the station wagon allegedly driven by Miss Duke. He died in the 1966 accident.

Trial Set On Fugitive Charge

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Rodney Alan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, is scheduled to go on trial Aug. 3 in U.S. District Court on a charge of harboring a fugitive.

Woods has pleaded innocent to the charge of harboring his friend, Wayne Edward Gardner, also 21, of San Rafael, when Gardner was allegedly evading the draft.

They were arrested at Woods' home on March 10. Gardner has been charged with evading the draft in Florida and is awaiting determination whether he will be returned there.

Overcross Low Bidder Announced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A Moraga firm yesterday submitted the lowest bid for construction of a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101, south of East Washington Street, Petaluma.

Officials of the state Division of Highways said the apparent low bidder was R. M. Harris construction at $178,342. Engineers had estimated the project might cost $204,000.

The division of highways will pay one-half the cost of the project and the City of Petaluma will pay the other half using already allocated federal funds.

Asst. City Engineer Harold Wood said construction should begin within three weeks and the project be completed in September. Residents of East Petaluma and school officials had called for the separate pedestrian crossing, citing safety hazards for students who must cross the freeway to attend Kenilworth Junior High School and visit the adjacent municipal swimming pool.

Cancer Threat Sparks Search For Classmates

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The possibility that Hodgkin's Disease, a form of cancer heretofore thought to be noncommunicable, may have swept through a group of former classmates has started a search for members of the Class of 1954 at Albany High School.

Dr. Peter Greenwald, director of the cancer control bureau of the State Health Department, says 13 class members and their close contacts have contracted the disease, which affects the lymphatic system.

Eight of the 13 are dead. Only 50 of the 317 members in the class have been located to date.

The National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., is looking into the matter. A spokesman cautions that a report on the case by a group of Albany doctors needs further investigation.

Hay Truck Plunge Hurts Worker, 21

Daniel Maderios, 21, of Sebastopol, was reported in good condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with back and leg injuries suffered when he fell from a hay truck at 6:10 a.m. today at the Bresciani Hay Market, 399 Eucalyptus Avenue, Cotati.

College Schedules Marin 37 Benefit

A benefit for the defense of the 37 persons arrested at the San Rafael draft board and for the Marin Peace Coalition will be held at 9 p.m. next Thursday at the College of Marin Student Center.

"Beefy Red," "Clover," "Circus," and surprise guests will be featured in the concert, with lights by Vulcan Lite.

10 Feet Meant The Difference

DUARTE, Calif. (UPI)—The Marine jet which collided with an Air West DC9 June 6 apparently tried to bank away and a matter of only 10 feet could have prevented the loss of 50 lives, a federal investigator said Wednesday.

George R. Baker, chief of the investigating team from the National Transportation Safety Board, also said the commercial jetliner was struck in two places.

The right wing tip of the Marine Phantom F4 impacted near the front of the passenger section of the DC9 and the vertical stabilizer of the fighter sliced through the airliner cockpit at about floor level, he said.

Baker declined to say, however, which plane hit the other.

Meanwhile, the first lawsuit arising from the crash was filed on behalf of the family of one of the 50 victims. The family of James R. Reeves asked $1 million from Air West and their attorney indicated a claim also would be filed against El Toro Mrine Corps Air Station, home base of the Phantom involved in the collision.

Agreement On Relocation Of Marin Aqueduct

The North Marin County Water District board has approved an agreement with the state for relocation of a stretch of aqueduct to make way for the planned Highway 101 bypass in Novato.

Directors approved an agreement Tuesday night whereby the state will pay 97.3 per cent of the cost, $540,000 out of $563,000, reported James D. Fritz, chief engineer.

Plans are to relocate 7,000 feet of the district's 19-inch aqueduct along Highway 101 between Atherton Avenue and north of the Sportsman Lodge.

Fritz said the district has to pay for relocation where its line now lies in state right-of-way, about 190 feet.

Florida Violence: 2 Hurt, 22 Held

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —At least 22 persons were arrested Wednesday night and early today, and two persons—both newsmen—injured in a night of scattered violence in the predominently black east side of Jacksonville.

Duval County Undersheriff D.K. Brown linked the disorders with a continuing protest by some members of the black community over the killing of a 15-year-old black youth last week by a white policeman, who has been suspended.

TV REVIEW

Looking For Ideal Vacation?

By RICK DU BROW.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The two-page advertisement begins: "KQED, a noncommercial television station in San Francisco, is desperate for money."

There then follows an explanation of how the station, Channel 9, hopes to improve its financial situation, and rarely has an advertisement offered such a romantically wild scheme.

For $10,000, for instance, it will arrange "a month's honeymoon (or otherwise) on a houseboat in the Vale of Kashmir, for yourselves or as a gift (per couple)." For $4,500, it will send off the contributor on "a week with a team investigating the Loch Ness monster."

But that's not all. There are 37 purchaseable experiences (many of them rare) listed in the ad, which appears in the June 12 issue of the New Yorker Magazine. Among them:

—"Two weeks in Shangri-La (Hunza) ... $8,000."

—"A month's apprenticeship in a Geisha house ... $5,000."

—"A week at Chateau Mouton-Rothschild as the guest of Baron and Baroness Philippe de Rothschild (for two) ... $15,000."

Explaining itself, the advertisement says: "This is not a joke ... like other noncommercial stations, we sell memberships starting at $14.50 and offer cookbooks and the like as added inducements for $25.000 or more. That doesn't raise nearly enough, particularly as we aim much of our programming towards less-than-rich segments of the community.

"We originated the annual on-the-air auction ... during which donated items like a Rolls Royce car, a trip to Europe, or a dinner with some celebrity or other occasionally bring in contributions of over $1,000. Its till isn't enough, but it started us thinking: Why not make the auction a year-round thing in effect? Or to put it another way, why not offer 'premiums' for which prospective members would give, not $25, but $500, $1,000, or even $15,000?"

And so the ad lists such buyable experiences as:

—"A week-long trip to Mexico City in your own private, ornate Victorian railroad car (party of four) ... $20,000."

— "Two weeks with a Lapp family inside the Arctic Circle ... $5,000."

—"A hall and an audience (minimum 200) for your lecture on the subject of your choice, recitations, readings, or musical performance ... $1,500."

—"A week on the road with the San Francisco Giants ... $9,000."

At the end of KQED's ad, there is a clip-out mail coupon in which readers can write in the experience they wish to buy. They also have the option of checking off an added paragraph that says:

"I'm very sorry, but I can't afford any of the above. However, I enjoyed your advertisement. I understand it cost you some $9,000 to run, and you seem like nice people. Therefore, here's a little something to help pay for it and tide you over until the bigger shooters respond."

3 UC Editors Are Acquitted

BERKELEY (UPI) —Three University of California student newspaper editors were acquitted Wednesday of charges brought against them for the controversial People's Park editorial.

James Blodgett, 21, Fran Hawthorne, 19, and David dozier, 22, were found innocent of "conduct which adversely affects a student's suitability as a member of the academic community."

They were also acqsitted on a charge of "using university facilities for organizing and carrying out unlawful activities."

Road Tests Termed Feasible For Smog

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Compulsory testing of on-the-road cars for smog emissions is "feasible in terms of emission, program costs, vehicle owner costs, and public opinion," the state Air Resources Board was told yesterday.

The board received results of a $401,000 study conducted by the Northrop Corp. for the state.

Of the three major components of smog, the study found, an inspection program will "significantly reduce" carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions, but oxides of nitrogen produced by pre-1970 cars "may increase."

"The monetary investment to achieve tha expected reduction in emissions would be justifiable," the study found. "It would cost three to five times more to eliminate by other methods comparable amounts of pollutants beyond the capability of control systems that are already on vehicles."

But the study warned that "sufficient personnel with the technical skills required for the inspection program are not yet available."

It found one case where $169 worth of repairs were done when "the car needed only an idle adjustment. This type of occurrence would cause the motorists to lose confidence in the program. Some means should be found to eliminate the cost for unjustifiable repair."

The program recommended by Northrop would cost $20 million to start, the report said, with the federal government paying for up to two-thirds of the cost, although federal funds will probably not be available until next fiscal year.

"The cost of the inspection system includes cost to the motorists in terms of repair work that will be required, and initial investment for the program," the document stated. "Inconvenience and annoyance to the motorist was not included in the total cost."

The report found that:

— "Inspection should be performed by the state, and repairs be performed by private enterprise."

—"There appears to be a public acceptance of a vehicle inspection program in California as a means to reduce air pollution."

— "Instrumentation and equipment which can be adapted to the requirements are available for a network of inspection stations."

Justice Department Files Fair Housing Act Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Justice Department yesterday filed suits in federal district court charging an apartment building operator and a housing rental listing service in northern California with racial discrimination.

The two suits brought to 95 the number of cases the federal government has filed charging violations of the 1968 Fair Housing Act. The Justice Department last Monday filed a group of six suits charging violations in five different states.

The defendents named in the new suits were the Youritan Construction Co., of Palo Alto, which operates eight apartment buildings in Palo Alto and Mountain View, and Wesco Land and Management, Inc., of San Leandro, the rental service.

The Justice Department asked the district court to issue injunctions against alleged discrimination and to order the firms to take affirmative steps to correct the alleged practices.

Youritan, a corporation doing business as the Tan Construction Co., was accused of falsely claiming it had no apartments available when blacks applied for them and of discriminating against blacks in its rental terms and services provided.

These practices, the suit said, constitute "a pattern or practice of resistance to full enjoyments of rights granted by the Civil Rights Act of 1968 — which denial raises an issue of general public importance."

The Wesco firm, described as a real estate sales and rental company, was accused of discriminating against blacks in its housing rental listing service.

The company obtains listings of vacancies from owners of rental apartments and charges 25 per cent of the first month's rent as a fee for referring prospective customers, the suit said.

The defendent refused to show black prospects the listings it had in all white or predominantly white neighborhoods while making these listing available to white persons, the suit said.

The defendent also advised black persons that dwellings in white residential areas were not available when, in fact, they were available, the suit said.

Demo Apportion Plan Nullified

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge has ruled invalid the Democratic Party's new formula for apportionment of state delegates to its 1972 national convention.

Judge June L. Green said in a U.S. District Court decision Wednesday the formula would be "discriminatory" against Democrats in some states.

Under the plan announced last February, just half the total delegation would be selected on the basis of a state's electoral college strength. The balance would be named on the basis of the state's Democratic votes in the previous presidential election.

For instance, a state that went Republican in 1968 would lose strength at the convention to a state that went Democratic.

The suit was filed by the Center for Political Reform, headed by Kennth Bode. Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and the state parties in New York and California supported the suit.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., general counsel for the Democratic National Committee, said the ruling would be appealed.

Pilot Charged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Coast Guard Wednesday charged a San Francisco Bay pilot with negligence for the June 7 grounding of the oil tanker Meteora near the Benicia-Martinez Bridge on the Carquinez Strait.

DEFENDANT'S FAMILY — Mrs. Candida Corona (left), mother of accused mass murder suspect Juan Corona, and Corona's wife, Gloria, left the Yuba City courtroom hand in hand yesterday after Corona won a delay in his preliminary hearing and his attorney asserted Corona is innocent and has nothing to hide. Tam Teacher Pay Team Sees Impasse

The negotiating team for Tamalpais High School District teachers has declared a state of impasse in salary negotiations with the district officials.

Cause of the impasse, according to teacher representative Robert M. Kuehnl, is the district's refusal to submit counter proposals.

The deadlock — called Tuesday under a policy which allows either side to call for a mediator when no progress has been made for 30 days — follows about 12 negotiating sessions.

"These meetings have been negotiations in name only," said Kuehnl, who is chairman of the certificated employees council — bargaining agent for the teachers.

He said the board has given its three-man team no latitude and that each teacher proposal would be met with a statement by the district's team that it was unable to present a counter proposal.

Kuehnl said the teachers have cut in half their original pay package proposal of 11 per cent during the "meet and confer" sessions but to no avail.

While acknowledging that such session sometimes run throughout the summer, he said proposed increases in coaches pay must be approved by June 30 or district athletic programs may be jeopardized.

Friday has been tentatively set to meet with a mutually agreed upon mediator, he said.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said yesterday the board's negotiating team had not presented counter proposals because of uncertainty by trustees over next year's budget.

"The (board's) negotiating team is not playing games with the staff," he said. "It's just not in a position to offer counter-proposals."

Hawkins said he felt the board, after receiving additional budget information next week, would be in a position to direct its negotiators.

"Right now they (trustees) don't know what the cost of education or tax rate is going to be next year" so as to judge salary increases, he said.

Panel Approves Oil Drilling Ban

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing the state Lands Commission to halt offshore oil drilling conducted in a "hazardous manner" was approved Wednesday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, also would expand the three-member commission adding two public members appointed by the Assembly speaker and the Senate Rules Committee. The commission now is made up of the lieutenant governor, the controller and director of finance.

Moretti's bill also declares the Santa Barbara Channel ultrahazardous for oil operations and bans drilling there until the commission allows it to resume.

The legislation was opposed by the Reagan administration partly because it could cost the state $258 million a year in oil revenues.

Judge Dismisses Forgery Charge

Charges of check forgery against James Chalmers Ropp, 21, and Diane Francis Ropp, 20, both of San Rafael, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge David Menary Jr. dismissed the charges at the request of the district attorney's office which reported the pair had made restitution.

They were arrested Feb. 28 when the manager of a San Rafael market recognized checks they tried to cash belonging to another customer.

Opera Set Tomorrow At School

"Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss will be presented at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

The musical will be produced by the San Francisco Lamplighters and sponsored by the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

This is the first Marin County production of the Lamplighters in the organization's 19-year history. It will be the 13th and 14th productions of this musical by this group this season.

Valda Claire Holleman, Terra Linda High School teacher, will be featured in the role of Sally. She will fly to Europe following the Saturday night roduction.

Others in the cast include: Eisenstein, sung by director Orva Hoskinson, who is also founder of the Lamplighters; Rosalinda by Claire Latham; Adele by Lajulia Hill; Alfred by Kenneth Malucelli; Doctor Falke by Eugene Bartlett and Prince Orlofski, often sung by a contralto, by William Neil, bass-baritone.

Meeting Off

Tonight's adjourned meeting of the Reed School District board has been canceled for lack of a quorum. The meeting will be rescheduled for next week.

Corona Gets Delay In Massacre Case

YUBA CITY (UPI)—Insisting Juan V. Corona is innocent and "has nothing to be ashamed of," the mass murder suspect's new attorney Wednesday won a month's delay in his preliminary hearing.

Corona, 37, charged with 10 counts of murder in the killing of 25 itinerant farm workers, sat quietly in court during his second appearance before Judicial Court Judge J. J. Hankins.

"Mr. Corona is innocent; he has nothing to hide," said Richard Hawk, the farm labor contractor's new lawyer.

He obtained a delay of the preliminary hearing until July 13 so he will have time to familiarize himself with the case.

The attorney told the judge he would look out for Corona's interests in news coverage of the sensational case and later told reports he was "giving real consideration" to asking for a change of venue.

District Attorney G. David Teja raised the issue of news coverage, saying he was "a little disturbed," particularly about photographs, and wanted to go on the record as being "concerned about due process."

"The people of the United States have got a right to know about this," said Hawk after the hearing. "His privacy has already been invaded so how are you going to avoid it?"

But the attorney added it was "unfortunate" the news media had reported Corona's three-month stay in a state mental hospital after being diagnosed as schizophrenic in 1956.

"It's inadmissable (in court) unless he enters a plea of innocent by reason of insanity," Hawk said. "There's no plan to enter such a plea."

He said the change of venue might be necessary because "it's difficult for a defendant to find people who haven't formed an opinion."

Corona, wearing a dark blue sports coat and a white shirt and tie, sat quietly through the proceedings. Several members of his family, including his mother, wife and three brothers, were in court.

The defendant "has nothing to be ashamed of and he wants to be present in court," Hawk told the judge.

Hankins ordered copies of prosecution evidence, including photos and items found at Corona's home, turned over to the defense attorney "as soon as possible."

The judge also issued a bench warrant for Juan C. Mosqueda, 50, a farm worker from Stockton, Calif., who was previously jailed as a material witness. The district attorney requested the warrant after Mosqueda failed to show up for the hearing.

Assembly Kills Pro-Smoking Bill For 15-Year-Olds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A gasping, laughing Assembly has killed a bill allowing students over 15 to smoke cigarettes at school if thy have their parents' written permission.

Youngsters are already smoking while school officials look the other way, the Assembly was told Wednesday by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz. His bill died on a 18-42 vote.

But Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, his tongue in his cheek, wondered about the side effects of allowing 15-year-olds to smoke.

He asked members to consider the added cost of ashtrays on already financially burdened school districts and said if students can smoke at 15 they may want to vote at 15.

The legal smoking age is now 18.

Vida Blue Continues Incredible Winning Streak

Vida Blue again was trying hard to relax while surrounded by the usual post-game army of reporters. He had just fired win No. 14 of an incredible season by setting down the Washington Senators Wednesday night, 5-1.

The 21-year-old southpaw of the Oakland A's has six starts remaining before July 13. He could conceivably win 20 games prior to the All-Star game —a remarkable feat.

''It's pretty hard to avoid being affected by the pressure when so many people come out to see the games I pitch," Blue said. "Everybody seems to want to see Vida 'do his thing'."

While fans and reporters conjure visions of baseball's first 30-game winner since Denny McLain, Blue looks forward only to his next start. It seems almost painful for him to talk of the future.

"I'm just pitching, man," Blue said quietly. "To win 20 games would be great in itself. Whether it comes before the All-Star game or three weeks later, it's all the same to me."

Blue's record is remarkable not only because of his number of victories, but also because of the way in which he has won.

He has won 14 of his 17 starts and all of his victories have been complete games. He has allowed more than six hits in only one game this season. He leads the American League in shutouts with five and in strikeouts with 133.

In his 139 1-3 innings of work this year, he has allowed only four home runs.

Yet, the question must be asked whether Blue can continue to work so many innings throughout the season and still win.

"I feel I can do it," Blue said. "But by everybody making a big fuss over my accomplishments so far, it just puts added pressure on me."

The most innings Vida has pitched in his career was 152 for Burlington of the Midwest League in 1968.

A's manager Dick Williams obviously has confidence in his southpaw ace.

"He adjusts quickly," Williams said. ''This is what makes him a great pitcher aside from the stuff he's got."

The A's supported Blue with all their runs in the first three innings, all on bases empty homers against Washington Starter McLain (4-12).

Former Senator Mike Epstein belted a pair of long shots off MCLain and tied a two-game major league record by hitting home runs on four consecutive at-bats.

''I'm not going to do that again in my career," Epstein said with a smile. "After I hit that first homer, Denny told me 'you hit the ball so far I got a strained neck just watching it.' "

Epstein's homers were his seventh and eighth of the season. Joe Rudi added his eighth and ninth and Dave Duncan walloped No. 9.

Epstein, traded by the Senators to Oakland May 8, had a chance to set a record with his fifth straight homer. But he struck out against Paul Lindblad, the relief pitcher who was part of the Epstein trade.

The victory widened the A's lead in the A.L. West to 6 1-2 games over the Kansas City Royals.

"I have a great deal of respect for the Kansas City Royals," manager Williams said. "But for the first time this season we're 20 games over .500. If we keep winning, nobody can catch us."

The A's, who drew 19,893 to the Oakland Coliseum Wednesday night, begin an eight-game road swing Friday night in Milwaukee.

Nicklaus The Man To Beat

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—One hundred and forty-nine rivals were worrying just as much today about Jack Nicklaus, the man to beat, as they were about the short but dangerous Merion Golf Club, the course to beat, as play began in the first round of the 71st U. S. Open Golf championship.

Nicklaus, the reigning PGA champion, was the overwhelming favorite in a star-studded field of 135 pros and 15 amateurs, as befits the man who holds both the Open tournament record of 275 and the Merion course record of 269.

England's Tony Jacklin, who won the crown in Chaska, Minn., last year when he was the only man in the field to break par for 72 holes, is the Open's defending champion and he says he "feels ready to play some good golf."

But Nicklaus is the popular choice of just about everyone to win the four-day battle over the 6,544-yard, par-70 Merion layout which is the site of the Open championship for the third time.

"Jack has been playing so well," said outspoken Dave Hill, "that it's almost embarrassing to watch him."

"He's capable of shooting any score," agreed Deane Beman.

Nicklaus started this year with high hopes of becoming the first golfer in history to win all four of the world's major pro championships — a pro "Grand Slam" including the Masters, Open, PGA, and British Open titles. He won the PGA in February in West Palm Beach, Fla., but the "Slam" idea went out the window when he finished behind Texan Charles Coody in the Masters in April.

But Nicklaus' interest in winning the Open wasn't diminished by his Masters defeat. In fact, he was the only man in the Open field who showed up here as early as Wednesday of last week to practice over the tricky Merion course. Nicklaus himself frankly confessed that he was surprised others didn't come when he did "because this isn't the kind of a course you just walk in and start playing well."

Nicklaus set the Merion course record of 11-under-par 269 for 72 holes back in 1960 when he won the World Amateur here. He's shooting for his third Open championship —having won in 1962 at Oakmont, Pa., and again in 1967 at Springfield, N.J., when he broke Ben Hogan's Open record with a 275.

With Nicklaus in top form, many observers are forecasting a new tournament record either by him or by whoever is sharp enough to beat him. But in the process, the winner is going to have to beat a golf course as tricky as it is rich in tradition.

Rough Road Trip Ends For Giants

Philadelphia (UPI) —After getting little brotherly love in Philadelphia, the June-smitten San Francisco Giants flew quietly to the West Coast.

Today is an off-day for the Giants but it's a good bet manager Charlie Fox will have a few of his boys taking some licks at Candlestick Park. Bats of the Giants have been rather lethargic during a 4-11 spell in June.

Latest humiliation was 6-3 to Jim Bunning, Joe Hoerner and the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night to close out the road trip with a 3-6 record.

For the 14th time in June, a Giants starter again failed to go the route. Steve Stone started for San Francisco and was removed after 4 2-3 innings with the Giants trailing 4-2. But all four runs off Stone, now 4-5, were unearned and came after a throwing error by third baseman Alan Gallagher.

In the second inning, John Vukovich singled and took second on a groundout. Denny Doyle walked and Stone struck out Bunning for the second out. Stone appeared out of the inning when he induced Terry Harmon to hit an easy bouncer to Gallagher.

Alan fielded the ball cleanly but whistled a throw past first baseman Willie McCovey to allow Vukovich and Doyle to score.

Then Tim McCarver followed with a two-run homer to make it 4-0. It was McCarver's fifth home run of the season and three of them have come against the Giants.

The Giants got back two of the runs in the third. Gallagher rapped a double off Bunning and Tito Fuentes blasted his first homer of the season over the right-centerfield fence.

Los Angeles lost to the Mets Wednesday to keep the front-running Giants five games ahead of the runnerup Dodgers in the National League West.

The Giants play five games against the San Diego Padres this weekend, including a twi-night doubleleader Friday and two more games on Sunday. The Chicago Cubs are in town for two games next Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday.

Nolan Will Appear At Marin Banquet

Ray Bennigson is ecstatic. The president of the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers Club, confirmed yesterday that Dick Nolan, the head coach of the San Francisco professional football team, will appear at the local club's annual banquet June 29.

"In addition to Nolan," said Bennigson, a former UCLA gridder, "we'll have at least 15 players, coaches and front office personnel at the banquet."

Preceding the banquet, which will be open to the public at $12 a pop ($12 for Mom, too), the Niners will join Goal Rushers in a golf tournament at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Nolan, who won't be able to play in the tournament, will bring assistant coaches Chet Franklin, Don Heinrich and Mike Giddings along with promotions director Dick Berg and treasurer Nate Scardigli. Forty-Niner players who will compete in the tournament include Randy Beisler, Ted Kwalik, Alvin Randolph, Johnny Fuller, Braden Beck, Bill Tucker, Bruce Gossett and possibly Gene Washington and Bruce Taylor.

Taylor and center Forrest Blue will receive the Goal Rushers' "Serendipity Award" as the team's most pleasant surprises at the banquet that night.

MARIN COUNTY will be ably represented at tonight's annual Police Activities League (PAL) softball game at the Cow Palace between Reno Barsocchini's Very Important Persons and the KSFO No-Stars.

On KSFO's side will be Jim Lange of Kentfield, Pete Scott of Sausalito, Al Newman of San Rafael, Carter B. Smith of Tiburon, Terry McGovern and Gene Nelson of Sausalito, Jeff Skov of San Anselmo and Chet Casselman of Greenbrae.

The VIPs will include members of the 49ers, Raiders, Giants and other Bay Area big shots.

SPEAKING OF big shots, George R. Hettema of Fairfax has been appointed a rifle, pistol and shotgun instructor by the National Rifle Association. I thought you'd get a bang out of that.

CHRISTMAS IN JUNE? Youngsters will be treated to several goodies this weekend at the Sports Car Racing Association competition at Laguna Seca.

Every kid 12 and younger who attends will receive a model Johnny Lightning race car, a package of racing decals, an STP auto race color book and a pen while the first 500 youths through the turnstiles will get a T-shirt.

Says Jerry Diamond of Marin, publicizing the event: "All sports have had give-away days to attract the younger generation, so auto racing is getting into the act by bunching all its gift days into one."

Jackie Robinson Son Is Killed

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) — Jack Roosevelt Robinson, Jr., son of the Baseball Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson, died early today when his speeding auto rolled over and hit a bridge abutment. He was 24.

State Police at Westport said Robinson was traveling at a high rate of speed when his auto apparently hit a fence on the Merritt Parkway near Rt. 123. The car rolled over and hit the abutment about 2:20 a.m., police said.

Marin Stars Clash

Len Hoffman and Mike Johnson, a couple of pitchers with tremendous ability but dubious season records, will start for the North and South respectively tonight in the second annual Marin County All Star High School baseball game at Albert Park in San Rafael.

North coach Jack Sims of San Rafael High School and South mentor Al Ahlsten of Tamalpais announced their starting lineups this morning for the Knights of Columbus-sponsored charity game, which will begin at 8 o'clock. Both the solid strength of the North and the makeshift character of the South are reflected in the lineups.

Hoffman, from San Marin High, posted a 1-3 won-lost record during the Marin County Athletic League season, while Johnson of Tamalpais was 0-4. Both showed flashes of greatness, however, and could come up with big efforts in this game. Each team has an ace hurler in reserve — Novato's Dave Judnick for the North, and Marin Catholic's Tom Olson for the South.

Four All-MCAL stars are in the lineup for the North; the first three batters, centerfielder Jim Thomspon of San Marin, second baseman Jim Thorne of San Rafael and first baseman Larry Kerr of Terra Linda all made the all league first team. After Kerr will come Terra Linda rightfielder Bill Sherbert, San Rafael leftfielder Holte Greene, third baseman Randy Jackson from Novato, shortstop John Kidder from Novato, catcher Jack Burnam from San Marin, and finally Hoffman. Burnam is the North's other all-leaguer.

The South has only one all-leaguer, Olson, who will be hitting second and playing shortstop. Leading off will be Drake's Steve Hale at second base. Johnson will hit third, followed by Drake centerfielder John Loane, Tamalpais catcher Bill Rudolph, and Drake's Mike Bauman at first base. He is a catcher by trade, but was switched to first for this game because the South lacks infielders.

Tickets, at $2 for adults and $1 for students with student body cards, will be available at the gate. Pre-game activities begin at 7:30.

A Big Hand For Tom Olson

Tom Olson, who pitched Marin Catholic High School to the Marin County Athletic League baseball championship and then fired a pair of shutouts as the Wildcats won the Tournament of Champions, has been named the 1971 Marin County recipient of the Bay Area Big Hand scholarship.

Tony Compagno of Redwood High, a member of the scholarship committee for Marin, announced the award yesterday. Olson will receive the $2,000 scholarship tomorrow night at Meadow Club in Fairfax, at a dinner following a golf tournament there which will help raise the money.

The Scholarship, now in its 10th year, went last year to Jerry Piro of Redwood, and the year before to Dave Alvarado of Drake.

Marin Kids Take Beating In Junior Tennis Tourney

Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, Marin County's top 18-year-old tennis player, breezed to one victory and struggled to another while other local players took a lot of losses yesterday in the ninth annual Belvedere Junior Tennis Tournament at the Belvedere Tennis Club.

Marin players won only 12 matches while losing 34 in the third day of the tourney, which is also the Northern California Junior Sectional Championships. Bee Kilgore of Tiburon, the county's ranking girl player, won in the girls' 16 age class, and highly-rated Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae was victorious in a girls' 14 match.

Suyderhoud took his second round match from Jeff Samuels of Vallejo, 6-2, 7-5, and then disposed of Visalia's Kurt Nielson in the third round, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Suyderhoud was the only Marin player to win twice yesterday.

The tourney continues today.

College Coaches Rip AAU

SEATTLE (UPI) —The executive committee of the U.S. Track Coaches Association has demanded that the Amateur Athletic Union cease "harassment and threats of ineligibility" against athletes competing in meets sanctioned by the rival U.S. Track and Field Federation.

The coaches group, meeting here on the eve of the NCAA track championships, also said Wednesday it "demands the AAU cease blocking the application of USTFF for membership in the United States Olympic Committee."

And it further asked that the AAU "cease its efforts to inhibit the foreign tours planned by the USTFF and its constituent members."

The coaches also demanded that the AAU accept a world record set by high hurdler Thomas Hill of Arkansas State at the USTFF meet in Wichita, Kan., June 13, 1970, and forward it to the IAAF.

The USTFF is a branch of the NCAA which long has been at odds with the AAU.

SPORTS SHORTS

Giants Sign Free Agents; A's Sell Ramon Webster

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Top pick Joseph Ricelli, a left-handed pitcher from Syracuse, N.Y., is among 10 free agents signed by the San Francisco Giants.

Others are first baseman Phillih James of Kansas University and Steve Stroughter of Visalia; second basemen Bill Wolfe of Fresno State and David Walski of UC Santa Barbara; pitchers Greg Thayer of St. Cloud, Minn., and David Fuqua, Bend, Ore.; third baseman Bill Adkinson of Central Washington College, and shortstops Harold J. Ingle of Campbell College, N.C., and Bruce Wright of Richmond, Va.

OAKLAND (UPI) — Reserve infielder Ramon Webster of the Oakland A's, sent to Iowa on Monday, was sold Wednesday to the Chicago Cubs of the National League.

The 28-year-old infielder needs 10 more days on a big-league roster to qualify for a four-year pension.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Jim Willoughby of Phoenix is not averse to putting men on base, but once they get there they stay there.

Latest PCL pitching statistics show the Phoenix hurler leading the league in walks and wild pitches, but still possessing the lowest earned run mark in the league, 2.60.

Basketball

MILPITAS (UPI) —A group of Samuel Ayer High School students today claimed the marathon basketball playing record after a 130-hour game that produced a score of 11,233-10,061.

They said the old record of 126 hours was held by a high school in Washington state.

Thirty-nine players participated in the project, which raised money for uniforms. Three had to leave because of leg injuries, but they all later returned to action.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— The Portland Trail Blazer rookies overpowered the Japanese national basketball team, 115-63, Wednesday night as former UCLA star Sidney Wicks grabbed 13 rebounds and scored 16 points.

Track

SEATTLE (UPI) — Bill Bowerman, track coach at the University of Oregon the last 23 years, has been named outdoor track and field coach of the year by the United States Track Coaches Association.

Announcement of Bowerman's selection was made Wednesday night by Al Buehler, of Duke University and president of the coaches association.

During his tenure at Oregon, Bowerman has led teams which have won or shared four NCAA team k.mpionships.

Soccer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Guadalajara of Oakland, champion of Northern California, faces the German Americans of Los Angeles in Balboa Stadium Sunday for the state soccer championship.

Marin Speedsters Shoot For Laguna Seca Honors

A dozen drivers from Marin County, including San Rafael's sensational Jon Woodner, will be competing this weekend in the Olympia Sprints at Laguna Raceway near Monterey.

The races, sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America, will be worth national championship points, thus drawing top competition from throughout Northern California. Also featured will be triumph factory teams from Gardena, Calif., Falls Church, Va., and San Rafael.

Woodner, three time Northern Pacific Divisional SCCA champion and current points leader in class F production, will drive for Joe Huffaker's Automotive Engineering team, which is based in San Rafael. Huffaker is entering an MGB in class E production, and an MG Midget in class F production, and Woodner will handle both cars.

Other Marin drivers entered are Tom Crowther of Kentfield and Ed Stow of Sausalito in Formula Fords, Carl Von Doymi of Greenbrae and Stuart Fisher of San Rafael in Formula Vees, Harold Kirberg of Mill Valley in a Porsche, John Mahall of Corte Madera in a Sprite, Bob Lusk of Novato in an Alfa Romeo, Austin Walther of Novato in an Anglia, Dr. John Korn of Novato in an NSU and Hugh Harn of Belvedere in a Camaro.

Both the Gardena and Falls Church teams, like Huffaker's, are sponsored by British Leyland Motors, Inc., marketers of Triumphs and MGs. Three new Triumphs Sportsters, a TR - 6, a GT - 6 and a Spitfire will make up the Gardena contingent, from the Kastner Brophy stable in Gardena.

The Falls Church team, part of an organization known as Group 44, will consist of three Trimphs and an MGB. This will make the first time that Group 44 has raced in Northern California.

Woodner will have fierce competition in his races, both of which will take place Saturday. He'll go against Jerry Truitt of the Group 44 team in the E production race, and against John Kelley of Group 44 and Lee Mueller of the Gardena team in the F production event. All three of his opponents are former national champions.

C and D production races will be held Sunday. Saturday is a practice day.

Tickets can be purchased at a discount from six locations in Marin and Sonoma counties: Greyhound Bus depots in Mill Valley, Novato, and Petaluma, the Emporium at Northgate, Macy's in San Rafael, and the Hamilton Air Force Base Service Club in San Rafael.

GOLF

Palacio Attempts A Repeat

Former California Amateur Champion Mat Palacio of San Rafael and two other golfers from Marin County will be among the field of 200 which will gather at Pebble Beach next Monday for qualifying rounds of the 60th annual state amateur tourney.

Palacio, 55, who won the title in 1936, will be joined in the elite tourney by two Sausalito residents, Robert Ireland and Richard Thompson. They will be trying for the crown vacated by last year's winner, Bob Risch of Gardena. He turned pro.

The tourney will be played on the Pebble Beach and Cypress Point courses, with 18-hole qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday. The 64 players with the lowest gross scores after that move on to the Championship flight.

ALSO STARTING on Monday will be the California Golf Association Handicap Tournament at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. One Marin player, Carlos Morales of Tiburon, is entered in it. Morales' handicap is 11.

RESULTS OF action last week and Sonoma county courses.

ABA Cagers In Favor Of Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Basketball Association players aren't going to support the National Basketball Association players in their opposition to the proposed pro basketball merger.

Zelmo Beaty, the president of the ABA Players' Association, said Wednesday the players in his league support the merger because it might be impossible for some of the ABA teams to continue if the leagues don't merge.

Larry Fleisher, attorney for the NBA Players' Association, called the ABA players' decision "insanity or perhaps selfishness on the part of some individuals."

He added, "I think from the ABA players' point of view that merger is also unattractive. I'm surprised by some of the players who said they favored a merger which would allow two employers to get together and take away their employees' right to negotiate for a salary. Some of the players who are saying they favor merger have benefitted the most from having two leagues."

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph said he was "extremely pleased and proud" of the ABA Players' Association.

"This is a selfless act on the part of the ABA Players' Association leadership in that some of them have, and could, benefit by non-merger," Dolph added.

The ABA players are planning to lobby in Congress in an attempt to keep the owners from getting legislative approval for the merger.

Softball Shutouts

A pair of shutouts were recorded last night in San Rafael adult softball league games at Albert Park. Cain's Tires blanked Bandon Tire, 2-0, and Perry's downed the Dobes, 3-0.

Wimbledon Losing Prestige: Riessen

LONDON (UPI)—Prestige is all very well but it doesn't pay the grocery bills, says Marty Riessen, and that's why Wimbledon's status as the premier tennis tournament is in danger.

The World Championship Tennis pro from Evanston, Ill., is unhappy about the prize money up for grabs at the June 21-July 3 All-England tournament.

Riessen, one of three Americans advancing to today's quarter-finals of the London Grass Courts championships—the traditional Wimbledon rehearsal--said the men's singles prize should be doubled.

This year's men's singles champion at Wimbledon will collect $9,000. The womens winner gets $4,320.

"The men's prize should be at least $20,000, Riessen said, and if they want to keep Wimbledon as the world's top tournament they are going to have to boost the prizes accordingly."

Riessen, a graduate of Northwestern University where he holds a masters of Education degree, joined WCT in 1968 and he said money is what tennis is all about these days.

"Wimbledon is still No. 1, but Forest Hills (The U.S. championship) is overtaking it fast," Riessen said. "There's still a lot of prestige attached to winning at Wimbledon, but I don't mind where I play."

He reasoned: "Why play at Wimbledon when other tournaments are willing to pay more? At the Wills Open in Bristol last week they offered more money for a one week tournament."

Riessen eliminated two fellow Americans Wednesday to reach the last eight at the Queens Club tournament. He beat Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, Calif., 9-7, 3-6, 7-5 in the second round and 43-year-old Pancho Gonzales, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2 in the third.

Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., and Tom Gorman, Seattle, Wash., were the other Americans who joined a formidable array of Australian talent in the quarter-finals.

Smith, seeded fourth here and at Wimbledon, beat Ray Ruffels of Australia 6-3, 6-4 and the unseeded Gorman toppled yet another Aussie, Terry Addison, 8-6, 6-3.

In the quaters, Riessen, seeded seventh here but omitted from the eight Wimbledon seedings, was drawn against Smith and Gorman got Wimbledon top seed Rod Laver as "Reward" for his victory.

The other quarter-finals pitted John Newcombe against Ross Case and Owen Davidson against Roy Emerson — the "outsider" who dumped Cliff Richey and South African Cliff Drysdale on the same day Tuesday. Richey, San Angelo, Tex., was seeded sixth here and at Wimbledon and Drysdale is the eigth seed at the All-English tournament.

Suburban Drops Softball Pair

Collecting only three hits in each game, Suburban Auto of San Rafael dropped both ends of a non-league softball doubleheader yesterday against the LeBlanc Barons at Sunnyvale.

The Barons, who have represented Northern California in the national championship tournament, got superb pitching from Guy French in the opener and Merle Drake in the nightcap to sew up wins by scores of 3-2 and 3-0.

Kinney Services: Hold Or Convert?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 80 shares each of Kinney Services $1.25 and $0.05 convertible preferred. I would appreciate your comments on these issues. Should I hold or convert; I am near retirement age? — W.H.

A. This company has its finger in a number of pies, most of which are profitable. Leisure time interests, which account for 75 per cent of earnings, include movie and TV serial production, publishing, music recording, and photographic optical equipment. In addition, Kinney provides services such as industrial maintenance, banking, parking systems and funeral chapels.

Earnings have moved ahead regularly since 1966 and for the year ended Sept. 30, 1970 net rose 22 per cent to $1.90 a share. For the first half of the current fiscal year, sales and earnings gained 17 percent and 8 percent, respectively. For the full year improvement should be at least as good as that of the first half, due to stepped up motion picture releases.

There would be little financial incentive for you to convert at this time. The $1.25 preferred, while trading in line with conversion value, provides a better yield than the common. The $0.05 Series C preferred is trading at a wide premium over its conversion value thus conversion would entail sizable capital loss.

Q. Would you give your opinion along with any information you may have on Fisher Foods? — J.A.

A. Fisher operates a regional chain of 104 supermarkets and several discount department stores. Of these supermarkets, 34 were acquired through mergers in 1968. Last year a $5 million equity investment was made in a fast food franchiser and more recently 106 franchised fish and chips outlets were purchased.

Twenty-three Kroger Company stores in the Chicago area, which were acquired in 1970, are being remodeled and reopened as Dominick's Finer Foods units. Although costs incurred in refurbishing may restrict earnings gains this year, first quarter results, which included 12 of these new stores, appeared healthy. Sales rose 22 per cent for the period while earnings gained 20 per cent to 22 cents a share. Shares appear to have speculative merit.

Goodrich Announces July 1 Price Hikes

AKRON (UPI)—B.B. Goodrich Co. will boost prices July 1 on tires and tubes for passenger cars, trucks and off-highway vehicles in the replacement market. The increases are approximately in line with increases posted recently by Goodrich's competitors.

Passenger car tires will go up an average 3 1-2 per cent, truck and off-highway truck tires will go up 2 3-4 to 3 1-2 per cent. Farm tire prices will rise 5 1-2 per cent and tires for industrial vehicles by 2 3-4 per cent. Inner tube prices will rise 2 3-4 to 5 per cent.

HIGH-RISE MOBILE HOMES

Mobile Americana Corp., seeking possible answers to the mobile home sprawl, tried what it calls "the first high-rise mobile housing development in the country" at Vadnais Heights, Minn. The project, called SkyeRise, involved stacking nine 14-by-70 foot mobile homes with cranes in the St. Paul suburb. (UPI Telephoto)

Sonoma Mines, Inc. Is On The Brink Of Closing

SAN JOSE (BW)—The environmental scare of mercury poisoning of rivers and oceans is threatening the future of the mercury mining industry.

The West's two publicly held producers of quicksilver — another name for mercury — have called it quits, reports California Business, the Western financial weekly.

"The recent bad publicity is the final touch making it impossible for our company to stay in the mercury business," says William Shannon, president of New Idria Mining & Chemical Co.

New Idria is a 120-year-old San Jose-headquartered mining company that claims to be the biggest mercury producer in the U.S.

"Bad publicity" stemming from fears of mercury contamination is one of the things that's caused New Idria to suspend mining operations at its Almaden and Alpha-Guadalupe mines and cut back its business at the New Idria mine, all in California.

U.S. production, about 80,000 flasks a year ago, now is down to about 45,000 flasks while Canada is selling around 24,000 flasks annually and Mexico between 35,000-40,000 flasks each year.

Both Shannon and C.C. Reed, president of Sonoma Mines Inc., a Guerneville-based mercury producer, agree the price of quicksilver will rise in the future.

"The industry traditionally moves up and down," says Reed. "It always has and I'd guess in two or three years the demand for mercury will be high but we can't make a profit now."

Sonoma Mines claims it's been one of the country's leading mercury producers more than 30 years but, it said in a recent letter to shareholders, "with present low mercury prices, it appears the domestic mercury mines will have to close operations."

Sonoma is asking stockholder approval to sell 500,000 shares or about half of the company's capital stock to Dayman Co. and to change the corporate name to Sonoma International and to boost the authorized common stock to 5 million shares.

Reed says the moves are to diversify Sonoma's activities. If shareholders okay the proposals, Dayman will launch an acquisition program "to assure continued earnings for Sonoma mines," which had gross revenues of $1,168,000 from quicksilver production in the fiscal year ended last June 30. Net income was $14,996, or 1 cent a share vs. a loss of $22,387, equal to 2 cents a share in fiscal 1969.

Steel Output Fall

BRUSSELS (UPI) — European Common Market crude steel production dropped 3.3 per cent to 27 million tons in the first three months of 1971.

U.S. Coal To Europe

LUXEMBOURG (UPI) —The United States is expected to remain the European Common Market's main supplier of coal during 1971, accounting for 49 per cent of the community's expected 30.3 million total imports, according to the market's statistical office in Luxembourg.

Mixed Day For Stocks On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks were mixed in moderate trading near noon today.

Some analysts observed a general reluctance among investors to buy aggressively in the wake of the unsettled bank prime rate situation and speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may boost the discount rate soon from its current 4 3-4 per cent.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.19 at 100.71, and advances topped declines by more than 200 issues, 652 to 441.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Of the 860 issues traded, 353 pointed higher while 256 retreated.

Among the most active Amex issues were RSC Industries up fractionally on around 70,000 shares, Arctic Enterprises down more than a point on over 30,000 shares, and Carnation up slightly on 27,000 shares.

Motors and steels were narrowly mixed on the Big Board, as were rails and airlines.

Chemicals were mostly higher, while oils and electronics pointed in both directions.

Natomas rose more than 3, while stocks up a point or so included Dow Chemical, Superior Oil, and Xerox. Lockheed and Walt Disney, however, were down a point or so.

Darkroom Facilities Offered By The Tintype Photograph Center

A new business venture opened this week at 23-B Main Street in Tiburon is the Tintype Photography Center.

Owner Don Tatum, a resident of Tiburon, former advertising man and a photographic hobbyist of long standing, has a threefold operation. It is a photographic gallery. It also has a large professional darkroom for serious amateur photographers who do their own work, equipped with six enlargers, mixed chemicals and other supplies. And there will be a "camera workshop" with top professional photographers to instruct in various photographic subjects.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. Opening display in the gallery for the next month will be a one-man show by Steve Joses.

MARIN MOTORSPORTS is having its grand opening at 1101 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, Friday, Saturday and Sunday this weekend. Owners Merle (Sandy) and Marily Greenblat will have a drawing for several prizes, including two motorcycles and equipment.

STATE FUND SAFETY AWARDS have been presented to Mill Valley Lumber Co. for its record over the past five years without a single loss-time accident and to Fairfax Lumber Co., which chalked up 200,000 man-hours without a loss-time accident.

Burt

Morse

DAVID E. BURT of Ignacio is new manager at Bank of America's Napa branch after four years as assistant vice president and assistant manager of the San Rafael main office. He joined the bank at Redding in 1949 and has served also at Gridley and at San Francisco headquarters. He and his wife and children will live in Napa.

BRUCE B. MORSE of Napa has joined Redwood Bank as assistant auditor and will be headquartered at the San Rafael main office. He was previously controller of the Napa Savings and Loan Association and has had more than 15 years audit and financial control experience.

LeFebure

Taylor Charges 'Betrayal'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Retired Gen. Maxwell Taylor, formar ambassador to South Vietnam, said Wednesday he did not believe The New York Times should have published a Pentagon report on the war because it is not necessary for every citizen to know his country's secrets.

"What is a citizen going to do after reading those documents that he wouldn't have done otherwise?" Taylor asked. "A citizen should know those things he needs to know to be a good citizen and discharge his functions ... not to get in on secrets which simply damage his government and indirectly damage the citizen himself."

Taylor said he thought it was "regretable" The Times published part of the 47-volume secret Pentagon report outlining the history of U.S. involvement in Indochina through the Johnson administration. Taylor said he did not know what was in the report.

"It's the principle of the thing ...(we) have here a deliberate betrayal of government secrets. And I obviously have to be against that as a citizen," he said.

Taylor, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff and ambassador to Vietnam in 1964 and 1965, made his comments on an interview on CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite.

About the Vietnam War, Taylor said one of the worst mistakes the United States made was conniving to overthrow President Ngo Dinh Diem because it was followed by "absolutely nothing but chaos."

However, he said, the mistake was balanced by President Johnson's "two very tough, courageous decisions to go ahead at this point." He did not elaborate.

"So I would say there's one case I thought we were very badly wrong, and secondly, one place where I think we were right," he said.

European Editors Back Times Overwhelmingly

LONDON (UPI)—European newspaper editors praised the New York Times today for publishing a secret Pentagon report on U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Many said they would have done the same thing in similar circumstances.

"I am very proud of the New York Times," said Dr. Olof Lagercrantz, editor-in-chief of Stockholm's morning newspaper Dagens Nyheter. "I believe I am right when I say Dagens Nyheter would have done the same thing."

Some, such as Luc Vandeweghe of De Standaard in Brussels, said they might publish even if national security were at stake. But most agreed with Brian Roberts, 64-year-old editor of the London Sunday Telegraph, who said he felt it necessary to consider security implications.

Roberts and two other men were acquitted Feb. 2 of charges they violated Britain's 60-year-old Official Secrets Act by publishing a 1969 secret report about the Nigerian civil war.

"I had to ask myself a question," he said. "Did what we published actually compromise or endanger national security or did it merely inconvenience a government? If it is a matter merely of governmental convenience I would be inclined to say 'publish and be damned' and publish again what I did. I have never doubted the rightness of what I did."

Most foreign newspapers at once defended the Times's exposure of the papers as a right and a duty of the free press towards the people and criticized U.S. officials for duplicity and legal attempts to block further publication.

The Guardian of London said, in part: "The events described are history. What is not yet history is the new knowledge that the administration misled the sovereign people of America about what was being done in their names . . . If politicians and officials misled the public, they ought not to be able to hide behind a law, especially a law which was passed for another purpose — maintenance of military security."

Hanoi Radio said the publication "helps the Americans and the people of the world see more clearly the cruel policy of aggression and the deceitful tricks of the American imperialists."

Prominent U.S. Editor Hits Government Bid To Stop Times

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—The president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, C.A. McKnight, has issued a personal statement deploring government attempts to suppress The New York Times series on the Pentagon's Vietnam study.

Emphasizing he did not speak for the society, McKnight, editor of the Charlotte Observer, said he did not presume to second-guess The Times editors on their decision to print the material, but condemned "prior restraint" censorship by the government.

Although there is no exact legal precedent for The New York Times current struggle for the right to print secret government documents, the Supreme Court has handed the nation's newspapers many important "free press" victories over the years.

Most of these have involved libel laws, but several have concerned the press and the government. A famous 1936 case, for example, declared unconstitutional a tax imposed in the state of Louisiana on large newspapers for the privilege of selling advertising. "Since informed public opinion is the most potent of all restraints upon this government," then Justice George Sutherland said, "the suppression or abridgement of the publicity afforded by a free press cannot be regarded otherwise than with grave concern. "A free press stands as one of the great interpreters between the government and the people," he added. "To allow it to be fetered is to fetter ourselves."

In two other cases the high court reversed contempt citations lower courts had slapped on newspapers.

One was a 1941 case where the Los Angeles Times had printed three editorials denouncing certain convicted union leaders before they had been sentenced. Justice Hugo L. Black in finding on behalf of the Times said the Constitution gives "to liberty of the press, as to other liberties, the broadest scope that could be countenanced in an orderly society."

Five years later the court reversed a contempt conviction against the Miami Herald. The paper had published two editorials and a cartoon criticizing certain actions of a Florida trial court as being favorable to criminals and gamblers.

A sequel to these cases came in 1947 when contempt convictions of a Corpus Christi Tex., publisher, editorial writer and reporter were reversed. The paper involved had published articles which reported events in a pending case and an editorial attacking the trial judge.

All of these cases rested on what was known for years as the "clear and present danger" test, established by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes in 1919. The pertinent language in Holmes famous decision was "whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent."

This definition is now thought by some critics to have passed into oblivion.

The furor which raged during the 1960's over "free press-fair trial" — what newspapers can print about trials and criminal suspects — was touched off by the high court's 1966 decision reversing the murder conviction of the late Dr. Sam Sheppard, a Cleveland osteopath, because of undue publicity about his case. The bar and the press have since cooperated in many places in setting up guidelines for similar situations.

Terrorist Murders Policemen, Kills Self

SANTIAGO (UPI)—A terrorist wanted for the assassination of a former vice president walked into a police station with a submachinegun Wednesday, opened fire on police and then blew himself up with dynamite. He killed two policemen and critically injured another.

Police identified the man as Heriberto Salazar, 45, a member of the leftist terrorist group known as the Organized Vanguard of the People (VOP). He was wanted for the assassination June 8 of former Chilean vice president and interior minister Edmundo Perez Zujovic.

Two brothers also wanted for the killing—Ronald and Arturo Rivera Calderon—were killed Sunday in a gunbattle with police.

The white-haired Salazar, known within his organization as "The Old Man," walked into the police headquarters with a submachinegun that was found to have been taken from a policeman killed in a supermarket robbery Sunday.

Salazar opened fire, killing policeman Carlos Perez Bretti and critically wounding Gerardo Romero. He then began walking through the corridors of the building, tossing lighted dynamite charges right and left. There were no injuries caused by the dynamite explosions.

When police closed in and detective Mario Marin grappled with Salazar, the VOP terrorist shouted "Kill me now, you sons of bitches" and touched off a dynamite charge strapped to his body. Both Salazar and Marin were killed in the blast.

Override Tax Bill Wins Nod

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A Marin legislator's bill empowering five West Marin school district to levy special override taxes passed the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee yesterday and went to the upper house floor.

The bill, by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would enable the Shoreline Unified, Laguna, Lincoln, Nicasio and Union school districts to levy, without voter approval, a one-year tax to make up revenue lost from land designated as agricultural preserve.

The legislation, S.B. 1228, cleared the committee by a 5-3 vote. It originally would have allowed a continuous tax, but Behr wrote in the one-year limitation to meet objections.

Accident Suit Testimony To Begin Today

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Testimony in a $1.25 million negligence suit against millionairess Doris Duke in connection with a automobile accident five years ago begins today in Rhode Island Superior Court.

The suit was brought in behalf of the brothers and sisters of the late Eduardo Tirella, 42, of Dover, N.J., an interior decorator and known as Miss Duke's constant companion.

Tirella was struck while opening the large iron gates at "Rough Point," Miss Duke's Newport, R.I., estate, dragged across the street and pinned beneath the station wagon allegedly driven by Miss Duke. He died in the 1966 accident.

Trial Set On Fugitive Charge

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Rodney Alan Woods, 21, of San Anselmo, is scheduled to go on trial Aug. 3 in U.S. District Court on a charge of harboring a fugitive.

Woods has pleaded innocent to the charge of harboring his friend, Wayne Edward Gardner, also 21, of San Rafael, when Gardner was allegedly evading the draft.

They were arrested at Woods' home on March 10. Gardner has been charged with evading the draft in Florida and is awaiting determination whether he will be returned there.

Ex-Times Man Tells The Source

NEW YORK (UPI) —Sidney Zion, a former New York Times reporter, said Wednesday night the newspaper obtained its copy of the Pentagon Vietnam report from Daniel Ellsberg, a former employee of the Rand Corp.

Zion, a former assistant U.S. attorney in New Jersey, made the statement on a radio talk show (Barry Gray-WMCA). He said the copy was obtained by the Times in late March.

Zion said Ellsberg worked in the Defense Department's international security division until 1965 when he left the government to join Rand, a "think tank" in Santa Monica, Calif., which conducts sensitive defense research. Rand is known to have two of 15 final copies produced of the Vietnam report.

Efforts to contact Ellsberg at MIT were unsuccessful.

63 Members Ask Release Of Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sixty three members of Congress today asked the Nixon administration to make public the Pentagon study revealed in part by the New York Times.

"Certainly release of these documents, which are an essential part of the historical background of our current involvement in Indochina, cannot in any way prejudice our national defense," the congressmen said in hand-delivered letters to Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pledged a Senate investigation of the secret papers, and a House subcommittee set hearings on government information policies.

Mansfield told reporters it would not be a hunt for a scapegoat or an attempt to learn the Times' source of the documents.

It would attempt, Mansfield said, to put before Congress and the American people the details of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. He indicated Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., who was vice president during part of the period the report covered, might be invited to testify.

Humphrey said he was "shocked" by the study., "The great loss is the loss in confidence in the government. This just aids and abets the general confusion and suspicion of government," he said.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and George S. McGovern, DS.D., denounced as censorship the administration's court efforts to halt further publication of the Times series on the secret report.

Rep. Jonathan Bingham, DN.Y., said 11 members of the House Judiciary Committee and four members of the bhouse Armed Services Committee were among the 63 signators of the letters to Laird and Mitchell.

Republicans signing the letters were Reps. Paul McCloskey Jr., of California, Donald W. Riegle Jr. of Michigan, Philip Ruppe of Michigan and Seymour Halpern of New York. McCloskey and Riegle have been active in the "Dump Nixon" movement.

Hay Truck Plunge Hurts Worker, 21

Daniel Maderios, 21, of Sebastopol, was reported in good condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with back and leg injuries suffered when he fell from a hay truck at 6:10 a.m. today at the Bresciani Hay Market, 399 Eucalyptus Avenue, Cotati.

No Cuban Parallel, Says Times

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of The New York Times, said Wednesday there was no parallel between the newspaper's publishing a secret Pentagon report on Vietnam and The Times' decision in 1961 not to print in advance the story of the Bay of Pigs invasion.

"In the one case (Bay of Pigs) there was an invasion which was just about to happen where people were about to get shot on the beaches," he said. "In the other case what we had here was past history."

The Times in 1961 reportedly got word of the Bay of Pigs on the night before the impending invasion and decided not to print a word about it because it might harm national security.

Sulzberger cut a European trip short Wednesday to return to New York for a federal court hearing on a government request that The Times relinquish the secret Pentagon report.

Sulzberger, at a airport news conference, said he had read all the textual material involved in the series before it was published. "I arrived along with other people at The Times at the conclusion that it did not jeopardize national security," he said. "These papers are part of national history that should have been made available long ago.

"Governments in general don't like things published. They tend to stamp secret on too many things. They don't want people to know things that are embarrassing to them. Many docjments of World War II are still classified as secret. I wish the government had used its head a little more."

Sulzberger said he was surprised at the government's reaction but thought the Nixon administration might try to capitalize on the reports.

"Certainly these papers have shown that the previous Democratic administrations were getting us deeper and deeper into the war," he said. "The Nixon administration says it is getting us out of the war. So Mr. Nixon might try to use it to his advantage."

Sulzberger was asked if the Times had done some "soul searching" before its decision to write the series.

"The decision was almost made for us when we came onto the material," he said. "The soul searching was what to do with it."

Overcross Low Bidder Announced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A Moraga firm yesterday submitted the lowest bid for construction of a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101, south of East Washington Street, Petaluma.

Officials of the state Division of Highways said the apparent low bidder was R. M. Harris construction at $178,342. Engineers had estimated the project might cost $204,000.

The division of highways will pay one-half the cost of the project and the City of Petaluma will pay the other half using already allocated federal funds.

Asst. City Engineer Harold Wood said construction should begin within three weeks and the project be completed in September. Residents of East Petaluma and school officials had called for the separate pedestrian crossing, citing safety hazards for students who must cross the freeway to attend Kenilworth Junior High School and visit the adjacent municipal swimming pool.

Cancer Threat Sparks Search For Classmates

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The possibility that Hodgkin's Disease, a form of cancer heretofore thought to be noncommunicable, may have swept through a group of former classmates has started a search for members of the Class of 1954 at Albany High School.

Dr. Peter Greenwald, director of the cancer control bureau of the State Health Department, says 13 class members and their close contacts have contracted the disease, which affects the lymphatic system.

Eight of the 13 are dead. Only 50 of the 317 members in the class have been located to date.

The National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., is looking into the matter. A spokesman cautions that a report on the case by a group of Albany doctors needs further investigation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Planing Can Remove Those Brownish Spots From Sun

Mrs. H. P. writes: "I'm paying the penalty for being a sun lover. My forehead and hands are covered with flat, dry, scaly, brownish spots. I was told that they can be removed with a wire brush but this remedy sounds worse than the 'disease.' What is your opinion?"

Dermabrasion or skin planing is used to eradicate these lesions (senile keratoses or freckles) provided the skin is suitable. The procedure is best done by someone familiar with the technique. Spots of these types can also be removed via excision (or electrodesiccation) but is not practical when numerous lesions are involved. In planing, the upper epidermal layers are removed, but enough is preserved to permit regrowth of new scar-free skin. Keratoses may be precursors of skin cancer and it is difficult to say where the dividing line is between an innocent keratosis and a true skin caner. As a rule, planing is not done to remove a skin malignancy unless it is an early lesion confined to the surface.

ABRASION is used most frequently in the treatment of acne scars and pockmarks. The outcome depends upon the severity of the condition and the depth of the pitted scars. Dermabraders also are used to remove material imbedded in the skin as a result of an accident. The fine perpendicular wrinkles around the lips also respond to planing. On the other hand, the technique is not effective in crow's-feet on the temples, tattoos, and certain birthmarks.

DERMABRASION is never done on areas, such as the eyelids, lower neck, flexor aspect of the forearm, and inner upper arms, because the skin is too thin or limited.

THE SKIN is frozen or the individual is anesthetized and the planing is done with a motor-driven wire brush. Six to 12 months may elapse before the skin regenerates completely. Meanwhile, the integument is puffy and red. Whiteheads may also develop in the area. Pigmentary changes that may persist for three to eight months are the most common complication of dermabrasion. Sunlight should be avoided for several weeks to discourage darkening of the skin.

BACK TO JUG

A. B. writes: I understand there is no second chance at AA (Alcoholics Anonymous). Seven years ago a friend was helped by them and he needs help again. Would they accept him now?

REPLY

Yes. There are no limitations to the number of times AA will come to the rescue of an alcoholic. They expect a certain percentage of failures and are willing to help the victim again and again.

TOO MUCH COPPER

C. H. writes: What would cause too much copper in the blood?

REPLY

A high absorption of copper by the intestinal tract. The body usually absorbs what it needs from the foods consumed. In Wilson's disease — which is rare — there is a greater absorption of copper. As a result, the concentration of this mineral is increased tenfold in the liver, brain, and other tissues.

SELF-LIMITING RASH

R. W. writes: Can a general practitioner handle pityriasis rosea?

REPLY

Why not? If he does nothing, the rash will disappear spontaneously in six weeks. Ultraviolet light or a sulfursalicylic acid ointment may shorten the period and soothing lotions will ease itching.

College Schedules Marin 37 Benefit

A benefit for the defense of the 37 persons arrested at the San Rafael draft board and for the Marin Peace Coalition will be held at 9 p.m. next Thursday at the College of Marin Student Center.

"Beefy Red," "Clover," "Circus," and surprise guests will be featured in the concert, with lights by Vulcan Lite.

Pleas Heard In Houseboat Controversy

A pretrial conference was set for July 14 for Corben and George Alan Bonney, 24, of Mill Valley; Dean Puhcatski, 26, of San Rafael, and Joseph Edwin Nunn, 23, of no known address.

Corben, Puhcalski and Bonney were aboard Corben's boat which attempted to interfere with efforts of Marin County sheriff's deputies to remove five substandard houseboats from their Waldo Point berths, deputies said.

Nunn was arrested on shore. A deputy said he recognized Nunn as the person who had attempted to jam an engine on a tow boat by throwing a rope in front of the boat.

JAL Sets $322 Fare To London

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— Japan Air Lines announced Wednesday that it has set up a $332 roundtrip fare for students on flights between San Francisco and London.

JAL officials said the fare, effective Thursday, would allow students between 12 and 25 to fly during the basic season for $332 and during the peak season for $352.

Smog Board Set Study Of Budget

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A proposed $3.2 million budget will be reviewed by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The budget, providing for increased enforcement and extension of regulations to Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties, is up $1.1 million from the current fiscal year.

The district's personnel committee will meet first to review a proposed 5 per cent salary hike for all employees to the staff of 108.

The budget and finance committee will meet at 10:30 a.m. to go into other budget details.

The full board will hold its monthly "workshop" meeting at 1:30 p.m. to get a staff report on instituting an alert system to curtail operation of industry and motor vehicles on smoggy days.

10 Feet Meant The Difference

DUARTE, Calif. (UPI)—The Marine jet which collided with an Air West DC9 June 6 apparently tried to bank away and a matter of only 10 feet could have prevented the loss of 50 lives, a federal investigator said Wednesday.

George R. Baker, chief of the investigating team from the National Transportation Safety Board, also said the commercial jetliner was struck in two places.

The right wing tip of the Marine Phantom F4 impacted near the front of the passenger section of the DC9 and the vertical stabilizer of the fighter sliced through the airliner cockpit at about floor level, he said.

Baker declined to say, however, which plane hit the other.

Meanwhile, the first lawsuit arising from the crash was filed on behalf of the family of one of the 50 victims. The family of James R. Reeves asked $1 million from Air West and their attorney indicated a claim also would be filed against El Toro Mrine Corps Air Station, home base of the Phantom involved in the collision.

Agreement On Relocation Of Marin Aqueduct

The North Marin County Water District board has approved an agreement with the state for relocation of a stretch of aqueduct to make way for the planned Highway 101 bypass in Novato.

Directors approved an agreement Tuesday night whereby the state will pay 97.3 per cent of the cost, $540,000 out of $563,000, reported James D. Fritz, chief engineer.

Plans are to relocate 7,000 feet of the district's 10-inch aqueduct along Highway 101 between Atherton Avenue and north of the Sportsman Lodge.

Fritz said the district has to pay for relocation where its line now lies in state right-of-way, about 190 feet.

Florida Violence: 2 Hurt, 22 Held

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —At least 22 persons were arrested Wednesday night and early today, and two persons—both newsmen—injured in a night of scattered violence in the predominently black east side of Jacksonville.

Duval County Undersheriff D.K. Brown linked the disorders with a continuing protest by some members of the black community over the killing of a 15-year-old black youth last week by a white policeman, who has been suspended.

TV REVIEW

Looking For Ideal Vacation?

By RICK DU BROW.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The two-page advertisement begins: "KQED, a noncommercial television station in San Francisco, is desperate for money."

There then follows an explanation of how the station, Channel 9, hopes to improve its financial situation, and rarely has an advertisement offered such a romantically wild scheme.

For $10,000, for instance, it will arrange "a month's honeymoon (or otherwise) on a houseboat in the Vale of Kashmir, for yourselves or as a gift (per couple)." For $4,500, it will send off the contributor on "a week with a team investigating the Loch Ness monster."

But that's not all. There are 37 purchaseable experiences (many of them rare) listed in the ad, which appears in the June 12 issue of the New Yorker Magazine. Among them:

—"Two weeks in Shangri-La (Hunza) ... $8,000."

—"A month's apprenticeship in a Geisha house ... $5,000."

—"A week at Chateau Mouton-Rothschild as the guest of Baron and Baroness Philippe de Rothschild (for two) ... $15,000."

Explaining itself, the advertisement says: "This is not a joke ... like other noncommercial stations, we sell memberships starting at $14.50 and offer cookbooks and the like as added inducements for $25.000 or more. That doesn't raise nearly enough, particularly as we aim much of our programming towards less-than-rich segments of the community.

"We originated the annual on-the-air auction ... during which donated items like a Rolls Royce car, a trip to Europe, or a dinner with some celebrity or other occasionally bring in contributions of over $1,000. Its till isn't enough, but it started us thinking: Why not make the auction a year-round thing in effect? Or to put it another way, why not offer 'premiums' for which prospective members would give, not $25, but $500, $1,000, or even $15,000?"

And so the ad lists such buyable experiences as:

—"A week-long trip to Mexico City in your own private, ornate Victorian railroad car (party of four) ... $20,000."

— "Two weeks with a Lapp family inside the Arctic Circle ... $5,000."

—"A hall and an audience (minimum 200) for your lecture on the subject of your choice, recitations, readings, or musical performance ... $1,500."

—"A week on the road with the San Francisco Giants ... $9,000."

At the end of KQED's ad, there is a clip-out mail coupon in which readers can write in the experience they wish to buy. They also have the option of checking off an added paragraph that says:

"I'm very sorry, but I can't afford any of the above. However, I enjoyed your advertisement. I understand it cost you some $9,000 to run, and you seem like nice people. Therefore, here's a little something to help pay for it and tide you over until the bigger shooters respond."

3 UC Editors Are Acquitted

BERKELEY (UPI) —Three University of California student newspaper editors were acquitted Wednesday of charges brought against them for the controversial People's Park editorial.

James Blodgett, 21, Fran Hawthorne, 19, and David dozier, 22, were found innocent of "conduct which adversely affects a student's suitability as a member of the academic community."

They were also acqsitted on a charge of "using university facilities for organizing and carrying out unlawful activities."

Road Tests Termed Feasible For Smog

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Compulsory testing of on-the-road cars for smog emissions is "feasible in terms of emission, program costs, vehicle owner costs, and public opinion," the state Air Resources Board was told yesterday.

The board received results of a $401,000 study conducted by the Northrop Corp. for the state.

Of the three major components of smog, the study found, an inspection program will "significantly reduce" carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon emissions, but oxides of nitrogen produced by pre-1970 cars "may increase."

"The monetary investment to achieve tha expected reduction in emissions would be justifiable," the study found. "It would cost three to five times more to eliminate by other methods comparable amounts of pollutants beyond the capability of control systems that are already on vehicles."

But the study warned that "sufficient personnel with the technical skills required for the inspection program are not yet available."

It found one case where $169 worth of repairs were done when "the car needed only an idle adjustment. This type of occurrence would cause the motorists to lose confidence in the program. Some means should be found to eliminate the cost for unjustifiable repair."

The program recommended by Northrop would cost $20 million to start, the report said, with the federal government paying for up to two-thirds of the cost, although federal funds will probably not be available until next fiscal year.

"The cost of the inspection system includes cost to the motorists in terms of repair work that will be required, and initial investment for the program," the document stated. "Inconvenience and annoyance to the motorist was not included in the total cost."

The report found that:

— "Inspection should be performed by the state, and repairs be performed by private enterprise."

—"There appears to be a public acceptance of a vehicle inspection program in California as a means to reduce air pollution."

— "Instrumentation and equipment which can be adapted to the requirements are available for a network of inspection stations."

Justice Department Files Fair Housing Act Suits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Justice Department yesterday filed suits in federal district court charging an apartment building operator and a housing rental listing service in northern California with racial discrimination.

The two suits brought to 95 the number of cases the federal government has filed charging violations of the 1968 Fair Housing Act. The Justice Department last Monday filed a group of six suits charging violations in five different states.

The defendents named in the new suits were the Youritan Construction Co., of Palo Alto, which operates eight apartment buildings in Palo Alto and Mountain View, and Wesco Land and Management, Inc., of San Leandro, the rental service.

The Justice Department asked the district court to issue injunctions against alleged discrimination and to order the firms to take affirmative steps to correct the alleged practices.

Youritan, a corporation doing business as the Tan Construction Co., was accused of falsely claiming it had no apartments available when blacks applied for them and of discriminating against blacks in its rental terms and services provided.

These practices, the suit said, constitute "a pattern or practice of resistance to full enjoyments of rights granted by the Civil Rights Act of 1968 — which denial raises an issue of general public importance."

The Wesco firm, described as a real estate sales and rental company, was accused of discriminating against blacks in its housing rental listing service.

The company obtains listings of vacancies from owners of rental apartments and charges 25 per cent of the first month's rent as a fee for referring prospective customers, the suit said.

The defendent refused to show black prospects the listings it had in all white or predominantly white neighborhoods while making these listing available to white persons, the suit said.

The defendent also advised black persons that dwellings in white residential areas were not available when, in fact, they were available, the suit said.

Demo Apportion Plan Nullified

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge has ruled invalid the Democratic Party's new formula for apportionment of state delegates to its 1972 national convention.

Judge June L. Green said in a U.S. District Court decision Wednesday the formula would be "discriminatory" against Democrats in some states.

Under the plan announced last February, just half the total delegation would be selected on the basis of a state's electoral college strength. The balance would be named on the basis of the state's Democratic votes in the previous presidential election.

For instance, a state that went Republican in 1968 would lose strength at the convention to a state that went Democratic.

The suit was filed by the Center for Political Reform, headed by Kennth Bode. Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and the state parties in New York and California supported the suit.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., general counsel for the Democratic National Committee, said the ruling would be appealed.

Legitimate Effort To Reduce Fraud

The 1970 Marin County Grand Jury came up with a welfare reform recommendation that should help cut down on fraudulent claims without undue increase in administrative cost.

The grand jury zeroed in on the so-called "honor system" used by applicants for Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC). The self-declaration system, used in Marin in the past two and one-half years, is similar to the income tax declaration. The applicant is on his honor to provide factual information on his application forms, and anyone caught giving false information is liable to prosecution.

UNDER THAT system, the grand jurors found that an AFDC applicant could phone in for an application, return it by mail, and receive aid without too much documentation.

"Under this 'honor system', it is even possible for the same woman to apply for and receive aid under different names and addresses, and for different non-existent children, at the same time," the grand jurors noted.

IN ONE INSTANCE, they found that a woman living outside Marin was drawing welfare checks twice a month for herself and five non-existent children. She was listing children she did not have and using the address of a friend living in Marin.

Acting on the recommendations of the grand jury, the county supervisors ordered the Department of Public Social Services to stop welfare applications by mail, require personal appearances, and insist on documentation to prove residence, family composition, and number of dependents. Birth certificates, social security numbers, and rent receipts would be among the documents required.

THE DEPARTMENT of public social services, headed by Betty L. Presley, is taking steps to comply. So far, it appears that the costs will not be prohibitive.

Donald Sanford, administrative assistant in the welfare department, said that about 80 per cent of the applicants already make personal appearances, and catching the remaining 20 per cent should pose no big problem.

Those who resist the clampdown also complain that the added requirements are a slap at the face of legitimate applicants for AFDC, and the county is assuming that many welfare recipients give phony information.

THEY FAIL TO realize that cracking down on the few chiselers ultimately benefits the vast majority who are legitimate because the chiselers are draining away funds that rightfully belong to the genuinely needy.

Welfare chiseling, like income tax chiseling, cannot be wiped out completely, but every effort should be made to discourage fraud. The current clampdown, recommended by the 1970 grand jury and in the process of implementation by the county, is a legitimate effort in that direction.

CAPITOL REPORT

Brian Acted Wisely In Cutting Back Medi-Cal

By RUSS WALTON

SACRAMENTO — On Dec. 15, 1970, Earl Brian, M.D., hard-headed young director of California's health care service, reduced certain Medi-Cal fees and services. He had to do it to forestall a $140 million deficit. It may have been a lousy Christmas present for some but, as Dr. Brian said at the time, it was an emergency measure dictated by rising Medi-Cal caseloads and caseload costs.

Dr. Brian was immediately hauled into court by a bunch of unlikely bedfellows: The state medical and dental associations and California Rural Legal Assistance attorneys. This ideological troika of the moment complained that the cuts were unnecessary and illegal. And besides, Dr. Brian should have held public hearings on the reductions so that they could kick and scream before he made them — if, indeed, he ever made them at all.

NOW COMES Judge William M. Gallagher, presiding judge of the Sacramento Superior Court, to declare that the cuts were illegal and must be restored.

Judge Gallagher, who was first appointed by former Governor Edmund G. Brown, has rather consistently ruled against the taxpayers in suits involving welfare and Medi-Cal controversies. His latest decision, if upheld, will cost you at least $900,000. Which is not so bad, as reckoned against the costs of some of his other decisions.

Be that as it may, the suit does point up some of the difficulties of administering Medi-Cal.

The Medi-Cal program is a real dog. It's full of legislative and bureaucratic fleas. What's more, it's hauled around on the end of a statutory leash by welfare. Whenever the number of welfare cases increase, the number of individuals and families eligible for Medi-Cal also increase, automatically. The director of Medi-Cal has no say at all over the number of persons receiving health care services.

TO COMPOUND that management mess, Medi-Cal operates on a "closed end" appropriation. Which means that each year the legislature sets a certain definite budget and Medi-Cal must live within it. (Welfare, on the other hand, is "open-ended" — if its costs go up, its budget is expanded.) Should the director have reason to believe that increasing costs will cause a Medi-Cal deficit by the end of the year, he is required to reduce certain services and cut costs.

The law is specific on this. He must stay within his budget.

And, that is the central issue involved in the case of you and Dr. Brian versus the CMA, the CDA and the CRLA.

WAS OR WAS NOT Medi-Cal headed for a deficit? Should Dr. Brian have cut services and costs, or not?

Dr. Brian contends that, in December, when he received the hard (certified) caseload and cost data from the welfare department, it was clear he would end up in the red. By about $140 million. He had no choice but to make the cuts and prevent the deficit.

Judge Gallagher ruled that the cuts should not have been made. Apparently the judge felt that he, and the doctors and dentists and CRLA, know more about the operational details of Medi-Cal than its director and staff members who testified before the court. The judge ordered the cuts restored. Which the governor and Dr. Brian had intended to do at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1, anyhow.

THE FACTS OF time and events side with Dr. Brian. Medi-Cal will end the fiscal year June 30 without a deficit.

Furthermore, one would imagine that if the Judge's decision were sound, there would be a lot of surplus money lying around — like about $140 million. If, as the Judge decided, the cuts were not necessary to prevent a deficit, where's all the money that was saved by the cuts?

Dr. Brian acted wisely. He protected both the taxpayer and the great majority of Medi-Cal recipients. He deserves commendation.

Perhaps he will get it when Judge Gallagher's decision is appealed to a higher court.

Use Alcatraz Island To Anchor New Span

It was interesting to note that an armed party of U. S. Marshals ejected fifteen Indians from Alcatraz. According to the news item the Indian party comprised of six men, four women and five children. In my opinion the marshals, brave and true should be considered for a medal of honor.

It seems to me that Alcatraz would make a perfect and natural anchor for another bridge for Marin and northern California, and eliminate the battle of Alcatraz once and for all.

Parents Can Judge Teacher's Ability

I noticed in the June 10 paper that the argument given by County Counsel (Richard V.) Godino in support of the stand of Supt. Anthony C. Bacich and Principal Roy Smith for the firing of Kentfield teacher Joanne Pocta is that the parents and teachers "were not in a position to evaluate Miss Pocta's teaching methods and effectiveness whereas the school superintendent and principal are professionally qualified to do just that."

I know nothing about Miss Pocta, but I do know this much. I personally have had more than I can stomach in the way of the assumption on the part of public entities in supervisory positions that all parents are stupid and don't know what is good for thier kids.

Most parents are sufficiently intelligent to determine whether or not their kids are learning anything in school, and they are certainly sufficiently intelligent to know if they are not being properly supervised and disciplined at school because the obstreperousness of a child who is allowed to run wild at school comes right back home with him just as his home mannerisms go to school with him.

And to say that teachers are not in a position to evaluate if a child has been properly taught and controlled is patently ridiculous. Who is in a better position to determine if the second grader has reached third grade standards of achievement both in knowledge and behavior than the third grade teacher who is going to have to drill them on both second and third grade work if they haven't achieved the standards they should have achieved.

The first person who would be screaming that Miss Pocta was not doing her job effectively would be the teacher who had to take over Miss Pocta's class the next year.

Protect Shoreline For All The People

I, too, was dismayed at the comments made by Planning Commissioner Walter Freitas regarding bay fill during the Planning Commission hearing of May 24. Harold Gregg of the Marin Conservation League (Letters to the Editor, Tuesday, June 8, 1971) has replied most eloquently to Mr. Freitas' comments, and we support his statement that "... changes (in the ordinance) should be to give the people a greater voice in its application and to insure the protection of our shoreline for the public and not the few who would fill it for personal financial gain."

Recently the Board of Supervisors, at the request of the Inverness Improvement Association and the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin directed the Fill Committee to hold their meetings at a regularly scheduled and publicly noticed time and place. This is the first step toward greater public awareness and involvement in the procedures of bay fill, and we urge the public to attend these meetings so that county officials may know that there are those who are urgently and actively concerned with the preservation of the life food chain which would be destroyed if mudflats are filled.

Mr. Freitas' comment that the navigable waterways should be protected and shallow areas filled for development only serves to show how very narrow his vision is: shallow areas are perfectly navigable — in a canoe. Perhaps he needs to be reminded that not all people need a 50 h.p. outboard motor to propel them!

Unfair Comment On 'No Fault' Insurance

Your editorial of June 9, 1971 (Lawyer-Lawmaker, Conflict of Interest), implies that all lawyers would be adversely affected by the adoption of a plan of "no-fault" insurance and that this accounts for the Senate Judiciary Committee's rejecting the concept because the Committee members are all lawyers.

I am sure you are aware that any of these plans embodying the concept of "no-fault" does not eliminate the need for automobile insurance, and the insurance companies will still play an active role in claims arising out of automobile accidents. Just as now, insurance companies will employ lawyers to represent them.

Not all the members of the Committee are, in your terms, "damage suit" lawyers, or in the parlance of the profession, plaintiff's personal injury lawyers. Many members of the Committee are affiliated with firms which have for some time represented insurance companies. For instance, Senator Gregorio is a member of a prominent San Mateo County law firm which regularly defends insurance companies. Senator Grunsky is a member of a similarly oriented Santa Cruz County law firm.

If insurance companies will still need lawyers, then presumably these lawyers' businesses would not be affected. I am sure that there are also members of the Committee who do not represent any significant number of personal injury claimants in their law practice.

Consequently, it is irresponsible for you to gratuitously malign the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee by attributing the rejection of "no-fault" insurance to a conflict of interest. Don't you think there just might be an issue as to the merits of the legislation?

MARQUIS CHILDS

Youth Wins Right To Vote But Faces New Roadblocks

WASHINGTON, — The blacks, the chicanos, and now the young — the 18-to-21-year-olds — are all in a struggle to exercise a right elemental in a system of self-government — the right to vote.

Under the 26th Amendment to the Constitution, already ratified by 32 state legislatures, the 18-to-21-year-olds can for the first time vote in all elections. This means an estimated 10,000,000 to 17,000,000 new voters. If as many as half of them vote it can swing the balance in 1972.

BUT IS IS just this threat that has caused officialdom in state after state to throw up roadblocks making itdifficult, if not impossible, for the young to participate in the election. A large proportion of the young, particularly those with a keen political interest, are in college. A tactic of state officials and county registrars is to rule that they must register where their parents reside.

California's Republican Attorney General, Evelle Younger, issued such a ruling. This means that a student at Berkeley whose parents live in Los Angeles must travel virtually the length of the state in order to register and vote. If the period of registration coincides with exam time, many of the young could not be absent for two days. The cost of the trip also is an important factor. While many registrars will ignore this directive, it could keep a large proportion of California's 18-to-21-year-olds from voting next year.

THE BOARD OF registrars in Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, tried a variety of devices to prevent students from registering as residents in the University of Alabama. The board finally came up with a student questionnaire reminiscent of the kind of interrogation to which blacks were subjected in an effort to prevent them from registering and voting. The student is required to swear under oath that he intends to keep his "bona fide residence in this county after leaving college or graduating."

IN EIGHT STATES, one of them New York, there is no provision for absentee ballots. State laws and regulations elsewhere make it difficult, if not impossible, to cast an absentee vote. As many hurdles as possible are put in the way.

AN OMINOUS thought uppermost in the minds of some politicians is that in 25 or 30 university communities, if the young were allowed to vote without hindrance, they would, in effect, exercise political control. They could swing the balance not only in balloting for national office but for sheriff and county judge.

IT HAPPENS THAT in most of the districts in which the university is the center, the congressman is a conservative. Columbia, Mo., is a good example. The congressman from that district is Rep. Richard H. Ichord, chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, formerly the Un-American Activities Committee. The University of Missouri at Columbia has an enrollment of no more than 21,000. If the 18-to-21-year-olds can vote in Columbia in the next election it could mean an end to Ichord's career.

That is a measure of the potential for change in the newest amendment to the Constitution. Common Cause is helping with a nationwide effort to try to make sure the potential is not frustrated. Mrs. Anne Wexler, who played a leading part in the Kids-For-McCarthy revolution in 1968, is head of Common Cause's voting-rights project.

SUITS BROUGHT in various states seek to enjoin registrars from imposing arbitrary rulings that will keep the young from the polls. One of the most important is a class action suit already argued in federal district court in Lexington, Ky., aimed at the right of students to vote in a campus town. A decision is expected in two months and a quick appeal to the Supreme Court could produce a ruling serving as a landmark for campuses across the nation.

That is the hope of those in Common Cause providing help for the Kentucky suit. Some states have shown a more liberal attitude. The Republican attorney general of the state of Washington, Slade Gorton, affirmed a formal opinion of 1946 that a college student may establish a voting residence where he or she is attending school.

Work within the system! That is what the activist young are told. But if the system is rigged to keep them out, they will see no alternative other than joining the militants.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Soviet Union Launches New Peace Offensive

By PHIL NEWSOM

The Soviet Union quite obviously has launched a new, major peace offensive whose sincerity cannot be in doubt.

Three times in recent weeks, Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has called for negotiations on troops reductions in central Europe, a call echoed by his troika partners, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

BREZHNEV'S LATEST proposal suggested U.S. and Soviet naval forces also could be included, with specific mention of the Mediterranean.

The trouble with it is, as with other, similar Soviet proposals in the past, that the Russians still are keeping secret the fine print.

For example, former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, harvested a nice propaganda crop from his proposal for immediate and complete disarmament, a proposal looking freat on paper but so sweeping in its context as to be obviously unworkable.

Similarly, with a more recent Soviet proposal that the U.S. 6th Fleet abandon its position in the Mediterranean. Peace in the Mediterranean could be better left to the Soviet Union, it was said.

THE SCOPE OF the current Russian offensive may be noted from the number of negotiations in which the Soviets already are involved either directly or indirectly.

Included are four-power talks to reduce tensions in Berlin, world disarmament talks in Geneva, the SALT talks with the United States, soon to be renewed in Helsinki, and the talks between the two Germanys in which the Russians play a decisive behind-the-scenes role.

In addition, the Russians are pressuring for a European security conference and now for negotiations on mutual troops reductions.

If the Russians are truly sincere, their best and earliest chance to prove it would seem to be in Berlin.

After months of stalemate there has been some sign of a breakthrough with Russian agreement to guarantee civilian access routes for goods and people traveling between West Berlin and West Germany. Agreement on Berlin could open the way not only to West German ratification of nonaggression pacts with the Soviet Union and Poland but to a European security conference as well.

Without agreement and with continued haggling over terms of definition, the world's expensive arms race goes on.

Tam Teacher Pay Team Sees Impasse

The negotiating team for Tamalpais High School District teachers has declared a state of impasse in salary negotiations with the district officials.

Cause of the impasse, according to teacher representative Robert M. Kuehnl, is the district's refusal to submit counter proposals.

The deadlock — called Tuesday under a policy which allows either side to call for a mediator when no progress has been made for 30 days — follows about 12 negotiating sessions.

"These meetings have been negotiations in name only," said Kuehnl, who is chairman of the certificated employees council — bargaining agent for the teachers.

He said the board has given its three-man team no latitude and that each teacher proposal would be met with a statement by the district's team that it was unable to present a counter proposal.

Kuehnl said the teachers have cut in half their original pay package proposal of 11 per cent during the "meet and confer" sessions but to no avail.

While acknowledging that such session sometimes run throughout the summer, he said proposed increases in coaches pay must be approved by June 30 or district athletic programs may be jeopardized.

Friday has been tentatively set to meet with a mutually agreed upon mediator, he said.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said yesterday the board's negotiating team had not presented counter proposals because of uncertainty by trustees over next year's budget.

"The (board's) negotiating team is not playing games with the staff," he said. "It's just not in a position to offer counter-proposals."

Hawkins said he felt the board, after receiving additional budget information next week, would be in a position to direct its negotiators.

"Right now they (trustees) don't know what the cost of education or tax rate is going to be next year" so as to judge salary increases, he said.

Panel Approves Oil Drilling Ban

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing the state Lands Commission to halt offshore oil drilling conducted in a "hazardous manner" was approved Wednesday by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The measure by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, also would expand the three-member commission, adding two public members appointed by the Assembly speaker and the Senate Rules Committee. The commission now is made up of the lieutenant governor, the controller and director of finance.

Moretti's bill also declares the Santa Barbara Channel ultrahazardous for oil operations and bans drilling there until the commission allows it to resume.

The legislation was opposed by the Reagan administration partly because it could cost the state $258 million a year in oil revenues.

Judge Dismisses Forgery Charge

Charges of check forgery against James Chalmers Ropp, 21, and Diane Francis Ropp, 20, both of San Rafael, have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge David Menary Jr. dismissed the charges at the request of the district attorney's office which reported the pair had made restitution.

They were arrested Feb. 28 when the manager of a San Rafael market recognized checks they tried to cash belonging to another customer.

Opera Set Tomorrow At School

"Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss will be presented at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

The musical will be produced by the San Francisco Lamplighters and sponsored by the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

This is the first Marin County production of the Lamplighters in the organization's 19-year history. It will be the 13th and 14th productions of this musical by this group this season.

Valda Claire Holleman, Terra Linda High School teacher, will be featured in the role of Sally. She will fly to Europe following the Saturday night roduction.

Others in the cast include: Eisenstein, sung by director Orva Hoskinson, who is also founder of the Lamplighters; Rosalinda by Claire Latham; Adele by Lajulia Hill; Alfred by Kenneth Malucelli; Doctor Falke by Eugene Bartlett and Prince Orlofski, often sung by a contralto, by William Neil, bass-baritone.

Meeting Off

Tonight's adjourned meeting of the Reed School District board has been canceled for lack of a quorum. The meeting will be rescheduled for next week.

Corona Gets Delay In Massacre Case

YUBA CITY (UPI)—Insisting Juan V. Corona is innocent and "has nothing to be ashamed of," the mass murder suspect's new attorney Wednesday won a month's delay in his preliminary hearing.

Corona, 37, charged with 10 counts of murder in the killing of 25 itinerant farm workers, sat quietly in court during his second appearance before Judicial Court Judge J. J. Hankins.

"Mr. Corona is innocent; he has nothing to hide," said Richard Hawk, the farm labor contractor's new lawyer.

He obtained a delay of the preliminary hearing until July 13 so he will have time to familiarize himself with the case.

The attorney told the judge he would look out for Corona's interests in news coverage of the sensational case and later told reports he was "giving real consideration" to asking for a change of venue.

District Attorney G. David Teja raised the issue of news coverage, saying he was "a little disturbed," particularly about photographs, and wanted to go on the record as being "concerned about due process."

"The people of the United States have got a right to know about this," said Hawk after the hearing. "His privacy has already been invaded so how are you going to avoid it?"

But the attorney added it was "unfortunate" the news media had reported Corona's three-month stay in a state mental hospital after being diagnosed as schizophrenic in 1956.

"It's inadmissable (in court) unless he enters a plea of innocent by reason of insanity," Hawk said. "There's no plan to enter such a plea."

He said the change of venue might be necessary because "it's difficult for a defendant to find people who haven't formed an opinion."

Corona, wearing a dark blue sports coat and a white shirt and tie, sat quietly through the proceedings. Several members of his family, including his mother, wife and three brothers, were in court.

The defendant "has nothing to be ashamed of and he wants to be present in court," Hawk told the judge.

Hankins ordered copies of prosecution evidence, including photos and items found at Corona's home, turned over to the defense attorney "as soon as possible."

The judge also issued a bench warrant for Juan C. Mosqueda, 50, a farm worker from Stockton, Calif., who was previously jailed as a material witness. The district attorney requested the warrant after Mosqueda failed to show up for the hearing.

Assembly Kills Pro-Smoking Bill For 15-Year-Olds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A gasping, laughing Assembly has killed a bill allowing students over 15 to smoke cigarettes at school if thy have their parents' written permission.

Youngsters are already smoking while school officials look the other way, the Assembly was told Wednesday by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz. His bill died on a 18-42 vote.

But Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, his tongue in his cheek, wondered about the side effects of allowing 15-year-olds to smoke.

He asked members to consider the added cost of ashtrays on already financially burdened school districts and said if students can smoke at 15 they may want to vote at 15.

The legal smoking age is now 18.

Children Get Biggest Kick Out Of Sonoma-Marin Fair

The directors of the Sonoma-Marin Fair make an effort to schedule events to interest all age levels, but the truth is that it's a child's fair and there's no getting around it. If adults want to enjoy themselves fully, they'll find a youngster to take in tow when the fair opens next week.

The spinning rides, game booths testing skill and chance and side shows featuring such wonders as stuffed, two-headed goats, add up to a child's delight. Sophisticated adults might shake their heads in amazement as long lines of youngsters await entry to the side shows, but for them it brings excitement and the hope of seeing the advertised "nature's wonders."

FOR THE OLDER children who realize that what is inside the tent is not exactly as advertised outside, the discovery can mean the end of innocence. Nearly any adult can recall the time he plunked down a quarter to see the touted half-man, half-alligator, only to recognize it as an illusion or make-up job.

The Sonoma-Marin Fair also marks the beginning of the summer fair season for youngsters in 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America. The young people, who have been working for months or even years with their prized animals, will parade them nervously before the judges, perhaps adding to their collection of ribbons or maybe just getting some good pointers to improve their performance in competition later at the Sonoma County Fair and others later in the season.

THE CITY of Petaluma is often the object of jokes about its small town character and lack of sophistication, but the chamber of commerce recently found that the city has at least one faithful fan in Dayton, Ohio.

Dianne Kinsey, a Petaluma resident in late 1966 and 1967, wrote that her year in the city "was the happiest time of my life." She said she still misses Petaluma. "Most of all I miss the magic," she said. "I've never been in a place I liked better. Even after all this time I still miss Petaluma. I miss the friendly people, the stores, the climate and the atmosphere of the town.

"We have one of the bumper stickers you gave out declaring 'I like Petaluma,'" Mrs. Kinsey said. "It is too valuable to me to be put on a car that might be traded off, so I have it on the wall in our bedroom, and it's the first thing I see each morning."

Now that's devotion.

$750,000 Asked In Death Of Heiress

VISALIA (UPI) —A $750,000 wrongful death action in the death of Connecticut heiress Marina Maguire has been filed with the Porterville City Council and the Tulare County Board of Supervisors.

The former socialite died March 26 after she apparently fell from her bunk in the Porterville City Jail where she had been held for three days pending charges of possession of marijuana and defrauding an innkeeper.

The action was filed by Donn Allen Chickering, Miss Maguire's former husband on behalf of their son, Donn Allen Chickering Jr., 6.

The action charges wrongful death, personal injury and violation of civil liberties allegedly suffered by Miss Maguire between March 24 and March 26.

Miss Maguire, 27, who had been living in New York City, and a traveling companion, Randy Boone, 22, had arrived in Porterville for a visit March 23.

They were arrested the following day after the manager at the motel in which they were staying learned a credit card used by Miss Maguire was expired.

On March 26 Miss Maguire was found by jail personnel lying on the floor of her cell complaining of abdominal pain.

She was taken to Sierra View Hospital and Dr. Collier, the physician on call, ordered her transferred to the county hospital in Tulare 22 miles away.

She died about 10 minutes after arrival at the county hospital. The cause of death was a ruptured spleen.

Pamela Jones Pleads Innocent

Pamela Alice Jones, 18, of no known address, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of fraudulently possessing checks.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow.

The girl had passed a check at a San Rafael department store May 26, which turned out to have been stolen and forged, police said. She was arrested last Friday when she returned to the store and attempted to cash another check.

'Nude' Statue Of 4 Topless Dancers Busted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A commemorative "nude statue" —four undraped topless dancers celebrating the seventh anniversary of their art form — didn't last long Wednesday.

Police arrested the four women, clad only in g-strings, for indecent exposure and conspiracy after finding them scampering around a modern fountain at the Embarcadero Plaza.

They were hustled off to the city jail, where the Salvation Army provided emergency frocks in the interests of propriety.

The arrested girls were released on $1,800 bail each.

Viet Court Fines Saigon Newspapers

SAIGON (UPI) —A South Vietnamese municipal court has levied fines against six newspapers for alleged violations of the federal newspaper code. It suspended sentences against four other publications for lack of evidence.

You Gotta Wear Shoes, Son, To Succeed In This World

WASHINGTON — This is the time of the year when fathers sit down and have heart-to-heart talks with their sons.

"Son, now that you have graduated your mother feels I would not be fulfilling my duties as a father if I did not explain certain facts about life to you."

"Yes, Dad."

"First I would like to show you a few things that you will have to deal with in the outside world. For example, this item is called a necktie."

"What do you do with it?"

"You tie it around your neck like this and wear it with a shirt."

"WHAT FOR?"

"Nobody is quite sure. But when you do go out into the cold world, people will expect you to wear one. It's the Establishment's answer to the peace symbol."

"It sure looks funny. What else, Dad?"

"This, my boy, is a suit — what are you laughing at?"

"The jacket matches the pants. Hey, that's really crazy."

"Yes, the jacket does match the pants, and you will be expected to wear them together during the daytime."

"But the pants have a crease in the front. What's that for?"

"I'm not certain of its purpose, but now that you are an adult, you will be expected to keep a crease in your pants."

"MAN, WHAT will they think of next?"

"Son, I wish you wouldn't take our talk lightly. Perhaps I should have explained these things to you before, but I didn't want to ruin your school days. Yet what I am telling you now will have a great effect on everything you do."

"Sorry, Dad, but you have to admit wearing a tie and a jacket that matches the pants — what do you call it, a suit? — is a pretty funny idea."

"Can we proceed? These queer-looking leather things are called shoes. Do you have any idea what they're used for?"

"Beats me."

"YOU PUT THEM on your feet to protect them from sharp objects."

"I don't want to wear anything like that, Dad. I'll take my chances."

"I don't know how to break it to you, son, but most places require grownups to wear shoes."

"Look, Dad, if you want me to, I will wear a necktie and I'll even go along with the jacket and matching pants with a crease in them, but I'm not going to put those stupid leather things on my feet."

"Shoes, son, shoes. Believe me, you'll get used to them. After a while you might even get to like them and keep them polished."

"YOU MEAN I have to polish them, too?"

"You don't have to, but they look better that way and last longer. Here, put on these socks and then . . ."

"What are socks?"

"You wear them under the shoes so the leather won't rub your feet."

"I thought the shoes were supposed to protect my feet."

"PROVIDING YOU wear socks. Son, please don't make this too difficult for me. I'm not very good at explaining the facts of life but believe me, I've been telling you the truth."

"I'm sorry, Dad, it's just that you've thrown all this stuff at me at one time, and it comes as a shock."

"Perhaps we've talked enough for one day. Tomorrow I'd like to tell you about a thing called a razor."

"Razor? That's a funny word."

Yellow grass?
—even though you fertilize?

It's likely caused by iron deficiency. Our anemic soils are frequently responsible for the "yellows," even when the grass is fed regularly. And the color won't improve, no matter how much you fertilize, until the iron deficiency is corrected.

Vida Blue Continues Incredible Winning Streak

Vida Blue again was trying hard to relax while surrounded by the usual post-game army of reporters. He had just fired win No. 14 of an incredible season by setting down the Washington Senators Wednesday night, 5-1.

The 21-year-old southpaw of the Oakland A's has six starts remaining before July 13. He could conceivably win 20 games prior to the All-Star game —a remarkable feat.

''It's pretty hard to avoid being affected by the pressure when so many people come out to see the games I pitch," Blue said. "Everybody seems to want to see Vida 'do his thing'."

While fans and reporters conjure visions of baseball's first 30-game winner since Denny McLain, Blue looks forward only to his next start. It seems almost painful for him to talk of the future.

"I'm just pitching, man," Blue said quietly. "To win 20 games would be great in itself. Whether it comes before the All-Star game or three weeks later, it's all the same to me."

Blue's record is remarkable not only because of his number of victories, but also because of the way in which he has won.

He has won 14 of his 17 starts and all of his victories have been complete games. He has allowed more than six hits in only one game this season. He leads the American League in shutouts with five and in strikeouts with 133.

In his 139 1-3 innings of work this year, he has allowed only four home runs.

Yet, the question must be asked whether Blue can continue to work so many innings throughout the season and still win.

"I feel I can do it," Blue said. "But by everybody making a big fuss over my accomplishments so far, it just puts added pressure on me."

The most innings Vida has pitched in his career was 152 for Burlington of the Midwest League in 1968.

A's manager Dick Williams obviously has confidence in his southpaw ace.

"He adjusts quickly," Williams said. ''This is what makes him a great pitcher aside from the stuff he's got."

The A's supported Blue with all their runs in the first three innings, all on bases empty homers against Washington Starter McLain (4-12).

Former Senator Mike Epstein belted a pair of long shots off MCLain and tied a two-game major league record by hitting home runs on four consecutive at-bats.

''I'm not going to do that again in my career," Epstein said with a smile. "After I hit that first homer, Denny told me 'you hit the ball so far I got a strained neck just watching it.'"

Epstein's homers were his seventh and eighth of the season. Joe Rudi added his eighth and ninth and Dave Duncan walloped No. 9.

Epstein, traded by the Senators to Oakland May 8, had a chance to set a record with his fifth straight homer. But he struck out against Paul Lindblad, the relief pitcher who was part of the Epstein trade.

The victory widened the A's lead in the A.L. West to 6 1-2 games over the Kansas City Royals.

"I have a great deal of respect for the Kansas City Royals," manager Williams said. "But for the first time this season we're 20 games over .500. If we keep winning, nobody can catch us."

The A's, who drew 19,893 to the Oakland Coliseum Wednesday night, begin an eight-game road swing Friday night in Milwaukee.

Nicklaus The Man To Beat

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—One hundred and forty-nine rivals were worrying just as much today about Jack Nicklaus, the man to beat, as they were about the short but dangerous Merion Golf Club, the course to beat, as play began in the first round of the 71st U. S. Open Golf championship.

Nicklaus, the reigning PGA champion, was the overwhelming favorite in a star-studded field of 135 pros and 15 amateurs, as befits the man who holds both the Open tournament record of 275 and the Merion course record of 269.

England's Tony Jacklin, who won the crown in Chaska, Minn., last year when he was the only man in the field to break par for 72 holes, is the Open's defending champion and he says he "feels ready to play some good golf."

But Nicklaus is the popular choice of just about everyone to win the four-day battle over the 6,544-yard, par-70 Merion layout which is the site of the Open championship for the third time.

"Jack has been playing so well," said outspoken Dave Hill, "that it's almost embarrassing to watch him."

"He's capable of shooting any score," agreed Deane Beman.

Nicklaus started this year with high hopes of becoming the first golfer in history to win all four of the world's major pro championships — a pro "Grand Slam" including the Masters, Open, PGA, and British Open titles. He won the PGA in February in West Palm Beach, Fla., but the "Slam" idea went out the window when he finished behind Texan Charles Coody in the Masters in April.

But Nicklaus' interest in winning the Open wasn't diminished by his Masters defeat. In fact, he was the only man in the Open field who showed up here as early as Wednesday of last week to practice over the tricky Merion course. Nicklaus himself frankly confessed that he was surprised others didn't come when he did "because this isn't the kind of a course you just walk in and start playing well."

Nicklaus set the Merion course record of 11-under-par 269 for 72 holes back in 1960 when he won the World Amateur here. He's shooting for his third Open championship —having won in 1962 at Oakmont, Pa., and again in 1967 at Springfield, N.J., when he broke Ben Hogan's Open record with a 275.

With Nicklaus in top form, many observers are forecasting a new tournament record either by him or by whoever is sharp enough to beat him. But in the process, the winner is going to have to beat a golf course as tricky as it is rich in tradition.

Rough Road Trip Ends For Giants

Philadelphia (UPI) —After getting little brotherly love in Philadelphia, the June-smitten San Francisco Giants flew quietly to the West Coast.

Today is an off-day for the Giants but it's a good bet manager Charlie Fox will have a few of his boys taking some licks at Candlestick Park. Bats of the Giants have been rather lethargic during a 4-11 spell in June.

Latest humiliation was 6-3 to Jim Bunning, Joe Hoerner and the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night to close out the road trip with a 3-6 record.

For the 14th time in June, a Giants starter again failed to go the route. Steve Stone started for San Francisco and was removed after 4 2-3 innings with the Giants trailing 4-2. But all four runs off Stone, now 4-5, were unearned and came after a throwing error by third baseman Alan Gallagher.

In the second inning, John Vukovich singled and took second on a groundout. Denny Doyle walked and Stone struck out Bunning for the second out. Stone appeared out of the inning when he induced Terry Harmon to hit an easy bouncer to Gallagher.

Alan fielded the ball cleanly but whistled a throw past first baseman Willie McCovey to allow Vukovich and Doyle to score.

Then Tim McCarver followed with a two-run homer to make it 4-0. It was McCarver's fifth home run of the season and three of them have come against the Giants.

The Giants got back two of the runs in the third. Gallagher rapped a double off Bunning and Tito Fuentes blasted his first homer of the season over the right-centerfield fence.

Los Angeles lost to the Mets Wednesday to keep the front-running Giants five games ahead of the runnerup Dodgers in the National League West.

The Giants play five games against the San Diego Padres this weekend, including a twi-night doubleleader Friday and two more games on Sunday. The Chicago Cubs are in town for two games next Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday.

Nolan Will Appear At Marin Banquet

Ray Bennigson is ecstatic. The president of the Marin Chapter, 49er Goal Rushers Club, confirmed yesterday that Dick Nolan, the head coach of the San Francisco professional football team, will appear at the local club's annual banquet June 29.

"In addition to Nolan," said Bennigson, a former UCLA gridder, "we'll have at least 15 players, coaches and front office personnel at the banquet."

Preceding the banquet, which will be open to the public at $12 a pop ($12 for Mom, too), the Niners will join Goal Rushers in a golf tournament at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Nolan, who won't be able to play in the tournament, will bring assistant coaches Chet Franklin, Don Heinrich and Mike Giddings along with promotions director Dick Berg and treasurer Nate Scardigli. Forty-Niner players who will compete in the tournament include Randy Beisler, Ted Kwalik, Alvin Randolph, Johnny Fuller, Braden Beck, Bill Tucker, Bruce Gossett and possibly Gene Washington and Bruce Taylor.

Taylor and center Forrest Blue will receive the Goal Rushers' "Serendipity Award" as the team's most pleasant surprises at the banquet that night.

MARIN COUNTY will be ably represented at tonight's annual Police Activities League (PAL) softball game at the Cow Palace between Reno Barsocchini's Very Important Persons and the KSFO No-Stars.

On KSFO's side will be Jim Lange of Kentfield, Pete Scott of Sausalito, Al Newman of San Rafael, Carter B. Smith of Tiburon, Terry McGovern and Gene Nelson of Sausalito, Jeff Skov of San Anselmo and Chet Casselman of Greenbrae.

The VIPs will include members of the 49ers, Raiders, Giants and other Bay Area big shots.

SPEAKING OF big shots, George R. Hettema of Fairfax has been appointed a rifle, pistol and shotgun instructor by the National Rifle Association. I thought you'd get a bang out of that.

CHRISTMAS IN JUNE? Youngsters will be treated to several goodies this weekend at the Sports Car Racing Association competition at Laguna Seca.

Every kid 12 and younger who attends will receive a model Johnny Lightning race car, a package of racing decals, an STP auto race color book and a pen while the first 500 youths through the turnstiles will get a T-shirt.

Says Jerry Diamond of Marin, publicizing the event: "All sports have had give-away days to attract the younger generation, so auto racing is getting into the act by bunching all its gift days into one."

Jackie Robinson Son Is Killed

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) — Jack Roosevelt Robinson, Jr., son of the Baseball Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson, died early today when his speeding auto rolled over and hit a bridge abutment. He was 24.

State Police at Westport said Robinson was traveling at a high rate of speed when his auto apparently hit a fence on the Merritt Parkway near Rt. 123. The car rolled over and hit the abutment about 2:20 a.m., police said.

Marin Stars Clash

Len Hoffman and Mike Johnson, a couple of pitchers with tremendous ability but dubious season records, will start for the North and South respectively tonight in the second annual Marin County All Star High School baseball game at Albert Park in San Rafael.

North coach Jack Sims of San Rafael High School and South mentor Al Ahlsten of Tamalpais announced their starting lineups this morning for the Knights of Columbus-sponsored charity game, which will begin at 8 o'clock. Both the solid strength of the North and the makeshift character of the South are reflected in the lineups.

Hoffman, from San Marin High, posted a 1-3 won-lost record during the Marin County Athletic League season, while Johnson of Tamalpais was 0-4. Both showed flashes of greatness, however, and could come up with big efforts in this game. Each team has an ace hurler in reserve — Novato's Dave Judnick for the North, and Marin Catholic's Tom Olson for the South.

Four All-MCAL stars are in the lineup for the North; the first three batters, centerfielder Jim Thomspon of San Marin, second baseman Jim Thorne of San Rafael and first baseman Larry Kerr of Terra Linda all made the all league first team. After Kerr will come Terra Linda rightfielder Bill Sherbert, San Rafael leftfielder Holte Greene, third baseman Randy Jackson from Novato, shortstop John Kidder from Novato, catcher Jack Burnam from San Marin, and finally Hoffman. Burnam is the North's other all-leaguer.

The South has only one all-leaguer, Olson, who will be hitting second and playing shortstop. Leading off will be Drake's Steve Hale at second base. Johnson will hit third, followed by Drake centerfielder John Loane, Tamalpais catcher Bill Rudolph, and Drake's Mike Bauman at first base. He is a catcher by trade, but was switched to first for this game because the South lacks infielders.

Tickets, at $2 for adults and $1 for students with student body cards, will be available at the gate. Pre-game activities begin at 7:30.

A Big Hand For Tom Olson

Tom Olson, who pitched Marin Catholic High School to the Marin County Athletic League baseball championship and then fired a pair of shutouts as the Wildcats won the Tournament of Champions, has been named the 1971 Marin County recipient of the Bay Area Big Hand scholarship.

Tony Compagno of Redwood High, a member of the scholarship committee for Marin, announced the award yesterday. Olson will receive the $2,000 scholarship tomorrow night at Meadow Club in Fairfax, at a dinner following a golf tournament there which will help raise the money.

The Scholarship, now in its 10th year, went last year to Jerry Piro of Redwood, and the year before to Dave Alvarado of Drake.

Marin Kids Take Beating In Junior Tennis Tourney

Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, Marin County's top 18-year-old tennis player, breezed to one victory and struggled to another while other local players took a lot of losses yesterday in the ninth annual Belvedere Junior Tennis Tournament at the Belvedere Tennis Club.

Marin players won only 12 matches while losing 34 in the third day of the tourney, which is also the Northern California Junior Sectional Championships. Bee Kilgore of Tiburon, the county's ranking girl player, won in the girls' 16 age class, and highly-rated Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae was victorious in a girls' 14 match.

Suyderhoud took his second round match from Jeff Samuels of Vallejo, 6-2, 7-5, and then disposed of Visalia's Kurt Nielson in the third round, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Suyderhoud was the only Marin player to win twice yesterday.

The tourney continues today.

Bill To Save Tule Elk Is Advanced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to save California's tule elk from possible extinction has cleared its first legislative hurdle despite opposition from the Department of Fish and Game.

The bill, SB 722 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would require growth of the state's elk herd to 2,000 — the minimum herd to prevent extinction by famine or disease.

The herd, concentrated in the Owens Valley in Southern California, now stands at 292. The Fish and Game Commission has agreed to allow the herd to grow to 490 before allowing hunters to kill them again, and objected to a herd of 2,000.

Also opposed to the bill were cattlemen and alfalfa growers, who claimed even the existing small herd was a nuisance. Cattlemen graze some 16,000 head in the valley.

"They begrudge those little elk the grass," Behr said of the cattlemen. Thousands of the elk inhabited the San Joaquin Valley until it was developed in the last century.

The bill could lead to establishment of a herd at Point Reyes National Seashore by requiring the department to study other areas to relocate elk as the herd grows.

The bill, clearing the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee in a split vote, went to the finance committee.

Tam High Lists Counseling Hours

Students who will attend Tamalpais High School for the first time this September may obtain help in arranging their fall schedules from a counselor who will be on duty atthe school weekdays until August 6, Principal Raymond Bell has announced.

Counseling will be available in the school's counseling office — located in the administration building — daily from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The services will also be offered again after Sept. 1.

Bagley Proposes Candy Exemption

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Good news for candy fanciers! There may be no tax on their gooey goodies.

Cookies, in a neat distinction under existing law, are considered food, thus exempt from the sales tax. But candy is branded a luxury, thus subject to the tax.

But by juggling several other levies, such as imposing the sales tax on all take-out food, his measure would pick up a net $25 million in new tax revenue.

Declaring the candy tax an issue of "social policy," Bagley said that candy "isn't a luxury. It's almost a necessity in terms of being the most inexpensive dessert that exists." Taxing it hits hardest at the poor "who don't eat fancy desserts," he said.

Bagley also criticized the candy tax on the ground it required artificial distinction to be made between candy and cookies. Virtually identical products have been designated candy or cookies by administrative decisions of the state Board of Equalization, he said.

His bill would pick up a net increase in revenue also by hiking the sales tax schedule for private sales of cars. The schedule is 20 per cent below market prices, he said.

Gift taxes also would be increased.

In the case of take-out foods, current law imposes the sales tax only if it is to be consumed on or near the premises. As a result, McDonald's Hamburger restaurants must charge sales tax because they have parking lots and tables. But a Jack-In-The-Box Drive-Thru does not because it generally has neither.

Bagley's bill would impose the tax on all hot food, except bakery products, which are cooked or prepared at the place where sold.

Innocent Plea To Escape And Grand Theft

William Guy Ferman, 21, of Honolulu, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of grand theft and escape.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Police said Day reported he had berthed his boat at the Turney Street boat ramp, secured the vessel and gone for a tour of the town. When he returned to the dock, he said he saw the boat, with Ferman aboard, adrift in Richardson Bay.

Police said Ferman later attempted to escape from their custody before he was booked at Marin County Jail.

Three 30-Year Pin Are Awarded

Three Marin residents have received 30-year service pins from the Army Corps of Engineers.

They are Isaac C. Campbell of 397 Alameda del Prado, Loma Verde; Warren H. Rice of 44 Diane Lane, Larkspur, and John W. Tautges of 660 Cherry Street, Novato.

Stipends To Five For Art Study

The students were chosen by a panel of professional artists from throughout the Bay Area. Their scholarships will be for a six-week period starting next Tuesday and running through Aug. 1.

Tony K. Sanders, of 1204 Ridgeview Heights, Novato, won a 75 per cent scholarship. Pauline Martha Hermanson of 55 Twelveoak Hill Drive, San Rafael received a 50 per cent scholarship.

Honorable mention awards went to Mard Sanches-Corea of 122 Ross Street, San Rafael; Terry Ann York of 520 Cascade Drive, Fairfax and Neil Walter McCloud of 98 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

Craft Fair Set Next Weekend

A Creative Craft Fair, a demonstration and display of hand crafts, will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 26 and 27 at the parking lot of Creative Merchandisers at 285 Jacoby Street, San Rafael.

More than 25 local craftsmen will demonstrate their skills, display and sell their work.

A wide variety of crafts, including ceramics, jewelry making glass craft, painting, leather work, weaving and stichery, will be on display.

College Cager A Pro?

NEW YORK (UPI) —The controversy surrounding Howard Porter may grow as the NCAA continues its investigation of the Villanova All America.

It was learned in Federal District Court Wednesday that Porter, the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA basketball tourney, had signed a $350,000 contract on Dec. 16 with the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association. The contract was initialed by ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph.

Porter's signing with college eligibility remaining could cost Villanova its 26-7 season and runnerup finish to UCLA in the NCAA tourney, though Art Mahan, the school's athletic director, said speculation about forfeits was "premature at this time."

Porter, who subsequently reneged on his contract with the Condors and signed with the Chicago Bulls of the rival National Baksetball Association, would not comment on the situation.

An NCAA spokesman in Kansas City said Wednesday that the ruling body for college sports would continue to investigate the matter. "That information (Porter's signing) has not been substantiated as far as we're concerned," said the spokesman. "If it is substantiated at a later date, we will take immediate and appropriate action.

"That action is pretty well outlined in the NCA regulations. They call for an institution to vacate its standing in the national college basketball championships and also provides that the institutions shall return any award to the NCAA."

Porter's contract with Pittsburgh called for $350,000 at the rate of $50,000 annually. Porter had received $15,000 and was to receive an additional $10,000 on May 1 with a Cadillac automobile to be delivered shortly after that date.

Chicago and Pittsburgh made an out-of-court settlement regarding Porter's status and he will play for the Bulls this season.

Mahan said Villanova had investigated Porter's signing after a Charlotte, N.C., newspaper disclosed last January that it had learned of Porter's agreement with the Condors.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Montreal's Bill Stoneman Barely Misses No-Hitter

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Stoneman who pitched a no-hitter in 1969 but has posted 1119 and 7-15 records for the past two seasons, now seems to be on the threshold at age 27 of living up to his early promise. He boosted his record to 9-4 Wednesday night by pitching a one-hitter to give the Montreal Expos a 2-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Bunning, who feared his career might be over when he was sent to the bullpen with a 2-7 record on May 21, pitched seven strong innings for his third straight victory as the Philadelphia Phils downed the saggin San Francisco Giants, 6-3.

Stoneman, picked up by the Expos in the expansion draft from Chicago, has long had the potential to be a topflight pitcher but is just now starting to live up to it. He retired 19 straight batters before Clarence Gaston singled with one out in the seventh to ruin his no-hitter.

"It was my best game of the year," Stoneman said, "When I was warming up before the game, I thought I was going to have my best curve."

Making the normal comment for pitchers who throw a one-hitter, he said, "the victory is the important thing so I wasn't disappointed about losing the no-hitter."

When Bunning went to the bullpen, he admits, "I knew I might never get back in the starting rotation but I didn't have that much to lose, I've had a fine career. But I felt at the time that my career was probably over."

Bunning allowed just three hits in 3 2-3 innings in his first relief appearance against the Mets (although he was beaten by an unearned run) to earn another chance as a starter. Since then, he's gotten credit for three straight wins as a starter and has turned in another good relief job, too. He allowed just five hits and three runs in seven innings to get the victory over San Francisco with Joe Hoerner finishing up the final two innings.

In other games, New York downed Los Angeles 7-2, Cincinnati blanked St. Louis 1-0, Pittsburgh beat Houston 6-4 and Atlanta edged Chicago 6-5.

In the American League, Baltimore routed Milwaukee 83, Minnesota edged Cleveland 32, New York downed Kansas City 3-1, Detroit beat Chicago 65, Oakland topped Washington 5-1, and Boston beat California, 4-1.

USC Gains Baseball Finals

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—All the preliminaries are out of the way, and it will be defending champion Southern California against the Southern Illinois Salukis in the showdown game tonight, for the championship in the 25th annual College World Series.

The Trojans, whose only loss in the series was to Southern Illinois by a score of 8-3, eliminated the Tulsa Golden Hurricane, 3-2, Wednesday night to earn the right to defend their 1970 title against the Salukis.

Southern Illinois won a bye into the finals after the Salukis, the Trojans, and Tulsa got through the first four rounds of play in the double elimination tourney with 3-1 records.

Mark Sogge won out in a tight pitching duel with Tulsa's Cliff Butcher Wednesday night when he rapped a single to left center field in the bottom of the ninth to score Jeff Port on second base. Port reached second with one out when he slapped a sharp grounder to shortstop Phil Honeycutt, who picked up the ball and fired it wildly past first base. Only the inning before, Honeycutt had doubled sharply to center to bring in the tying run for Tusla.

After Honeycutt's double which moved Roger Adams, who had singled, to third, Jerry Tabb walked to load the bases with only one man out.

Sogge tagged Adams out a the plate in a weird play in which the ball was thrown from Sogge to third baseman Port, to catcher Craig Perkins to shortstop George Ambrow, and finally back to Sogge.

Tulsa got a run in the fifth on singles by Steve Bowling and John Klahr. After that, Sogge made one of his few mistakes and wild pitched Bowling home.

The loss for Butcher was his sixth in 16 games. Tulsa, rated fourth in the country, wound up with a record for the year of 35-12. 35-12. Number one ranked Southern Cal is 52-13, and thirdranked Southern Illinois is 34-8.

Marinites Sparkle In National Tennis

Sparkling victories by Hugh Tierney of Tiburon and Larry Axtell of Ross and a near upset by Mill Valley's Bob Seymour highlighted the first round of action yesterday in the Natinal Men's 35 Hardcourt Championships at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

All seeded players won, including defending champion Clif Mayne of Orinda, who dumped Frank Johnson of Reno, 6-1, 6-1. But 14th seeded Don Jacobus of Berkeley had to struggle to get by Seymour. Their match lasted three sets, with Jacobus finally prevailing, 7-5, 0-6, 6-1. Seymour won his qualifying match over Fred Carillo of Los Altos, 6-3, 6-3.

Tierney won twice, but in two far different ways. Don Schrader of Stockton defaulted to him in the qualifying round, and then he dropped Tom Tucker of San Francisco in the first round, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1.

Action continues today in the tourney.

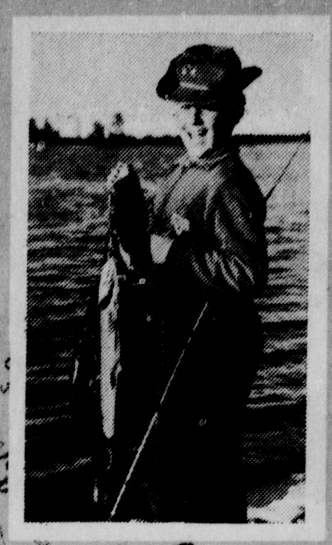
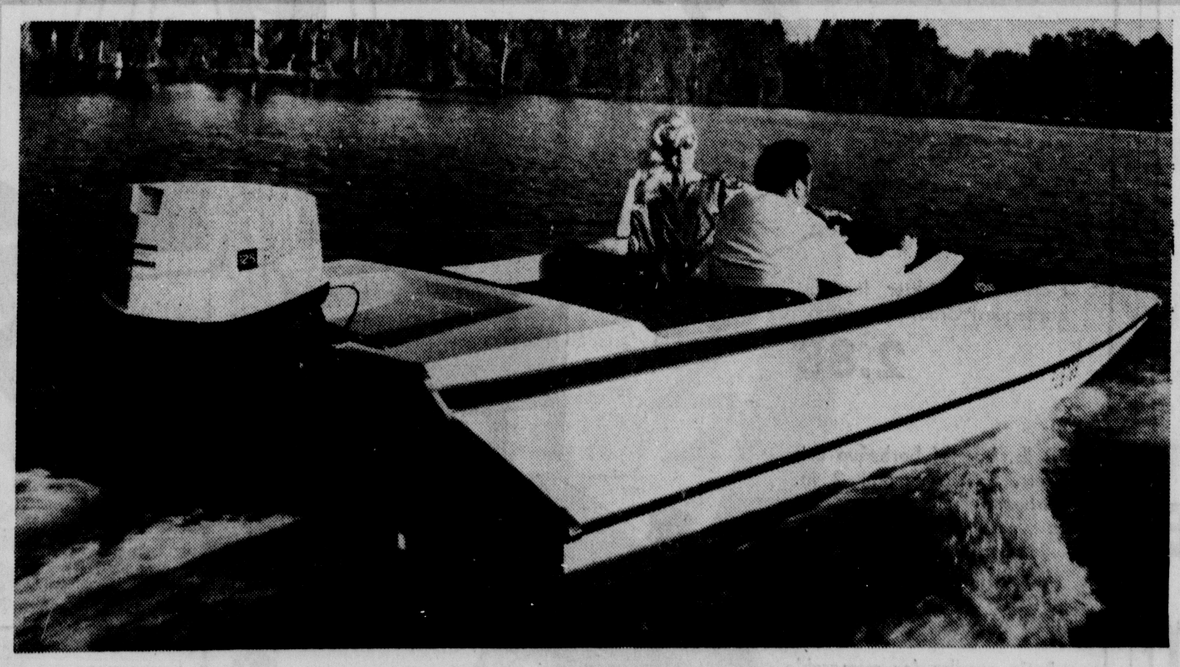
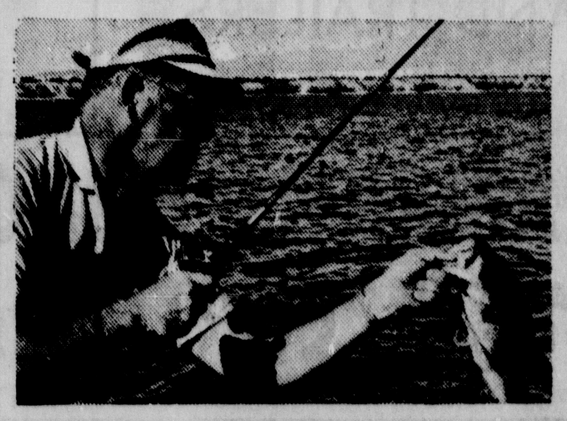
OUTDOOR LIVING IN MARIN







Independent Journal

San Rafael, California, Thursday, June 17, 1971

MARIN ENTRY — Dr. John T. Korn of Novato (in car No. 64) will be driving his NSU in the D-Sedan race at this weekend's national championship sports car races at Laguna Seca.

College Coaches Rip AAU

SEATTLE (UPI) —The executive committee of the U.S. Track Coaches Association has demanded that the Amateur Athletic Union cease "harassment and threats of ineligibility" against athletes competing in meets sanctioned by the rival U.S. Track and Field Federation.

The coaches group, meeting here on the eve of the NCAA track championships, also said Wednesday it "demands the AAU cease blocking the application of USTFF for membership in the United States Olympic Committee."

And it further asked that the AAU "cease its efforts to inhibit the foreign tours planned by the USTFF and its constituent members."

The coaches also demanded that the AAU accept a world record set by high hurdler Thomas Hill of Arkansas State at the USTFF meet in Wichita, Kan., June 13, 1970, and forward it to the IAAF.

The USTFF is a branch of the NCAA which long has been at odds with the AAU.

SPORTS SHORTS

Giants Sign Free Agents; A's Sell Ramon Webster

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Top pick Joseph Ricelli, a left-handed pitcher from Syracuse, N.Y., is among 10 free agents signed by the San Francisco Giants.

Others are first baseman Phillih James of Kansas University and Steve Stroughter of Visalia; second basemen Bill Wolfe of Fresno State and David Walski of UC Santa Barbara; pitchers Greg Thayer of St. Cloud, Minn., and David Fuqua, Bend, Ore.; third baseman Bill Adkinson of Central Washington College, and shortstops Harold J. Ingle of Campbell College, N.C., and Bruce Wright of Richmond, Va.

OAKLAND (UPI) — Reserve infielder Ramon Webster of the Oakland A's, sent to Iowa on Monday, was sold Wednesday to the Chicago Cubs of the National League.

The 28-year-old infielder needs 10 more days on a big-league roster to qualify for a four-year pension.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Jim Willoughby of Phoenix is not averse to putting men on base, but once they get there they stay there.

Latest PCL pitching statistics show the Phoenix hurler leading the league in walks and wild pitches, but still possessing the lowest earned run mark in the league, 2.60.

Basketball

MILPITAS (UPI) —A group of Samuel Ayer High School students today claimed the marathon basketball playing record after a 130-hour game that produced a score of 11,233-10,061.

They said the old record of 126 hours was held by a high school in Washington state.

Thirty-nine players participated in the project, which raised money for uniforms. Three had to leave because of leg injuries, but they all later returned to action.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— The Portland Trail Blazer rookies overpowered the Japanese national basketball team, 115-63, Wednesday night as former UCLA star Sidney Wicks grabbed 13 rebounds and scored 16 points.

Track

SEATTLE (UPI) — Bill Bowerman, track coach at the University of Oregon the last 23 years, has been named outdoor track and field coach of the year by the United States Track Coaches Association.

Announcement of Bowerman's selection was made Wednesday night by Al Buehler, of Duke University and president of the coaches association.

During his tenure at Oregon, Bowerman has led teams which have won or shared four NCAA team k.mpionships.

Soccer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Guadalajara of Oakland, champion of Northern California, faces the German Americans of Los Angeles in Balboa Stadium Sunday for the state soccer championship.

Marin Speedsters Shoot For Laguna Seca Honors

A dozen drivers from Marin County, including San Rafael's sensational Jon Woodner, will be competing this weekend in the Olympia Sprints at Laguna Raceway near Monterey.

The races, sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America, will be worth national championship points, thus drawing top competition from throughout Northern California. Also featured will be triumph factory teams from Gardena, Calif., Falls Church, Va., and San Rafael.

Woodner, three time Northern Pacific Divisional SCCA champion and current points leader in class F production, will drive for Joe Huffaker's Automotive Engineering team, which is based in San Rafael. Huffaker is entering an MGB in class E production, and an MG Midget in class F production, and Woodner will handle both cars.

Other Marin drivers entered are Tom Crowther of Kentfield and Ed Stow of Sausalito in Formula Fords, Carl Von Doymi of Greenbrae and Stuart Fisher of San Rafael in Formula Vees, Harold Kirberg of Mill Valley in a Porsche, John Mahall of Corte Madera in a Sprite, Bob Lusk of Novato in an Alfa Romeo, Austin Walther of Novato in an Anglia, Dr. John Korn of Novato in an NSU and Hugh Harn of Belvedere in a Camaro.

Both the Gardena and Falls Church teams, like Huffaker's, are sponsored by British Leyland Motors, Inc., marketers of Triumphs and MGs. Three new Triumphs Sportsters, a TR - 6, a GT - 6 and a Spitfire will make up the Gardena contingent, from the Kastner Brophy stable in Gardena.

The Falls Church team, part of an organization known as Group 44, will consist of three Trimphs and an MGB. This will make the first time that Group 44 has raced in Northern California.

Woodner will have fierce competition in his races, both of which will take place Saturday. He'll go against Jerry Truitt of the Group 44 team in the E production race, and against John Kelley of Group 44 and Lee Mueller of the Gardena team in the F production event. All three of his opponents are former national champions.

C and D production races will be held Sunday. Saturday is a practice day.

Tickets can be purchased at a discount from six locations in Marin and Sonoma counties: Greyhound Bus depots in Mill Valley, Novato, and Petaluma, the Emporium at Northgate, Macy's in San Rafael, and the Hamilton Air Force Base Service Club in San Rafael.

GOLF

Palacio Attempts A Repeat

Former California Amateur Champion Mat Palacio of San Rafael and two other golfers from Marin County will be among the field of 200 which will gather at Pebble Beach next Monday for qualifying rounds of the 60th annual state amateur tourney.

Palacio, 55, who won the title in 1936, will be joined in the elite tourney by two Sausalito residents, Robert Ireland and Richard Thompson. They will be trying for the crown vacated by last year's winner, Bob Risch of Gardena. He turned pro.

The tourney will be played on the Pebble Beach and Cypress Point courses, with 18-hole qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday. The 64 players with the lowest gross scores after that move on to the Championship flight.

ALSO STARTING on Monday will be the California Golf Association Handicap Tournament at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. One Marin player, Carlos Morales of Tiburon, is entered in it. Morales' handicap is 11.

RESULTS OF action last week and Sonoma county courses.

ABA Cagers In Favor Of Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Basketball Association players aren't going to support the National Basketball Association players in their opposition to the proposed pro basketball merger.

Zelmo Beaty, the president of the ABA Players' Association, said Wednesday the players in his league support the merger because it might be impossible for some of the ABA teams to continue if the leagues don't merge.

Larry Fleisher, attorney for the NBA Players' Association, called the ABA players' decision "insanity or perhaps selfishness on the part of some individuals."

He added, "I think from the ABA players' point of view that merger is also unattractive. I'm surprised by some of the players who said they favored a merger which would allow two employers to get together and take away their employees' right to negotiate for a salary. Some of the players who are saying they favor merger have benefitted the most from having two leagues."

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph said he was "extremely pleased and proud" of the ABA Players' Association.

"This is a selfless act on the part of the ABA Players' Association leadership in that some of them have, and could, benefit by non-merger," Dolph added.

The ABA players are planning to lobby in Congress in an attempt to keep the owners from getting legislative approval for the merger.

Softball Shutouts

A pair of shutouts were recorded last night in San Rafael adult softball league games at Albert Park. Cain's Tires blanked Bandon Tire, 2-0, and Perry's downed the Dobes, 3-0.

Wimbledon Losing Prestige: Riessen

LONDON (UPI)—Prestige is all very well but it doesn't pay the grocery bills, says Marty Riessen, and that's why Wimbledon's status as the premier tennis tournament is in danger.

The World Championship Tennis pro from Evanston, Ill., is unhappy about the prize money up for grabs at the June 21-July 3 All-England tournament.

Riessen, one of three Americans advancing to today's quarter-finals of the London Grass Courts championships—the traditional Wimbledon rehearsal--said the men's singles prize should be doubled.

This year's men's singles champion at Wimbledon will collect $9,000. The womens winner gets $4,320.

"The men's prize should be at least $20,000, Riessen said, and if they want to keep Wimbledon as the world's top tournament they are going to have to boost the prizes accordingly."

Riessen, a graduate of Northwestern University where he holds a masters of Education degree, joined WCT in 1968 and he said money is what tennis is all about these days.

"Wimbledon is still No. 1, but Forest Hills (The U.S. championship) is overtaking it fast," Riessen said. "There's still a lot of prestige attached to winning at Wimbledon, but I don't mind where I play."

He reasoned: "Why play at Wimbledon when other tournaments are willing to pay more? At the Wills Open in Bristol last week they offered more money for a one week tournament."

Riessen eliminated two fellow Americans Wednesday to reach the last eight at the Queens Club tournament. He beat Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, Calif., 9-7, 3-6, 7-5 in the second round and 43-year-old Pancho Gonzales, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2 in the third.

Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., and Tom Gorman, Seattle, Wash., were the other Americans who joined a formidable array of Australian talent in the quarter-finals.

Smith, seeded fourth here and at Wimbledon, beat Ray Ruffels of Australia 6-3, 6-4 and the unseeded Gorman toppled yet another Aussie, Terry Addison, 8-6, 6-3.

In the quaters, Riessen, seeded seventh here but omitted from the eight Wimbledon seedings, was drawn against Smith and Gorman got Wimbledon top seed Rod Laver as "Reward" for his victory.

The other quarter-finals pitted John Newcombe against Ross Case and Owen Davidson against Roy Emerson — the "outsider" who dumped Cliff Richey and South African Cliff Drysdale on the same day Tuesday. Richey, San Angelo, Tex., was seeded sixth here and at Wimbledon and Drysdale is the eigth seed at the All-English tournament.

Suburban Drops Softball Pair

Collecting only three hits in each game, Suburban Auto of San Rafael dropped both ends of a non-league softball doubleheader yesterday against the LeBlanc Barons at Sunnyvale.

The Barons, who have represented Northern California in the national championship tournament, got superb pitching from Guy French in the opener and Merle Drake in the nightcap to sew up wins by scores of 3-2 and 3-0.

Suburban Auto plays its next Golden Gate League game Saturday at San Francisco against Hayward.

POPULAR RECREATION — The appeals of a houseboat are room, comfort, stability and low operating cost. Modern designs take them out of the "shanty class and enable them to compete in style with other craft.

Houseboats Gain In Popularity

You can have your boat and live in it, too. This delightful fact is the secret behind one of the most impressive growth trends in boating.

From disreputable beginnings as ungainly and unseaworthy "shanties of the shoreline" houseboats have evolved into smart, seagoing vacation homes.

The houseboat turnabout is clearly illustrated by sales figures. In 1963 only 500 houseboats were sold in the entire U.S.A. By 1969 the annual houseboat sales figure had zoomed to 4,000. The U.S. houseboat fleet now numbers 14,000 and is expected to grow much larger during the next decade.

Kinney Services: Hold Or Convert?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 80 shares each of Kinney Services $1.25 and $0.05 convertible preferred. I would appreciate your comments on these issues. Should i hold or convert; I am near retirement age? — W.H.

A. This company has its finger in a number of pies, most of which are profitable. Leisure time interests, which account for 75 per cent of earnings, include movie and TV serial production, publishing, music recording, and photographic optical equipment. In addition, Kinney provides services such as industrial maintenance, banking, parking systems and funeral chapels.

Earnings have moved ahead regularly since 1966 and for the year ended Sept. 30, 1970 net rose 22 per cent to $1.90 a share. For the first half of the current fiscal year, sales and earnings gained 17 percent and 8 percent, respectively. For the full year improvement should be at least as good as that of the first half, due to stepped up motion picture releases.

There would be little financial incentive for you to convert at this time. The $1.25 preferred, while trading in line with conversion value, provides a better yield than the common. The $0.05 Series C preferred is trading at a wide premium over its conversion value thus conversion would entail sizable capital loss.

Q. Would you give your opinion along with any information you may have on Fisher Foods? — J.A.

A. Fisher operates a regional chain of 104 supermarkets and several discount department stores. Of these supermarkets, 34 were acquired through mergers in 1968. Last year a $5 million equity investment was made in a fast food franchiser and more recently 106 franchised fish and chips outlets were purchased.

Twenty-three Kroger Company stores in the Chicago area, which were acquired in 1970, are being remodeled and reopened as Dominick's Finer Foods units. Although costs incurred in refurbishing may restrict earnings gains this year, first quarter results, which included 12 of these new stores, appeared healthy. Sales rose 22 per cent for the period while earnings gained 20 per cent to 22 cents a share. Shares appear to have speculative merit.

HIGH-RISE MOBILE HOMES

Mobile Americana Corp., seeking possible answers to the mobile home sprawl, tried what it calls "the first high-rise mobile housing development in the country" at Vadnais Heights, Minn. The project, called SkyeRise, involved stacking nine 14-by-70 foot mobile homes with cranes in the St. Paul suburb. (UPI Telephoto)

Sonoma Mines, Inc. Is On The Brink Of Closing

SAN JOSE (BW)—The environmental scare of mercury poisoning of rivers and oceans is threatening the future of the mercury mining industry.

The West's two publicly held producers of quicksilver — another name for mercury — have called it quits, reports California Business, the Western financial weekly.

"The recent bad publicity is the final touch making it impossible for our company to stay in the mercury business," says William Shannon, president of New Idria Mining & Chemical Co.

New Idria is a 120-year-old San Jose-headquartered mining company that claims to be the biggest mercury producer in the U.S.

"Bad publicity" stemming from fears of mercury contamination is one of the things that's caused New Idria to suspend mining operations at its Almaden and Alpha-Guadalupe mines and cut back its business at the New Idria mine, all in California.

U.S. production, about 80,000 flasks a year ago, now is down to about 45,000 flasks while Canada is selling around 24,000 flasks annually and Mexico between 35,000-40,000 flasks each year.

Both Shannon and C.C. Reed, president of Sonoma Mines Inc., a Guerneville-based mercury producer, agree the price of quicksilver will rise in the future.

"The industry traditionally moves up and down," says Reed. "It always has and I'd guess in two or three years the demand for mercury will be high but we can't make a profit now."

Sonoma Mines claims it's been one of the country's leading mercury producers more than 30 years but, it said in a recent letter to shareholders, "with present low mercury prices, it appears the domestic mercury mines will have to close operations."

Sonoma is asking stockholder approval to sell 500,000 shares or about half of the company's capital stock to Dayman Co. and to change the corporate name to Sonoma International and to boost the authorized common stock to 5 million shares.

Reed says the moves are to diversify Sonoma's activities. If shareholders okay the proposals, Dayman will launch an acquisition program "to assure continued earnings for Sonoma mines," which had gross revenues of $1,168,000 from quicksilver production in the fiscal year ended last June 30. Net income was $14,996, or 1 cent a share vs. a loss of $22,387, equal to 2 cents a share in fiscal 1969.

Steel Output Fall

BRUSSELS (UPI) — European Common Market crude steel production dropped 3.3 per cent to 27 million tons in the first three months of 1971.

U.S. Coal To Europe

LUXEMBOURG (UPI) —The United States is expected to remain the European Common Market's main supplier of coal during 1971, accounting for 49 per cent of the community's expected 30.3 million total imports, according to the market's statistical office in Luxembourg.

Goodrich Announces July 1 Price Hikes

AKRON (UPI)—B.B. Goodrich Co. will boost prices July 1 on tires and tubes for passenger cars, trucks and off-highway vehicles in the replacement market. The increases are approximately in line with increases posted recently by Goodrich's competitors.

Passenger car tires will go up an average 3 1-2 per cent, truck and off-highway truck tires will go up 2 3-4 to 3 1-2 per cent. Farm tire prices will rise 5 1-2 per cent and tires for industrial vehicles by 2 3-4 per cent. Inner tube prices will rise 2 3-4 to 5 per cent.

Mixed Day For Stocks On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks were mixed in moderate trading near noon today.

Some analysts observed a general reluctance among investors to buy aggressively in the wake of the unsettled bank prime rate situation and speculation that the Federal Reserve Board may boost the discount rate soon from its current 4 3-4 per cent.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.19 at 100.71, and advances topped declines by more than 200 issues, 652 to 441.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Of the 860 issues traded, 353 pointed higher while 256 retreated.

Among the most active Amex issues were RSC Industries up fractionally on around 70,000 shares, Arctic Enterprises down more than a point on over 30,000 shares, and Carnation up slightly on 27,000 shares.

Motors and steels were narrowly mixed on the Big Board, as were rails and airlines.

Chemicals were mostly higher, while oils and electronics pointed in both directions.

Natomas rose more than 3, while stocks up a point or so included Dow Chemical, Superior Oil, and Xerox. Lockheed and Walt Disney, however, were down a point or so.

Ross Medical Acquired By Hospital Corp.

The acquisition of Ross Medical Corp. of San Rafael by Hospital Corp. of America of Nashville, Tenn. has been completed, following approval by Ross Medical shareholders, who voted on the merger on Tuesday.

Under terms of the agreement Hospital Corp. acquires substantially all assets in an exchange of common stock at the rate of one share of Hospital Corp. stock for each three shares of Ross Medical stock.

Ross Medical will continue to operate under its own name as a subsidiary of Hospital Corp.

The acquisition increases Hospital Corp. hospitals to 36, with a total of 4,500 beds. Hospital Corp. stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Ross Medical stock has been traded over the counter.

Japanese, U.S. In Electric Car Race

TOKYO (UPI)—The U.S. and Japanese automobile industries are collaborating in parallel programs to develop a nonpolluting electric automobile.

Japan sold $13.5 billion worth of cars last year at home and abroad. But the $13.9 million for the Japanese end of the program comes from the Japanese government.

The aim of the four-year program is to have a prototype of five separate versions of an electric car for city use ready for "a comprehensive test run" by the end of 1975. The Japanese government had hoped to have the car ready for production by the late 1970's or early 1980's.

The Japanese development program is part of a bilateral effort with the United States. Under an agreement reached here last fall by U.S. Secretary of Transportation John Volpe, Japan will develop a small electric vehicle, while U.S. manufacturers will concentrate on a larger electric vehicle.

Whether the electric car will ever reach the production stage in Japan is uncertain. Government officials say they have met a certain "reluctance" on the part of Japanese automakers to produce the electric auto for fear of a drop in profists.

"We don't expect that electric cars will replace gasoline cars," a spokesman for Daihatsu motors said. Daihatsu manufactured several experimental electric cars which were tested last year.

Lockheed Reportedly Optimistic

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite claims of imminent bankruptcy and a request for additional government funds, the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. is forecasting multimillion-dollar profits for the next five years, Business Week magazine says.

In a copyrighted article, Business Week said it had learned Lockheed was predicting a $15 million profit this year, a $16 million profit in 1972 and readily increasing profits reaching $41 million in 1975.

However, the magazine points out that the earnings forecasted are on the basis "of stable defense sales volume which pentagon officials find questionable."

The giant defense contractor also is predicting its profits from defense contracts will climb from 2.6 per cent annually to about 5 per cent in 1975, Business Week said, on the basis of an $8.9 billion sales volume.

CREEK PROJECT ON SCHEDULE

A workman (left) sandblasts the curing agent from the concrete base of a new bridge over Corte Madera Creek behind Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield. The sandblasting, which will allow for a better bind when walls are erected, took place yesterday as officials of the Elmer J. Freethy Co. announced the flood control project was on schedule. Work on this phase of the controversial project is expected to be completed Biv, 1, In the background, workmen can be seen laying forms for the concrete channel which will run from the point where work ended last year (1,800 feet upstream of the College Avenue Bridge) to a point 200 feet downstream of the Ross Post Office. Smog Board Set Study Of Budget

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A proposed $3.2 million budget will be reviewed by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The budget, providing for increased enforcement and extension of regulations to Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties, is up $1.1 million from the current fiscal year.

The district's personnel committee will meet first to review a proposed 5 per cent salary hike for all employees to the staff of 108.

The budget and finance committee will meet at 10:30 a.m. to go into other budget details.

The full board will hold its monthly "workshop" meeting at 1:30 p.m. to get a staff report on instituting an alert system to curtail operation of industry and motor vehicles on smoggy days.

Harvard's Honorees

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)— Seventy-eight per cent of the 1,065 seniors are graduating with honors from Harvard while 92 per cent of the 272 seniors at "sister school" Radcliffe college won honors at the 320th commencement ceremonies today.

Infrared Heaters: Outdoor Climate Aid

Modern gas infrared heaters now make it possible to control the climate on your patio!

The heaters, which operate by imitating the sun, transmit a special infrared heat wave. The wave passes directly through the air without warming it; however, once it comes into contact with a solid object, that object is warmed.

Since the air around a patio and pool doesn't absorb the heat and let it drift away, it isn't necessary to warm large open spaces at high costs.

Challenging Sports Help For Teen Years

Some parents throw their arms up in the air and exclaim, "The younger generation! Who understands it?" Wary of the neighborhood gang to which his boy belongs, the fearful but wise father wastes no time, starts searching immediately for a way to reach his son, to keep him off the streets.

What's the matter with kids today? Nothing that challenging sport won't help.

Worried that your boy might go out for wild thrills along with the rest? Do something about it, the best being to interest him in hunting and fishing. Countless youngsters admit these participant sports to be more intriguing than roughhousing around, inviting trouble.

On a hunting or fishing trip you come closer to understanding your son, and he really gets to know you. Proud of you for introducing him to worthwhile activity, bright horizons, the boy looks at you with new eyes, as a comrade as well as a disciplinarian. His affection for you grows as together you engage in sports away from the artificiality of urban living, out in the open air.

Appreciative of such attention, the boy unconsciously clings to the spirit of fair play, practices good sportsmanship to win your approval too. Soon he'll begin to think of sportsmanship as applied to daily living.

With hunting and fishing building both character and body strength, there's no reason for delaying that date in the outdoors with your son. Why not make it soon?

Legitimate Effort To Reduce Fraud

The 1970 Marin County Grand Jury came up with a welfare reform recommendation that should help cut down on fraudulent claims without undue increase in administrative cost.

The grand jury zeroed in on the so-called "honor system" used by applicants for Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC). The self-declaration system, used in Marin in the past two and one-half years, is similar to the income tax declaration. The applicant is on his honor to provide factual information on his application forms, and anyone caught giving false information is liable to prosecution.

UNDER THAT system, the grand jurors found that an AFDC applicant could phone in for an application, return it by mail, and receive aid without too much documentation.

"Under this 'honor system', it is even possible for the same woman to apply for and receive aid under different names and addresses, and for different non-existent children, at the same time," the grand jurors noted.

IN ONE INSTANCE, they found that a woman living outside Marin was drawing welfare checks twice a month for herself and five non-existent children. She was listing children she did not have and using the address of a friend living in Marin.

Acting on the recommendations of the grand jury, the county supervisors ordered the Department of Public Social Services to stop welfare applications by mail, require personal appearances, and insist on documentation to prove residence, family composition, and number of dependents. Birth certificates, social security numbers, and rent receipts would be among the documents required.

THE DEPARTMENT of public social services, headed by Betty L. Presley, is taking steps to comply. So far, it appears that the costs will not be prohibitive.

Donald Sanford, administrative assistant in the welfare department, said that about 80 per cent of the applicants already make personal appearances, and catching the remaining 20 per cent should pose no big problem.

Those who resist the clampdown also complain that the added requirements are a slap at the face of legitimate applicants for AFDC, and the county is assuming that many welfare recipients give phony information.

THEY FAIL TO realize that cracking down on the few chiselers ultimately benefits the vast majority who are legitimate because the chiselers are draining away funds that rightfully belong to the genuinely needy.

Welfare chiseling, like income tax chiseling, cannot be wiped out completely, but every effort should be made to discourage fraud. The current clampdown, recommended by the 1970 grand jury and in the process of implementation by the county, is a legitimate effort in that direction.

CAPITOL REPORT

Brian Acted Wisely In Cutting Back Medi-Cal

By RUSS WALTON

SACRAMENTO — On Dec. 15, 1970, Earl Brian, M.D., hard-headed young director of California's health care service, reduced certain Medi-Cal fees and services. He had to do it to forestall a $140 million deficit. It may have been a lousy Christmas present for some but, as Dr. Brian said at the time, it was an emergency measure dictated by rising Medi-Cal caseloads and caseload costs.

Dr. Brian was immediately hauled into court by a bunch of unlikely bedfellows: The state medical and dental associations and California Rural Legal Assistance attorneys. This ideological troika of the moment complained that the cuts were unnecessary and illegal. And besides, Dr. Brian should have held public hearings on the reductions so that they could kick and scream before he made them — if, indeed, he ever made them at all.

NOW COMES Judge William M. Gallagher, presiding judge of the Sacramento Superior Court, to declare that the cuts were illegal and must be restored.

Judge Gallagher, who was first appointed by former Governor Edmund G. Brown, has rather consistently ruled against the taxpayers in suits involving welfare and Medi-Cal controversies. His latest decision, if upheld, will cost you at least $900,000. Which is not so bad, as reckoned against the costs of some of his other decisions.

Be that as it may, the suit does point up some of the difficulties of administering Medi-Cal.

The Medi-Cal program is a real dog. It's full of legislative and bureaucratic fleas. What's more, it's hauled around on the end of a statutory leash by welfare. Whenever the number of welfare cases increase, the number of individuals and families eligible for Medi-Cal also increase, automatically. The director of Medi-Cal has no say at all over the number of persons receiving health care services.

TO COMPOUND that management mess, Medi-Cal operates on a "closed end" appropriation. Which means that each year the legislature sets a certain definite budget and Medi-Cal must live within it. (Welfare, on the other hand, is "open-ended" — if its costs go up, its budget is expanded.) Should the director have reason to believe that increasing costs will cause a Medi-Cal deficit by the end of the year, he is required to reduce certain services and cut costs.

The law is specific on this. He must stay within his budget.

And, that is the central issue involved in the case of you and Dr. Brian versus the CMA, the CDA and the CRLA.

WAS OR WAS NOT Medi-Cal headed for a deficit? Should Dr. Brian have cut services and costs, or not?

Dr. Brian contends that, in December, when he received the hard (certified) caseload and cost data from the welfare department, it was clear he would end up in the red. By about $140 million. He had no choice but to make the cuts and prevent the deficit.

Judge Gallagher ruled that the cuts should not have been made. Apparently the judge felt that he, and the doctors and dentists and CRLA, know more about the operational details of Medi-Cal than its director and staff members who testified before the court. The judge ordered the cuts restored. Which the governor and Dr. Brian had intended to do at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1, anyhow.

THE FACTS OF time and events side with Dr. Brian. Medi-Cal will end the fiscal year June 30 without a deficit.

Furthermore, one would imagine that if the Judge's decision were sound, there would be a lot of surplus money lying around — like about $140 million. If, as the Judge decided, the cuts were not necessary to prevent a deficit, where's all the money that was saved by the cuts?

Dr. Brian acted wisely. He protected both the taxpayer and the great majority of Medi-Cal recipients. He deserves commendation.

Perhaps he will get it when Judge Gallagher's decision is appealed to a higher court.

Use Alcatraz Island To Anchor New Span

It was interesting to note that an armed party of U. S. Marshals ejected fifteen Indians from Alcatraz. According to the news item the Indian party comprised of six men, four women and five children. In my opinion the marshals, brave and true should be considered for a medal of honor.

It seems to me that Alcatraz would make a perfect and natural anchor for another bridge for Marin and northern California, and eliminate the battle of Alcatraz once and for all.

Parents Can Judge Teacher's Ability

I noticed in the June 10 paper that the argument given by County Counsel (Richard V.) Godino in support of the stand of Supt. Anthony C. Bacich and Principal Roy Smith for the firing of Kentfield teacher Joanne Pocta is that the parents and teachers "were not in a position to evaluate Miss Pocta's teaching methods and effectiveness whereas the school superintendent and principal are professionally qualified to do just that."

I know nothing about Miss Pocta, but I do know this much. I personally have had more than I can stomach in the way of the assumption on the part of public entities in supervisory positions that all parents are stupid and don't know what is good for thier kids.

Most parents are sufficiently intelligent to determine whether or not their kids are learning anything in school, and they are certainly sufficiently intelligent to know if they are not being properly supervised and disciplined at school because the obstreperousness of a child who is allowed to run wild at school comes right back home with him just as his home mannerisms go to school with him.

And to say that teachers are not in a position to evaluate if a child has been properly taught and controlled is patently ridiculous. Who is in a better position to determine if the second grader has reached third grade standards of achievement both in knowledge and behavior than the third grade teacher who is going to have to drill them on both second and third grade work if they haven't achieved the standards they should have achieved.

The first person who would be screaming that Miss Pocta was not doing her job effectively would be the teacher who had to take over Miss Pocta's class the next year.

Protect Shoreline For All The People

I, too, was dismayed at the comments made by Planning Commissioner Walter Freitas regarding bay fill during the Planning Commission hearing of May 24. Harold Gregg of the Marin Conservation League (Letters to the Editor, Tuesday, June 8, 1971) has replied most eloquently to Mr. Freitas' comments, and we support his statement that "... changes (in the ordinance) should be to give the people a greater voice in its application and to insure the protection of our shoreline for the public and not the few who would fill it for personal financial gain."

Recently the Board of Supervisors, at the request of the Inverness Improvement Association and the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin directed the Fill Committee to hold their meetings at a regularly scheduled and publicly noticed time and place. This is the first step toward greater public awareness and involvement in the procedures of bay fill, and we urge the public to attend these meetings so that county officials may know that there are those who are urgently and actively concerned with the preservation of the life food chain which would be destroyed if mudflats are filled.

Mr. Freitas' comment that the navigable waterways should be protected and shallow areas filled for development only serves to show how very narrow his vision is: shallow areas are perfectly navigable — in a canoe. Perhaps he needs to be reminded that not all people need a 50 h.p. outboard motor to propel them!

Unfair Comment On 'No Fault' Insurance

Your editorial of June 9, 1971 (Lawyer-Lawmaker, Conflict of Interest), implies that all lawyers would be adversely affected by the adoption of a plan of "no-fault" insurance and that this accounts for the Senate Judiciary Committee's rejecting the concept because the Committee members are all lawyers.

I am sure you are aware that any of these plans embodying the concept of "no-fault" does not eliminate the need for automobile insurance, and the insurance companies will still play an active role in claims arising out of automobile accidents. Just as now, insurance companies will employ lawyers to represent them.

Not all the members of the Committee are, in your terms, "damage suit" lawyers, or in the parlance of the profession, plaintiff's personal injury lawyers. Many members of the Committee are affiliated with firms which have for some time represented insurance companies. For instance, Senator Gregorio is a member of a prominent San Mateo County law firm which regularly defends insurance companies. Senator Grunsky is a member of a similarly oriented Santa Cruz County law firm.

If insurance companies will still need lawyers, then presumably these lawyers' businesses would not be affected. I am sure that there are also members of the Committee who do not represent any significant number of personal injury claimants in their law practice.

Consequently, it is irresponsible for you to gratuitously malign the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee by attributing the rejection of "no-fault" insurance to a conflict of interest. Don't you think there just might be an issue as to the merits of the legislation?

MARQUIS CHILDS

Youth Wins Right To Vote But Faces New Roadblocks

WASHINGTON, — The blacks, the chicanos, and now the young — the 18-to-21-year-olds — are all in a struggle to exercise a right elemental in a system of self-government — the right to vote.

Under the 26th Amendment to the Constitution, already ratified by 32 state legislatures, the 18-to-21-year-olds can for the first time vote in all elections. This means an estimated 10,000,000 to 17,000,000 new voters. If as many as half of them vote it can swing the balance in 1972.

BUT IS IS just this threat that has caused officialdom in state after state to throw up roadblocks making itdifficult, if not impossible, for the young to participate in the election. A large proportion of the young, particularly those with a keen political interest, are in college. A tactic of state officials and county registrars is to rule that they must register where their parents reside.

California's Republican Attorney General, Evelle Younger, issued such a ruling. This means that a student at Berkeley whose parents live in Los Angeles must travel virtually the length of the state in order to register and vote. If the period of registration coincides with exam time, many of the young could not be absent for two days. The cost of the trip also is an important factor. While many registrars will ignore this directive, it could keep a large proportion of California's 18-to-21-year-olds from voting next year.

THE BOARD OF registrars in Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, tried a variety of devices to prevent students from registering as residents in the University of Alabama. The board finally came up with a student questionnaire reminiscent of the kind of interrogation to which blacks were subjected in an effort to prevent them from registering and voting. The student is required to swear under oath that he intends to keep his "bona fide residence in this county after leaving college or graduating."

IN EIGHT STATES, one of them New York, there is no provision for absentee ballots. State laws and regulations elsewhere make it difficult, if not impossible, to cast an absentee vote. As many hurdles as possible are put in the way.

AN OMINOUS thought uppermost in the minds of some politicians is that in 25 or 30 university communities, if the young were allowed to vote without hindrance, they would, in effect, exercise political control. They could swing the balance not only in balloting for national office but for sheriff and county judge.

IT HAPPENS THAT in most of the districts in which the university is the center, the congressman is a conservative. Columbia, Mo., is a good example. The congressman from that district is Rep. Richard H. Ichord, chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, formerly the Un-American Activities Committee. The University of Missouri at Columbia has an enrollment of no more than 21,000. If the 18-to-21-year-olds can vote in Columbia in the next election it could mean an end to Ichord's career.

That is a measure of the potential for change in the newest amendment to the Constitution. Common Cause is helping with a nationwide effort to try to make sure the potential is not frustrated. Mrs. Anne Wexler, who played a leading part in the Kids-For-McCarthy revolution in 1968, is head of Common Cause's voting-rights project.

SUITS BROUGHT in various states seek to enjoin registrars from imposing arbitrary rulings that will keep the young from the polls. One of the most important is a class action suit already argued in federal district court in Lexington, Ky., aimed at the right of students to vote in a campus town. A decision is expected in two months and a quick appeal to the Supreme Court could produce a ruling serving as a landmark for campuses across the nation.

That is the hope of those in Common Cause providing help for the Kentucky suit. Some states have shown a more liberal attitude. The Republican attorney general of the state of Washington, Slade Gorton, affirmed a formal opinion of 1946 that a college student may establish a voting residence where he or she is attending school.

Work within the system! That is what the activist young are told. But if the system is rigged to keep them out, they will see no alternative other than joining the militants.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Soviet Union Launches New Peace Offensive

By PHIL NEWSOM

The Soviet Union quite obviously has launched a new, major peace offensive whose sincerity cannot be in doubt.

Three times in recent weeks, Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has called for negotiations on troops reductions in central Europe, a call echoed by his troika partners, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

BREZHNEV'S LATEST proposal suggested U.S. and Soviet naval forces also could be included, with specific mention of the Mediterranean.

The trouble with it is, as with other, similar Soviet proposals in the past, that the Russians still are keeping secret the fine print.

For example, former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, harvested a nice propaganda crop from his proposai for immediate and complete disarmament, a proposal looking freat on paper but so sweeping in its context as to be obviously unworkable.

Similarly, with a more recent Soviet proposal that the U.S. 6th Fleet abandon its position in the Mediterranean. Peace in the Mediterranean could be better left to the Soviet Union, it was said.

THE SCOPE OF the current Russian offensive may be noted from the number of negotiations in which the Soviets already are involved either directly or indirectly.

Included are four-power talks to reduce tensions in Berlin, world disarmament talks in Geneva, the SALT talks with the United States, soon to be renewed in Helsinki, and the talks between the two Germanys in which the Russians play a decisive behind-the-scenes role.

In addition, the Russians are pressuring for a European security conference and now for negotiations on mutual troops reductions.

If the Russians are truly sincere, their best and earliest chance to prove it would seem to be in Berlin.

After months of stalemate there has been some sign of a breakthrough with Russian agreement to guarantee civilian access routes for goods and people traveling between West Berlin and West Germany. Agreement on Berlin could open the way not only to West German ratification of nonaggression pacts with the Soviet Union and Poland but to a European security conference as well.

Without agreement and with continued haggling over terms of definition, the world's expensive arms race goes on.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

I love to think of nature as an unlimited broadcasting station, through which God speaks to us every hour, if we will only tune in. — George Washington Carver.

Birds Average 18 Hours Each Day Singing Songs

You've only just begun your enjoyment of rural driving on a lovely summer day until you've tuned yourself in to the happy singing of birds.

No matter what fork of a winding country road you take, our fine-feathered friends greet you with those sounds generally associated with the end to a gloomy season. Such association, however, can be misleading in that it gives the impression that birds limit their chirps and trills only to fair days.

All year round, birds sing an average of 18 hours daily. And that's a lot of singing.

Besides their singing, birds have other abilities that make them interesting to us. Around the next bend, you might suddenly spot one of these winged fellows perched on a fence. It might seem amazing to you that he can hang on without falling, but hang on he can with no trouble whatsoever because his foot becomes forcibly closed when his leg is bent. Let's say the bird falls asleep. Even then, there's no slacking of his firm grip on the pirch.

Now the bird wakes up, stretching his wings much in the way a human stretches his arms when he gets up in the morning. Speaking of those wings, they're marvels indeed, and all made of feathers. These natural creations enable some birds to hold their own with airplanes. Prime example is the swift, which can reach speeds up to 200 miles an hour.

Not quite in the same league with the swift but blessed with wonderful wings too, the ruby-throated hummingbird proves to be a proficient little flier.

Children Get Biggest Kick Out Of Sonoma-Marin Fair

The directors of the Sonoma-Marin Fair make an effort to schedule events to interest all age levels, but the truth is that it's a child's fair and there's no getting around it. If adults want to enjoy themselves fully, they'll find a youngster to take in tow when the fair opens next week.

The spinning rides, game booths testing skill and chance and side shows featuring such wonders as stuffed, two-headed goats, add up to a child's delight. Sophisticated adults might shake their heads in amazement as long lines of youngsters await entry to the side shows, but for them it brings excitement and the hope of seeing the advertised "nature's wonders."

FOR THE OLDER children who realize that what is inside the tent is not exactly as advertised outside, the discovery can mean the end of innocence. Nearly any adult can recall the time he plunked down a quarter to see the touted half-man, half-alligator, only to recognize it as an illusion or make-up job.

The Sonoma-Marin Fair also marks the beginning of the summer fair season for youngsters in 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America. The young people, who have been working for months or even years with their prized animals, will parade them nervously before the judges, perhaps adding to their collection of ribbons or maybe just getting some good pointers to improve their performance in competition later at the Sonoma County Fair and others later in the season.

THE CITY of Petaluma is often the object of jokes about its small town character and lack of sophistication, but the chamber of commerce recently found that the city has at least one faithful fan in Dayton, Ohio.

Dianne Kinsey, a Petaluma resident in late 1966 and 1967, wrote that her year in the city "was the happiest time of my life." She said she still misses Petaluma. "Most of all I miss the magic," she said. "I've never been in a place I liked better. Even after all this time I still miss Petaluma. I miss the friendly people, the stores, the climate and the atmosphere of the town.

"We have one of the bumper stickers you gave out declaring 'I like Petaluma,'" Mrs. Kinsey said. "It is too valuable to me to be put on a car that might be traded off, so I have it on the wall in our bedroom, and it's the first thing I see each morning."

Now that's devotion.

$750,000 Asked In Death Of Heiress

VISALIA (UPI) —A $750,000 wrongful death action in the death of Connecticut heiress Marina Maguire has been filed with the Porterville City Council and the Tulare County Board of Supervisors.

The former socialite died March 26 after she apparently fell from her bunk in the Porterville City Jail where she had been held for three days pending charges of possession of marijuana and defrauding an innkeeper.

The action was filed by Donn Allen Chickering, Miss Maguire's former husband on behalf of their son, Donn Allen Chickering Jr., 6.

The action charges wrongful death, personal injury and violation of civil liberties allegedly suffered by Miss Maguire between March 24 and March 26.

Miss Maguire, 27, who had been living in New York City, and a traveling companion, Randy Boone, 22, had arrived in Porterville for a visit March 23.

They were arrested the following day after the manager at the motel in which they were staying learned a credit card used by Miss Maguire was expired.

On March 26 Miss Maguire was found by jail personnel lying on the floor of her cell complaining of abdominal pain.

She was taken to Sierra View Hospital and Dr. Collier, the physician on call, ordered her transferred to the county hospital in Tulare 22 miles away.

She died about 10 minutes after arrival at the county hospital. The cause of death was a ruptured spleen.

Pamela Jones Pleads Innocent

Pamela Alice Jones, 18, of no known address, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of fraudulently possessing checks.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow.

The girl had passed a check at a San Rafael department store May 26, which turned out to have been stolen and forged, police said. She was arrested last Friday when she returned to the store and attempted to cash another check.

'Nude' Statue Of 4 Topless Dancers Busted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A commemorative "nude statue" —four undraped topless dancers celebrating the seventh anniversary of their art form — didn't last long Wednesday.

Police arrested the four women, clad only in g-strings, for indecent exposure and conspiracy after finding them scampering around a modern fountain at the Embarcadero Plaza.

They were hustled off to the city jail, where the Salvation Army provided emergency frocks in the interests of propriety.

The arrested girls were released on $1,800 bail each.

Viet Court Fines Saigon Newspapers

SAIGON (UPI) —A South Vietnamese municipal court has levied fines against six newspapers for alleged violations of the federal newspaper code. It suspended sentences against four other publications for lack of evidence.

ART BUCHWALD

You Gotta Wear Shoes, Son, To Succeed In This World

WASHINGTON — This is the time of the year when fathers sit down and have heart-to-heart talks with their sons.

"Son, now that you have graduated your mother feels I would not be fulfilling my duties as a father if I did not explain certain facts about life to you."

"Yes, Dad."

"First I would like to show you a few things that you will have to deal with in the outside world. For example, this item is called a necktie."

"What do you do with it?"

"You tie it around your neck like this and wear it with a shirt."

"WHAT FOR?"

"Nobody is quite sure. But when you do go out into the cold world, people will expect you to wear one. It's the Establishment's answer to the peace symbol."

"It sure looks funny. What else, Dad?"

"This, my boy, is a suit — what are you laughing at?"

"The jacket matches the pants. Hey, that's really crazy."

"Yes, the jacket does match the pants, and you will be expected to wear them together during the daytime."

"But the pants have a crease in the front. What's that for?"

"I'm not certain of its purpose, but now that you are an adult, you will be expected to keep a crease in your pants."

"MAN, WHAT will they think of next?"

"Son, I wish you wouldn't take our talk lightly. Perhaps I should have explained these things to you before, but I didn't want to ruin your school days. Yet what I am telling you now will have a great effect on everything you do."

"Sorry, Dad, but you have to admit wearing a tie and a jacket that matches the pants — what do you call it, a suit? — is a pretty funny idea."

"Can we proceed? These queer-looking leather things are called shoes. Do you have any idea what they're used for?"

"Beats me."

"YOU PUT THEM on your feet to protect them from sharp objects."

"I don't want to wear anything like that, Dad. I'll take my chances."

"I don't know how to break it to you, son, but most places require grownups to wear shoes."

"Look, Dad, if you want me to, I will wear a necktie and I'll even go along with the jacket and matching pants with a crease in them, but I'm not going to put those stupid leather things on my feet."

"Shoes, son, shoes. Believe me, you'll get used to them. After a while you might even get to like them and keep them polished."

"YOU MEAN I have to polish them, too?"

"You don't have to, but they look better that way and last longer. Here, put on these socks and then . . ."

"What are socks?"

"You wear them under the shoes so the leather won't rub your feet."

"I thought the shoes were supposed to protect my feet."

"PROVIDING YOU wear socks. Son, please don't make this too difficult for me. I'm not very good at explaining the facts of life but believe me, I've been telling you the truth."

"I'm sorry, Dad, it's just that you've thrown all this stuff at me at one time, and it comes as a shock."

"Perhaps we've talked enough for one day. Tomorrow I'd like to tell you about a thing called a razor."

"Razor? That's a funny word."

Yellow grass?

—even though you fertilize?

It's likely caused by iron deficiency. Our anemic soils are frequently responsible for the "yellows," even when the grass is fed regularly. And the color won't improve, no matter how much you fertilize, until the iron deficiency is corrected.

STRETCH YOUR VACATION AT HOME — You can create a private vacationland in your own backyard with a few simple decorations and pieces of equipment. Use it strictly as a family outing or invite your friends and have a time of it.

Invent Backyard Vacation

Want to make your vacation last longer and cost less this year? You can do it by creating an original outdoor cafe — right in your own back yard.

All it takes to design and equip your cafe is a little imagination, some furnishings and decorations, and a grill for outdoor cooking at its best. You might also want to add the extra touches of gaslights and gas infrared heaters to make your special part of the great outdoors more enjoyable.

Then, when decorations are complete, why not invite some friends to join you in your outdoor cafe?

For a change of pace, try a Western theme at your next party, and return your guests to the romance of the Western cowboy cooking his meals outdoors. Keep the dress casual, the decorations rustic and the food simple but delicious.

For dress, you might suggest jeans and a comfortable shirt for all. The children will really get into the swing of things if you give them a cowboy hat to wear, and everyone will smile nostalgically if their beverages are served in a tin cup.

Set your table simply. A checkered tablecloth, some colorful napkins, paper or plastic plates; tin cups and wooden serving bowls will all help recreate the days of the old West.

Keep it simple — the meat you serve is your main attraction, so limit the other courses and make them easy to prepare.

Plan ahead — and when you do, remember that outdoor dining seems to increase an appetite; be sure you have plenty for all.

Start early — do as much as you can before your guests arrive; that way, you'll be free to join in the merriment.

Check your basic equipment — have plenty of the everyday things such as salt, pepper, seasoning, carving knife, cooking utensils, ice, foil, and paper towels.

Finally, relax — and have fun.

41,000 Visitors To U.S. National Parks Annually

There are about 41,000 visitors to the national parks in the United States every year.

What does this do for preserving their beauty? Think about it.

Where there are people, there is often litter, with nothing taking more away from the awe-inspiring effect of natural creations than do empty beer cans, cigarette butts, candy wrappers, and the like.

Far too many litter bugs among those 41,000,000 visitors did their dirty work two years ago. Last year litterbugs again came out in full force. And this year won't be an exception.

Because of man's thoughtlessness, those scenic wonders that are part of our national park system continue to lose much of what they have to offer.

Be a good citizen the next time you visit a national park, and every time thereafter. It takes no great effort on your part to carry that litter bag in your car. Nor does it take great effort to use it. Make this a habit, one that you never break.

Help preserve, not destroy, the beauty of our scenic wonders.

Bill To Save Tule Elk Is Advanced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to save California's tule elk from possible extinction has cleared its first legislative hurdle despite opposition from the Department of Fish and Game.

The bill, SB 722 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would require growth of the state's elk herd to 2,000 — the minimum herd to prevent extinction by famine or disease.

The herd, concentrated in the Owens Valley in Southern California, now stands at 292. The Fish and Game Commission has agreed to allow the herd to grow to 490 before allowing hunters to kill them again, and objected to a herd of 2,000.

Also opposed to the bill were cattlemen and alfalfa growers, who claimed even the existing small herd was a nuisance. Cattlemen graze some 16,000 head in the valley.

"They begrudge those little elk the grass," Behr said of the cattlemen. Thousands of the elk inhabited the San Joaquin Valley until it was developed in the last century.

The bill could lead to establishment of a herd at Point Reyes National Seashore by requiring the department to study other areas to relocate elk as the herd grows.

The bill, clearing the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee in a split vote, went to the finance committee.

Tam High Lists Counseling Hours

Students who will attend Tamalpais High School for the first time this September may obtain help in arranging their fall schedules from a counselor who will be on duty atthe school weekdays until August 6, Principal Raymond Bell has announced.

Counseling will be available in the school's counseling office — located in the administration building — daily from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The services will also be offered again after Sept. 1.

Bagley Proposes Candy Exemption

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Good news for candy fanciers! There may be no tax on their gooey goodies.

Cookies, in a neat distinction under existing law, are considered food, thus exempt from the sales tax. But candy is branded a luxury, thus subject to the tax.

But by juggling several other levies, such as imposing the sales tax on all take-out food, his measure would pick up a net $25 million in new tax revenue.

Declaring the candy tax an issue of "social policy," Bagley said that candy "isn't a luxury. It's almost a necessity in terms of being the most inexpensive dessert that exists." Taxing it hits hardest at the poor "who don't eat fancy desserts," he said.

Bagley also criticized the candy tax on the ground it required artificial distinction to be made between candy and cookies. Virtually identical products have been designated candy or cookies by administrative decisions of the state Board of Equalization, he said.

His bill would pick up a net increase in revenue also by hiking the sales tax schedule for private sales of cars. The schedule is 20 per cent below market prices, he said.

Gift taxes also would be increased.

In the case of take-out foods, current law imposes the sales tax only if it is to be consumed on or near the premises. As a result, McDonald's Hamburger restaurants must charge sales tax because they have parking lots and tables. But a Jack-In-The-Box Drive-Thru does not because it generally has neither.

Bagley's bill would impose the tax on all hot food, except bakery products, which are cooked or prepared at the place where sold.

Innocent Plea To Escape And Grand Theft

William Guy Ferman, 21, of Honolulu, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of grand theft and escape.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Police said Day reported he had berthed his boat at the Turney Street boat ramp, secured the vessel and gone for a tour of the town. When he returned to the dock, he said he saw the boat, with Ferman aboard, adrift in Richardson Bay.

Police said Ferman later attempted to escape from their custody before he was booked at Marin County Jail.

Three 30-Year Pin Are Awarded

Three Marin residents have received 30-year service pins from the Army Corps of Engineers.

They are Isaac C. Campbell of 397 Alameda del Prado, Loma Verde; Warren H. Rice of 44 Diane Lane, Larkspur, and John W. Tautges of 660 Cherry Street, Novato.

Stipends To Five For Art Study

The students were chosen by a panel of professional artists from throughout the Bay Area. Their scholarships will be for a six-week period starting next Tuesday and running through Aug. 1.

Tony K. Sanders, of 1204 Ridgeview Heights, Novato, won a 75 per cent scholarship. Pauline Martha Hermanson of 55 Twelveoak Hill Drive, San Rafael received a 50 per cent scholarship.

Honorable mention awards went to Mard Sanches-Corea of 122 Ross Street, San Rafael; Terry Ann York of 520 Cascade Drive, Fairfax and Neil Walter McCloud of 98 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

Craft Fair Set Next Weekend

A Creative Craft Fair, a demonstration and display of hand crafts, will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 26 and 27 at the parking lot of Creative Merchandisers at 285 Jacoby Street, San Rafael.

More than 25 local craftsmen will demonstrate their skills, display and sell their work.

A wide variety of crafts, including ceramics, jewelry making glass craft, painting, leather work, weaving and stichery, will be on display.

Who Would Blame A Bear?

"Remove all black bears from the roadsides of Yellowstone? Never!" would be the cry of millions who have enjoyed these roadside clowns.

However, that is just what could happen. While many visitors are fascinated and enjoy looking at the bears, others crash into the rear of their stopped autos. The park service gets stuck with a claim for the damages and has to pay.

You may wonder how it can be the fault of the park service when people know they are driving through an area that has many scenic and wildlife attractions that may cause others to slow down or stop on the road.

You may feel that people should assume that such a situation is natural and if they have an accident, it is their fault or the other driver's fault and not the bears.

However, the law won't have it that way and if any bears are to remain near the roads in Yellowstone, we will all have to become better drivers and bear watchers.

Park Service personnel commonly talk of bear jams, deer jams, and even buffalo jams. They are referring to the lines of cars backed up when an inconsiderate person stops to look at the wildlife. Such a person often is not satisfied until he has either been scratched by the bear or scared the moose or deer away depriving others of the enjoyment of seeing the wildlife.

When one sees wildlife, he shoud observe it from his car. He should not stop on the road. Instead, he should maintain a normal rate of speed and stop only if he can pull off the road to do so.

It is common to see cars blocking the road near a buffalo watering hole while the adjacent parking lot is left empty. A little common sense and consideration may save our parks from becoming devoid of wildlife.

Automobile accidents are not the only peril that could bring about the removal of park wildlife. One would think that by now everyone knows that they should not feed wildlife in a park or anywhere else. A nearsighted bear may grab the hand that feeds it. Once again, when a person is injured in our parks, a lawsuit is the common reaction.

Take for example the case of the woman taking a picture of mamma bear and her cubs. She was doing so from the safety of the family car, but had to lean out the window. Too stubborn to listen to her husband, she continued to focus her camera as mother bear lumbered closer.

Through the viewfinder, the bear seemed to be a safe distance away. When the bear grabbed for the camera it scratched the woman's face severely. The bear probably thought the camera was an offering of food. An angry husband quickly absolved the Park Service and even the bear of any blame.

This attitude was not shared by another woman who tripped over a sign while going to feed the deer. Guess what the sign said? It read, "Do Not Feed the Deer." Whether she won her lawsuit is not known at this time.

The author has visited an area administered by the National Parks Service that has never had an accident. Yet, it seems to be a very hazardous piece of real estate. It's campground is located near the edge of a cliff that allows one to thrill to the view of a 3,000 foot deep chasm.

Huge boulders and cracks in the rock would cause one to suspect that a person looking for a lawsuit could easily slip and if so inclined, even break a leg. The area is primitive and lacks even a railing.

When one reads the Visitor Registration book, he begins to understand why accidents and lawsuits have been nonexistent. It is filled with many notations such as, "Do not improve the road," Just beautiful, please leave just as it is." And "Do not goof up this beautiful haven with so-called improvements."

The road referred to is 57 miles of dirt road that has a washboard surface slowing travel to a crawl. Beyond the first 15 miles the litter drops off and one gathers from this that those who make the trip are the ones who make the better park visitor.

If our parks are to remain natural areas instead of tourist gimmicks or padded cells, we all must be more considerate park visitors. Further, we can give our park service a little moral support by writing a letter and letting them know we appreciate the scenic wonders and native wildlife.

Assemble Gear, Then Take Photograph

Before setting forth on your camping trip, assemble all your gear for a picture. A photo inventory won't stop you from losing something, but it's a good way not to leave things behind when you move on.

Simply check the photo to see if you have everything. A photo inventory can also come in handy when filing an insurance claim for lost or stolen equipent.

VOLKSWAGEN INSURANCE

Quality and Service

Volkswagen Insurance Company was organized to provide insurance service to Volkswagen owning families throughout the United States. The company's purpose is to provide a complete package of automobile insurance protection for VW owners and their families that's equal to the quality and economy for which the Volkswagen automobile has gained world renown.

Full Coverage

Through Volkswagen Insurance Company, VW owners across the nation have the advantage of being able to purchase both Liability and Collision insurance under a single policy — from a single company. Thus, they are able to avoid the "red tape" and paper work problems that can often stem from split insurance protection. The complete line of Volkswagen insurance available to VW owners includes: Collision, Comprehensive, Fire and Theft, Bodily Injury and Property Damage Liability Insurance, plus Uninsured Motorists (includes protection against hit and run drivers), Medical Payments, and Towing and Road Service Insurance.

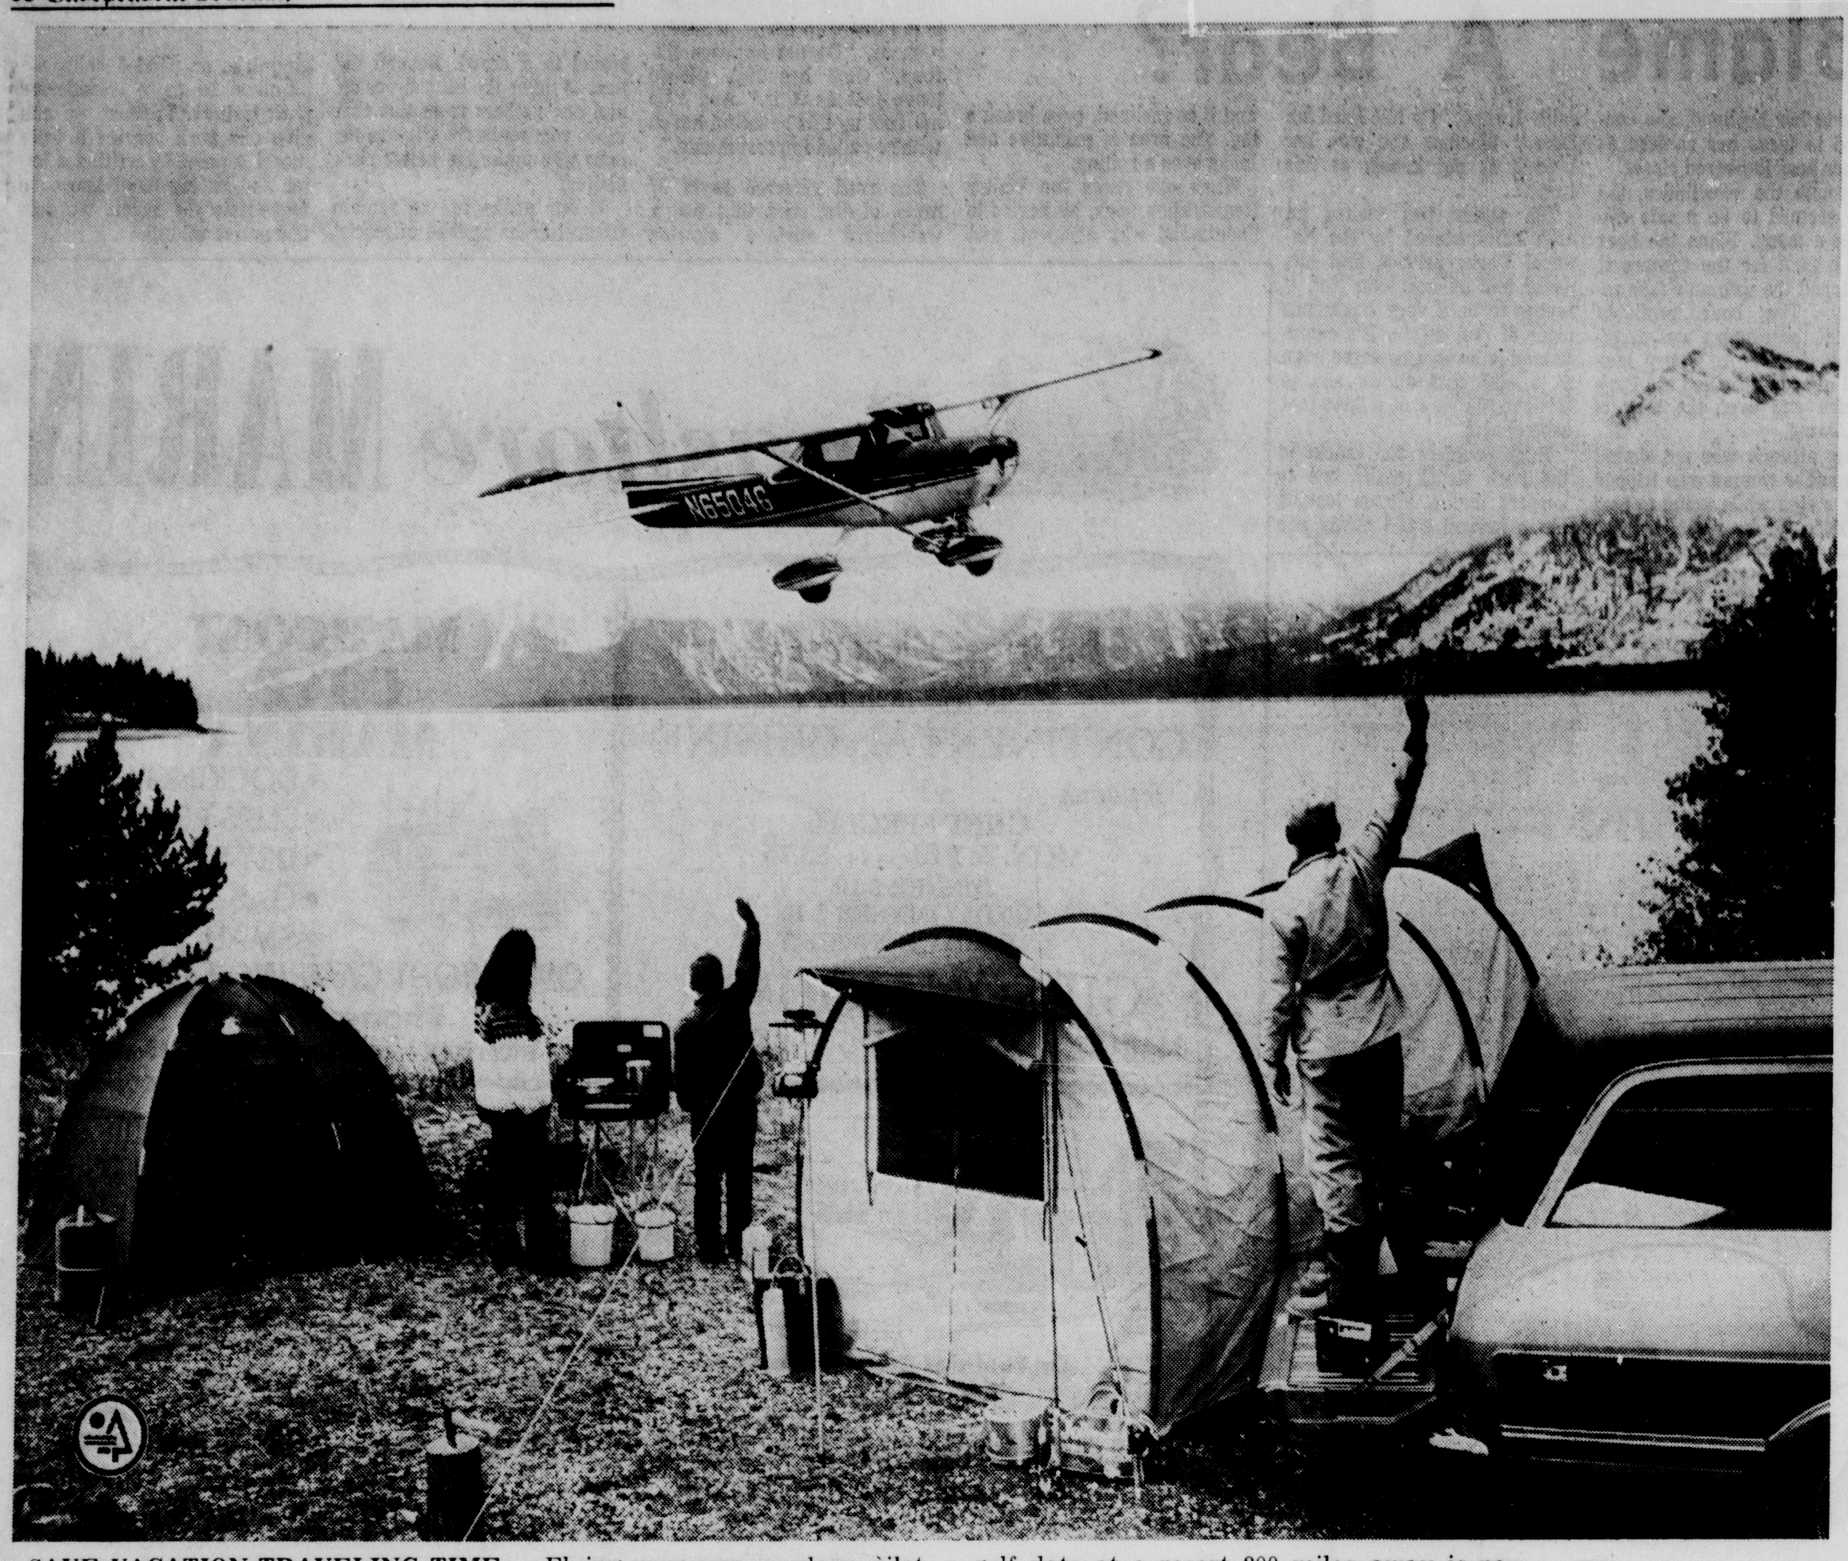
Independent Journal

San Rafael, California, Thursday, June 17, 1971



SAVE VACATION TRAVELING TIME — Flying your own airplane brings your holiday goal closer by hours. Modern airplanes are roomy enough to take along necessary vacation gear. With the speed, range and reasonable operating costs of today's personal airplanes, every weekend can be a potential fun-filled vacation. For the typical light airplane pilot, a golf date at a resort 300 miles away is no more than two hours from the office. A relaxed vacation at a favorite mountain retreat or weekend skiing trip 500 miles from home is only a few, relaxed, scenic hours by air. Whatever your pleasure, personal flying can make it happen.

Many Waterways Spoiled By Thoughtless Littering

Many once-beautiful waterways now look ugly.

Litterbugs did this. And, in their thoughtless way, they continue to spoil the beauty of nature.

These are sad times indeed, as there's no excuse for turning the bottom of a lake or stream into an underwater junkyard. And debris floating on the water really hurts the eye.

Ever litter bit does hurt. And every little bit does help.

Do your bit in making our waterways beautiful again.

While out boating, never toss anything overboard. That litterbag you're carrying serves the purpose. And, while out fishing, use that litterbag too. Encourage all your friends to do likewise.

Don't stop just there, either.

If you see debris in the water, don't ignore it. It takes only a few seconds to fish it out and put it where it belongs: in your litterbag.

Don't be a litterbug. Do be a bug on keeping our waterways clean.

SHARE CAMPING MEMORIES — Candid scenes such as this are easy to film with today's quick-load, no-fuss movie cameras, enabling you to record your vacation just as it happened.

Bring Back Pictures From National Parks

The words are appropriate especially in view of our growing concern with the national environment. Pictures, and particularly movies, enable visitors to share their camping memories with family and friends, and leave the parks unmarked for the millions who follow in their footsteps.

Movies especially can bring the beauty of the great outdoors into your living room. Nothing recalls the color, fun and excitement of your camping trip better than a well-made movie.

In this highly kinetic world of ours, nearly everything moves — that's why movies are called "movies." With them you can preserve your camping trip, unfrozen and continuous, exactly as it happened.

Of course, not every camping scene you shoot will be brimming with motion; the mountains simply won't cooperate. But there is enough action on a camping trip to fill the screen with memorable and exciting footage.

Let the movie tell the story of your trip. It is much more interesting and meaningful to watch your "feature" infold on screen than to see a jumble of ill-assorted shots.

The quality of your results will depend on how well you've done your "homework" and on your camping destination.

Acquaint yourself with the place you plan to visit; know what you want to photograph, such as the historical landmarks you will pass en route, and the park's outstanding features.

Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.
Not a Citroen.
Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.
Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

POPULAR RECREATION — The appeals of a houseboat are room, comfort, stability and low operating cost. Modern designs take them out of the "shanty class and enable them to compete in style with other craft.

Houseboats Gain In Popularity

You can have your boat and live in it, too. This delightful fact is the secret behind one of the most impressive growth trends in boating.

From disreputable beginnings as ungainly and unseaworthy "shanties of the shoreline" houseboats have evolved into smart, seagoing vacation homes.

The houseboat turnabout is clearly illustrated by sales figures. In 1963 only 500 houseboats were sold in the entire U.S.A. By 1969 the annual houseboat sales figure had zoomed to 4,000. The U.S. houseboat fleet now numbers 14,000 and is expected to grow much larger during the next decade.

FOR SKIN DIVING EXPEDITIONS

Toyota's Land Cruiser station wagon has been found ideal to carry all of the dive gear for a four-man expedition. A four-door, six-passenger vehicle, it has room for divers' tanks, portable air compressor, inflatable boat and small outboard.

Comfort In Outdoors Can Be Easy

Outdoor living is delightful but only when it's comfortable.

Gas infra-red radiant heaters now are adding months to life in the great outdoors for an ever-increasing number of families. Last year sales of infra-red heaters soared and they are expected to jump again this year.

Many families have found they can enjoy cookouts even in winter with infra-red heaters installed on their patios. Hunters and fishermen now use them, too, to keep warm at the campsite without heavy clothing — even in below-freezing temperatures.

Infra-red heaters may be stationary or portable. The portable units, which use LP gas, can be used while riding in a golf cart, working in a garage, or camping, and for melting ice and snow on walks and driveways. Hand carts are available for several of the portable models.

Natural gas service can be extended from the house to supply stationary infra-red heaters, which may be mounted on a post, wall or ceiling. An especially popular installation is on the post of an outdoor gaslight.

A minimum of two heaters is usually installed to bracket people between them. Spacing of heaters depends on how protected the area is.

Although the principle has been known for years, not until recently has infra-red heating come into its own as an adjunct to outdoor living. It has been used extensively, however, by industry to make otherwise unheatable areas comfortable to work in.

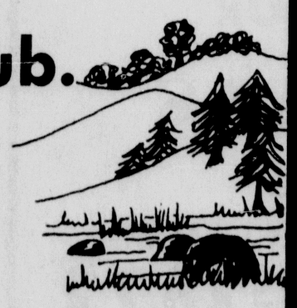
You just think you can't afford a country club.

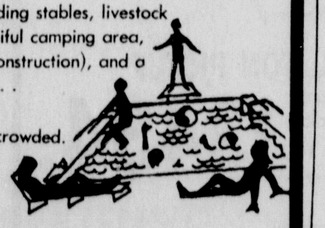


The truth is: you can.

At Rancho del Norte in the Sonoma Hills — a mere hour's drive from the Golden Gate Bridge — you can enjoy all the convenience of a private club without the overwhelming expense. For annual family membership of $200 and monthly dues of $5.00, you have 305 acres of outdoor recreation available to you 365 days a years.

When you compare that to the total cost of weekend excursions with your family over the year, the economics alone show you the advantage of belonging to Rancho del Norte. But there are many other advantages, too.

Rolling hills, a year-round creek, riding stables, livestock corrals, a large swimming pool, beautiful camping area, a five-acre lake (currently under construction), and a recreation lodge — all for you to enjoy as you will . . . when you will. Reservations are never necessary. And because our membership is limited, you'll never be crowded.



A Free Family Day at Rancho del Norte

Come take a look for yourself . . . this weekend or next. Bring the entire family and enjoy a full day at Rancho del Norte at no cost to you whatsoever. There's a free barbecue, a large open space where your children can wander, and ample time for you to explore the grounds and lodge on your own.

How to get to Rancho del Norte

Go north on Highway 101 to the River Road exit (approximately 4 miles above Santa Rosa). Proceed east. You'll know you're on the right road if you come to a stop sign in a couple of blocks with a Texaco station on the right. Continue on this road (which goes to Calistoga) for 8 miles. (This road changes names twice — from River Road to Mark West Springs to Porter Creek Road, so do not be confused.) At this point watch for our mailbox and small sign on the right. The address is 3485 Porter Creek Road. Turn immediately to the left over a small bridge and follow the signs to the lodge. The Resident Manager will be there to greet you. Our telephone number: (707) 545-4898.

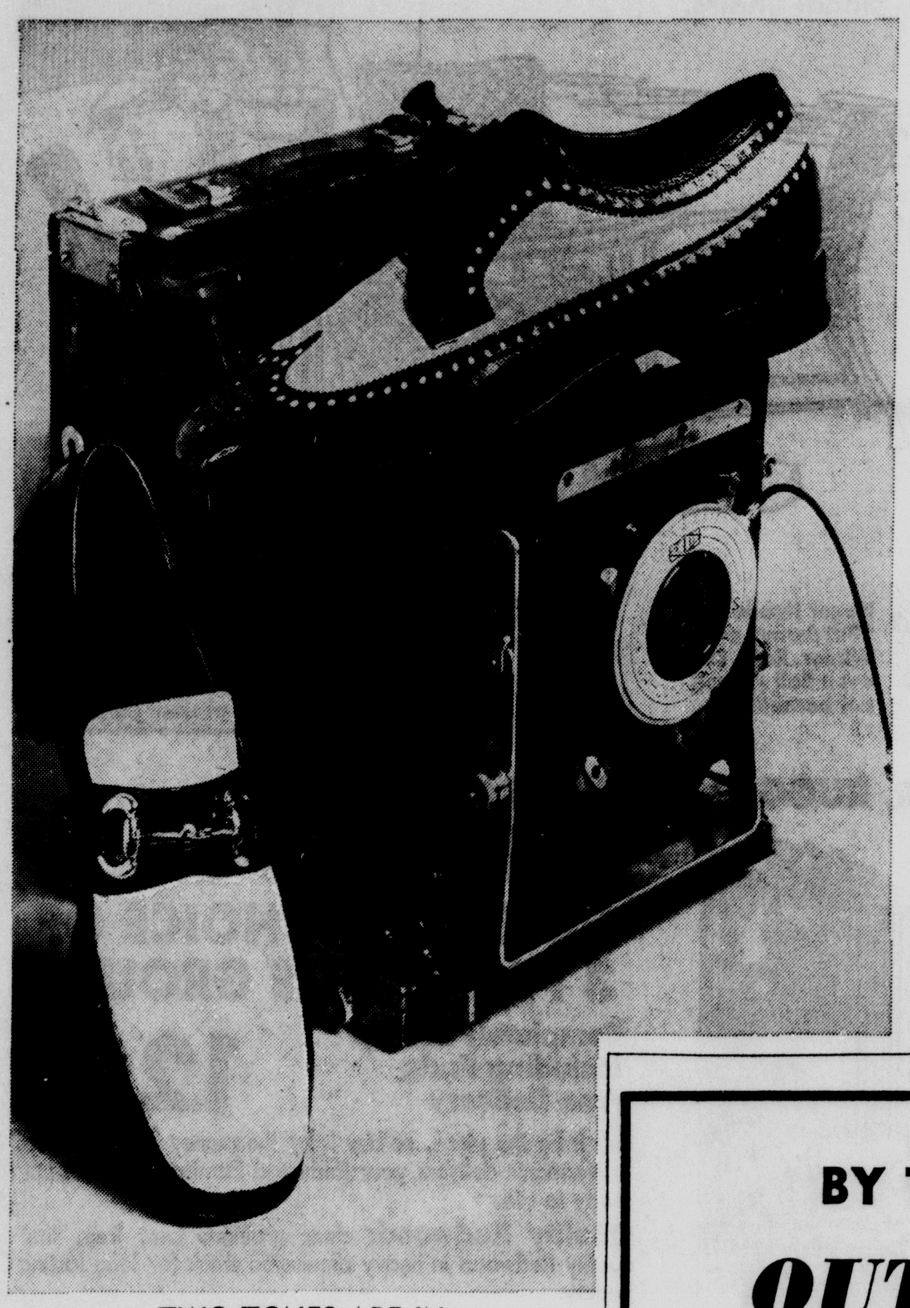
GEAR FOR OUTDOOR LIVING AND RECREATION

Tents, camping equipment, inflatable boats and other supplies of all kinds are being shown by Charles Bradley of Big 4 Rents in Corte Madera to Mrs. Norman Richards who hasn't yet made up her mind what to buy or rent. Big 4 Rents recently added outdoor equipment to its stocks of rental and retail goods.



TWO TONES ARE IN

A Horse Grave

For many years, a gravestone on a Corte Madera Avenue site marked the resting place of Little Albert, a racehorse.

Advances in Living Areas Give Attractiveness To Houseboats

Keys to the growth of houseboating are rapid development of attractively decorated and furnished living areas equipped with modern appliances, dramatic improvement in hull designs, and the development of efficient, high-horsepower outboard motors and stern-drive engines to propel them.

By shedding their Ma and Pa Kettle appearance and unseaworthy bargelike bottoms, modern houseboats have attracted families who want to have their vacation or retirement home and their dream boat all in one neat package.

But now they have modern planing hulls — vees, cathedrals and catamarans — that make them nimble enough to compete in rugged offshore races. No kidding! Several have entered and completed the Bahama 500, one of oceandom's toughest competitions. One, equipped with a 115 hp outboard, won a recent Mississippi River marathon.

These developments have turned boating's ugly duckling into a beautiful swan. Technology has yet to solve the classic problem of having your cake and eating it, too. But boating has made it possible to have your boat and live in it, too. No wonder Americans are taking up houseboating in rapidly increasing numbers.

COLORFUL GOLF OUTFIT

Jack Lewis, winner of the 1971 Men's Fashion Association award for the pro rookie golfer who best projects golf's image, has a wardrobe as high-powered as his swing. Multi-colored, block pattern, double-knit slacks are teamed with a gold knit shirt.

COMFORT WHEN THE SUN GOES DOWN — Gas infrared heaters prevent outdoor patio living from coming to a shivering halt. Most popular style is a combination infrared heater and gaslight.

Infrared Heaters: Outdoor Climate Aid

Modern gas infrared heaters now make it possible to control the climate on your patio!

The heaters, which operate by imitating the sun, transmit a special infrared heat wave. The wave passes directly through the air without warming it; however, once it comes into contact with a solid object, that object is warmed.

Since the air around a patio and pool doesn't absorb the heat and let it drift away, it isn't necessary to warm large open spaces at high costs.

Challenging Sports Help For Teen Years

Some parents throw their arms up in the air and exclaim, "The younger generation! Who understands it?" Wary of the neighborhood gang to which his boy belongs, the fearful but wise father wastes no time, starts searching immediately for a way to reach his son, to keep him off the streets.

What's the matter with kids today? Nothing that challenging sport won't help.

Worried that your boy might go out for wild thrills along with the rest? Do something about it, the best being to interest him in hunting and fishing. Countless youngsters admit these participant sports to be more intriguing than roughhousing around, inviting trouble.

On a hunting or fishing trip you come closer to understanding your son, and he really gets to know you. Proud of you for introducing him to worthwhile activity, bright horizons, the boy looks at you with new eyes, as a comrade as well as a disciplinarian. His affection for you grows as together you engage in sports away from the artificiality of urban living, out in the open air.

Appreciative of such attention, the boy unconsciously clings to the spirit of fair play, practices good sportsmanship to win your approval too. Soon he'll begin to think of sportsmanship as applied to daily living.

With hunting and fishing building both character and body strength, there's no reason for delaying that date in the outdoors with your son. Why not make it soon?

Technique In Barbecuing Is Important

Proper safety precautions can spell the difference between an enjoyable meal and potential disaster. As with any flame or fire, respect for the grill should always be present, even when preparing something easy to fix like hot dogs.

Don't grill in an area where children are playing. A careless child may inadvertently run into the grill, tip it over, and be severely burned.

If any part of grilling were to be branded as particularly dangerous, it's lighting the fire. Many tragedies and near tragedies are caused every year by carelessness in lighting charcoal.

Gasoline, because of its explosive nature, should be avoided along with any flammable material not expressly designed for barbecuing. Electric charcoal lighters should be handled with care; their elements, if stored in dampness, may short out when used.

Follow the directions on the lighter fluid container which always say to let the liquid soak into the charocal before lighting to reduce the hazard of a flash flame. Do not under any circumstances add lighter fluid once the grill is going.

For handling food on the grill, it's a good idea to have long-handled tools, preferably tongs that are sturdy with fireproof grips. A pair of heavy gloves will keep hands safe when it's necessary to handle some hot item.

A heavy apron to protect clothing from grease and sparks is a must for the chef. Roll up your sleeves and keep loose-fitting clothes away from the fire.

When cooking steaks that drip fat into the fire, a sprinkling bottle filled with water is helpful in curbing flames that can ruin a fine piece of meat.

Most outdoor chefs fail to realize the danger of charcoal fires which give off carbon monoxide. Charcoal should only be used outdoors or in well-ventilated indoor locations such as a fireplace with an open draft.

Controlled heat is the desire of every chef. And for best results for every type of outdoor recipe a slow, even heat may be achieved by cooking with a minimum of charcoal. Cooking with a layer one briquette deep should be enough.

For greater heat control and fewer hazardous sparks, experts prefer a covered grill or a windbreak on the grill to protect the fire from strong drafts. The best control comes from a covered or kettle grill that traps the heat much like an oven. A covered grill eleminates sparks and flame-ups and also provides even heat at a constant temperature to retain natural juices while barbecuing.

After you have finished grilling, extinguish the live charcoals by dousing them with a panfull of water.

KEEP YOUR COOL IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Heat is a great enemy of film, and the fact can't be overemphasized these days when so many photographers are taking off for hot vacation country.

On a hot day, with the temperatures outside in the 90's, it can build up to as much as 120° inside the trunk or glove compartment of your car . . . yet these are favorite places to stash a camera and spare film. The result can be foggy film, and a vacation record lost forever.

Excessive heat can even damage your exposure meter (separate or built in), or burn a cloth focal plane shutter if the sun hits the lens directly for too long. So use an insulated bag or box to protect film and equipment during hot traveling time. On long vacations, don't carry your completed rolls of film around in the car until you get home. Instead, ship the rolls to us, and we'll have the processed film ready for you when you get home.

For your vacation film, travel accessories and all your photographic needs right through to film developing and printing, see us for sure!

Birds Average 18 Hours Each Day Singing Songs

You've only just begun your enjoyment of rural driving on a lovely summer day until you've tuned yourself in to the happy singing of birds.

No matter what fork of a winding country road you take, our fine-feathered friends greet you with those sounds generally associated with the end to a gloomy season. Such association, however, can be misleading in that it gives the impression that birds limit their chirps and trills only to fair days.

All year round, birds sing an average of 18 hours daily. And that's a lot of singing.

Besides their singing, birds have other abilities that make them interesting to us. Around the next bend, you might suddenly spot one of these winged fellows perched on a fence. It might seem amazing to you that he can hang on without falling, but hang on he can with no trouble whatsoever because his foot becomes forcibly closed when his leg is bent. Let's say the bird falls asleep. Even then, there's no slacking of his firm grip on the pirch.

Now the bird wakes up, stretching his wings much in the way a human stretches his arms when he gets up in the morning. Speaking of those wings, they're marvels indeed, and all made of feathers. These natural creations enable some birds to hold their own with airplanes. Prime example is the swift, which can reach speeds up to 200 miles an hour.

Not quite in the same league with the swift but blessed with wonderful wings too, the ruby-throated hummingbird proves to be a proficient little flier.

TWO BOYS, A POLE AND A PLACE TO FISH

The Marin seacoast has many fine places to fish. One of them at Oceana Marin, north of Dillon's Beach finds Kenneth and Peter Bonelli trying their luck at a spot called the Sandspit located just below the Oceana Marin homesites on the bluffs overlooking the coastline.

Outdoor Exploring Gives Children Time To Learn

There's no end to the opportunities for fun in the outdoors, especially for youngsters. For them every thicket and stream presents a new challenge.

Children explore, discover and learn in America's summer playgrounds.

The experience leaves them asking to return to the outdoors again and again.

Toys are special companions to children wherever they may go.

They provide a helping hand for mom and dad on camping trips. While working around the campsite on the cooking and cleaning chores, toys keep youngsters safely occupied, full of laughter and out of the working area while parents go about keeping the camping locale in order.

Three important factors in judging the ability of a toy to be useful during a journey are its compatibility with the youngster, the durability of the toy and safety.

Toys that have special meaning to your child should certainly be included. However, if the plaything is very fragile or small enough to be misplaced and possibly lost, encourage substitutes.

Rugged plastic toys are ideal for outdoor recreation. On the way to the campground, they provide plenty of entertainment for children riding in an auto's back seat.

Safety cannot be overlooked in filling up a child's toy chest for an outdoors trip. Plastic toys have easy to manipulate smooth surfaced parts that avoid cutting or scratching.

Don't Forget Animals Wandering Along Roads

Heading out in your car for greener pastures, you'll probably see a wide variety of animals grazing, wandering about, or frolicking along the way.

Could be it will shatter your ego just a bit once you get to thinking that many of these animals can see you before you can see them.

Indeed, many of them are blessed with wonderful eyes that provide remarkable seeing ability, often far superior to our own.

Ever fly in a plane and try to detect a rabbit running in a field almost two miles below you? Ridiculous, of course, but not for the California condor in flight. It can and does notice small animals that far away. And after sensing something's wrong, that rabbit bulges its eyes to get a better panoramic view of the danger zone.

You can't observe the ground at your feet and scan the horizon at the same time, can you? But the horse has just that ability, what with his lower and upper eye parts supplying him with that unique quality of "bifocal" vision.

Nor can you see around corners. There's no trick to it for the common snail with eyes on its long tentacles that can be extended or withdrawn.

Your eyes can never act like mirrors either. Having a layer of reflective crystals on the back of the eyeballs, the cat enjoys just that effect, enjoys better vision at night because light hits its sense cells twice.

STRETCH YOUR VACATION AT HOME — You can create a private vacationland in your own backyard with a few simple decorations and pieces of equipment. Use it strictly as a family outing or invite your friends and have a time of it.

Invent Backyard Vacation

Want to make your vacation last longer and cost less this year? You can do it by creating an original outdoor cafe — right in your own back yard.

All it takes to design and equip your cafe is a little imagination, some furnishings and decorations, and a grill for outdoor cooking at its best. You might also want to add the extra touches of gaslights and gas infrared heaters to make your special part of the great outdoors more enjoyable.

Then, when decorations are complete, why not invite some friends to join you in your outdoor cafe?

For a change of pace, try a Western theme at your next party, and return your guests to the romance of the Western cowboy cooking his meals outdoors. Keep the dress casual, the decorations rustic and the food simple but delicious.

For dress, you might suggest jeans and a comfortable shirt for all. The children will really get into the swing of things if you give them a cowboy hat to wear, and everyone will smile nostalgically if their beverages are served in a tin cup.

Set your table simply. A checkered tablecloth, some colorful napkins, paper or plastic plates; tin cups and wooden serving bowls will all help recreate the days of the old West.

Keep it simple — the meat you serve is your main attraction, so limit the other courses and make them easy to prepare.

Plan ahead — and when you do, remember that outdoor dining seems to increase an appetite; be sure you have plenty for all.

Start early — do as much as you can before your guests arrive; that way, you'll be free to join in the merriment.

Check your basic equipment — have plenty of the everyday things such as salt, pepper, seasoning, carving knife, cooking utensils, ice, foil, and paper towels.

Finally, relax — and have fun.

41,000 Visitors To U.S. National Parks Annually

There are about 41,000 visitors to the national parks in the United States every year.

What does this do for preserving their beauty? Think about it.

Where there are people, there is often litter, with nothing taking more away from the awe-inspiring effect of natural creations than do empty beer cans, cigarette butts, candy wrappers, and the like.

Far too many litter bugs among those 41,000,000 visitors did their dirty work two years ago. Last year litterbugs again came out in full force. And this year won't be an exception.

Because of man's thoughtlessness, those scenic wonders that are part of our national park system continue to lose much of what they have to offer.

Be a good citizen the next time you visit a national park, and every time thereafter. It takes no great effort on your part to carry that litter bag in your car. Nor does it take great effort to use it. Make this a habit, one that you never break.

Help preserve, not destroy, the beauty of our scenic wonders.

Skin Divers Discover Dreamland

Underwater explorations lead skin divers back to the mysterious world where life began millions of years ago.

It is the story of the sea. A skin diver, marveling at the beauty of nature as he explores the depths of the ocean, learns the answers to many puzzling questions. How do fish live down here? Why do rocks look so lovely in the sea and so commonplace on land?

Amazed at not realizing sooner that this dreamland exists, the diver experiences the thrill of being the first person to set eyes on a particular part of the sea. Land activities, except for mountain climbing and cave exploration, offer little to compare in excitement.

Covering 71 percent of the earth's surface, the ocean, which is 6.8 miles deep in places, lures two types of skin divers, the one who wears self-contained equipment and the one in standard or deep sea gear. With self-contained equipment, you can dive 130 feet and stay a limited time underwater. Deep sea gear enables you to dive 350 feet and to remain indefinitely underwater.

Thanks to Royal Navy surgeon James Fullerton who believed air could be pumped under pressure to the diver, W.H. James in 1825 designed the first self-contained dress supplied with compressed air. With this supply strapped on his back, the diver has complete freedom to go where he wishes.

In 1837, Augustus Siebe invented the famous "closed" or deep sea diving suit in which the air is pumped through a hose a hose from the surface. Greatly restricted in his movements, the deep sea diver has nearly two hundred pounds of heavy equipment on his back and wears a rigid helmet.

Although practiced for centuries, skin diving became popular in the United States only after the invention of the aqualung during World War II. Hollywood's glittering touch in a series of movies about the skin diving world aroused the curiosity of Americans who were looking for something new, exciting, and perhaps even dangerous.

Called a "frame of mind," skin diving proves rewarding for those who enjoy the water. For the emotionally unstable who fear water, skin diving can be shocking. It requires smooth coordination of mind and body.

You don't have to be a weight lifter to skin dive, but it is not a sport for the weak. A skin diver must have good health and be free from circulatory, respiratory, or other ailments.

To run no more than ordinary risk, a skin diver must swim well and feel at ease in the water. With his feet only, a good swimmer can tread water for three minutes. Without fins, he can swim 300 yards and tow an inert swimmer for 40 yards. He can remain afloat for 15 minutes and can swim underwater for 15 yards.

A new vista of adventure in the unknown awaits you. By participating in skin diving, you, too, might get in on some of nature's mysteries.

Fishing's Easy, But Millions Like Rugged

Fishing can be easy.

For the angler who doesn't want to exert himself too much, or for reasons of health must take it easy, there is stillfishing from banks, bridges, piers and breakwaters. He may also stillfish from an anchored or drifting boat, or fish by trolling. In any case all the fisherman need do is hold his rod and wait for a fish to strike.

Fishing can be rigorous.

Some fishermen arise long before daybreak and, perhaps, drive a couple hundred miles to a turbulent trout stream. They then spend 10 or 12 hours wading rough water, fighting slippery rocks and sinking mud, and then, worn and weary, drive those same "couple hundred" miles back home.

Who Would Blame A Bear?

"Remove all black bears from the roadsides of Yellowstone? Never!" would be the cry of millions who have enjoyed these roadside clowns.

However, that is just what could happen. While many visitors are fascinated and enjoy looking at the bears, others crash into the rear of their stopped autos. The park service gets stuck with a claim for the damages and has to pay.

You may wonder how it can be the fault of the park service when people know they are driving through an area that has many scenic and wildlife attractions that may cause others to slow down or stop on the road.

You may feel that people should assume that such a situation is natural and if they have an accident, it is their fault or the other driver's fault and not the bears.

However, the law won't have it that way and if any bears are to remain near the roads in Yellowstone, we will all have to become better drivers and bear watchers.

Park Service personnel commonly talk of bear jams, deer jams, and even buffalo jams. They are referring to the lines of cars backed up when an inconsiderate person stops to look at the wildlife. Such a person often is not satisfied until he has either been scratched by the bear or scared the moose or deer away depriving others of the enjoyment of seeing the wildlife.

When one sees wildlife, he shoud observe it from his car. He should not stop on the road. Instead, he should maintain a normal rate of speed and stop only if he can pull off the road to do so.

It is common to see cars blocking the road near a buffalo watering hole while the adjacent parking lot is left empty. A little common sense and consideration may save our parks from becoming devoid of wildlife.

Automobile accidents are not the only peril that could bring about the removal of park wildlife. One would think that by now everyone knows that they should not feed wildlife in a park or anywhere else. A nearsighted bear may grab the hand that feeds it. Once again, when a person is injured in our parks, a lawsuit is the common reaction.

Take for example the case of the woman taking a picture of mamma bear and her cubs. She was doing so from the safety of the family car, but had to lean out the window. Too stubborn to listen to her husband, she continued to focus her camera as mother bear lumbered closer.

Through the viewfinder, the bear seemed to be a safe distance away. When the bear grabbed for the camera it scratched the woman's face severely. The bear probably thought the camera was an offering of food. An angry husband quickly absolved the Park Service and even the bear of any blame.

This attitude was not shared by another woman who tripped over a sign while going to feed the deer. Guess what the sign said? It read, "Do Not Feed the Deer." Whether she won her lawsuit is not known at this time.

The author has visited an area administered by the National Parks Service that has never had an accident. Yet, it seems to be a very hazardous piece of real estate. It's campground is located near the edge of a cliff that allows one to thrill to the view of a 3,000 foot deep chasm.

Huge boulders and cracks in the rock would cause one to suspect that a person looking for a lawsuit could easily slip and if so inclined, even break a leg. The area is primitive and lacks even a railing.

When one reads the Visitor Registration book, he begins to understand why accidents and lawsuits have been nonexistent. It is filled with many notations such as, "Do not improve the road," Just beautiful, please leave just as it is." And "Do not goof up this beautiful haven with so-called improvements."

The road referred to is 57 miles of dirt road that has a washboard surface slowing travel to a crawl. Beyond the first 15 miles the litter drops off and one gathers from this that those who make the trip are the ones who make the better park visitor.

If our parks are to remain natural areas instead of tourist gimmicks or padded cells, we all must be more considerate park visitors. Further, we can give our park service a little moral support by writing a letter and letting them know we appreciate the scenic wonders and native wildlife.

Assemble Gear, Then Take Photograph

Simply check the photo to see if you have everything. A photo inventory can also come in handy when filing an insurance claim for lost or stolen equipent.

Quality and Service
Volkswagen Insurance Company was organized to provide insurance service to Volkswagen owning families throughout the United States. The company's purpose is to provide a complete package of automobile insurance protection for VW owners and their families that's equal to the quality and economy for which the Volkswagen automobile has gained world renown.
Full Coverage
Through Volkswagen Insurance Company, VW owners across the nation have the advantage of being able to purchase both Liability and Collision insurance under a single policy — from a single company. Thus, they are able to avoid the "red tape" and paper work problems that can often stem from split insurance protection. The complete line of Volkswagen insurance available to VW owners includes: Collision, Comprehenshe, Fire and Theft, Bodily Injury and Property Damage Liability Insurance, plus Uninsured Motorists (includes protection against hit and run drivers), Medical Payments, and Towing and Road Service Insurance.

CONVERTED VAN MOTORHOME

In building this recreation vehicle, Balboa starts with a Dodge Maxi-Van chassis, cuts away most of the roof and adds a top that allows standing room inside and sleeping space over the driver's area. This model sleeps four and is self-contained.

Nature's Keen Senses Challenge

A hunter's senses have to be quick, alert and practiced to match the keen eyesight, smell and hearing of game animals.

His first three lines of offense include: knowledge of game habits, jeen eyes and sensitive hearing.

Avid sportsmen report that the hearing aid sharpens their normal hearing to the often elusive game. The hearing aid opens up a whole new world of tiny sounds to the outdoorsman. It magnifies the slightest woodland movements and offers the bonus enjoyment of hearing nature's most subtle creatures.

The hearing aid is specially useful in woodlands where deer, elk and moose graze.

These quarry tend to move at sun-up and dusk — a critical time for the hunter's sense of sight. These animals are savvy, alert and quick to survey their surroundings before entering an open field or water hole.

Professional hunter John Sales of Georgia's Callaway Gardens Hunting Preserve said, "I think the hearing aid will be very beneficial to any kind of hunting where you need to hear the early approach of the game.

"For instance, a deer hunter could hear the approach of deer much sooner. The hearing aid is very lightweight, simple to operate and compact," he added.

From a strategic position which offers a good field of vision, the hunter waits. He scans the clearing and bush, with his hearing aid turned to the slightest sounds.

He hears a faint rustle of leaves and is tipped off to the cautious animal. He readies for the shot, clearly identifies his target as game and fires.

Woodsmen have used the hearing aid to detect the distant barking of their dogs which have given chase or treed the game. As the dogs trail the animal the woodsman, equipped with a hearing aid, can quickly monitor the trail by sound.

When on the move the sportsman can conveniently clip the aid onto his jacket, shirt or watchband.

Restaurant List

Restaurants in Corte Madera catering to all tastes include Le Tonneau, Marin Joe's, the Rafters, Boitano's, Copper Penny, Denny's, Zim's, Park Madera Coffee Shop, Jade Kitchen, Herbert's Sherbet Shop, Paradise Coffee Shop, and the Fondue Pot.

Correct Way To Land Big Fish

When a fish wants to make a run, give him line and let him go. Be certain that the drag on the reel is set properly, then let the fish take line against the tension of the drag. Never try to stop a fish's determined run because the line may break or the hooks pull out.

Probably more fish are lost while trying to land them than at any other time.

Sleeping Bag Standards Explained

Perhaps you have tried the sleeping bag routine in your recreation vehicle and felt like a mummy. It is easy to get wrapped up in many sleeping bags and the confinement often ties one in knots. Therefore many users have stuck to the drudgery of making beds.

Sleeping bags were tested recently on an extensive trip and the following desirable characteristics were established. The bag should be light in weight and able to be rolled up into a compact roll that can double as a lounge cushion. The bag should be full double bed size allowing freedom of movement.

The inside should have a removable sheet lining. The sheet lining should be smooth and somewhat slick. A flannel lining will cling to the sleeper and a wrestling match with the sleeping bag is the result.

Road and Track Magazine (May 1968) says:

"The BMW 1600 and 2002 are the best sedan buys in the world. They're almost too good to be true."

Car and Driver calls them "the most spectacular bargains in the entire spectrum of imported cars." When professional critics get that enthusiastic, it's time to take a test drive. Only you behind the wheel can truly measure the performance of this latest triumph from Germany's famed Bavarian Motor Works, builders of fine cars for 53 years. Drive the incomparable new BMW today.

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc. licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith:

SAVE VACATION TRAVELING TIME — Flying your own airplane brings your holiday goal closer by hours. Modern airplanes are roomy enough to take along necessary vacation gear. With the speed, range and reasonable operating costs of today's personal airplanes, every weekend can be a potential fun-filled vacation. For the typical light airplane pilot, a golf date at a resort 300 miles away is no more than two hours from the office. A relaxed vacation at a favorite mountain retreat or weekend skiing trip 500 miles from home is only a few, relaxed, scenic hours by air. Whatever your pleasure, personal flying can make it happen.

Many Waterways Spoiled By Thoughtless Littering

Many once-beautiful waterways now look ugly.

Litterbugs did this. And, in their thoughtless way, they continue to spoil the beauty of nature.

These are sad times indeed, as there's no excuse for turning the bottom of a lake or stream into an underwater junkyard. And debris floating on the water really hurts the eye.

Ever litter bit does hurt. And every little bit does help.

Do your bit in making our waterways beautiful again.

While out boating, never toss anything overboard. That litterbag you're carrying serves the purpose. And, while out fishing, use that litterbag too. Encourage all your friends to do likewise.

Don't stop just there, either.

If you see debris in the water, don't ignore it. It takes only a few seconds to fish it out and put it where it belongs: in your litterbag.

Don't be a litterbug. Do be a bug on keeping our waterways clean.

SHARE CAMPING MEMORIES — Candid scenes such as this are easy to film with today's quick-load, no-fuss movie cameras, enabling you to record your vacation just as it happened.

Bring Back Pictures From National Parks

The words are appropriate especially in view of our growing concern with the national environment. Pictures, and particularly movies, enable visitors to share their camping memories with family and friends, and leave the parks unmarked for the millions who follow in their footsteps.

Movies especially can bring the beauty of the great outdoors into your living room. Nothing recalls the color, fun and excitement of your camping trip better than a well-made movie.

In this highly kinetic world of ours, nearly everything moves — that's why movies are called "movies." With them you can preserve your camping trip, unfrozen and continuous, exactly as it happened.

Of course, not every camping scene you shoot will be brimming with motion; the mountains simply won't cooperate. But there is enough action on a camping trip to fill the screen with memorable and exciting footage.

Let the movie tell the story of your trip. It is much more interesting and meaningful to watch your "feature" infold on screen than to see a jumble of ill-assorted shots.

The quality of your results will depend on how well you've done your "homework" and on your camping destination.

Acquaint yourself with the place you plan to visit; know what you want to photograph, such as the historical landmarks you will pass en route, and the park's outstanding features.

Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

FOR LAND OR WATER — This fiberglass house-cruiser is said to be easily towable by a passenger car. It is 26 feet long and eight feet wide and features dual battery system, shore power system and safety glass windows with seagoing fittings. It is designed to be lived in on land while on the way to the water.

Mini-World Is Seen In Fallen Tree

Whenever a tree falls into a lake or stream, it becomes a giant, luxury apartment house.

The first occupants to move in are minnows and small fish seeking shade and shelter. Close behind will be crayfish, hellgrammites, caddis nymphs, frogs, worms and many other forms of aquatic life.

This abundance of natural food soon attracts some keeper-size fish and several of these will probably make the fallen tree their home.

Sharp-eyed anglers take advantage of logs and stumps in the water and their fishing success improves when they learn how to use these underwater housing developments for fish.

In addition to providing shelter for small aquatic life (and thus food for fish) downed trees serve fish as protection from prey animals and as shade from the sun.

Largemouth bass like to lie under a log just where it enters the water and catch small frogs as they leave the water to sun themselves. A bass bug — or top water plug — cast so that it glances off the log will often tempt a bass into thinking it's his next meal.

The position of the sun makes a difference as to which side you should aim your cast. Most fish like the shade, therefore it's best to drop the first cast on the shady side of a log or stump.

Comfort In Outdoors Can Be Easy

Outdoor living is delightful but only when it's comfortable.

Gas infra-red radiant heaters now are adding months to life in the great outdoors for an ever-increasing number of families. Last year sales of infra-red heaters soared and they are expected to jump again this year.

Many families have found they can enjoy cookouts even in winter with infra-red heaters installed on their patios. Hunters and fishermen now use them, too, to keep warm at the campsite without heavy clothing — even in below-freezing temperatures.

Infra-red heaters may be stationary or portable. The portable units, which use LP gas, can be used while riding in a golf cart, working in a garage, or camping, and for melting ice and snow on walks and driveways. Hand carts are available for several of the portable models.

Natural gas service can be extended from the house to supply stationary infra-red heaters, which may be mounted on a post, wall or ceiling. An especially popular installation is on the post of an outdoor gaslight.

A minimum of two heaters is usually installed to bracket people between them. Spacing of heaters depends on how protected the area is.

Although the principle has been known for years, not until recently has infra-red heating come into its own as an adjunct to outdoor living. It has been used extensively, however, by industry to make otherwise unheatable areas comfortable to work in.

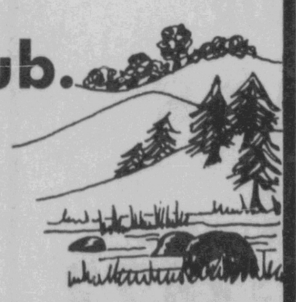
You just think you can't afford a country club.

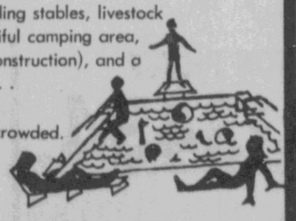


The truth is: you can.

At Rancho del Norte in the Sonoma Hills — a mere hour's drive from the Golden Gate Bridge — you can enjoy all the convenience of a private club without the overwhelming expense. For annual family membership of $200 and monthly dues of $5.00, you have 305 acres of outdoor recreation available to you 365 days a years.

When you compare that to the total cost of weekend excursions with your family over the year, the economics alone show you the advantage of belonging to Rancho del Norte. But there are many other advantages, too.

Rolling hills, a year-round creek, riding stables, livestock corrals, a large swimming pool, beautiful camping area, a five-acre lake (currently under construction), and a recreation lodge — all for you to enjoy as you will . . . when you will. Reservations are never necessary. And because our membership is limited, you'll never be crowded.



A Free Family Day at Rancho del Norte

Come take a look for yourself . . . this weekend or next. Bring the entire family and enjoy a full day at Rancho del Norte at no cost to you whatsoever. There's a free barbecue, a large open space where your children can wander, and ample time for you to explore the grounds and lodge on your own.

How to get to Rancho del Norte

Go north on Highway 101 to the River Road exit (approximately 4 miles above Santa Rosa). Proceed east. You'll know you're on the right road if you come to a stop sign in a couple of blocks with a Texaco station on the right. Continue on this road (which goes to Calistoga) for 8 miles. (This road changes names twice — from River Road to Mark West Springs to Porter Creek Road, so do not be confused.) At this point watch for our mailbox and small sign on the right. The address is 3485 Porter Creek Road. Turn immediately to the left over a small bridge and follow the signs to the lodge. The Resident Manager will be there to greet you. Our telephone number: (707) 545-4898.

VOLKSWAGEN'S CAMPMOBILE FOR 1971

The Campmobile is furnished with many things to be found on the luxury-loving camper's list of "most wanted," including a 76-inch double bed and an optional free-standing tent which can be left behind when the vehicle goes off to town. Built-in cabinetry includes a full-length clothes closet with mirror, linen closet, three utility storage cabinets and a two-shelf food locker.

AMPLIFIES WOODLAND NOISES

Hunters can detect the presence of game more quickly with a hearing aid, which magnifies even the slightest rustle of leaves. You might run across an interesting side scene. A bug flies through the air. A bird dives after it and snaps it up. How could that bird see that tiny insect? Watch and listen for these birds.

22-Acre Park

The 22-acre Corte Madera Town Park includes two tennis courts, an all purpose slab, horseshoe pits, playground equipment, a baseball diamond, picnic areas, a fly-casting pond, and walking paths, plus plenty of open space.

Prepare For A Long Trip

Besides having your car safety-checked, you need to do many other things, things that require careful thought before the day of departure.

First of all, you want to guard against thieves breaking into your home.

To do so, stop regular deliveries such as milk and newspapers. Then arrange for regular lawn mowing. And, by all means, ask a friendly neighbor to play sort of a watchdog over your home while you're away.

Several days before the trip, and not on the day of departure, you should check that emergency equipment. On-the-road troubles call for flares, portable electric light or lantern, first-aid kit and manual fire extinguisher, towrope or chain, jack, and lug wrench. So don't leave any of these behind.

And don't leave any of your travel papers behind. You need your driver's license, of course. And that vehicle registration card hidden out of sight in your car. It's also smart to carry a card with the names and addresses of friends or next of kin in case of an accieent.

Don't forget, either, that it's way too risky to carry large amounts of money on your person. That's why it's such a good idea to take traveler's checks or the like instead.

Last but not least comes the loading of your car. Take just what you need and pack it efficiently. Make sure that you don't load more than your car can safely carry, that you don't let items block your rear-corner vision.

Flip-Tops Are Litter

A pause to enjoy a long, cool drink will provide welcome refreshment, but if the beverage comes from a can "watch that flip-top" warn the safety conscious engineers. Too often these small rings are carelessly discarded and this means trouble.

A glittering ring tossed into a lake or stream may tempt a fish into striking, and perhaps swallowing the tab with fatal results. The razor-sharp edge of a flip top tab hidden in the beach sands can seriously cut the bare foot of a youngster. Wherever they are dropped the doggone tabs, which never deteriorate, are always unsightly.

What does one do with a tab after removing it from the can top? Simply drop the ring inside the container through the open hole. So placed, the tab will be safely hidden where it can not cause harm. Remember, of course, to dispose of the can in a proper receptacle when it is empty.

Use During War

During World War II, the old Bradbury estate on Corte Madera Avenue was set up for use as an evacuation hospital. Fortunately, it was never needed for that purpose.

GEAR FOR OUTDOOR LIVING AND RECREATION

Tents, camping equipment, inflatable boats and other supplies of all kinds are being shown by Charles Bradley of Big 4 Rents in Corte Madera to Mrs. Norman Richards who hasn't yet made up her mind what to buy or rent. Big 4 Rents recently added outdoor equipment to its stocks of rental and retail goods.

COLORFUL GOLF OUTFIT

Jack Lewis, winner of the 1971 Men's Fashion Association award for the pro rookie golfer who best projects golf's image, has a wardrobe as high-powered as his swing. Multi-colored, block pattern, double-knit slacks are teamed with a gold knit shirt.

Advances in Living Areas Give Attractiveness To Houseboats

Keys to the growth of houseboating are rapid development of attractively decorated and furnished living areas equipped with modern appliances, dramatic improvement in hull designs, and the development of efficient, high-horsepower outboard motors and stern-drive engines to propel them.

By shedding their Ma and Pa Kettle appearance and unseaworthy bargelike bottoms, modern houseboats have attracted families who want to have their vacation or retirement home and their dream boat all in one neat package.

But now they have modern planing hulls — vees, cathedrals and catamarans — that make them nimble enough to compete in rugged offshore races. No kidding! Several have entered and completed the Bahama 500, one of oceandom's toughest competitions. One, equipped with a 115 hp outboard, won a recent Mississippi River marathon.

These developments have turned boating's ugly duckling into a beautiful swan. Technology has yet to solve the classic problem of having your cake and eating it, too. But boating has made it possible to have your boat and live in it, too. No wonder Americans are taking up houseboating in rapidly increasing numbers.

WAY TO HANDLE A LARGEMOUTH BASS — All fish must be hooked correctly and played properly before such satisfying moments as this are realized. Hook must be set fast and hard.

Tips To Help Hook A Fish

The first step to hooking a fish properly is being sure the hook is needle-sharp. Always sharpen hooks carefully before fishing, using a hone or small file. Files are best for sharpening large hooks, such as those used in muskie and saltwater fishing, and hones are best for pointing up small hooks.

In sharpening hooks stroke the file or hone from the barb to the point of the hook, and never stroke from the hook point back towards the barb. Some fishermen mistakenly hone hooks that way, but doing it against the point actually dulls rather than sharpens a hook.

Actually, it isn't easy to hook fish. A fish is seldom hooked solidly unless the angler "sets" the hooks fast and hard!

Keep your rod tip low and close to the water. When a fish hits, strike back, to "set" the hooks, by whipping the rod sharply upwards. Be careful to keep slack out of the line as much as possible.

Overloading A Camper Vehicle Is Dangerous

Overloading a recreation vehicle is dangerous and causes stress that shortens the vehicle's life and often necessitates costly repairs. Every vehicle has a gross weight that is the maximum it will carry safely. It is important not to carry more supplies, water and passengers than this gross weight.

Keep heavy items such as canned goods stored as low as possible. This keeps the center of gravity low making the vehicle more stable. In the event of an accident, heavy items near the floor are less damaging and dangerous than if they were overhead.

Load the recreation vehicle so that it is kept in balance. Improper loading causes difficult handling and may result in an accident. All items should be put away before traveling. Skillets left on the stove can become a damaging projectile in the event of a sudden stop or accident.

Make sure that all cabinet latches hold securely to prevent injuries from falling objects. See to it that passengers are seated properly when underway. Your human cargo is most important and the reason to load for safety.

Former Tenant

The Case Of Overloading Car

Now just explain how you can keep a car on an even keel if you overload it.

Technique In Barbecuing Is Important

Proper safety precautions can spell the difference between an enjoyable meal and potential disaster. As with any flame or fire, respect for the grill should always be present, even when preparing something easy to fix like hot dogs.

Don't grill in an area where children are playing. A careless child may inadvertently run into the grill, tip it over, and be severely burned.

If any part of grilling were to be branded as particularly dangerous, it's lighting the fire. Many tragedies and near tragedies are caused every year by carelessness in lighting charcoal.

Gasoline, because of its explosive nature, should be avoided along with any flammable material not expressly designed for barbecuing. Electric charcoal lighters should be handled with care; their elements, if stored in dampness, may short out when used.

Follow the directions on the lighter fluid container which always say to let the liquid soak into the charocal before lighting to reduce the hazard of a flash flame. Do not under any circumstances add lighter fluid once the grill is going.

For handling food on the grill, it's a good idea to have long-handled tools, preferably tongs that are sturdy with fireproof grips. A pair of heavy gloves will keep hands safe when it's necessary to handle some hot item.

A heavy apron to protect clothing from grease and sparks is a must for the chef. Roll up your sleeves and keep loose-fitting clothes away from the fire.

When cooking steaks that drip fat into the fire, a sprinkling bottle filled with water is helpful in curbing flames that can ruin a fine piece of meat.

Most outdoor chefs fail to realize the danger of charcoal fires which give off carbon monoxide. Charcoal should only be used outdoors or in well-ventilated indoor locations such as a fireplace with an open draft.

Controlled heat is the desire of every chef. And for best results for every type of outdoor recipe a slow, even heat may be achieved by cooking with a minimum of charcoal. Cooking with a layer one briquette deep should be enough.

For greater heat control and fewer hazardous sparks, experts prefer a covered grill or a windbreak on the grill to protect the fire from strong drafts. The best control comes from a covered or kettle grill that traps the heat much like an oven. A covered grill eleminates sparks and flame-ups and also provides even heat at a constant temperature to retain natural juices while barbecuing.

After you have finished grilling, extinguish the live charcoals by dousing them with a panfull of water.

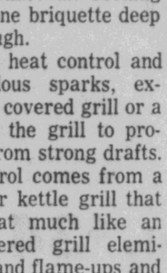
KEEP YOUR COOL IN PHOTOGRAPHY



Heat is a great enemy of film, and the fact can't be overemphasized these days when so many photographers are taking off for hot vacation country.

On a hot day, with the temperatures outside in the 90's, it can build up to as much as 120° inside the trunk or glove compartment of your car . . . yet these are favorite places to stash a camera and spare film. The result can be foggy film, and a vacation record lost forever.

Excessive heat can even damage your exposure meter (separate or built in), or burn a cloth focal plane shutter if the sun hits the lens directly for too long. So use an insulated bag or box to protect film and equipment during hot traveling time. On long vacations, don't carry your completed rolls of film around in the car until you get home. Instead, ship the rolls to us, and we'll have the processed film ready for you when you get home.

For your vacation film, travel accessories and all your photographic needs right through to film developing and printing, see us for sure!

REVCON MOTOR HOME INTERIOR

Shown for the first time last month was a new aluminum motor home by Revcon, Inc., a subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Co. Much lighter than most recreation vehicles of its kind, Revcon's driver's compartment doubles as an extension of the lounge area. Other convenience features include an extra-large fiberglass tub and shower combination and spacious dining area.

Camper Drivers Can Help Environment

Everyone is aware of ecology and the environment these days. The recreation vehicle owner is especially aware because he loves and enjoys the outdoors. Unwittingly, however, he often contributes to pollution when other practices might be more economical and easier.

Campfires are almost a tradition. However, they do pollute the air and have caused an untold number of forest fires. The owner of a recreation vehicle does not need a campfire.

For those who want to enjoy being outside at night, a yellow light is even better than a campfire. It does not attract bugs. Another alternative is a red light which is not seen by wildlife and may enable those enjoying the quiet of the night to see wildlife close at hand.

In fact, it won't be too long before battery and gas operated camplights are offered with yellow and red shades. In the meantime, red paint or red cellophane give the desired effect.

It is thought that throw-away bottles and cans for beverages are a real convenience. This packaging costs extra and often disposal of the trash becomes a problem. Actually, the traveler will find that using returnable bottles and their case is very convenient. The case keeps both full and empty bottles organized and handy. It is four times easier to carry one case that four six-packs and more economical.

OUTDOORSMAN PAINTS WHAT HE SEES

Nature comes to life on a canvas of Cecil Lee, spare time skier, scuba diving gold panner, deep sea fisherman and mountain climber. His work will be on display Friday through Sunday at the Red Hill Shopping Center Art Festival in San Anselmo.

Check Sights For Proper Adjustment

Every big game hunter knows the value of making certain his rifle is properly sighted-in before he takes to the field.

However, this important aspect of shooting appears very complicated and many hunters would rather take a chance that they will hit their quarry than take the time to set their sights properly. But, the process is quite simple.

Rifle sights fall into three classes: open iron sights, peep or aperture sights and telescopic sights, and the principles involved in sighting are the same for each.

On most guns, all adjustments are made in the rear sight. Open iron sights are adjusted for elevation by using a step-cut elevator slide, each step moving point of impact roughly six inches for each 100 yards of range. Correction for windage (right or left) is accomplished by tapping the sight's dove tail base sideways in its notch with a brass hammer.

These adjustments are simpler when using peep or aperture sights which are designed with screw adjustments for both elevation and windage. These are in the form of clicks that are calibrated in terms of fractions of minutes of angle.

Double-Duty For Camping Gear

Go "casual" on camping trips.

That means being concerned not about taking along more-than-enough clothing but about taking along practical clothing.

Garments, such as parkas, that double as breakers and sleeping wear prove a must. Remember that a poncho can also serve you in two ways, either as a raincoat or as something to spread under a sleeping bag to protect you from the damp ground.

Drip-dry fabrics are definitely a camper's bag, requiring little care. And wool knits come in handy on cold nights. As for your shoes, include sneakers for hiking and wading.

Go "casual" on camping trips.

TWO BOYS, A POLE AND A PLACE TO FISH

The Marin seacoast has many fine places to fish. One of them at Oceana Marin, north of Dillon's Beach finds Kenneth and Peter Bonelli trying their luck at a spot called the Sandspit located just below the Oceana Marin homesites on the bluffs overlooking the coastline.

Outdoor Exploring Gives Children Time To Learn

There's no end to the opportunities for fun in the outdoors, especially for youngsters. For them every thicket and stream presents a new challenge.

Children explore, discover and learn in America's summer playgrounds.

The experience leaves them asking to return to the outdoors again and again.

Toys are special companions to children wherever they may go.

They provide a helping hand for mom and dad on camping trips. While working around the campsite on the cooking and cleaning chores, toys keep youngsters safely occupied, full of laughter and out of the working area while parents go about keeping the camping locale in order.

Three important factors in judging the ability of a toy to be useful during a journey are its compatibility with the youngster, the durability of the toy and safety.

Toys that have special meaning to your child should certainly be included. However, if the plaything is very fragile or small enough to be misplaced and possibly lost, encourage substitutes.

Rugged plastic toys are ideal for outdoor recreation. On the way to the campground, they provide plenty of entertainment for children riding in an auto's back seat.

Safety cannot be overlooked in filling up a child's toy chest for an outdoors trip. Plastic toys have easy to manipulate smooth surfaced parts that avoid cutting or scratching.

Don't Forget Animals Wandering Along Roads

Heading out in your car for greener pastures, you'll probably see a wide variety of animals grazing, wandering about, or frolicking along the way.

Could be it will shatter your ego just a bit once you get to thinking that many of these animals can see you before you can see them.

Indeed, many of them are blessed with wonderful eyes that provide remarkable seeing ability, often far superior to our own.

Ever fly in a plane and try to detect a rabbit running in a field almost two miles below you? Ridiculous, of course, but not for the California condor in flight. It can and does notice small animals that far away. And after sensing something's wrong, that rabbit bulges its eyes to get a better panoramic view of the danger zone.

You can't observe the ground at your feet and scan the horizon at the same time, can you? But the horse has just that ability, what with his lower and upper eye parts supplying him with that unique quality of "bifocal" vision.

Nor can you see around corners. There's no trick to it for the common snail with eyes on its long tentacles that can be extended or withdrawn.

Your eyes can never act like mirrors either. Having a layer of reflective crystals on the back of the eyeballs, the cat enjoys just that effect, enjoys better vision at night because light hits its sense cells twice.

Fly-Drive Vacationing Is Popular

Don't honk that horn, Mister! That California-licensed carload of people scene-gazing ahead of you may be Aunt Minnie's family from the hinterlands, vacationing here in a rented car.

And, if so, she's just one of thousands booming the car rental business throughout the west by using the fly-drive vacation system.

Eastern and midwest vacationers have increased their use of fly-drive plans which enable them to go farther and see more within a vacation period, and Western vacation spots have many locally licensed rental cars filled with visitors.

More and more people from the east and midwest are coming to the West Coast for the first time. Firms in the car rental business are adding to their fleets to accommodate them.

Chemicals Used To Disinfect Streams

If there's one thing outdoor sports such as swimming, fishing and boating have in common, it's water. And if there's something that creeks and streams, rivers and lakes have in common, it's the danger of pollution.

Yet many Americans enjoy sweet-smelling bodies of water, even when they live downstream from a busy factory or over populated town. The reason for this is that science has given man the know-how to protect his water playgrounds from pollution. In many areas chemicals are used to disinfect the water from rivers and streams.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven

Skin Divers Discover Dreamland

Underwater explorations lead skin divers back to the mysterious world where life began millions of years ago.

It is the story of the sea. A skin diver, marveling at the beauty of nature as he explores the depths of the ocean, learns the answers to many puzzling questions. How do fish live down here? Why do rocks look so lovely in the sea and so commonplace on land?

Amazed at not realizing sooner that this dreamland exists, the diver experiences the thrill of being the first person to set eyes on a particular part of the sea. Land activities, except for mountain climbing and cave exploration, offer little to compare in excitement.

Covering 71 percent of the earth's surface, the ocean, which is 6.8 miles deep in places, lures two types of skin divers, the one who wears self-contained equipment and the one in standard or deep sea gear. With self-contained equipment, you can dive 130 feet and stay a limited time underwater. Deep sea gear enables you to dive 350 feet and to remain indefinitely underwater.

Thanks to Royal Navy surgeon James Fullerton who believed air could be pumped under pressure to the diver, W.H. James in 1825 designed the first self-contained dress supplied with compressed air. With this supply strapped on his back, the diver has complete freedom to go where he wishes.

In 1837, Augustus Siebe invented the famous "closed" or deep sea diving suit in which the air is pumped through a hose a hose from the surface. Greatly restricted in his movements, the deep sea diver has nearly two hundred pounds of heavy equipment on his back and wears a rigid helmet.

Although practiced for centuries, skin diving became popular in the United States only after the invention of the aqualung during World War II. Hollywood's glittering touch in a series of movies about the skin diving world aroused the curiosity of Americans who were looking for something new, exciting, and perhaps even dangerous.

Called a "frame of mind," skin diving proves rewarding for those who enjoy the water. For the emotionally unstable who fear water, skin diving can be shocking. It requires smooth coordination of mind and body.

You don't have to be a weight lifter to skin dive, but it is not a sport for the weak. A skin diver must have good health and be free from circulatory, respiratory, or other ailments.

To run no more than ordinary risk, a skin diver must swim well and feel at ease in the water. With his feet only, a good swimmer can tread water for three minutes. Without fins, he can swim 300 yards and tow an inert swimmer for 40 yards. He can remain afloat for 15 minutes and can swim underwater for 15 yards.

A new vista of adventure in the unknown awaits you. By participating in skin diving, you, too, might get in on some of nature's mysteries.

Fishing's Easy, But Millions Like Rugged

Fishing can be easy.

For the angler who doesn't want to exert himself too much, or for reasons of health must take it easy, there is stillfishing from banks, bridges, piers and breakwaters. He may also stillfish from an anchored or drifting boat, or fish by trolling. In any case all the fisherman need do is hold his rod and wait for a fish to strike.

Fishing can be rigorous.

Some fishermen arise long before daybreak and, perhaps, drive a couple hundred miles to a turbulent trout stream. They then spend 10 or 12 hours wading rough water, fighting slippery rocks and sinking mud, and then, worn and weary, drive those same "couple hundred" miles back home.

CONVERTED VAN MOTORHOME

In building this recreation vehicle, Balboa starts with a Dodge Maxi-Van chassis, cuts away most of the roof and adds a top that allows standing room inside and sleeping space over the driver's area. This model sleeps four and is self-contained.

Nature's Keen Senses Challenge

A hunter's senses have to be quick, alert and practiced to match the keen eyesight, smell and hearing of game animals.

His first three lines of offense include: knowledge of game habits, jeen eyes and sensitive hearing.

Avid sportsmen report that the hearing aid sharpens their normal hearing to the often elusive game. The hearing aid opens up a whole new world of tiny sounds to the outdoorsman. It magnifies the slightest woodland movements and offers the bonus enjoyment of hearing nature's most subtle creatures.

These quarry tend to move at sun-up and dusk — a critical time for the hunter's sense of sight. These animals are savvy, alert and quick to survey their surroundings before entering an open field or water hole.

Professional hunter John Sales of Georgia's Callaway Gardens Hunting Preserve said, "I think the hearing aid will be very beneficial to any kind of hunting where you need to hear the early approach of the game.

"For instance, a deer hunter could hear the approach of deer much sooner. The hearing aid is very lightweight, simple to operate and compact," he added.

From a strategic position which offers a good field of vision, the hunter waits. He scans the clearing and bush, with his hearing aid turned to the slightest sounds.

He hears a faint rustle of leaves and is tipped off to the cautious animal. He readies for the shot, clearly identifies his target as game and fires.

Woodsmen have used the hearing aid to detect the distant barking of their dogs which have given chase or treed the game. As the dogs trail the animal the woodsman, equipped with a hearing aid, can quickly monitor the trail by sound.

When on the move the sportsman can conveniently clip the aid onto his jacket, shirt or watchband.

Restaurant List

Restaurants in Corte Madera catering to all tastes include Le Tonneau, Marin Joe's, the Rafters, Boitano's, Copper Penny, Denny's, Zim's, Park Madera Coffee Shop, Jade Kitchen, Herbert's Sherbet Shop, Paradise Coffee Shop, and the Fondue Pot.

Correct Way To Land Big Fish

When a fish wants to make a run, give him line and let him go. Be certain that the drag on the reel is set properly, then let the fish take line against the tension of the drag. Never try to stop a fish's determined run because the line may break or the hooks pull out.

Probably more fish are lost while trying to land them than at any other time.

Sleeping Bag Standards Explained

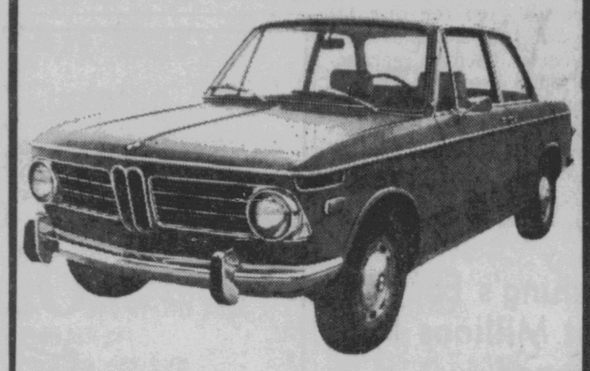
Perhaps you have tried the sleeping bag routine in your recreation vehicle and felt like a mummy. It is easy to get wrapped up in many sleeping bags and the confinement often ties one in knots. Therefore many users have stuck to the drudgery of making beds.

Sleeping bags were tested recently on an extensive trip and the following desirable characteristics were established. The bag should be light in weight and able to be rolled up into a compact roll that can double as a lounge cushion. The bag should be full double bed size allowing freedom of movement.

The inside should have a removable sheet lining. The sheet lining should be smooth and somewhat slick. A flannel lining will cling to the sleeper and a wrestling match with the sleeping bag is the result.

Road and Track Magazine (May 1968) says:

"The BMW 1600 and 2002 are the best sedan buys in the world. They're almost too good to be true."



Car and Driver calls them "the most spectacular bargains in the entire spectrum of imported cars." When professional critics get that enthusiastic, it's time to take a test drive. Only you behind the wheel can truly measure the performance of this latest triumph from Germany's famed Bavarian Motor Works, builders of fine cars for 53 years. Drive the incomparable new BMW today.

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc. licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith:

FOR LAND OR WATER — This fiberglass house-cruiser is said to be easily towable by a passenger car. It is 26 feet long and eight feet wide and features dual battery system, shore power system and safety glass windows with seagoing fittings. It is designed to be lived in on land while on the way to the water.

Mini-World Is Seen In Fallen Tree

Whenever a tree falls into a lake or stream, it becomes a giant, luxury apartment house.

The first occupants to move in are minnows and small fish seeking shade and shelter. Close behind will be crayfish, hellgrammites, caddis nymphs, frogs, worms and many other forms of aquatic life.

This abundance of natural food soon attracts some keeper-size fish and several of these will probably make the fallen tree their home.

Sharp-eyed anglers take advantage of logs and stumps in the water and their fishing success improves when they learn how to use these underwater housing developments for fish.

In addition to providing shelter for small aquatic life (and thus food for fish) downed trees serve fish as protection from prey animals and as shade from the sun.

Largemouth bass like to lie under a log just where it enters the water and catch small frogs as they leave the water to sun themselves. A bass bug — or top water plug — cast so that it glances off the log will often tempt a bass into thinking it's his next meal.

The position of the sun makes a difference as to which side you should aim your cast. Most fish like the shade, therefore it's best to drop the first cast on the shady side of a log or stump.

VOLKSWAGEN'S CAMPMOBILE FOR 1971

The Campmobile is furnished with many things to be found on the luxury-loving camper's list of "most wanted," including a 76-inch double bed and an optional free-standing tent which can be left behind when the vehicle goes off to town. Built-in cabinetry includes a full-length clothes closet with mirror, linen closet, three utility storage cabinets and a two-shelf food locker.

AMPLIFIES WOODLAND NOISES

Hunters can detect the presence of game more quickly with a hearing aid, which magnifies even the slightest rustle of leaves. You might run across an interesting side scene. A bug flies through the air. A bird dives after it and snaps it up. How could that bird see that tiny insect? Watch and listen for these birds.

22-Acre Park

The 22-acre Corte Madera Town Park includes two tennis courts, an all purpose slab, horseshoe pits, playground equipment, a baseball diamond, picnic areas, a fly-casting pond, and walking paths, plus plenty of open space.

Prepare For A Long Trip

Besides having your car safety-checked, you need to do many other things, things that require careful thought before the day of departure.

First of all, you want to guard against thieves breaking into your home.

To do so, stop regular deliveries such as milk and newspapers. Then arrange for regular lawn mowing. And, by all means, ask a friendly neighbor to play sort of a watchdog over your home while you're away.

Several days before the trip, and not on the day of departure, you should check that emergency equipment. On-the-road troubles call for flares, portable electric light or lantern, first-aid kit and manual fire extinguisher, towrope or chain, jack, and lug wrench. So don't leave any of these behind.

And don't leave any of your travel papers behind. You need your driver's license, of course. And that vehicle registration card hidden out of sight in your car. It's also smart to carry a card with the names and addresses of friends or next of kin in case of an accieent.

Don't forget, either, that it's way too risky to carry large amounts of money on your person. That's why it's such a good idea to take traveler's checks or the like instead.

Last but not least comes the loading of your car. Take just what you need and pack it efficiently. Make sure that you don't load more than your car can safely carry, that you don't let items block your rear-corner vision.

Flip-Tops Are Litter

A pause to enjoy a long, cool drink will provide welcome refreshment, but if the beverage comes from a can "watch that flip-top" warn the safety conscious engineers. Too often these small rings are carelessly discarded and this means trouble.

A glittering ring tossed into a lake or stream may tempt a fish into striking, and perhaps swallowing the tab with fatal results. The razor-sharp edge of a flip top tab hidden in the beach sands can seriously cut the bare foot of a youngster. Wherever they are dropped the doggone tabs, which never deteriorate, are always unsightly.

What does one do with a tab after removing it from the can top? Simply drop the ring inside the container through the open hole. So placed, the tab will be safely hidden where it can not cause harm. Remember, of course, to dispose of the can in a proper receptacle when it is empty.

Use During War

During World War II, the old Bradbury estate on Corte Madera Avenue was set up for use as an evacuation hospital. Fortunately, it was never needed for that purpose.

Overloading A Camper Vehicle Is Dangerous

Overloading a recreation vehicle is dangerous and causes stress that shortens the vehicle's life and often necessitates costly repairs. Every vehicle has a gross weight that is the maximum it will carry safely. It is important not to carry more supplies, water and passengers than this gross weight.

Keep heavy items such as canned goods stored as low as possible. This keeps the center of gravity low making the vehicle more stable. In the event of an accident, heavy items near the floor are less damaging and dangerous than if they were overhead.

Load the recreation vehicle so that it is kept in balance. Improper loading causes difficult handling and may result in an accident. All items should be put away before traveling. Skillets left on the stove can become a damaging projectile in the event of a sudden stop or accident.

Make sure that all cabinet latches hold securely to prevent injuries from falling objects. See to it that passengers are seated properly when underway. Your human cargo is most important and the reason to load for safety.

Former Tenant

The Case Of Overloading Car

WAY TO HANDLE A LARGEMOUTH BASS — All fish must be hooked correctly and played properly before such satisfying moments as this are realized. Hook must be set fast and hard.

Tips To Help Hook A Fish

The first step to hooking a fish properly is being sure the hook is needle-sharp. Always sharpen hooks carefully before fishing, using a hone or small file. Files are best for sharpening large hooks, such as those used in muskie and saltwater fishing, and hones are best for pointing up small hooks.

In sharpening hooks stroke the file or hone from the barb to the point of the hook, and never stroke from the hook point back towards the barb. Some fishermen mistakenly hone hooks that way, but doing it against the point actually dulls rather than sharpens a hook.

Actually, it isn't easy to hook fish. A fish is seldom hooked solidly unless the angler "sets" the hooks fast and hard!

Keep your rod tip low and close to the water. When a fish hits, strike back, to "set" the hooks, by whipping the rod sharply upwards. Be careful to keep slack out of the line as much as possible.

REVCON MOTOR HOME INTERIOR

Shown for the first time last month was a new aluminum motor home by Revcon, Inc., a subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Co. Much lighter than most recreation vehicles of its kind, Revcon's driver's compartment doubles as an extension of the lounge area. Other convenience features include an extra-large fiberglass tub and shower combination and spacious dining area.

Camper Drivers Can Help Environment

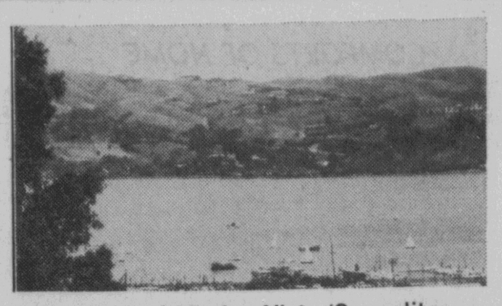
Everyone is aware of ecology and the environment these days. The recreation vehicle owner is especially aware because he loves and enjoys the outdoors. Unwittingly, however, he often contributes to pollution when other practices might be more economical and easier.

Campfires are almost a tradition. However, they do pollute the air and have caused an untold number of forest fires. The owner of a recreation vehicle does not need a campfire.

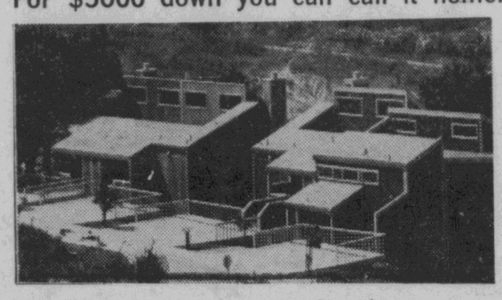
For those who want to enjoy being outside at night, a yellow light is even better than a campfire. It does not attract bugs. Another alternative is a red light which is not seen by wildlife and may enable those enjoying the quiet of the night to see wildlife close at hand.

In fact, it won't be too long before battery and gas operated camplights are offered with yellow and red shades. In the meantime, red paint or red cellophane give the desired effect.

It is thought that throw-away bottles and cans for beverages are a real convenience. This packaging costs extra and often disposal of the trash becomes a problem. Actually, the traveler will find that using returnable bottles and their case is very convenient. The case keeps both full and empty bottles organized and handy. It is four times easier to carry one case that four six-packs and more economical.



This is called Marina Vista/Sausalito.
For $5000 down you can call it home.



Marina Vista is a new community of townhouses nestled in the sloping hills of Sausalito just above the Clipper Yacht Harbor.

The homes each have two or three bedrooms with 2½ baths, woodburning fireplaces, and as many as four view-filled sundecks.

Beautifully located near the majestic slopes of Mt. Tamalpais, the countryside of Marina Vista/Sausalito is only a few minutes drive or short ferry ride from San Francisco.

You can stop by and visit the furnished model townhouses any day from 10:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M.

OUTDOORSMAN PAINTS WHAT HE SEES

Nature comes to life on a canvas of Cecil Lee, spare time skier, scuba diving gold panner, deep sea fisherman and mountain climber. His work will be on display Friday through Sunday at the Red Hill Shopping Center Art Festival in San Anselmo.

Check Sights For Proper Adjustment

Every big game hunter knows the value of making certain his rifle is properly sighted-in before he takes to the field.

However, this important aspect of shooting appears very complicated and many hunters would rather take a chance that they will hit their quarry than take the time to set their sights properly. But, the process is quite simple.

Rifle sights fall into three classes: open iron sights, peep or aperture sights and telescopic sights, and the principles involved in sighting are the same for each.

On most guns, all adjustments are made in the rear sight. Open iron sights are adjusted for elevation by using a step-cut elevator slide, each step moving point of impact roughly six inches for each 100 yards of range. Correction for windage (right or left) is accomplished by tapping the sight's dove tail base sideways in its notch with a brass hammer.

These adjustments are simpler when using peep or aperture sights which are designed with screw adjustments for both elevation and windage. These are in the form of clicks that are calibrated in terms of fractions of minutes of angle.

Double-Duty For Camping Gear

Go "casual" on camping trips.

That means being concerned not about taking along more-than-enough clothing but about taking along practical clothing.

Garments, such as parkas, that double as breakers and sleeping wear prove a must. Remember that a poncho can also serve you in two ways, either as a raincoat or as something to spread under a sleeping bag to protect you from the damp ground.

Drip-dry fabrics are definitely a camper's bag, requiring little care. And wool knits come in handy on cold nights. As for your shoes, include sneakers for hiking and wading.

Go "casual" on camping trips.

Fly-Drive Vacationing Is Popular

Don't honk that horn, Mister! That California-licensed carload of people scene-gazing ahead of you may be Aunt Minnie's family from the hinterlands, vacationing here in a rented car.

And, if so, she's just one of thousands booming the car rental business throughout the west by using the fly-drive vacation system.

Eastern and midwest vacationers have increased their use of fly-drive plans which enable them to go farther and see more within a vacation period, and Western vacation spots have many locally licensed rental cars filled with visitors.

More and more people from the east and midwest are coming to the West Coast for the first time. Firms in the car rental business are adding to their fleets to accommodate them.

Chemicals Used To Disinfect Streams

If there's one thing outdoor sports such as swimming, fishing and boating have in common, it's water. And if there's something that creeks and streams, rivers and lakes have in common, it's the danger of pollution.

Yet many Americans enjoy sweet-smelling bodies of water, even when they live downstream from a busy factory or over populated town. The reason for this is that science has given man the know-how to protect his water playgrounds from pollution. In many areas chemicals are used to disinfect the water from rivers and streams.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowances:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
40 month	$10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

New Legal Bids In Angela Case

By MARY LEYDECKER

Attorneys in the Davis-Magee case have taken to their law books in an effort to get the case moving again or to free Angela Davis on bail, depending on their point of view.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr. said yesterday that he is still doing legal research in order to decide whether to go through federal or state courts to get the case back on calendar.

Harris was told by Judge Richard E. Arnason on Tuesday that he must either get a federal court order remanding the case back to Marin Superior Court or obtain a higher state court order that proceedings resume.

The stalemate has been caused by San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee's petitions to federal courts, asking that the case be transferred there.

The issue is further clouded by the refusal of the federal district court in San Francisco to acknowledge the petitions.

Judge Arnason, proceeding carefully, however, said "We must build a house on a firm foundation" in the case.

Yesterday, Howard Moore Jr., chief attorney for Miss Davis, said he would ask for a writ of mandamus forcing Arnason to grant bail for his client. (She has been held in Marin County jail since December.)

Moore said he would take his time preparing the writ because he wanted it to be a "profound and substantial document."

Judge Arnason refused to grant bail for Miss Davis on Tuesday, saying he thought she was not legally eligible.

She and Magee are charged with three capital offenses, murder, kidnapping and conspiracy, in connection with the August shoot-out at the Civic Center.

Miss Davis's supporters have reacted angrily to the judge's decision and said they plan a rally in Sacramento at a date not yet decided.

Meanwhile, the attorney representing Marin supervisors, who learned yesterday the state does not intend to pay for the costs of the Davis-Magee case, was in Sacramento trying to do something about it.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was meeting with Marin lawmakers today in an effort to work out legislation whereby the state would pick up the estimated $1.5 million cost of the case.

The attorney general's office ruled yesterday that the state was not liable for the costs.

Sonoma Budget Study Will Begin Tomorrow

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will begin study tomorrow on the proposed 1971-72 county budget of $61.7 million, an increase of $10.4 million or 20 per cent over this year's $51.2 million budget.

As County Administrator David L. Nichols predicted earlier, additional costs in administering welfare, medical and related programs accounted for 70 per cent or nearly $7 million of the increase.

Auditor William Fulwinder estimated that an additional $1.75 million will have to be collected in county taxes to make up for the deficiency in state funding for the mandated welfare programs. He said he could not estimate what the effect will be on the tax rate, but observers said it could be between 60 and 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In other sections of the proposed budget, general government and the capital improvement program showed a $2 million increase. Law enforcement was increased by $1 million.

Nichols said that in his preliminary budget cuts, requests by department heads for 160 new positions was slashed to 34. Last year's budget provided for 120 new employees.

The budget also provides for the 5 per cent cost-of-living increase previously granted to the 2,000 county employees and will add $1.2 million to the budget.

Nichols said welfare programs accounted for nearly one-third of the total budget and that public assistance programs as a whole constitute 50 per cent. He said the great increase, largely in the Medi-Cal program, was the result of the state shifting many of the costs back to the county. He said he hoped the Legislature would correct that situation this year.

Nichols said he and his staff had already trimmed $3.2 million from the proposed budget and expected the board of supervisors to make further reductions before final budget approval in August.

Death Leap Of San Franciscan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The body of David E. Brigham, 31, San Francisco, was found Wednesday at the bottom of the south tower of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Coroner's deputies said Brigham apparently leaped to his death the day before. His body was spotted about noon by a bridge pedestrian.

Deputies said no notes were found.

Sen. Kennedy Asks U.N. Seat For China

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has introduced a resolution which would recommend the seating of mainland China as the "sole and legitimate representative of China in the United Nations."

Kennedy said Wednesday a comtinued "two-China policy" by the United States "would be as futile as it would be illogical, since neither claimant to the seat of China would accept the solution."

Quake-Related Bill Passed On Road Contracts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing the state and construction firms to break contracts for work on highways and bridges damaged by the Feb. 9 Los Angeles earthquake has been passed by the Assembly.

The measure by Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, was sent back to the Senate Wednesday on a 70-1 vote for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

It allows the contracts to be voided so the state can revise its designs and specifications and the companies will not be forced to complete projects unable to withstand earthquakes.

$25 Million In Smog Damage To State's Crops

SACRAMENTO b)UPI) — California farmers suffered $25.69 million in crop losses last year due to smog.

The state Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday the losses were confined to 15 of the state's 58 counties. Hardest hit county was Ventura with $10.7 million in damage.

Citrus losses in the Los Angeles Basin accounted for $19.5 million of the total.

The report did not tally losses of native vegetation, forests and landscape plantings because no adequate method of computing such losses has been found.

Youth Impales Self With Own Bayonet

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—A San Jose youth died Wednesday when he fell over a 20-foot cliff and impaled himself on a large bayonet he was carrying.

Kevin Wayne Bosworth, 15, was on a camping trip in Castle Rock campground when he was apparently startled by a rattlesnake and tripped over the cliff.

Planning Budget Receives Approval Of Supervisors

The Marin County Planning Department received slightly more than $510,000 for fiscal 1971-72 after budget review yesterday by the county board of supervisors. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

This year's budget, including the balanced transportation study and Marin City 701 study still in progress, was $473,000.

The bulk of the increase approved by the board was in $50,000 approved for work on the county's general plan, up from $21,500 this year.

The 1971-72 request by planning director Werner Von Gundell and the amount recommended by county administrator Alan Bruce were less than $4,000 apart, differing mainly in the number of staffing positions.

Most of the supervisors' two-hour session with Von Gundell and his aides was spent more on personnel discussion than on budgeting.

Von Gundell protested that Bruce's office had recommended a raise for Harvey Bragdon, chief of current planning, but not for Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning. The board withheld Bragdon's raise pending further study, after Von Gundell reminded it that "by previous agreement" the two section chiefs were to remain equal.

The board approved adding a new position of zoning assistant, deleted one planner position effective Jan. 1 and made a number of other personnel changes having almost no dollar effect.

The supervisors agreed to keeping work in-house for area plans such as Nicasio and Tomales Bay, as recommended by Von Gundell and audience spokesmen. Bruce had proposed earmarking the funds for having the plans prepared by outside contract consultants.

No Imagination

State Official In Drunk Probe

A 53-year-old California Public Utilities Commissioner was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of drunken driving after a California Highway patrolman decided he was driving erratically on Highway 101.

Thomas Patrick Moran, of 400 Canal Street, Apt. 219, San Rafael, was arrested about 1:30 a.m. on the Francisco Boulevard offramp near San Rafael.

The officer said he saw the northbound Moran auto, a state car, weaving across the highway and made the stop.

Moran was released from jail on his promise to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court..

An attorney, Moran was appointed to the Public Utilities Commission in January of 1969.

San Anselmo Sets Hearings On Budget

The City of San Anselmo has announced its schedule of budget hearings. The police department and library budgets will be heard tonight at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

Other hearings include: public works on June 23, recreation on June 24, parks on June 28 and the final session on June 29.

FOR '72 GOALS

Nixon Must Woo Fed On Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon is relying on a plentiful supply of money and credit to fuel the business expansion he needs to make good on his promise of a "very good year" for the economy in 1972.

But while Nixon probably is the single most powerful man in the world, he does not have the legal authority to achieve his goal by himself. He must look instead to the highly-independent Federal Reserve System.

There is growing evidence that the Fed —as it is often called —is about to tighten money policy to head off new inflation. The side effects could be higher interest rates and a slower rate of recovery from last year's recession.

For the first five months of this year, the Fed went along with Nixon's plea for more money and credit. The basic money supply, currency and checking accounts, increased at an annual rate of 10.6 per cent through May.

This rate of growth was in excess of both the 5.4 per cent recorded last year and the 5 to 6 per cent the Fed thinks is desirable as a long-term policy.

The Fed is as little known to the average citizen as the Geneva gold exchange, yet it plays a crucial role in the economy. A governmental agency with private stockholders, it is controlled by political appointees who, once in office, traditionally shun politics.

It is headed by a seven-member board of governors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for 14-year terms. Members cherish their independence, sometimes taking positions that surprise and even distress the president who appointed them.

Nixon's only appointment so far went to Chairman Arthur F. Burns, a counselor to the president at the time of his appointment. Although a longtime associate of Nixon, Burns has had frequent disagreements with the White House policy.

One governor is named to the Federal Reserve Board every two years. Nixon's next appointment comes up in 1972 when the term of Sherman J. Maisel expires.

Next in the Fed hierarchy come the 12 Federal Reserve Banks in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas and San Francisco.

The banks are privately owned by the more than 6,000 commercial banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System. But the rights of their stockholders are severely limited.

The Commercial banks pick six of the nine members of the board of trustees of each of the 12 regional banks. The Board of Governors in Washington picks the other three, including the chairman and vice chairman. Technically, the board of trustees of each regional bank picks its own president. But the choices again must be approved in Washington.

In theory, each board of trustees also sets the discount rate —the interest rate the bank charges for loans to member banks in each district. In practice the rate is set nationwide by the board of Governors and the regional banks merely carry out the policy.

In summary, the Federal Reserve — not the president — fixes the nation's basic money and credit policy.

The Fed has three main tools for controlling money supply: the rediscount rate, reserve requirements and open market operations.

In recent years, open market operations have been the most important. When the Federal Reserve sells government securities from its own portfolio, it drains money out of the economy. When it buys securities, it pumps money into circulation.

As the central bank, the Fed can issue checks without first making a deposit. It is up to the board of governors to decide if the Fed will "overdraw" its own account. There is no law or other rule to prevent it from doing so.

The rediscount rate is the interest which the Fed charges for loans to member banks. The rate stood at 6 per cent from April 1969 to Nov. 10, 1970. It has been cut to 4¾ per cent ir five steps.

The United States grows more wheat than any other country.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Love Is Blind (Continued); Lead Your Friend Toward 'Real Men'

DEAR HELEN:

Here's another "blind love" letter. How can a smart girl be so dumb?

Our friend is beautiful, 20, and tied down to a real creep. He dresses like a bum, hardly ever wears shoes or combs his hair, and is terribly childish. His wealthy mother spoiled him so much that he won't look for work.

This girl has a job, an apartment and a car. She buys food for him, picks up the tab for movies, gives him beer money, the use of her car, and drops everything when he calls. She also does his laundry.

But he always has money for his own things, like trips to rock concerts, etc., while she is working. Now he's going to Europe for the summer, but he won't let her apply for an airline hostess job. He'd never let her go anywhere without him, even with her girl friends, and he expects her to sit home all summer and save her money so he can sponge off her all next winter.

The few times she has come to her senses, he cries, and pretends illness, until she feels sorry for him and takes him back.

What's with these girls who only fall for "men" they can mother? — FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS:

Your girl friend may be an emotionally immature, part-time masochist, or a smart little operator who hopes to "marry money" never mind the creep that comes with the bundle.

Aim her toward real men during the summer leave. Comparison sometimes helps. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In our town you are either a creepy dude or a popular chick or one other thing: a girl with a bad reputation.

My girl friend and I were a real freaky pair (unpopular) last year, but we changed, and are now in the fun crowd. That means booze and cars and hitchhiking on weekends and being kind of wild, but not "bad." (We're 15.)

But, Helen, we're worried because it could turn bad real fast if somebody tried more dope than usual, or a drunk driver went over a cliff.

We don't want to give up these new friends because we're having a blast but it seems like they try a little more each time, and where's it going to end? — DON'T WANT TO SIT HOME ON SATURDAY NIGHTS AGAIN

DEAR DWTSHOSNA:

Ask yourselves: "Do we really like the booze and drug kind of fun or are we in this crowd only to be 'popular'?" If you're the type who would do anything rather than stay home on Saturday nights, chances are you'll end up "doing anything." Which means you'll soon join the "bad reputation" bunch.

If there isn't a safe level between "creepy dude" and "popular chick," then it's about time you girls started building one in your town! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

At 18, I started on pot, then pills and eventually LSD and speed. My next few years were spent drifting from one town to the next, the usual scene for a junky.

At 20, I woke up and went on the drying out trip. A quotation from your column inspired me to write: "It's easy going down the road, but very hard coming back." Now I face another problem. Since being clean, I've met a wonderful guy who wants to marry me. He loves children, but I don't know what the drugs have done. I've asked doctors who can't assure me I won't have deformed babies — if I can have any at all. This is just another letter that tells 'em:

The trip isn't worth the price, girls! — SORRY

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Enable Child To Tell Name And Address

If your child is not old enough to spell his name or remember his address, place a slip of paper with his name, address and telephone number in a pocket, if at all possible, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

If the child is over three years old, teach him to enunciate his full name clearly in case he gets lost. Also, as soon as he is able, help him to memorize the address and telephone number.

'Protein Spices'

"Protein spices" are spices often used with protein foods such as meat, poultry, fish, eggs and beans. The term includes red pepper, celery seed, chili and curry powders, marjoram, sage, mustard, poultry seasoning, thyme and rosemary.

Stewart Chapel Is Wedding Setting

Jon Fraser Janovec wed Rev. Janet Jacobs Saturday in a ceremony at Stewart Memorial Chapel of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. A reception followed in Alexander Hall of the seminary.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis Jacobs of Mentor, Ohio. She is a graduate of Mentor High School and Lake Erie College for Women in Painesville, Ohio, and received the master of divinity degree from the San Francisco Theological Seminary. The bride is working on a doctorate degree at the seminary.

Jon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Janovec of Southgate, Mich. He was graduated from high school in Wyandotte, Mich., and the Detroit Institute of Technology and is also a doctoral student at the seminary.

Maid of honor for the bride was Diane Sauerhoff of South San Francisco, and Rev. Raymond Gill of Blue Earth, Minn., was best man.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will live in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Carl Baeck New Garden Club President

Marin Home and Garden Club's new president is Mrs. Karl H. Baeck of San Rafael, a three-year-member of the club.

A former vice president of the club, Kathryn Baeck describes its dual purpose, "We help support the Audubon Canyon Ranch and work to improve our homes and the surrounding neighborhoods."

Funds will be raised in the coming club year at a Christmas bazaar and a white elephant sale, and a variety of speakers is scheduled at meetings. Anyone living in Marin may join.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Baeck is a graduate of Presentation High School. She and her husband, a fireman in San Francisco, have lived in Marin for five years and are the parents of Karen Marie, 4, and Kristin Lynn, 15 months.

Other new officers are Mmes. Dorothy Lyons, vice president; Donald Troya, secretary; Richard Walker, treasurer; Donn E. Fox, program chaiman; Robert Pedersen, membership chairman, and Robert McElroy, horticulture chairman.

A Money Saver

A good way to save money: select quality according to the way you'll prepare and serve the food. For example, broken pieces of canned tomatoes can be used for casseroles instead of whole tomatoes.

voted for the tiny blonde with the big green eyes.

"Actually it was a quiet campaign," she said, "although there are always a few old gentlemen around who don't like women with power. I think most of the men were pleased, though."

Mrs. Leon said she finally decided to run on the last day for filing applications after two months of encouragement by townspeople.

"My husband and I have been very active in restoring old town buildings and promoting a new hospital and the people recognized our interest," she said.

Her husband, J. S. Leon, is a native of Spain, owns an engineering firm based in New York City and Mexico City. Mrs. Leon usually accompanies him on business trips.

"We love Hubbard and call it home because we could never leave our house—it's a twostory Victorian frame house that dates back to 1896 and has been designated an architectural landmark.

"We've put a lot of work and love into restoring it," she said.

The Leons also restored an old hardware building, making a western-style salon restaurant and modernized another building into a beauty shop and barber shop.

"Like many small towns, Hubbard has not been going forward or standing still; it's been going backwards," Mrs. Leon said. "We felt so many improvements were needed."

Thanks to the Leons and othe civic leaders Hubbard also now has a new hospital "that's small with 32 beds, but it's got the latest equipment."

Mrs. Leon, who has a business administration degree from the University of Houston, said she doesn't think her new position will interfere with her wifely duties.

"I think more women should get interested in politics because they have more time than businessmen and they don't have to worry about hurting their business by bringing up new ideas," she said.

Late Father's Day

In Yugoslavia, Father's day, Dec. 3, is much harder on fathers than it is here. The children plot to catch dad unaware so they can bind him to the closest piece of furniture, according to research by a natioonal greeting card company. Then me must "buy" himself freedom by promising gifts to be delivered on Christmas day.

John Fay Claims Bride In Rite At Ross Church

St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross was the setting for the wedding Saturday of Robyn Lynn Relfe of Kentfield to John Philip Fay of San Francisco.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Relfe of Kentfield, Robyn chose her sister Mrs. William L. Hamilton of Orinda as matron of honor. Their sister Jennifer Relfe, Patricia Boyle of Stockton, Kathleen Lowe of Corona del Mar, and Marise Relfe of San Francisco, the bride's cousin, were the bridesmaids.

Thomas Fay of Stockton was his brother's best man. The ushers were Richard Bennett of San Francisco, Gerald Woods of Danville and Bruce Burrows of Piedmont.

The newlyweds will live in San Francisco when they return from a trip to Mexico.

Robyn, who bowed at the Marin Debutante Ball in 1965, is a graduate of Santa Catalina School for Girls in Monterey, attended the University of Vienna and received a degree from the University of California. She is employed as a service representative for Safco Management Systems in Burlingame.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Fay Jr. of Stockton are parents of the bridegroom, who is the brother of Thomas and Robert Fay of Stockton.

John is a graduate of Amos Alonzo Stagg High School in Stockton and the University of California. He is employed by Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.

Parents Are Urged To Reassert Their Rights

NEW YORK (UPI)—The time has come for parents to reassert their rights in the home, says a psychologist who also is an educator and father of three. Dr. Fitzhugh Dodson does his saying in "How to Parent," a hard-cover book just out in soft-cover (New American Library).

The child-raising strategy endorsed by Dodson advocates common sense—"a powerful combination of love and discipline."

EXTRA FIRM

Specially made with added insulation for people who need or prefer an extra measure of Posturepedic's famous firmness. Designed in cooperation with leading orthopedic surgeons for firm support. "No morning backache from sleeping on a too-soft mattress". Coils are programmed to give extra firmness where body weight is concentrated. And the torsion bar foundation is the firmest base ever for a Posturepedic.

GENTLY FIRM

Beneath the deeply quilted satin and lace cover are extra layers of puffy Sealyfoam * cushioning. The result is a pampering surface comfort . . . but still the genuine firm support that you buy a Posturepedic for. Like all Posturepedics this one gives you the Unique Back Support System benefits of programmed coils and torsion bar foundation. Yes, the firmness is gentled - but the support is still pure Posturepedic. Try 'em both.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

'Mother Earth' To Bow Saturday Night

"Mother Earth," an ecological musical revue, will officially open Saturday night at the Marines' Memorial Theater in San Francisco.

Favorably compared by Southern California critics to such diverse works as the musical, "Hair," and the novel, "Brave New World," the musical is being presented by Michael J. Parsons and the American Conservaotry Theater. It marks the first time the musical has been performed outside its original home, the South Coast Repertory Theater in Costa Mesa.

ART

An exhibition of paintings by Mill Valley artist Roy Gover will open Tuesday at the San Francisco Museum of Art — part of a summer series. The show will be on review through July 18. He recently had a one-man show at the California Palace of Legion of Honor.

DANCE

The Stuttgart Ballet will arrive Tuesday at the San Francisco Opera House for a six-day, eight performance engagement.

DRAMA

Scheduled to close Sunday, "No Place to Be Somebody," has been extended at On Broadway Theater in San Francisco until July 18. The Pulitzer Prize-winning play is now in its eighth month in the Bay city.

Other events:

New Committee Theater — "The White House Murder Case," Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday, 8:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 8 and 10 p.m.

On Broadway Theater — "No Place To Be Somebody," Tuesday through Saturday, 8:30 p.m.; Sunday, 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Berkeley Repertory Theater — "The Devils," Tuesday through Friday, 8 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Curran Theater — "Knickerbocker Holiday," evenings except Sunday, 8:30 p.m.; matinees Wednesday and Saturday, 2:30 p.m.

Pair Sets Concert At St. Luke

Marian Marsh, soprano, and David Wade, baritone, will present a concert at 8 p.m., June 26 at St. Luke Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Miss Marsh of San Rafael is a graduate of San Francisco State College and serves on the faculty of both San Francisco Conservatory of Music and San Domenico School for Girls.

Wade, also of San Rafael, has been soloist with the San Francisco Bach Choir, Winifred Baker Corale, San Leandro Symphony. He has appeared in the College of Marin's production of Brahms' "Requiem".

They will be accompanied by James Groves, church organist, who is a graduate of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. He has served on the piano faculty of Mills College.

The United States bought Alaska from Russia on March 30, 1867, for $7.2 million.

Corn Blight Found In 124 Counties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government reports that corn blight has now been detected in 124 counties in 18 states, but the nation's corn crop is still "in generally good condition."

Most of the cases, it said, have resulted from volunteer seedlings which sprang up from blight infested seed dropped last year.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, June 17, the 168th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, was born June 17, 1703.

On this day in history:

In 1928 Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. She was a passenger on a plane piloted by Wilmer Stultz from Newfoundland to Wales.

In 1954 the Senate subcommittee investigation of a clash between the U.S. Army and Sen. Joseph McCarthy ended after 36 days and two million words of testimony.

In 1967 Red China announced it had detonated a hydrogen bomb.

In 1968 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that an 1886 law bars the color line in housing sales and rentals.

A thought for today: Sir John Suckling said, "Women are the baggage of life; they are troublesome, and hinder us in the great march, yet we cannot do without them."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-Trump Double Demands The Right Lead, But A Goof Here

When the opening leader's partner doubles three no-trump, he says: "Partner, lead my suit if I have bid. Lead your own suit if only you have bid for our side. If neither of us has bid, lead the first suit bid by the dummy." The opening leader doesn't have to follow his partner's instructions, especially if he is bigger and stronger than his partner — or if he has a fully paid up medical insurance policy.

CALLS FOR LEAD

In today's hand, for example, neither defender had bid, so East's double of three no-trump called for a lead in the first suit bid by the dummy — hearts.

It's worth noting that any other lead would give declarer an easy time. He would develop the clubs, making four clubs, four diamonds and at least one spade.

When the hand was played, West was a small inoffensive man who had no wish to become a hero or a casualty. Since his partner had demanded a heart lead, West led his singleton jack of hearts. Having done so, West could retire from the defense. The rest was up to East.

MUST ACT

South played a low heart from dummy at the first trick, and it was up to East to act. If East passively played low, exulting in the favorable finessing opportunity, West would win the first trick but would be unable to lead another heart. South would get a good scare, but he would also get at least nine tricks.

EAST OVERTAKES

East actually overtook the first trick with the queen of hearts. Then he cashed the ace of hearts and led the six of hearts to force out dummy's king.

Declarer had to go after the clubs, and East got in with the ace of clubs in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

What do you say?
ANSWER: Pass.

If the queen of hearts were the king, the hand would be worth an opening bid of one heart. The actual hand is just barely too weak for a bid.

Special Lifesaving Course Scheduled

Special lifesaving classes designed for mothers will be held tomorrow and the following Thursday at the Larkspur fire station, Friends of the Larkspur Library has announced.

The classes, running from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., will deal primarily with treatment for injuries and accidents which require immediate treatment such as drownings and electrical shock.

The two classes will be cosponsored by the library friends, the American Red Cross and the Larkspur Fire Department.

Marinites Awarded Occidental Degrees

Four Marin County students have received degrees from Occidental College in Los Angeles.

They are Charles Bart Engelberg, Novato, bachelor of science; Suzanne Elizabeth Olds and William Lee Salomon, Sausalito, bachelor of arts, and Robert Brooks Ryan, San Rafael, bachelor of science.

College Cager A Pro?

NEW YORK (UPI) —The controversy surrounding Howard Porter may grow as the NCAA continues its investigation of the Villanova All America.

It was learned in Federal District Court Wednesday that Porter, the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA basketball tourney, had signed a $350,000 contract on Dec. 16 with the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association. The contract was initialed by ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph.

Porter's signing with college eligibility remaining could cost Villanova its 26-7 season and runnerup finish to UCLA in the NCAA tourney, though Art Mahan, the school's athletic director, said speculation about forfeits was "premature at this time."

Porter, who subsequently reneged on his contract with the Condors and signed with the Chicago Bulls of the rival National Baksetball Association, would not comment on the situation.

An NCAA spokesman in Kansas City said Wednesday that the ruling body for college sports would continue to investigate the matter. "That information (Porter's signing) has not been substantiated as far as we're concerned," said the spokesman. "If it is substantiated at a later date, we will take immediate and appropriate action.

"That action is pretty well outlined in the NCA regulations. They call for an institution to vacate its standing in the national college basketball championships and also provides that the institutions shall return any award to the NCAA."

Porter's contract with Pittsburgh called for $350,000 at the rate of $50,000 annually. Porter had received $15,000 and was to receive an additional $10,000 on May 1 with a Cadillac automobile to be delivered shortly after that date.

Chicago and Pittsburgh made an out-of-court settlement regarding Porter's status and he will play for the Bulls this season.

Mahan said Villanova had investigated Porter's signing after a Charlotte, N.C., newspaper disclosed last January that it had learned of Porter's agreement with the Condors.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Montreal's Bill Stoneman Barely Misses No-Hitter

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Stoneman who pitched a no-hitter in 1969 but has posted 1119 and 7-15 records for the past two seasons, now seems to be on the threshold at age 27 of living up to his early promise. He boosted his record to 9-4 Wednesday night by pitching a one-hitter to give the Montreal Expos a 2-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Bunning, who feared his career might be over when he was sent to the bullpen with a 2-7 record on May 21, pitched seven strong innings for his third straight victory as the Philadelphia Phils downed the saggin San Francisco Giants, 6-3.

Stoneman, picked up by the Expos in the expansion draft from Chicago, has long had the potential to be a topflight pitcher but is just now starting to live up to it. He retired 19 straight batters before Clarence Gaston singled with one out in the seventh to ruin his no-hitter.

"It was my best game of the year," Stoneman said, "When I was warming up before the game, I thought I was going to have my best curve."

Making the normal comment for pitchers who throw a one-hitter, he said, "the victory is the important thing so I wasn't disappointed about losing the no-hitter."

When Bunning went to the bullpen, he admits, "I knew I might never get back in the starting rotation but I didn't have that much to lose, I've had a fine career. But I felt at the time that my career was probably over."

Bunning allowed just three hits in 3 2-3 innings in his first relief appearance against the Mets (although he was beaten by an unearned run) to earn another chance as a starter. Since then, he's gotten credit for three straight wins as a starter and has turned in another good relief job, too. He allowed just five hits and three runs in seven innings to get the victory over San Francisco with Joe Hoerner finishing up the final two innings.

In other games, New York downed Los Angeles 7-2, Cincinnati blanked St. Louis 1-0, Pittsburgh beat Houston 6-4 and Atlanta edged Chicago 6-5.

In the American League, Baltimore routed Milwaukee 83, Minnesota edged Cleveland 32, New York downed Kansas City 3-1, Detroit beat Chicago 65, Oakland topped Washington 5-1, and Boston beat California, 4-1.

USC Gains Baseball Finals

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—All the preliminaries are out of the way, and it will be defending champion Southern California against the Southern Illinois Salukis in the showdown game tonight, for the championship in the 25th annual College World Series.

The Trojans, whose only loss in the series was to Southern Illinois by a score of 8-3, eliminated the Tulsa Golden Hurricane, 3-2, Wednesday night to earn the right to defend their 1970 title against the Salukis.

Southern Illinois won a bye into the finals after the Salukis, the Trojans, and Tulsa got through the first four rounds of play in the double elimination tourney with 3-1 records.

Mark Sogge won out in a tight pitching duel with Tulsa's Cliff Butcher Wednesday night when he rapped a single to left center field in the bottom of the ninth to score Jeff Port on second base. Port reached second with one out when he slapped a sharp grounder to shortstop Phil Honeycutt, who picked up the ball and fired it wildly past first base. Only the inning before, Honeycutt had doubled sharply to center to bring in the tying run for Tusla.

After Honeycutt's double which moved Roger Adams, who had singled, to third, Jerry Tabb walked to load the bases with only one man out.

Sogge tagged Adams out a the plate in a weird play in which the ball was thrown from Sogge to third baseman Port, to catcher Craig Perkins to shortstop George Ambrow, and finally back to Sogge.

Tulsa got a run in the fifth on singles by Steve Bowling and John Klahr. After that, Sogge made one of his few mistakes and wild pitched Bowling home.

The loss for Butcher was his sixth in 16 games. Tulsa, rated fourth in the country, wound up with a record for the year of 35-12. 35-12. Number one ranked Southern Cal is 52-13, and thirdranked Southern Illinois is 34-8.

Marinites Sparkle In National Tennis

Sparkling victories by Hugh Tierney of Tiburon and Larry Axtell of Ross and a near upset by Mill Valley's Bob Seymour highlighted the first round of action yesterday in the Natinal Men's 35 Hardcourt Championships at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

All seeded players won, including defending champion Clif Mayne of Orinda, who dumped Frank Johnson of Reno, 6-1, 6-1. But 14th seeded Don Jacobus of Berkeley had to struggle to get by Seymour. Their match lasted three sets, with Jacobus finally prevailing, 7-5, 0-6, 6-1. Seymour won his qualifying match over Fred Carillo of Los Altos, 6-3, 6-3.

Tierney won twice, but in two far different ways. Don Schrader of Stockton defaulted to him in the qualifying round, and then he dropped Tom Tucker of San Francisco in the first round, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1.

Action continues today in the tourney.
